Held in Traffic Death

A charge of negligent homicide on Monday ordered him held for Municipal Court in the traffic death of a 51-year old white man has been brought against James R. Abernathy, 24, a senior at Howard University. A coroner's jury Mr. Abernathy was driving a friend's car which collided with an automobile at 12th and W Sts. N.W., in Washington last Friday.

Suspects Win Release, Lose Raid Loot

Just when defense attorneys won a point in a lottery case, Tuesday, Judge Robert France informed them they had lost a more important one.

He had upheld their motion to quash the lottery indictment, and the three defendants won their releases.

But, the judge went on, the four shiny adding machines taken in the lottery raid, would be confiscated by the State.

"The State will gain more from the adding machines than it would have in fines," the judge concluded.

To File for Articles

Ernest Perkins and Palmer Ingram, attorneys, differed with him. They declared that since the State had failed to prosecute the case, it could not claim the machines.

They said they would file a petition to reclaim the articles. Judge France said on the other hand that he would see to it the goods is not returned.

The case involved property at 2101 N. Pulaski St. The tenant, Norman Edemy, was behind in the rent and the owner, Mrs. John Fisher, led police into the house on April 9, it was said.

Arrested Later

Although no one was at home, the officers found the adding machines and a number of lottery slips in an upstairs room. Later, the two other defendants, William Perkins, 23, and James Williamson, 24, came into the house and were arrested.

The attorneys won Mr. Edemy's release by contending that the owner had no right to enter the premises since no eviction order had been carried out, and legally, he was still the tenant.

In the case of the other men, the attorneys charged that the State failed to link either of them with the lottery evidence. The men testified that a Raymond Williams gave them the key to the house, and said they had come there to meet some girls.

Transfer Worker's Mate Asks Support for Child

Mrs. Gladys M. Henderson, 2100 block of First St., N.W., last week asked the District Court to compel William T. Henderson, employee of a transfer company, at 2115 Fifth St. N.W., to pay maintenance for their girl, aged 2½ years.

The couple were married in Virginia in 1941, and Mr. Henderson deserted his family without just cause or provocation, the complaint states. The mother also states that she is unemployed, in ill health, and difficult financial circumstances. She asks alimony for herself, maintenance for the daughter and monies for all court costs.

Fake Union Aide Attacks Accusers

P. J. Williams, convicted of posing as a shop steward and collecting "union dues" from people looking for jobs, insisted, Thursday, that nobody was telling the truth but him.

Officer Arthur McGhee testified that Williams pleaded guilty to two of seven false pretense charges when arraigned in magistrate's court.

Williams old Judge John T. Tucker that the statement was not true.

Maintains Innocence

Five of the people from whom he allegedly collected money in return for a promise of a job, testified that Williams wrote amounts they had given him in his little brown book.

Judge Tucker, in convicting Williams in five of the seven cases, indicated that he would put the 30-year-old laborer on probation if he has a good work record.

But when he sought to learn that work record from Williams, the man raised his right hand, and began again, "Honest to heaven, I didn't do any of these things!"

$7 Profit in Cases

Judge Tucker gave up, and shook his head. "You can't believe anything he says," he remarked to Leonard Freedman, who was attorney for Williams.

Finally the man was turned over to the probation department for investigation before sentence. Later, netted him only about $7, it was revealed.

Whites Protest Use of Clifton

Park Board Defends Dunbar's Right There

CLOSED SESSION

Dr. Harris Leads Attack on Opponents

Fifteen white organizations protesting the use of Clifton Park by Dunbar High School pupils received no sympathy Tuesday night, from at least two members of the Park and Recreation Board.

Although the board went into executive session on the matter, close observers felt that the board will let stand its plans for developing a field house in Clifton for the pupils. It did not announce its action, however.

Dr. Bernard Harris of the board led the attack on the protestants and was joined by S. Lawrence Hammerman, the board's vice president.

They caused C. A. Oakey, spokesman for the white groups, to withdraw from "any further discussion."

Crux of Matter

But many say the crux of the matter in Robert Garrett's statement to Oakey that the alternative to a Dunbar field house in Clifton is the original request that the pupils be allowed to use white facilities in the park. Garrett is the board's president.

The discussion went like this:

Oakey—We, the people in the Belair Road section, are opposed to the use of field No. 5 in Clifton Park for pupils of Dunbar. In backing back over our records, we find that associations in the neighborhood have been protesting against such use since 1940 and 1941.

We were aroused when we learned that this matter was genetically a finished proposition. Associations got busy and the people in the neighborhood rallied around.

Representatives Stand

I believe you members of the park commission can see the feeling of the neighborhood. It is one of the finest residential sections in the city. There are at least 250,000 people there.

We are very much against the idea of Clifton Park being designated for the exclusive use of Dunbar. Further, we object to having any park property designated for the exclusive use of any group.

The parks are for all of the people. We have a recreation problem for adults as well as school children. We believe that

BUSY SCHEDULE

N.C. Widow Enjoys Her First Plane Trip

The AFRO-AMERICAN'S 1949 Ideal Mother, Mrs. Lena B. Duncan of Salisbury, N.C., arrived at the Baltimore airport Thursday evening at 7:22 p.m. for a week's end of activities in her honor.

She was met by her official hostess, Mrs. Lula Jones Garrett, AFRO woman's editor; Mrs. B. M. Phillips, magazine editor and director of the contest, and Frank Phillips, head of the art department.

The AFRO mother wore a gray crepe dress under a black coat with a tiny binding of white at the collar. Her accessories were black, including a straw hat, feather trimmed.

Her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Koontz, who accompanied her, was really smart in a suit of blue skirt, tiny stripped coat and navy accessories.

The first thing Mrs. Duncan said after getting off the plane was that, hereafter, she would fly. She was thoroughly sold on flying though she had to be strenuously sold on the idea at first.

She received orchids upon the arrival, and her daughter, a corsage of roses. They had dinner at the Pennsylvania Station.

A widow, the 68-year-old mother was selected not only because of the success which she had with her own 7 children, but also with the 11, whom she adopted.

Of the lot, 16 of them have finished college and become outstanding citizens of the communities where they live.

The Ideal Mother's activities began at 9 a.m., today (Friday), with breakfast at the home of Mrs. Mary Jane Brown.

As a gift of the AFRO, Mrs. Duncan chose a complete outfit during a shopping tour which included both the Charm Centre and Valentine's Dress Shop.

Accompanied by Furman L. Templeton, AFRO public relations manager, Mrs. Duncan was carried to the City Hall, where she was officially welcomed to the city by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro. Then followed lunch at the Myrtle Ave. home of Mrs. Phillips, and more shopping.

Mrs. Duncan was dinner guest of Mrs. Carl Murphy, wife of the AFRO's president, at their home at 2406 Overland Ave. in Morgan Park.

Rep. Helen Douglas Urges House to Pass FEPC Bill

WASHINGTON — Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (Dem., Calif.) urged Congressmen to join in the effort to lift the burden of discrimination from the national conscience.

Mrs. Douglas made the statement when she appeared, Tuesday, in behalf of her FEPC measure, HR 792, before the House subcommittee on education and labor.

Congresswoman Douglas declared that her bill provides for the common defense in an era of critical world tensions and that it is designed to strengthen the conduct of American diplomacy by removing a blot on America's leadership in world affairs.

She added that it would promote America's economic self-interest by raising living standards, increasing market opportunities and strengthening our free enterprise system by strengthening the total enterprise of earning

No Time Is Right Time, Md. U. Applicants Find

Last year, colored citizens applying for admission to the University of Maryland were "too late" for classes.

This year, the university's contention is that they are "too early."

Donald Murray, counsel for the local NAACP legal redress committee, represents three applicants who were told that the classes in courses for which they applied are not being formed as yet.

Two other applicants, one seeking admission to the college of nursing, and the other to the undergraduate college of engineering, have received no formal replies but receipts which acknowledged their registered mail to officials of the university. Mr. Murray said that if the applicants receive no further satisfaction from the university within two weeks, full letters again will be forwarded. No result from this will mean possible court action, he added.

One Case Already Pending

The NAACP hopes to gain admission to the University's graduate and undergraduate schools for qualified students already is being waged on one legal front.

Pending in a civil court is a writ of Mandamus filed some six months ago by Martin Booth, Morgan State College student, who charged that officials of the university's school of pharmacy informed him he was "too late" for admission in April of last year, then subsequently admitted white students.

In December, Mr. Booth sub-

Va. Matron Found Dead on Train Here

A Virginia matron, apparently in her early 50's, en route to visit relatives in New Jersey, suffered a fatal heart attack aboard a Pennsylvania Railroad train late Thursday afternoon. She was identified by papers as Mrs. Hattie Settles of Charlottesville, Va.

Shortly before 6 p.m., she was found slumped in her seat by Conductor W. T. Nixon as the train arrived at the Pennsylvania Station here. She was put into an ambulance and rushed to St. Joseph Hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Jackson of Yale in Secret Society

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Captain elect of the Yale football team, Levi Jackson on Thursday joined one of the university's six senior secret societies, becoming the first of his race ever to be chosen for membership.

He rejected bids by two of the oldest groups, Skull and Bones and Scroll and Key, in favor of Berzelius.

A Needed Appointment

AN EDITORIAL

With two vacancies impending on the State Board of Public Welfare, Governor Lane has an excellent opportunity to break with tradition by filling one of them with a colored person.

Because the State Department of Welfare is the central, co-ordinating and directing agency of all welfare activities in the State, it affects the lives of a large number of our citizens in every county of Maryland.

The care of neglected, dependent and delinquent children and the supervision of all charitable institutions, organizations and agencies, including hospitals, come under the watchful eye of the board's seven members, who serve without pay.

For the year 1949, the sum of $13,497,935 has been appropriated, representing contributions from State, Federal and county governments.

To administer these funds, there is a staff of some 45 employees, who this year will receive $148,556 in salaries

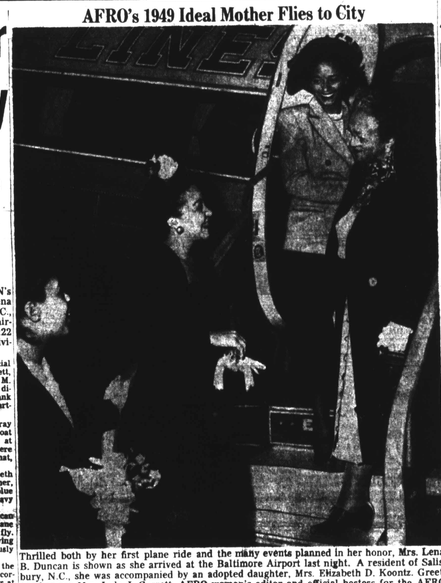
AFRO's 1949 Ideal Mother Flies to City



Thrilled both by her first plane ride and the many events planned in her honor, Mrs. Lena B. Duncan is shown as she arrived at the Baltimore Airport last night. A resident of Salisbury, N.C., she was accompanied by an adopted daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz. Greeting her are Mrs. Lula J. 2 Community Groups Tell Park Board 3,300 Children in Area Play on Acre

Two community groups told the Park and Recreation Board, Tuesday night, that 3,300 of their children play on less than one acre of city property.

The South Baltimore Playground Committee cited that it has less than one acre of play space for 3,000 children.

The Mt. Winans Improvement Association added that 300 teenagers must play ball in the street or on a lot filled with holes, leased by residents of the section.

Ask Share of Alloted Funds

The board's real estate committee is to inspect the Mt. Winans lot for possible improvements on Monday morning. It took the South Baltimore petition under advisement.

"It was our understanding that of $250,000 allocated to the Sixth District, none had been earmarked for projects for colored residents," said Augustus Knox, a businessman, who was the spokesman for the South Baltimore group.

He added that the 3,000 children of that area have nothing but a "playground" in Peach Alley of less than one acre.

"But," he went on, "the problem involved is that we can't very well take over two or three places.

332nd to Be Deactivated

Single Standard for All Personnel

MOVE BEGUN IN '48

Army, Navy Policies' Clarification Asked

WASHINGTON

Speculation as to what will happen to the 332nd Fighter Wing at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, Ohio, under the Air Force's new general integration policy, was ended when Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson officially announced Wednesday that the 332nd will be deactivated.

The Johnson order also stated that he has approved policies proposed by the Air Force to assure equality of treatment and opportunity for all members of its personnel. The policy statement provides that one standard shall govern the utilization of both colored and white personnel in the Air Force.

The new policy, which began early in 1948 as a routine staff study, is effective immediately and, under present plans, is to be completely in operation on or about Dec. 31, 1949.

Under the order, Lockbourne Air Base as such will not be inactivated. It has not been determined, however, what unit will replace the 332nd Fighter Wing, Secretary Johnson stated.

He added that he is studying statements from the Army and Navy concerning their personnel practices and policies and has requested additional clarifying information before making a decision.

He has directed that this information be submitted to him through Chairman Thomas E. Reid of the NME Personnel Policy Board by May 25. That directive was issued by Secretary Johnson almost immediately after he took office last month.

The proposals to assure equality

Marital Mixup 'Mixes Up' Magistrate

Attempting to untangle a domestic dilemma, Magistrate Thomas Fitzpatrick on Wednesday gave Louis Benoit a tongue-lashing for "living in sin."

Then he advised Benoit's mother-in-law, Mrs. Lena Carel, to move at once from the man's apartment which is occupied by Benoit and his common-law wife, and Mrs. Carel and her 23-year-old son, Benjamin, who "sleeps in the kitchen floor."

Mrs. Carel, who swore out a warrant for Benoit, said he promised a door, purposefully, striking her in the face. Her son, Benjamin, corrected.
