Why Mayor said no to pastors

Why did Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in an unprecedented action refuse to see a delegation of ministers of the Interdenominational Alliance?

The answer given at the time by politicians was that the Mayor's friends advised him that he did not need the colored vote in order to win the U. S. Senate seat.

Confirmation of the mayor's position came from a Democratic survey published by Louis Harris and Associates for guidance of candidates in senatorial and state campaigns.

THE SURVEY declared that Maryland sentiment on integration — evenly divided in June is now 4 to 3 for segregation.

The balance of the opinion is that enough progress has been made. Only colored people, who are in a minority demand further steps forward, the report to D'Alesandro stated.

The survey estimates that 71 percent of colored voters are in the bag for Mr. D'Alesandro. Only 4 percent alienate colored voters and he can't hope to do any better. Harris advised Mr. D'Alesandro that it would be fatal to hint at any compromise with the principle of segregation he has already taken.

Also says the survey, Mr. D'Alesandro would make a mistake if he came out for new advances in Civil Rights before election day.

* * *

THIS SURVEY explains why the Mayor refused urgent advice of leaders to take a stand now on the Dixon Civil Rights bill now bottled up in City or told see a delegation of pastors for guidance of candidates in senatorial and state campaigns.

THE SURVEY is an excerpt from page 10 of a study by Louis Harris and Associates on the 1958 election in Maryland. It is being used by the Democratic Party in its work on the D'Alesandro senatorial campaign as well as on the state campaign.

INTEGRATION SEGREGATION: There has been a shift in this issue in the past two months, and it has been toward a segregationist sentiment in the state. In June we found the state just about evenly divided on the question.

Today, the anti-integration forces hold a slim 4 to 3 edge. This is not to say that integration is a dominant position, believes that progress, as currently being made, is enough. There is only a minority, chiefly concentrated among the Negro colored voters, who are demanding further steps forward.

Observation: To a degree, the shift on the integration-segregation issue has been the result of the Faubus renomination in Arkansas, to a lesser degree, the result of the pressures being generated to force further liberalization in Baltimore City itself.

The counter reaction is not sharp, but it is there, and the even balance has been slightly tipped against integration.

As it affects the D'Alesandro-Beall race, the entire matter is most delicate. D'Alesandro's majority among colored voters may drop from 96 to 71 percent. This means that the Negro vote is the most critical part of the electorate. If the drop can be held to much better than he is currently doing among the colored group, Beall would be fatal to D'Alesandro to hint at any compromise with the position he has already taken. these results also indicate he would also be mistaken to come out for new advances in Civil Rights before election day."

A MEETING of the ministers was held at the Douglas Church Thursday followed by a series of complaints from local clergymen against the Mayor.

Several weeks ago a group of ministers asked Mayor D'Alesandro to confer with them on the Dixon Bill which proposes that persons of all races be admitted to all establishments serving the public.

Mayor D'Alesandro refused to grant the pastors an audience.

According to the Rev. Mr. Bascom, the Mayor's refusal represents an affront to the Ministerial Alliance and he said:

"It suggests that we are held in contempt by him."

The Rev. Samuel M. Carter, research director for the Baltimore Area of the Methodist Church said:

"When the Mayor insulted the ministers, he followed the wrong lead.

"The Mayor fails to understand that the leadership among our people comes from the ministry and the fraternal groups second.

"Regardless of what advice he may have received, be it known to him that as go the ministers, so go the people.

* * *

ALSO BLASTING the Mayor, was the Rev. I. A. Miller, pastor of Trinity AME Church and president of the local AME Alliance.

"I think every minister should campaign against the election of Mayor D'Alesandro because of his stand on Civil Rights," he said.

The Rev. Willard L. Clayton, president of the United Baptist Convention of Maryland, stated: "To say the least we are disappointed in the Mayor's failure to accord common courtesy to the committee.

"I could not vote for a man who has taken such an attitude as he has taken."

The Rev. Edward G. Carroll of Sharp St. Memorial Methodist Church said:

"I don't think the Mayor would treat a group of Catholics the way he has treated these Protestants.

"If Catholics had asked to see the Mayor, he would have seen them."

Also present was Mrs. Emma Michael who stated:

"The Mayor is depending on our complacency in the community.

"We need to get the people aroused to this fact.

"The Mayor goes to our schools at commencement time and hands out the diplomas and he is given credit as having given us all our schools.

"We need to get into the congregations and have the ministers reach the people and tell them the true story.

At the Thursday meeting, the Alliance also unanimously endorsed the register - to - vote campaign now in progress.

The Rev. Messers. Carroll and Clayton gave the following statement to the press:

* * *

"IT IS imperative that the entire membership of all our churches positively back the Register-to-vote campaign before the September 22 deadline.

"The ministers also endorse the NAACP Membership Campaign and stated:

Realizing that Freedom is not free, we get into the NAACP Membership Drive and urge all members of our congregations to rally 100 per cent."

GETS RIDE ANYWAY. — Cornelius H. Hopper Jr., 35, 1800 block Fulton Ave., is placed in ambulance which carried him to Lutheran Hospital where he was treated Saturday afternoon after being struck in the back with a bailing hook by Leroy Rich, 55, 1600 block Smallwood St. On Sunday in Northwestern Police Court Mr. Rich said Mr. Hooper entered his car with a knife, seeking to force him to drive him someplace. He said he jumped out at Baker and Payson Sts., and used the hook after Mr. Hooper chased him with the knife. Hooper drew a three-months House of Correction term while Mr. Rich got off with a 60-day

City's proposed East-West Expressway route re-checked

A committee appointed by the State Roads Commission began a series of scheduled meetings Tuesday on the advisibility of the controversial route of the planned East-West Expressway through Baltimore.

This group will also study and subsequently offer recommendations on all interstate routes through the city.

However, of all the routes planned or under construction, the East-West Expressway has caused the most public concern.

Much of this is because of the number of properties that would be razed, including several long - established churches.

Also, there has been much objection voiced to the plans which would have a portion of this expressway elevated through the center of the city.

THE PROPOSED route of this expressway would leave the Northeast Expressway just south of Moravia Ave. near the Micheo Kadisen Cemetery in East Baltimore, and run southwesterly to hit the residential sector of East Baltimore at East Ave. and Eager St.

West from this point, the route would follow directly south of the Pennsylvania Railroad's bending north to continue west between Hoffman and Preston Sts. to Greenmount Ave.

The route would bend south to the Jones Falls Expressway and continue west between Chase and Eager Sts. to Biddle.

Then, along Biddle St. to Myetle Ave.; west, between Franklin and Mulberry Sts. to Pulaski St.; then continue west between Franklin and Lauretta Ave. to Whitmore Ave.

From this point, the proposed route would turn northwest to enter Gwynns Falls Park directly west of Hilton and continue west through Leakin Park.

* * *

THE STATE Roads Commission issued the following statement on the Ambler Street studies:

"The committee will generally discuss the basic necessity for the interstate routes, particularly the East-West Highway which is in the planning stage.

"They will explore generally the data that has been used, including all traffic studies which have played a part in the suggested locations.

"In other words, the desirability and the necessity for the projects are to be explored by the committee.

"As to the basic necessity, there is an interstate route from north to south through Maryland, which would normally course through Baltimore. The same is true of an East-West interstate route.

"The northeastern Expressway has been chosen by the Federal Government as a part of the interstate system from Maine to Florida, and the present plan is to go through Baltimore and connect with the proposed new interstate route to the District of Columbia; from there it will go through the District and South.

* * *

"ROUTE 40 to Frederick and the West would also connect with the Northeastern Express-way, handling traffic West and North.

"The network also will connect with the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway, the interstate route directly to the North.

"All of these routes should be connected in a way that will expedite through traffic and relieve the congestion inside Baltimore resulting from the through traffic pattern.

"Naturally, any interstate route within the city with high geometric standards should be designed to supplement existing facilities built to meet local requirements."

Ministers slate meeting on mayor

The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance has announced that it will hold a special meeting next week to discuss Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro as the Democratic Senatorial candidate in the coming November elections and his refusal to see a group of colored ministers.

According to the Rev. Marion Bascom, president of the Alliance and pastor of Douglas Memorial Community Church:

"The Mayor has insulted our colored leadership.

"We need to rise up against him."

THE MEETING has been called for Wednesday, September 24 at the Douglas Church, 1325 Madison Ave. at 1 p.m.

All members of the Alliance are urged to be present.

The Rev. Mr. Bascom announced that plans will be made to inform members of all congregations of the Mayor's actions on Civil Rights legislation and to arouse citzens as to the importance of the November elections.

Dr. Davis is 'much better'

Dr. Carrington L. Davis, veteran educator, is reported "holding his own" at presstime today (Friday).

According to Mrs. Erma Davis, his wife, Dr. Davis is-much better than he was two weeks ago. She said: "However, his condition he will not show, rapid improvement. The doctor thinks he shows some improvement nevetheless."

Dr. Davis who is trustee emeritus of Morgan State College is recuperating at his home 1301 McCulloh St. He was taken suddenly ill on Saturday, Sept. 6.

'The most ridiculous thing'

"This is the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard," declared Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Tuesday when two defendants testified that they were asleep when each was assaulted and that they could not identify their assailants.

The defendants, charged with assault and striking each other with an iron pipe, were Sherman Johnson, 36-year-old steelworker, 1400 block Mountmor Ct., and Mrs. Zelma Faulkes, 32, who also gave an address in the 1400 block Mountmor Ct.

Mr. Johnson was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction and Mrs. Faulkes was given a 60-year suspended sentence.

Mr. Johnson testified that he was in bed asleep when "someone" hit him on the head, then he says he heard someone slam the front door.

MRS. JOHNSON, a bar maid, also testified that she was struck with some object, but could not say who did it because the room was dark.

AT THE conclusion of the testimony, Magistrate Koger told Mrs. Faulkes;

"If you want to go that far to protect this man, it's all right with me."

Barber, club manager jailed for numbers

"Your Honor, on one occasion, police observed 49 men enter and leave this barbershop within an hour. . . and none of them came out with a haircut or shave."

James W. Murphy, assistant State's attorney, pointed out this testimony in Criminal Court Wednesday against Willie Degraffenreid, 49, barber at a shop in the 1100 Pennsylvania Ave., which brought him a three month sentence and a $1,000 fine on a lottery conviction.

In another lottery case, William Hartley Parker, 33, 1700 block Gwynns Falls Pkwy., who said he was manager of a Harford Ave. night club, was also sentenced to three months in the Houe of Correction and fined $1.000.

Sgt. Joseph Judd, Northwestern District plainclothes-police officer, told Judge Anselm Sodaro that Sgt. Violet Hill Whyte and Officers Raymbnd Smith, Salvatore Corona and Clarence McGee had had the barbershop under surveillance for sometime.

Sgt. Judd and the i r crew the place on July 18, and found numbers written on a section of wall paper.

ALAN H. MURRELL, attorney for Mr. Degraffenreid, argued that the numbers could have been placed on the wall by anybody, and that the 49 men who entered the shop could have been making social calls.

Mr. Parker, arrested by Sgt. Judd and and his crew in his car in the rear of the 1400 block Madison Ave. on May 12, told Judge Sodaro that he stated to the officers at the time a bag under his car seat "might contain numbers

In Memoriam 1

ANDREWS — In loving memory of my dear friend MANZELLA PENDLETON ANDREWS who passed away two years ago, Sept. 20, 1956.

A beautiful memory, a smiling face,
A broken link I can never replace,
Fond memory fades and light grows dim,
You'll live forever in my heart,
Loving Friend.
WILLIAM H. TALBOTT

COATES — In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, BETTY B. who passed away Sep. tember 18, 1952.

We've missed the sound of your footsteps,
And your voice Calls are since you have gone,
And though we have lingered on,
In our minds you still live on.
And so we smile in the daytime,
In some corner of our hearts are sore,
As we think of the dear one God took away.
To His Garnant and Golden Shore.
Devoted HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

COOK—In loving memory of our dear sister, JESSIE ATKINS COOK, who passed one year ago, September 20, 1957.

Heaven now retains our sister,
Earth her casket keeps,
Where the sunbeams love to linger,
And the angels weep.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweet and fond,
There's not a day, dear sister
That we do not think of you.
Our eyes resting dear sister,
Your grave is kept so green,
And no one can fill your footprints,
As we travel life's pathway lonely,
Where fond memories only stay,
Lies the one we love so dearly,
In her lonely, silent grave.
We have only your memory, dear sister,
But the sweetness will linger for ever.
As we treasure the image of you.
Sadly, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.
