Agrees With Her Grandmother!

Miss ZERITA JOY RICHARDSON

Perhaps it's because her grandmother, Mrs. Mimie McNeal is one of the most popular clientelties at HENDIN'S—or because Joy herself, has thrilled to the opportunities of showing Hendin's Hollywood Fashions to many of her friends, when she herself was a part-time employee at the store! Be that as it may—Joy insists that HENDIN'S is "a wonderful store to buy nice clothes."

"I'm always wearing something from HENDIN'S" — says Miss Richardson—"and I receive many compliments on what I wear!"

This lovely young lady is a student at Douglass High School, and a member of St. James Episcopal Church. Good books intrigue her—yet she is by no means just a "book-worm." A fine dancer, Miss Richardson is now taking lessons in Interpretative Dancing. A resident of Baltimore all her life, she now lives at 572 Presstman St.

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

I'm glad there's no fence between the Knights' backyard and my own. Both yards are quite small. And when Mrs. Knight suggested we share one clothesline stretching from yard to yard, I agreed it was a fine idea. Now we wash at different times and "sharing the line" has worked out nicely for both of us.

It's the same way on our telephone party line. Everybody gets full value from the line because the folks who share it work together. They never tie up the line by making a number of calls, one right after the other. They hang up gently when they find the line is in use. As a result, the service is more useful and more pleasant for everyone.

Follows Tradition of Formal Cake-Cutting

Daughters of Calanthe Do Work, Knights of Pythias, the Bossing

By LOUISE HINES
LULA JONES GARRETT

One thing was strongly apparent, here, this week, as the Court of Calanthe met in Biennial Session with the 25th convention of the Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias. The women do the work, actually holding together the lodge to which it is only an auxiliary; but the men still do the bossing!

The women more than treble in membership the parent body; have in their coffers practically all the funds; in some instances have gone out and set up men's units, but still can not add an amendment to their constitution unless it is authorized by the supreme chancellor.

In many States, the knights' finances have been at such a low ebb as to make them unable to meet their benevolent responsibilities and have thus been stopped from operating under the insurance laws of the State. In no case has this happened in a court.

Pennsylvania Example

In the Pennsylvania jurisdiction, for instance, the Court of Calanthe, one of the wealthier units, loaned their brother lodge $20,000, to build a home. The court still has cash assets of $22,000, $5,000 in bonds, and $60,000 in buildings.

The brothers don't even have the building they borrowed money to build. The State contains 1057 Calanthean, but only 700 Pythians.

Texas has 18,000 Calanthe members, a $100,000 home in Houston and $5,827,300 in tangible assets.

Rumbles of Unrest Heard

This state of holding the purse strings, but having little voice in control, is apparently becoming a bit irksome to many members of the order.

Also noticeable at the session is the dearth of young women members. The order is beginning to build up a strong unit of juveniles, but the middle-age ranks are deplorably thin.

Lost Ground During War

Mrs. Edna Stewart, grand lecturer, hrd an explanation for this. The Knights of Pythias, she points out, lost considerable ground during the post-war and war years. Essentially a "family" institution, when young men dropped out, their young wives followed.

Only the older members, whose love for and fidelity to the organization they had helped establish and build, clung. Few of the women, in high office in the supreme lodge are under 60 years of age.

Until recently the only women admitted to the Court of Calanthe were the wives, mothers and sisters of Pythians.

Their new constitution calls for admission of "any woman of good character." This change must still win the approval of the lodge.

Draws Top Women

Calanthean women are noted for their positions in their communities. For example:

Mrs. P.A. Robinson of Houston, Texas, secretary-treasurer of the grand court, retired three years ago after a 45-year teaching career.

She now manages the $300,000 burial department of the lodge in her State at a salary of $375 per month, as well as employs three secretaries.

In addition, she is a Daughter Elk, a member of the Order of Eastern Star, a worker in NAACP, PTA and the Antioch Baptist Church. She ... vice-president of the church's Circle Leaders Council. A Sunday school teacher and former church clerk. Her husband, J. E. Robinson, is vice-supreme commander of the American Woodmen of Texas.

Outstanding Club Woman

Mrs. Maude Brockway, grand worthy counsellor of Oklahoma, is also parliamentarian of the National Baptist Convention, and president of the Oklahoma Baptist Women's Convention.

Brockway, Center, $15 Northeast Fourth St. in Oklahoma, named for her, was built by the City Federation of Women's Clubs which she has headed for 28 years. She maintains an office there.

A member of the Calvary Baptist Church, she's the wife of W. M. Brockway, real estate broker. In 1947 she visited Copenhagen, attending sessions of the World Baptist Alliance. She visited nine European countries while abroad.

She was formerly president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and a member of the advisory board of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

Insurance Executive

Mrs. Cora E. Burke, grand worthy counsellor of Knoxville, Tenn., is also former supreme worthy inspectrix of the supreme court. An ardent worker in Parent-Teacher Associations of her State and the NAACP of her city, she is also a member of the AME Zion Church.

Mrs. V. A. Bradford, grand worthy counsellor of Texas, heads a fraternal insurance concern and a business dealing in mortgage loans which employs eight clerks. Her concerns, have an "A-plus" rating with Dunn and Bradstreet.

Mrs. Bradford has more than 5,000 members in her jurisdiction, which recently completed payment on a $125,000 home in Houston. Her courts are listed in the Fraternal Monitor. She is a widow.

Lodge Chief Interest

Mrs. Edna Stewart, grand lecturer of Pennsylvania, who is mentioned above, is chiefly a housewife, mother and fraternal worker. Her jurisdiction boasts of 82 courts.

It has a $25,000 home at 905 20th St. in Philadelphia—a three-story building with four apartments, assembly and basement meeting rooms and a dance hall.

In Pittsburgh it has a $25,000 home at 2525 Center Ave. In addition, it is planning to build a 24-unit apartment house in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Stewart is an Elk, and a member of the Bedman St. Baptist Church in Pittsburgh, where she resides. She is the mother of three grown children and the wife of a retired Allegheny County, Pa., detective.

New Yorker Active

Mrs. Ethel J. Minton of New Rochelle, N.Y., is supreme Daughters of Calanthe cont. as musical director of the Order of Calanthe.

She is director of music of Bethesda Baptist Church in Rochell and secretary-treasurer of the reserve fund, Pride of Hope, Grand Lodge of New York.

A member of the executive board of the New Rochelle Branch NAACP, she was a delegate from that body to the association's national convention in California this year.

In private life a piano teacher, Mrs. Minton is director of an interracial chorus which operates under New Rochelle's Mayor's Interracial Committee.

In Post 35 Years

Mrs. Rosa E. Hoard, grand worthy counsellor of Illinois, has held this post for 35 years. Her's was the heavy responsibility of serving as both registrar of deeds and the supreme receiver of deposits for the entire women's division of the order.

During this biennium, Mrs. Cora E. Burke was elected to fill the latter post.

Mrs. Hoard is a member of her local YMCA board, and Association of Federated Clubs...She is a member of the NAACP and past matron of the Order of Eastern Star.

Affiliated with the Court of Calanthe since 1903, Mrs. Hoard is the wife of George H. Hoard, an interior decorator, and former Illinois school attendance officer.

Headed Church Drive

Mrs. Lula Richardson, grand worthy counsellor of Baltimore has been a member of the organization sme 1906, having served as worthy counsellor and past worthy counsejlor. She has held her present post since 1945.

Known as "The Mother of Enon Baptist Church," she is also a member of the Great Southern Temple Elks, and the Elks Past Daughter Rulers Council, as well as the Mt. Olive Beneficial Association No. 1, the Galilean Fisherman, the Household of Ruth and the NAACP.

She conceived the plan and headed a drive which netted $35,000 cash, which paid for the present edifice of Enon Baptist Church at Edmondson Ave. and Schroeder St.

At Enon, she directs the Gospel Choir, is president of the Jones Watkins Missionary Society and organizer of the Jessie Watkins Flower Guild. She is a former beautician.

Other Notables in Order

Other members have achieved outstanding success in their chosen fields. Among them are:

Mrs. Merol Warren, an outstanding furrier of Detroit; Mrs. M. E. Seals, who conducts one of the large restaurants in New Orleans; Mrs. Sammie Lee Brown of Kansas City, Mo., who is owner of a bus line business.

Also listed among the women members of Kansas City are three professional caterresses, Mesdames Nora Myers, Carrie White and Malissa Eskridge.

Secretary or Hospital

Mrs. Eva Evans of Kansas City, Kans., is executive secretary of the Wheatley Provident Hospital. A hostel for aged person is run by Mrs. Minerva Jackson, also of Kansas City; and the ... is owned by Mrs. Leslie Estell, of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. B. D. Smith of Waco, Texas, is registrar of the Central Texas Vocational School for Veterans. She is grand secretary-treasurer of Juveniles of the order. Mrs. P. D. Johnson of Marshall, Tex. is a teacher of English at Wiley College.

Married in Home Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Webb, who were recently married at the residence of Mrs. Lillian Jones, 3303 13th St., N.W., in Washington. Mrs. Webb is former Miss Annie Burrell Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jordan. Mr. Webb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Webb.
