Church News

Two churches will transfer their congregations to new locations on Sunday.

Whatcoat Methodist Church, formerly at Franklin and Pines Sts., and now located at North and Madison Aves., will have sermons by both Bishop A. P. Shaw and the Rev. Kelly L. Jackson, superintendent of the West Baltimore District Methodists.

A free breakfast is being served at 9 a.m. in the church.

Whatcoat's former building has been purchased by the congregation of Shiloh Community Christian Church with the Rev. Mr. Baynard as pastor.

Rev. Waters to Preach

Worshiping at Shiloh at 3:30 p.m., will be the choir and congregation of Emmanuel Community Christian Church. Its pastor, the Rev. Wilbur H. Waters will preach.

The annual Lincoln Day address at Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning will be delivered by Dr. Horace Mann Bond, president of Lincoln (Pa.) University.

Dr. Bond will give an account of his recent trip to Africa where he was honored by some 150,000 natives in an unprecedented demonstration, and given a gown symbolizing authority.

The Lincoln University president will be introduced by Carl J. Murphy, president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Company.

One of 7 Ministerial Sons

The Rev. Charles Tarter of Paterson, N.J., who preached at Grace Church last Sunday, was one of seven ministerial "sons" of the church during a 79 period.

Five members of Grace have entered the ministry during the 32-year pastorate of the present pastor, the Rev. John T. Colbert.

In addition to the Rev. Mr. Tarter, the other ministers are the Revs. Garnett Lee of Harrisburg, Pa.; Casper T. Glenn of Cherry Hill, Md.; Harold Nixon of Turner Station, Md.; and Herbert Jones, Chicago.

James Mack, a student at Lincoln (Pa.) University, and a member of Grace, also has been ordained to the ministry.

PTA Officers

Mesdames Dorothy Atkins, Alice Payne and Gilford Waters, are president, treasurer, and secretary, respectively, of the recently organized Parent Teacher Association of Grace Church School.

Dr. A. P. Muste, executive secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will give the message Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Morgan State College Christian Center.

His subject is "Ghandi and World Brotherhood." The college choir, with J. O. B. Mosely, director, will sing.

Marking the beginning of the 25th annual observance of Negro History Week, there will be a public mass meeting honoring Benjamin Banneker, Maryland colonial scientist. It will be held at 3:30 p.m. at Enon Baptist Church.

Miss Graham to Speak

The speaker will be Miss Shirley Graham, author of "Your Humble Servant," a book about Banneker.

At 8 p.m. Sunday, Sharp St. Methodist Church is presenting the choir of First Methodist Church, which will sing Gaul's oratorio, "The Holy City."

A capacity crowd attended Candlemass services last Sunday at St. James PE Church. At this service all the candles are blessed for use during the year.

On next Sunday the Men's Advisory Council of Emmanuel Christian Community Church will hold its second anniversary service. Headed by John E. Hill Jr., the council has a well-rounded program of religious civic and welfare projects.

3rd Anniversary

Sons and Daughters of Sandtown Civic Club were guests Sunday at the third anniversary service of the Inspired Gospel Singers at Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelson head the Sandtown Club, while Mrs. Alice Johnson is president of the singing group.

Eastern Methodist Church, E. Hoffman and Eden Sts., will open its 12-day bazaar on Monday.

The 1940 class of Douglass High School will hold memorial and re-dedication services at 11 a.m., Sunday, at Bethel AME Church.

Visitors this week at the Baptist Ministers Conference were the Revs. C. H. Church of Philadelphia, and the Rev. C. W. Ingram, of Dover, Pa.

The conference made a contribution toward the fund to help the court fight in the Druid Hill Park tennis court case.

Baltimorean at Virginia Church

The Rev. G. M. Grandison, left, a Baltimorean who served as assistant pastor at Enon Baptist Church, is shown being installed by the Rev. J. Guy Saunders as pastor of Pine St. Baptist Church in Covington, Va.

Payne Preaches at Installation

Dr. Arthur J. Payne, pastor of Enon Baptist Church preached the sermon recently at the installation of the Rev. G. M. Grandison as pastor of the Pine St. Baptist Church in Covington, Va.

A Baltimorean, the Rev. Mr. Grandison was once assistant pastor at Enon Church.

The minister attended Virginia Theological Seminary and College. While there he served as pastor of Oak Grove Church of Forrest, St. Paul Church in Evington, and the First Church in Pincastle, all in Virginia.

Known as Church Builder

During this period one church was renovated at a cost of $1800 and another church built for $10,000.

The Rev. Mr. Grandison was installed at Pine St. Church by the Rev. J. Guy Saunders, pastor of First Baptist Church.

Others who took part in the installation service were the Revs. J. H. Camp, W. D. Scott, R. R. Banner and A. A. Womack.

During the services at the church, sermons were delivered by these ministers and the Revs. Lewis Jones, G. Tindale, and J. R. Sparrow.

Socialized Medicine Discussion Topic

The Eastside Community Committee's health committee is sponsoring a public meeting at 8 p.m. tonight (Friday) at Grace Memorial Baptist Church, where five panel speakers will discuss the topic, "Should We Have Socialized Medicine?"

The moderator will be Dr. William Wing, associate professor of health administration at Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene.

Other speakers scheduled are Dr. George A. Silvers of the Eastern Health District; Dr. Albert H. Burwell and Dr. W. Leroy Berry.

The Rev. C. L. Whitfield is pastor.

Death Claims One of Ferebee Twins

WASHINGTON

Fatally stricken by virus pneumonia within a matter of hours here on Monday, Miss Dorothy Boulding Ferebee, 18, died late that evening. She will be buried in Mount Hope Cemetery, New York City, this (Friday) afternoon.

She was the daughter of Dr. C. Thurston Ferebee, New York dentist, and Dr. Dorothy Boulding Ferebee, local physician, president of the National Council of Negro Women and an AFRO columnist.

Also surviving is a twin brother, who, with his sister, enrolled at Champlain College, Plattsburg, N.Y., last fall.

Wanted to Be With Mother

Miss Ferebee arrived in Washington from Plattsburg on Monday morning and went to NCNW headquarters at 1318 Vermont Ave., N.W., where her mother resides.

Dr. Ferebee was at home with a throat ailment which had caused her to cancel a speaking engagement in Boston.

"I wanted to be here with you," Miss Ferebee is said to have told her mother, who noted that her daughter was ill and immediately put her to bed. She died a few hours later.

Native Washingtonian

Born in Washington, Miss Ferebee attended schools here and was graduated from Northfield Seminary, last June.

Funeral services were set for this afternoon at 1 p.m. in St. Phillip Episcopal Church, 214 W. 34th St., New York City. Levy and Delaney, morticians of 2250 Seventh Ave., New York City, were handling arrangements.

The Ferebee residence in New York is at 114-15 176th St., St. Albans.

Howard University Gets 'Scabbard, Blade' Chapter

U. of Md. Installation Team Conducts National Military Honor Society Rites

WASHINGTON

A chapter of "Scabbard and Blade," national military honor society, was installed at Howard University, Saturday.

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of the university, in making the installation address at the ceremony, said:

"Admittance of individual colored students to membership in the society is one more sign of the purpose of the leaders of the Armed Services to do away with the system of segregated handling of colored personnel, en bloc."

Rites Opened by Luncheon

The official installation service began with a luncheon, attended by university and military officials, a Scarbbard and Blade installation team from the University of Maryland and cadets of the Howard University ROTC Corps.

The installation team was composed of Cadets George A. Millsert, Morton O. Weston, Roy H. Robertson, Jacob N. Jones, Robert F. Jones, Maurice A. Garnes, Lloyd A. Bunn and Alexander E. Singleton, all of the University of Maryland.

The Howard University students who have been made charter members of the society are:

Frederick B. Greene, Fred D. Hilliard II, John Hollis, Lawrence D. Holton, Clarence Howard, Livingstone M. Johnson, Edgar B. McGee, Wilbert E. Miller, George F. Miller, Nathaniel Smith and Will L. Williams.

Other Speakers Listed

Speakers at the luncheon included:

G. Frederick Stanton, administrative assistant to President Johnson, who delivered a message on behalf of the president; Col. James J. Carnes, commanding officer of the Howard University ROTC unit; Col. Allen Harris, corps area inspector from Columbia University, New York City.

Honored guests included Col. West Hamilton, retired; Col. Trevor Sweet, retired, former commanding officer of the ROTC unit and James Evans, civilian aide to the Secretary of Defense.

Invited to Langley Field

Maj. Gen. Willis Hale, Commanding General of the 9th Air Force, has invited President Johnson and other key officials at Howard University to fly to Langley Field, Va., on Feb. 7 to inspect the air base.

The university officials will be primarily interested in the employment of colored personnel in accordance with promulgated Air Force policy.

Members of the inspection party will include:

Dr. Johnson, Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., Dr. J. St. Clair Price, G. Frederick Stanton, Col. Trevor Sweet, Col. West Hamilton, Dr. E. S. Hope, Dean Carroll Miller, Dr. Jacob Lawrence.

Dr. Armour Blackburn, Prof. Frank Coleman, Dean William B. Hare, Frederick Wilkinson, James Evans, Cohl James J. Carnes, Maj. William T. Maidson, Maj. Lucius E. Young, Lt. Rolin R. Bynum, Otis McClarrin and Woody Taylor.

William H. Young Buried at Shore

Pioneer Atlantic City Resident Dies at Home

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City mourned the death of Mayor William H. Young, who died at his home, 816 Baltic Ave., last Tuesday evening, after a lengthy illness.

He has been a resident of the resort city for many years, and during its early development had played a major part in shaping community life. Prior to coming to Atlantic City, he had been active in theatrical circles and had won fame for himself as a magician.

He had held many high offices in the Knights of Pythians and was instrumental in bringing the Pythians and was instrumental in bringing the Pythians in New Jersey to a top position among fraternal organizations. Many of the dignitaries of the Order were here for the funeral which was held on Friday afternoon.

Buried at Lincoln Park

At the time of his death, the mayor, who had been in declining health for a number of years only, held membership in Damon Lodge No. 2.

Mr. Young is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Young; a sister, Mrs. Rebecca Peyton, Atlantic City; a brother, Lloyd Young, Baltimore, Md.; one cousin, Mrs. Florence Drummond, Atlantic City.

Widow of Governor's Butler

Mrs. Rose D. Hill, center, widow of Sherman Hill, is being assisted from St. James PE Church, Monday, following her husband's funeral services. With her are Dr. N. Louise Young and Sherman Reavis, the widow's nephew.

Governor and Mrs. Lane at Hill Funeral

The State official and his wife are shown leaving St. James PE Church, Monday, after attending funeral services for their 84-year-old butler, Sherman Hill, who died Feb. 2, after serving 16 years in the Executive Mansion.

Church Attendance Drive in D.C. Begins Next Week

WASHINGTON

An all-out effort to get Washingtonians to go to some Christian church begins in the capital next week under the auspices of the local Federation of Churches.

From Feb. 12 to 17 about 4,000 members from 205 different Protestant churches will make door-to-door visits each night to homes in the neighborhood of churches in the metropolitan area. The members will represent about 16 denominations.

Purpose of their visits will be to extend to families in these homes an invitation to join the fellowship of the Christian church.

Interracial Movement

Nearly 20 colored churches are taking part in the movement which is completely interracial.

It is the second step in a big evangelism program being carried on by the Washington Federation of Churches in 1950.

The first step was a census, taken two weeks ago under the supervision of John Haines, the Federation's director of research and church planning.

He estimates that about 50,000 households were visited by church volunteers who obtained information about the churches going but and religious preferences of each family.

The results of the census are providing the "prospects" for next week's visits.

Eight Visiting Evangelists

Eight evangelism directors, representing eight different denominations, will direct the effort, occupying pulpits in metropolitan Washington Sunday, Feb. 12.

That afternoon they will meet the 4,000 workers at churches in eight areas. The ministers in each of the eight areas will then meet with one of the directors each morning, Monday through Thursday, at 11 a.m. for special training. Then they in turn, will train the lay workers each evening before the lay workers go out to visit.

One of the out-of-town evangelists is Dr. George F. Sweazey, secretary of the department of evangelism for the board of missions of the Presbyterian Church in this country.

He will address a youth rally at Tabernacle Presbyterian Church next Sunday at 8 p.m., on the eve of the visitation week.

The third step in the evangelistic effort of the local churches will be a week-long preachinit mission in the fall. Over 20 outstanding preachers will be here to deliver sermons in local churches and help conduct seminars, Bible study groups and other activities.

Among the visiting preachers will be Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Dr. George Kelsey and others.

A budget of $10,000 has been planned for the Federation's evangelism effort, with a full-time secretary to organize the work.

The committee in charge of the current project is headed by the Rev. W. Arnem Roberts, minister of Rhode Island Ave. Methodist Church.

Pullman Co. Denies Bias

Answers $10,000 Suit by Jesse O. Thomas

WASHINGTON (NNPA)—The Pullman Company last Friday denied it had practiced racial discrimination against Jesse O. Thomas, an American Red Cross official, in refusing him a drawing room for which he held a ticket.

Mr. Thomas is suing the Pullman Company for $10,000 damages.

He alleges that he was compelled to spend the night in a "drafty coach," contracted a cold, and had to undergo medical treatment when a conductor refused to sell him other space in the sleeping car.

He also charges that the Pullman Company "wickedly and maliciously" discriminated against him.

Company's Defense

In its answer filed in District Court last Friday, the Pullman Company admits that Mr. Thomas purchased one of its tickets at Hempstead, Tex., at 1:05 a.m., Jan. 27, 1948.

The car was a part of a train operated by the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company.

Mr. Thomas presented a ticket showing a reservation for drawing Room A, from Houston to Austin, Tex., on the train which left Houston at 11:15 p.m., Jan. 26, 1948.

The company says the car was the only sleeping car attached to that train.

Notified by Red Cross

It contends it was not notified that Mr. Thomas would board the car at Hempstead, but was notified by the American Red Cross in Washington that he would board the car and occupy space at Houston.

Sometime after leaving Houston and before reaching Hempstead, the company states, an occupant of an upper berth requested the conductor to permit him to use the vacant drawing room.

The conductor informed Mr. Thomas of the sale of the drawing room and offered him an upper berth which was the only sleeping accommodation available.

Mr. Thomas refused the upper berth and voluntarily left the car, the Pullman Company asserts.

Mr. Thomas says that for business reasons he found it not advisable to board the train at Houston but elected to do so at Hempstead, which was closer to his last engagement.
