Strange Hostess at Hubby's Party Stirs Divorce Action

Mrs. Florence Carroll, who testified that her husband, Matthews, not only threw big parties in her absence, but imported a hostess in her place, won a divorce from him this week.

Telling how she went to visit an aunt and returned to find her apartment filled with guests, and a woman, dressed in her husband's T-shirt and slippers, at home in her kitchen, the wife added that Mr. Carroll had oftimes admitted his infidelities.

She said that he had told her that of course he had a friend, when she had found lipstick on his handkerchief, and had advised her to just wash the lipstick out of the handkerchief, that was all she could do . . that he would do as he liked.

Ordered Her Out

Mrs. Carroll said that an argument followed the party incident and that he ordered her out, telling her to leave his rings and bankbook and to not come back.

The couple was married in 1941 and lived together until 1948. William B. Oswald was her attorney.

'Just Moved On'

Mrs. Julia Porter "just moved on to another husband" when she tired of one, her legal mate, Dawson Porter, told the court, this week.

He was testifying before an examiner in a suit for divorce from his wife, who he said left him in 1944 after six months of marriage because she preferred to keep house for Walter Jeffreys. Jefferys died soon afterwards, he said, and his wife is now keeping house for George Wheeler of Oliver St.

He was represented by Leonard S. Freedman, attorney.

Mrs. Ruth Anderson of 341 Bloom St. obtained a divorce from John Anderson of Philadelphia on grounds of desertion. She also won the right to resume her maiden name, Brooks. The couple was married on May 10, 1945, and separated on Jan. 22, 1947.

James E. Washington of 522 N. Stockton St. won a divorce from Mrs. Mary Washington after testifying that she left him in 1946 because she had tired of marriage. They were married in 1941.

Petitions for divorces were filed by the following:

Nathaniel vs. Mrs. Ruby M. King, J. Howard Payne, attorney; Mrs. Cynthia Smith vs. Daniel, William T. Buckner, attorney; Mrs. Dorothy Hall vs. Samuel, Roy S. Bond, attorney; Mrs. Ophelia Scott vs. John H., Roy S. Bond, attorney;

Mrs. Sallie Brown vs. Charlie, Roy S. Bond, attorney; Mrs. Florence Hill vs. John H., Roy S. Bond, attorney; William O. vs. Mrs. Gladys Hill, Roy S. Bond, attorney.

Recreation News

The Adventurers, a recently formed men's club at the Chick Webb Center studied causes of juvenile dlinquency as shown in a film entitled, "A Criminal is Born," at their regular meeting last Wednesday.

A judge in the picture pointed out that youthful lawbreakers do not always come from poor families but from well-to-do homes. He offered mutual interest and parental understanding as solutions to the problems.

The club's calendar of events for 1950 includes discussions on outdoor life, fishing and hunting trips and social programs for their wives and friends.

Cagers Vying for Honors

The Chick Webb Center basketball league began play Jan. 13 in the gym of School No. 133. Twenty-five teams in the midget, intermediate and junior divisions are vying for the center's highest honors and the right to represent East Baltimore in the coming city championship contests.

Games are played Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 7 to 10, under the direction of Thomas Brisco. Game results and weekly standings of the three leagues will be posted regularly on the AFRO sports pages.

Teen-Agers Entertain

Fourteen members of the Chick Webb Recreation Center, under the direction of Mrs. Naomi Evans, presented a playlet entitled, "Friendship Party" before 125 patients in the Winterode Building of Crownsville State Hospital recently.

The playlet depicted an American girl who was bored with her Christmas toys. A fairy entered and called in children from various foreign countries who were so impressed with the toys that Mary gave them to the visitors.

Participants included Roberta Kendrick, Edward Marshall, Azalee Daniels, William Barton Jr., Yvonne Bourne, Calvin Johnson, Evelyn Kenny, Bailey Dodson, Anita Kendrick, Isabelle Anderson, Delores Swales, Grace Atkins, Norma Lee Bond and Walter Glascoe.

The teen-agers visit patients at the hospital twice each month.

Cherry Hill News

Thirty-five girls have registered for the Cherry Hill Community Center Basketball teams. The three teams entered in the city-wide cage tournament are the Starletts, CAG's and the Royal Queens.

The Co-ed Club, a group of teen-agers who meet each Thursday evening for a social hour, is seeking new members. Plans are being made for a semi-formal party in February to honor mid-term graduates.

Parents and children of the Cherry Hill Community Center are busy selling votes to raise money for the Center's athletic fund. All votes will be tallied at a final report meeting at the center on Feb. 2. A prize will be awarded the individual selling the largest number of votes.

McCulloh Homes Center

Some 40 dolls and teddy bears were entered in the recent McCulloh Homes Recreation Center's mid-winter doll show. Prizes were awarded the following persons:

Prettiest doll: Patricia Gales, Patricia Fitchett, Leslie Robinson and Vonzella Shorter; smallest doll, Claudett Payne, Elmira Thornton, Barbara Selby and Gloria Scott; shabbiest doll, Gloria M. Harrison, Deborah Pratt, Dorothy Harrison and Inez Eubanks; Colored doll, Ernestine Pittman, Amber Wooding and Marcia Wooding; teddy bears, Angelia Eubanks and Jacqueline Mackay; twin dolls, Beverly Briscoe and Sara Bowens.

Judges were Mrs. Evelyn Riddick and Miss Dorothy Scroggins. Ardonia Snowden and Madelyn Futch are leaders.

Harlem Square

During January game tournaments, pingpong, caroms, checkers and pinochle games are being conducted at Harlem Square Playground. Competition will be in the midget, junior and senior leagues.

These will be ladder tournaments ending in a grand tournament finale with winners representing Harlem Square in the citywide game competition.

Gilmor Homes Center

The Gilmor Chapter of the child study group met at the home of Mrs. Valma Washington last Monday. Mrs. S. Van Camp was speaker.

The recreation council held its first meeting of the year Wednesday in Club Room B.

Table tennis tournaments are arousing considerable interest at the center.

Each Thursday teen-agers of the center hold a quiz program that is educational as well as entertaining.

Chesapeake Scout District Officers Elected, Reports

Rufus Hackett, East Baltimore insurance executive, was elected chairman of the Chesapeake Boy Boy Scout District at a meeting Thursday at the Chick Webb Recreation Center.

Other district officers chosen for 1950 were: William Waller, vice chairman; Newell W. Wilmore, district commissioner; Herbert Rice, Walter S. Mack, James Adams and William F. Tittle, assistant commissioners.

The meeting opened with impressive candle light ceremonies by Mr. Wilmore, Miss Frances Dowe, as Lady of Liberty, and Scouts from five district troops participating.

Yancy L. Whittaker, Scout executive in charge of the district, read the annual report and discussed plans to send at least 27 Scouts to the international Scout jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.

Two Give Talks

Remarks were made by the Rev. Eugene T. Grove, former chairman for two years, and by Howard Ross, of the Baltimore Area Council staff.

Committee appointments announced were as follows:

Organization and extension, Robert B. Watts, chairman, Gardie Williams, Charles W. Cephus, George L. Parrish and Milton Brown; camping and activities committee, Harry Cole, chairman; finance, William A. Sorrell Sr.; leadership training, I. Boyd Holden;

Advancement Committee, Dr. Leroy J. Young; health and safety, Dr. F. K. Adams, chairman, Dr. Robert W. McDaniels, Dr. T. D. Phifer, Robert Abbott and George Brown and Rufus Wells, public relations chairmen.

27 Scout Units

Present as representatives from the district's 27 Scout units were:

Lawrence D. Logan Sr., James Stewart, Bruce Stills, H. B. Crutchfield, James E. Richardson, Aaron Donaldson, Mrs. Ruby Donaldson, Julian Wilton, Donald Brown, Joseph Green, Herbert McGlotten, Calvin J. Davenport, Benjamin F. Black, Mrs. Evelyn Doe, Oliver Stokes;

Mesdames Louisa E. Reeves, Josephine Briggs, George Simms and Charles Adams.

YMCA Quint In Victorious Bow

The YMCA varsity basketball team, inaugurated its home season with a 63-37 win over a scrappy but out-manned team from Headquarters Company, 3rd Cavalry Battalion, Fort George G. Meade, Friday night, at the Druid Hill Avenue YMCA.

The experience and height of the YMCA team was too much for the shorter Cavalry outfit. The Y team featured a smooth ball handling outfit, with players well over 6 feet. Solomon Rose led the YMCA in scoring with eight field goals and three foul tries for a total of 1 9 points.

Rose, who stands 6 feet 5 inches, was aided by Robert Grey and Louis Hardy, who garnered nine points each. The Cavalry team was led by Garrett and Collins, with 15 and 11 points respectively.

Easterwood Cagers Feature Double-Header at Armory

Crispus Attucks Association of York, Pa., and the York Pa. American Legion meet the Easterwood Progressive A.C., and the 231st Battalion respectively at the Richmond Market Armory, Sunday afternoon.

Easterwood will put her 17-game winning streak on the line against the Attucks five, a team that has been a powerhouse all season. Coached by Chester Buchanan, former Philadelphia Star ace, the York outfit figures to give Coach Phil Boyer's interracial five a real battle.

The Kelly green and gold quintet has been going like a house of fire, and in recent games, a newcomer is carrying the fire. Ray King, acquired by Easterwood three weeks ago, has been averaging 15 points a game. Jim Gribbon also has been finding the nets consistently with his hook shots and tap ins.

The 231st Battalion, led by Joe Hill, Bingham Williams, Harvey Brown and Dennis Gross, will try to erase an earlier defeat at the hands of the York Legion.

Part of the proceeds from these games will be for the benefit of Fellowship House. First game is 4 p.m.

Robins, Lauranettes Top YMCA Cage League Races

As the Senior Basketball League of the Druid Hill Avenue YMCA approaches the halfway mark, Robins A.C., is hanging on to first place with a record of three wins and no losses, over the Lauranettes and Spartans, each of whom have two wins and one loss.

The Junior League is led by the Lauranettes with a record of two wins and no losses. Tying for second place are the Yellow Jackets and Spartans, each with a record of one win and one loss.

The second half of the league will get underway on Jan. 30, with the Yellowjackets taking on the Spartans in the Junior League at 5:30 p.m., and the Colverdale Cubs tangling with the Robins in the Senior League at 6:30 p.m.

Frontiers Back Morgan Demands

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, told his fellow Frontiers Club members Tuesday, that Morgan State College which he heads, must have more buildings to give students adequate training.

Following his address in which he discussed the needs of the college, the club approved a motion to wire Governor Lane asking that Morgan be granted its full budget requests for 1950.

For 1950 Morgan has requested $1,261,345 for its current operating budget. This sum is needed for such items as teachers' salaries, supplies, equipment, maintenance of plant and dining-room supplies.

Minimum Level Request

The State is requested to appropriate only $820,670 of the total request. The balance will be made up chiefly by income from student fees for tuition, board and room.

Dr. Jenkins pointed out that this sum is needed to support the college at the minimum level.

In reviewing some of the aspects of higher education in Maryland, Dr. Jenkins said the ultimate ideal would be the elimination of enforced segregation so that graduate schools would be open to all.

But in the face of realities, Marylanders should insist that Morgan State College be appropriations to maintain its operation on the highest possible level.

Fines Net $1200 One-Day Numbers

Judge Michael Manley on Tuesday imposed more than $1200 in fines on 11 persons charged in numbers cases. They included:

Pearl St. on Jan. 14; Mrs. Rebecca Hurtt, $100, for numbers at her home in the 600 block Bradley St. on Jan. 12; Bronislau Danay, of the 1500 block Eastern Ave., $10, and Michael Farmer, 1600 block Thames St., $100 for numbers on Jan. 10;

Frank Cohen, 5300 block Cuthbert Ave., $250, and Willie Lane, 1600 block Lanvale St., $75 for a numbers violation on Jan. 14 in the 700 block Stricker St.; Mrs. Evelyn Matthews, $150, David Jones, $150, Richard Heath, $75, and Mrs. Essie M. Ferrell, $75, all arrested an operation in the 1600 block Division St. on Jan. 13.

Female Infant's Body Found in Shopping Bag on N. Gilmor Street

The medical examiner's report was being awaited, Thursday, by police seeking the identity and cause of death of an infant girl found on Wednesday in a shopping bag in the 1100 block N. Gilmor St.

Police reported that John Randolph told them he found the infant in the shopping bag near his home. Because of the peculiar manner in which the bag was tilted, Randolph said, he looked inside to see what it contained.

Suspects in Bus Driver's Murder Given Jury Trial

Trapped by the alertness of two colored officers, two men went on trial, this week, in the trackless trolley holdup slaying of a No. 21 conductor, last Oct. 5.

The accused men are Gerald S. Day, 24, a GI-bill student of the 600 block N. Carey St.; and Russell S. Lewis, 25, AWOL soldier of the 1400 block N. Fulton Ave.

The trial began on Wednesday, before an all-white jury, and is expected to last at least two more days.

18 State Witnesses

When proceedings were adjourned on Thursday until Monday morning, the State had produced some 18 witnesses, laying groundwork for the possible introduction of alleged confessions to the killing of the conductor, Orville Ericson, white.

Star witness for the prosecution is Patrolman John Gardner of Northwestern District, who was off duty on the night of the murder-robbery.

Gardner testified that he spied the two men working about the darkened trolley at its Carey St. and Westwood Ave. terminus when he and his wife were coming from a movie.

Investigating, Officer Gardner, who had known Day for several years, asked "what's the trouble?" and the two men informed him they were trying to find out.

This was related in an opening statement to the jury by William J. O'Donnell, one of two prosecutors.

Mr. O'Donnell related further that when Officer Gardner looked closer, and saw the operator slumped inside of the trolley, which was covered at the doorsill with blood that flowed into the gutter, the two men fled.

2nd Officer Sees Fugitive

Meanwhile, Officer Oliver Walker, on duty at Pennsylvania Ave. and Baker St., said he caught sight of a man running across the street, dodging automobiles. The fleeing man was wearing a vest which, he added, looked like the one produced in court.

Officer Walker, who then rushed to the scene of the killing, three blocks away, said he went looking for Day after he talked with Officer Gardner, but was unable to find him at once.

Day, however, was arrested two hours later. Lewis's arrest followed shortly afterward. According to the prosecutor, Lewis had blood on the instep of one shoe, which was found to be the same type of blood as that of the conductor.

Victim Stabbed 8 Times

Mr. O'Donnell said Ericson was stabbed some eight times in the back and stomach, and that his thumb was almost severed.

His change-maker was found under the bus in the gutter, and a tattered sport coat, allegedly belonging to Day, was found on top of this.

The prosecutor declared that the State would prove the crime was committed in an attempted robbery. This proof would result in a conviction of first-degree murder, punishable by hanging or life imprisonment.

Two Defense Lawyers

Mr. O'Donnell told the jury that the two men had spent the day "welching and sponging" for wine money. Also with the prosecution is William Maynard, deputy State's attorney.

The case is being heard by the jury and Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith. Ernest Perkins is attorney for Lewis; while Day is represented by Louis E. Macht, attorney.

Looting of Parked Car Charged to 3 Youths

Charged with looting a parked car on Hopkins Place last Friday of $300 in clothing and other articles, three 19-year-old youths were held for grand jury action Monday under $1000 bail each.

They were identified in Central police court as Earl McCoy, 1900 block Walbrook Ave.; Edward Phillips, 800 block Harlem Ave., and Robert T. Mayer, 900 block Pierce Street.

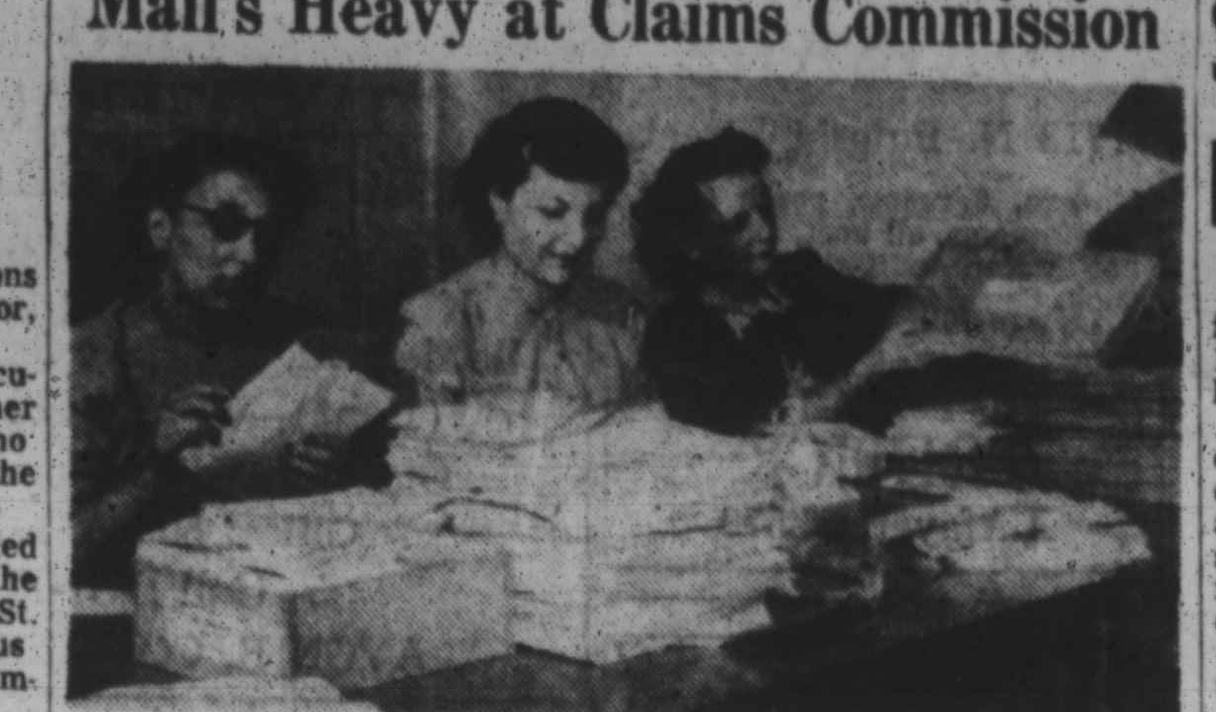
Mail's Heavy at Claims Commission



Mrs. Jessie Anderson (left) of St. Paul, Minn., a stenographer at the War Claims Commission in Washington, lends a hand in the mailroom of WCC. Her son, Marvin Reed, is in the Naval Aviation School at Memphis, Tenn. Ex-prisoners of war held by the Japanese and Germans can file claims for $1 for each day the enemy didn't supply enough rations, and over 200,000 claims forms are being mailed out for this purpose. Everyone on WCC's staff takes a turn in the mailroom where as many as 7,000 pieces of mail are handled daily.

South Baltimore Notes

The Congenial Savings Club held its first meeting of the year recently at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Lee, 518 S. Pace St., and elected the following officers for 1950:

Mrs. Lee, president; Miss Anna Chester, vice-president; Mrs. Beatrice Bais, chaplain; Mrs. Ilee Lyles, financial secretary; Mrs. Washington, recording secretary; Mrs. Alice Ford, conductress;

Mrs. Rosalee Bradley, business manager; Mrs. Rosalee McCory, marshal; Mrs. Mattie Jefferson and Mrs. Gladys Howie, co-chairman of the birthday committee; Mrs. Evelyn Damond, editor. Mrs. Josephine Jones is a member.

Wilson Singers to End Series

The last of a series of three concerts sponsored by the Gerald Bursk Wilson singers will be held 5 p.m., Jan. 29 at Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church.

It will feature the Baltimore chorale, an aggregation including the Martha Murphy Singers, the Elite Choir and the Baltimore Singers.

George W. Hill has been named chairman of the annual Men's Day program to be given at Star of Bethlehem AME Church, of which the Rev. W. R. Chew is pastor, on March 5.

Other officers are Walter Hill, first vice-chairman; Richard Parson, second vice-chairman; William Polk, secretary; Roland Christian, recording secretary; and George Martin, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Perkins journeyed to Washington recently to visit friends and relatives.

Civic Leader Mourned

South Baltimore lost one of its most active civic leaders early this month when George Jacobs, white owner of a theater in this section, died suddenly at his home.

Mr. Jacobs gave selfishly of his time and money in any project designed to improve the plight of Southside citizens. He was actively engaged in the South Baltimore Playground campaign at the time of his death.

Southside Personality

Seventeen-year-old Miss Lorraine Vines of 421 W. Hamburg St., is this week's personality choice. A pupil at Carver Vocational High School, where she majors in tailoring, Miss Vines lists sewing as her first love.

MISS LORRAINE VINES

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Vines and a member of the Ebenezer AME Church.

Miss Vines is also president of the Esquireneers Club, a teenage pleasure club. She says sewing and playing the piano are her hobbies.

Slain Lad's Life Might Have Been Saved by Pal

It is possible that a 19-year-old friend of Robert Carter, 16, 1100 block of Briscoe St., could have saved his life.

This was brought out by Southern District police, after a trial during which a white grocer was acquitted of charges in the fatal shooting of Carter, following a robbery of his store, on Thursday, Jan. 19.

Sgt. Thomas Riley commented that if Roland Boone, 19, of the 400 block of W. Henrietta St., had told police Carter was carrying a .38-calibre revolver, they could have arrested Carter on a deadly weapons charge, which would have prevented the fatal occurrence.

Saw Pistol Previous Day

At a State's attorney's hearing before Magistrate Herbert F. Franklin, Boone testified that the day before the "holdup-killing," he and Carter had gone to Pumphrey, Md., and that his companion had fired a pistol while they were there.

Shown the gun that police said slipped out of Carter's hand after three bullets had knocked him to the ground, Boone identified it as the one he had seen in the country.

Boone also told the court he had seen his friend with the gun on the morning of Jan. 19, a few hours before he was shot to death.

Gun Wielder's Story Told

Carter's slayer, Harry Lewis, 43, grocer in the 900 block of Warner St., gave the following version of the robbery and fatal shooting:

Wearing dark glasses, Carter walked into his store, last Thursday, and asked for a package of cigarettes.

"I thought it was funny that he should be wearing dark glasses in the winter," the grocer remarked.

Bringing Carter his cigarettes and change from a dollar bill, Lewis stated he found himself facing a revolver. He added that the gun-wielder said: "This is a holdup, give me your money."

Handed Over $67

Lewis explained that he first gave the bandit a few dollar bills, but upon the "cool requests" of Carter he made several trips to the cash register until he had handed over $67.

With the gun still pointed menacingly at him, the holdup man backed out of the store, Lewis said.

Crying to his clerk, who had been preoccupied during the daylight robbery, Lewis asked him to call the police because he had been held up.

Pursued Holup Man

Then, snatching a .32-calibre revolver from behind the counter, Lewis said, he ran into the street, sighted Carter and taking a shortcut, met him at the corner of Montgomery and Warner Sts.

Lewis said that when he told the fleeing lad to stop, the boy whirled and flourished his gun. The grocer fired first, sending three bullets into Carter's body, he said.

The mother, two sisters and a brother of the victim stood quietly, with bewilderment spread across their faces, as Magistrate Franklin announced, "Harry Lewis, you're dismissed."

The youth who possibly could have averted the tragedy if he had spoken to the police a day or two sooner, lost himself among the crowd that left the courtroom.

Tavern Disturber Given $100 Fine

A Washington visitor was fined $100 and costs, Sunday, on charges of carrying a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace in a Madison Ave. tavern, Saturday night.

Identified as Ronald Cranston of Washington, the man entered a not guilty plea. He was found guilty when Samuel Brown, 1200 block Madison Ave., said he saw Cranston with a .45-caliber revolver.

Patrolman James Jones told Magistrate Thomas Fitzpatrick he found the unloaded automatic pistol in a compartment of the defendant's car.

2 Women Fined $35 in Store Larceny

Two women were fined $35 in the Western police court, Monday, for taking two scarves and four pairs of earrings from a downtown department store on Saturday.

Mesdames Dora Brown, 35, and Ella Malone, 47, both of the 400 block of N. Wolfe St., were found guilty by Magistrate Julius Romano.

Accused Daughter Killer's Trial Set

Mrs. Eleanor Liggon, charged with killing her 12-year-old daughter to save the youngster from "bad company," will be brought to trial, Tuesday, before Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith.

When the 29-year-old matron comes before him, Judge Smith will have the benefit of a psychiatric report on her mental condition.

The report was ordered on Nov. 28 by Judge Robert France, who was serving in the Criminal Court at that time.

Planned "Sleep Death"

Mrs. Liggon of the 1700 block McKean Ave. surrendered to police on Oct. 28, saying that she had planned a "sleep of death" for herself and the girl, Henrietta Jones, but that the death gun jammed before she could commit suicide.

The mother was quoted in a signed statement as saying that the girl travelled in such bad company, "I thought she would end up dead."

Fined $50 for Pistol

Arrested on a deadly weapon charge, Raymond Turner, 30, of the 2300 block N. Stockton St., was fined $50 and costs, Monday, in Northwestern police court.

The arrest was made by patrolman James Hayes who said Turner ran when he approached. Turner testified he was holding the empty pistol as collateral for a $1 loan. He did not know the owner's name.
