Discrimination in Housing Projects Flayed by League

Community-Wide Resistance to Authority's Plan to Separate Races Organized by Unit

PROVIDENCE, R.I.—The local Urban League has filed a formal protest with the Providence Housing Authority against continued racial segregation and discrimination in the Roger Williams and Chad Brown projects.

In addition, the league asked the authority to issue a public statement of policy regarding occupancy of the projects planned on Codding St. and in the Chad Brown area.

Andrew J. Bell Jr., president of the league, announced, last week, that he has asked the board of directors to organize community-wide resistance to any plan of the Housing Authority to limit the Codding St. project to tenants of any one racial group.

Mr. Bell added that a number of white persons are interested in living in the new Codding St. project when it is completed and that by earmarking it for colored occupancy only the authority will be practicing dangerous color discrimination in a neighborhood where peaceful and friendly relations have always existed.

A special report prepared for the board of directors and the press by James N. Williams, executive secretary of the league, contained the information that never more than 48 colored families at any one time have lived in the 1056 units managed by the local housing authority.

"The best contribution that the local Housing Authority can make is to abolish racial discrimination and segregation and fall in line with the new Federal policy toward equality of opportunity in housing, employment and in use of all facilities," Mr. Williams concluded.

GROOM'S JOB SAFE

Name Once Linked With 2 Movie Stars

NEW YORK — Martha Braun, 21-year-old brunette daughter of a wealthy and socially prominent New England family, turned down a $500,000 inheritance to marry night club singer Billy Daniels, Mrs. Carl Braun of Lowell, Mass., her mother, disclosed, Jan. 11.

The beautiful radio and television actress was married to the 34-year-old idol of cafe society, Jan 9, in a secret ceremony performed by Magistrate Abe Lieberman in Weehawken, N.J.

Society Stunned

Her mother said she had had a proposal of marriage from a Lawrence, Mass., man worth $500,000.

The marriage, which rocked social circles all along the East Coast, and set white supremacists back on their heels, climaxed a two-year friendship between the couple.

The bride's mother was nearly hysterical on Jan. 10 after learning through the press that Daniels was a colored man.

Main Objection Told

She said she had objected to her daughter's desire to marry the singer when she first was informed of her intentions.

But at that time her objections were based on the fact that Daniels had previously been married and is a widower with three children—two boys, four and seven years, and a daughter, nine years.

Love at First Sight

The singer, who met his wife while he was singing his top tune, "Black Magic" at a television tryout here three years ago, said:

"At least it was love at first sight with me. I don't know about her. I guess she must have liked me too."

Bride's Mother's Statement

Mrs. Braun said: "Several weeks ago Martha phoned and told us she was engaged and asked us to come to New York to meet her fiance.

"We met Mr. Daniels and I asked Martha to return home with us to think things over carefully before taking such a big step.

"She came home for a month and I suggested she take a trip around the world to make certain that this was really love, and what she wanted.

Parental Blessing

"Last Saturday night, (Jan. 7), when we returned home, we found Martha had packed and left for New York. She called Monday (Jan. 9) after the wedding.

"While this wasn't what we had planned for our daughter, it is her life. If love is stronger than family influence, we can't stand in her way."

Mrs. Braun, after the wedding, said she believed Daniels was Spanish and French, but the singer, who listed his race as "colored" on the license application, said he could see how a misunderstanding could have occurred.

"I look Spanish," he added.

In addition to the wealthy Lawrence, Mass., white suitor, Miss Braun turned down "dozens of proposals" in the past few years.

Daniels's Career

Daniels, a fine performer for 15 years, has been linked to at least two movie stars on several occasions.

He sang with Duke Ellington and other famous orchestra leaders, and was featured at such night clubs as the Ebony on Broadway and the Trocadero in Hollywood.

A native of Jacksonville, Fla., he came here from that city with Erskine Hawkins and his band and scored an immediate hit.

He became the darling of New York's cafe society a few months ago when he suddenly clicked at the Park Ave. Restaurant, and since then has received many attractive offers.

The management of the Park Ave. Restaurant said last Friday that Daniels's job will be waiting for him when he and his bride return from their South American honeymoon.

Reached by a local daily by ship-to-shore telephone aboard the S.S. Italia as the ship entered the Caribbean, the singer declared last Thursday:

"Everything's very calm, very sunny, and very wonderful."

Wife's Background

Mrs. Daniels who attended fashionable finishing schools was a student at the exclusive Semple School when she met the singer.

She is a graduate of Belvidere and Rogers Hall, exclusive private schools in Lowell, Mass., studied in Boston at the Academic modeling Moderne, and came here to study voice and television technique.

Friends of the couple revealed that they will move to their new home in White Plains when the honeymoon ends.

Mr. Braun is a prominent New England amusement tycoon, owner of the Commodore ballroom in Lowell, Mass., described as the largest of its kind north of Boston.

Minorities Still Get Most Menial Jobs, FEPC Finds

BOSTON — While noting a continued "imbalance" in the proportion of so-called menial jobs which are filled by minority groups, the State Fair Employment Practice Commission reports that progress has been made in combatting economic discrimination, especially in the Greater Boston area.

In its fourth annual report filed with the Governor and Legislature, the Fair Employment Practice Commission said industry is finding "that racial and religious tensions are not heightened when fair employment policies are practiced."

However, the report continues, "benefits from anti-discrimination legislation can be more generally enjoyed than at present, especially in the populous areas outside Greater Boston.

562 Cases Processed

A study of 562 complaints of alleged economic discrimination which have been processed to date shows only 5% were from areas beyond 20 miles of the State House, while 46% of the State's inhabitants live in these outside areas, according to the report.

Relative to the prevalence of minority groups in so-called menial jobs, the commission stated, "educational opportunities for minority groups must be enlarged, and the way kept clear of discriminatory obstructions for members of the minorities who take advantage of their educational opportunities."

Members of the FEPC have been Mrs. Mildred H. Mahoney, chairman; Judge A. K. Cohen and Elwood S. McKenney. The commission's record for the past 12 months shows that 117 complaints were processed. Since 1946, it has handled 562 complaints which have been settled through "conference, conciliation and persuasion."

"During the past year FEPC conducted its first industry-wide investigation involving 55 concerns and 10,700 employees," the report revealed. "The study grew out of a series of complaints filed against labor organizations alleging discrimination in referrals for jobs on the basis of color.

The commission also reported the adjustment of its first case in which the complainant received compensatory damages for time lost as well as a job. Assisting the State agency in its important educational work are regional councils in Springfield, Roger L. Putnam and Miss Alice L. Halligan, co-chairmen; in Greater Boston, Harold D. Hodgkinson, chairman, and New Bedford, Walter S. MacPhail, chairman. Another council is being organized in Worcester. Philip Morgan will be chairman.

Miss F. Williams on Senate Staff

WASHINGTON

Miss Frances Williams, former race relations specialist of war time OPA, was appointed this week, as legislative assistant in the office of Sen. Herbert Lehman (Dem., N.Y.).

Miss Williams's duties will be to cover research assignments on various pending legislation as needed by the Senator.

She is well qualified for the assignment as she holds a Phi Beta Kappa key and Mary Lyon Scholarship in economics and sociology at Mt. Holyoke College.

Research Aid at U. of Chi

Miss Williams is a graduate of the New York School of Social Work. She served two years as a research assistant at the University of Chicago and holds a master's degree from University of Chicago's political science department.

In addition to working in OPA, Miss Williams worked as secretary of the President's Committee on Civil Rights. Her most recent post was as race relations consultant for United Nations affairs of the State Department.

She is the first person of her race to receive a professional post on a Senatorial staff. Several Senators have hired colored persons as stenographers and clerks, but none have professional ratings.

4 Lincoln Students Score Win in Fight for Rights

OXFORD, Pa. — Students of Lincoln University, near here, won an important skirmish in their fight against "Jim Crow" last week when four of them were acquitted on charges of breaching the peace by refusing to sit in a segregated section of a theatre.

The incident was among a series undertaken by Lincoln students to break up segregation in this town, using Pennsylvania's Civil Rights law as the battering ram.

Leading the fight is the university chapter of the NAACP which has called on members of the alumni association for support and contributions.

Support From Temple Unit

Support has been given the battle by the Human Relations Committee of Temple University, a student organization, which has not only roundly denounced discrimination in Oxford, but assisted in planning strategy.

The four discharged by Burgess Guy T. Holcombe, Friday, were Jaques E. Wilmore, Archie Seale, V. Dieudonne and Luther Manning. A fifth student, Maurice Williamson, was fined $10 on charges that he caused disorder by taking a flashlight picture of the incident in the Oxford Theatre.

The charges were preferred by Joseph Crowl, manager of the theatre, who along with Chris Vergis, manager of the Oxford Hotel Coffee, have been accused of violating the Civil Rights statute by denying full accommodations to Lincoln students on Dec. 27.

Charges against the two will be heard by the Chester County Grand Jury next month.

Warrants for the arrest of the five students were sworn out by Crowl after the theatre incident on Jan. 11.

When the men entered the theatre, Crowl and J. G. Johnson, a borough police officer, were at the box office. Johnson, it was said, warned them "that the races don't mix here," but the students took seats in the section reserved for white patrons.

When an usher asked them to move, the men said they were comfortable and refused. Johnson then told them, they said, to "sit on the other side or get out." Later Johnson and another officer appeared with warrants for their arrests. None of the patrons made any complaint against the students.

Williamson was fined after a sharp exchange between Theodore Spaulding, of Philadelphia, member of the national legal board of the NAACP, and Truman Wade, attorney for the theatre manager. Wade wanted Williamson fined $200.

John Clements, justice of the peace who issued the warrants for arrests of the students, refused to take similar action in their behalf two weeks previously.

Individual Treatment of Prisoners Asked

Individual treatment of prisoners was called for recently by the Ulman Society, an interracial group interested in the rehabilitation of young offenders.

The society was organized in memory of the late Judge Joseph N. Ulman, of the Baltimore Supreme Bench, who held that the penal system should place more emphasis on "brains, and less on stone walls and steel bars."

The Ulman Society reported that over 1650 men walk out of prisons everyday in the United States, and many of them return. "Recidivism is the price every American continues to pay for our chaotic, unplanned penology, "the group asserted.

Local directors of the society include Mrs. Alice Arrington, executive director, Madison Ave. YWCA; Dr. G. Lake Imes, field worker, General Presbyterian Church; and Howard H. Murphy, business manager, AFRO-AMERICAN newspapers.

Delivery Boy Held on Robbery Count

A delivery boy accused of stealing merchandise, $40, and a bicyle belonging to a drug store company pleaded guilty Friday, but said he didn't remember what happened to the missing articles.

The defendant, Eugene Evans, 18, of the 2500 block Rayner Ave., was held in $500 bail.

Advised that his case was going to the grand jury, Evans confined his remarks to saying he didn't know what happened to the missing items valued at $110.

Worker Fined $25 on Weapon Charge

Found guilty on a deadly weapons charge, Glenn W. Hines, 28, of the 900 block Eutaw St., was fined $25 and costs, Sunday.

Hines told Magistrate Leroy C. Shaughnessy in Northwestern police court that he used the knife on his job with a contracting company.

James Reid Held on Girl's Charges

NEWARK

James M. Reid, 42, AFRO circulation department employee of Baltimore, at a hearing on Monday in Family Court before Magistrate Samuel Cooper was ordered held for the grand jury on charges of assault and battery upon a 19-year-old dancer of Jersey City.

The dancer, Miss Theral Edwards of 9½ Ege St., Jersey City, accused Reid of striking her about the head and face at 2:30 Sunday morning when she visited his room in a local hotel to talk about publicity for her dancing school.

Says $12 Missing

Further, she declared that when she ran out of the room, leaving her coat and purse, the sum of twelve dollars was taken from her change purse.

She accused Reid of taking the money.

At a hearing at First Municipal Court, Reid, through his attorney, waived hearing on the petty larceny charge and was released in custody of his lawyer to await grand jury action.

Met Her in Baltimore

The sales promoter denied both charges.

He said he was friendly with Miss Edwards since meeting her during the Christmas holidays in Baltimore and that since then, he had contact with her in New York City.

Lecture to Center on Atomic Energy

Enoch Pratt Free Library is sponsoring a series of lectures and films on atomic energy.

At 4 p.m. on Sunday in the Central hall of the main building, Cathedral and Franklin Sts., Dr. John Z. Bowers will speak on "The Medical Uses of Atomic Energy." The speaker is deputy director, division of biology and medicine of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

At 12:30 p.m., Tuesday, the films to be shown in the auditorium are "Atomic Energy," and "Report on the Atom."

In 1947, the Library's institute on atomic energy emphasized the dangers of the unleashed power of the atom. This year's series presents the other side of the picture.

Man, 38, Held After Pal's Car Is Stolen

Pleading not guilty Sunday to theft of his friend's car, Benton Huntley, 38, of the 200 block W. Biddle St., was held under $1000 bail for grand jury action.

He told Magistrate Leroy C. Shaughnessy at Northwestern police court that he had not stolen the car.

Police stated that Huntley told them he and Javan Thompson, owner of the car, had taken a trip to Washington last week.

On the way back, they stopped at a roadhouse for a few drinks and somehow became separated. Huntley claims he got in the car and started back to Baltimore alone.

After going a short distance, he decided to return to the roadhouse, but State troopers started chasing him, and he fled on foot from the car. He was later picked up walking along the Washington Blvd.

Mr. Thompson denied taking the trip and said he learned that the car was missing only through a phone call to his home.
