STORY OF PROPHET HOLMES:

Evangelist's Talents Used to Help Many

By WARREN GARDNER

Some 20 years ago a teen-aged youngster cast a spell along the Mississippi's flats with his dancing feet. Billed "the boy who was born to dance," he seemed headed for theatrical fame.

But the talented, soft-spoken youth — who was thrilled by such colorful evangelists as Billy Sunday and Charles Beckton—had other ideas.

He parlayed a silver-tongue, flare for the dramatic, and knowledge of what the little man was thinking into one of the largest congregations in Baltimore today.

He also made himself one of the most sought-after, talked-of ministers in the city's history.

Such a person is the Rev. M. E. Holmes, famed for his rapid ascent from a McMechen St. lot, to one of the city's more auspicious church edifices.

Touches Public Pulse

Even his severest critics admit the evangelist has touched the public's pulse.

Many Baltimoreans, from all walks of life, will tell you he has cured long-standing ailments, saved homes and unraveled tangled domestic knots.

He advertises dramatically: "Meet me Sunday at 3 p.m., and Monday at 6 a.m., and I will do the rest." Yet, he makes no claim to supernatural powers and does not fashion himself, as some have, as a god.

He believes, "Healing comes from prayer, the prayer of faith will allow the Lord to heal you." Nevertheless, rumors, reports and legends about his "amazing accomplishments" continue to mushroom.

His mailing list exceeds 67,000. Aside from Baltimore, it covers Pennsylvania, New York and the New England States—the area spanned by his Sunday night broadcasts.

The dapper young evangelist, with whom sporty pastel ties are a "must," was an unknown when he moved in June, 1947, to his Gospel Tent at 560 McMechen St.

Visited by Emerson

But soon his handful of followers spread the word that the "God man" could do almost anything for anybody. This belief was boosted when it was rumored a few months later that some of his faithful had "hit" the numbers with the evangelist's text figures.

His congregation eased past the 500 mark then spurted from 1,000 to 2,500. Words of modern "miracles" spread rapidly throughout the thickly populated uptown area.

These words also reached the ears of Capt. Alexander Emerson, vice squad chief. If the "prophet" was giving out numbers, he wanted some too.

The captain mapped a disguise and instructed one of his men to join a service at the Gospel Tent.

However, the officer sneaked out, shocked and insulted when the evangelist interrupted his service and announced.

"We have a plainclothesman in the audience. And I'd like to know what he's doing here when he could be investigating conditions around the corner."

Contrary to reports, this is the closest the Evangelist Holmes and Captain Emerson have been.

Plans Housing Project

Not to be overlooked is the evangelist's civic-mindedness and enviable social work record:

His followers formed the largest unit of the Baltimore delegates to the recent NAACP inpired CVill Rights Mobilization in Washington. He promised to send over 300 delegates and lived up to his word.

He also served as the collector for the distribution of Christmas toys and baskets to an estimated 1000 families. In addition, he operates an employment agency and is now planning an 89-family housing project.

He receives between 7,000 and 14,000 letters a week. Some praise his "great work and many blessings," but most seek aid for financial problems. His conferences open at six, Monday morning, and extend throughout the week.

On Monday he saw a bent, old lady—one of hundreds who clogged the waiting room — and asked:

"Is your trouble domestic or physical?"

"I don't have any troubles this week," she replied.

"I got your blessing last week. I'm very happy and I'd like to thank you."

As she started to leave, the prophet advised:

"Read the fourth Psalm, first through third verses. This Psalm will invite the guardian angel into your home." The old lady, with her head bound in a handkerchief, backed out smiling.

Urges All to Pray

The next client was another aged matron. She produced a letter suggesting that she join the "Twilight Radio Prayer Band." (A group of worshipers who contribcte $10 and receive in exchange for their prayers a "secret cure" to problems, plus loans for payment of rent and other needs.)

"I like to keep up with your church. I've been with you ever since you came to Baltimore, and I want you to continue praying for me."

"We shall continue to pray with you and for you—for peace, prosperity and happiness," answered the evangelist.

As the client left, a white follower called on the phone. She said, the evangelist relayed, her four children were sick and she needed aid.

"Have you consulted your physician?" queried the minister.

After hearing the reply, he suggested that she fast and read Psalm four, first through third verses.

She must not have understood him for he repeated the suggestion. Then, in reply to a question, he asserted:

"We don't suggest that anyone play anything. We urge followers and listeners to read this psalm this week."

Student Seeks Loan

Thumbing through a letter from a Philadelphia correspondent who was "dying to meet you in person," he looked up at the next client, a pert, well-dressed young lady.

She quickly said she was a Morgan State College student who needed a tuition loan which could be repaid when she got a summer job. She added:

"I tried to pawn clothing and jewelry, but loan shops don't like to do business with women. Finally, my mother suggested that I see you."

She was asked about her job qualifications and referred to a trouble-shooter for "processing."

Taking time-out from the flow of conferees, Evangelist Holmes scotched rumors that he is or ever was "Sunshine Sammy."

"I don't know where they got that one from. However, I did dance and do some acrobatics with Pops and Louis in St. Louis."

Born in California

Born in Weed, Calif., June 21, 1913, the evangelist's early years were spent there with his mother, a Baptist missionary.

Moving to St. Louis about 14 years later, he was in rapid succession a dancer, drum and guitar player and a member of the international gospel party, a touring group.

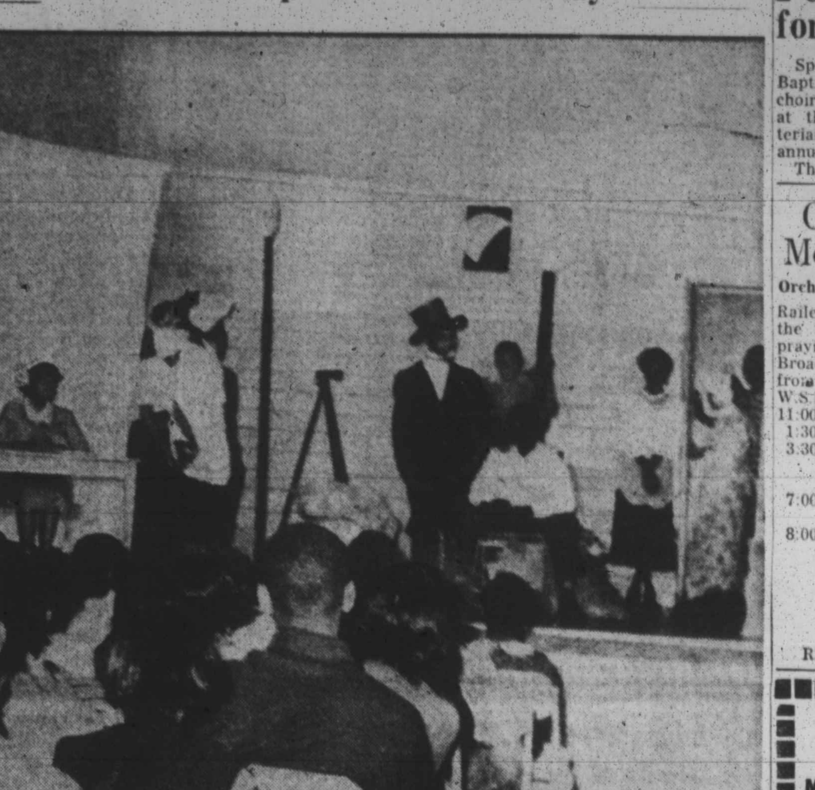
He was nominated as State evangelist for Oklahoma and Texas in July, 1935, and prospects of a stage career faded.

Later, he evangelized in various cities with the Church of God in Christ. In 1946, he visited Baltimore, and, after serving as assistant pastor of a Detroit church, returned here a year later.

Some wise promotion and fast-talking resulted in a loan from the owner of an uptown meat market. When his original tent-erecting proposal was vetoed by the city, he moved to the McMechen St. Gospel Tent.

He was married to the former Miss Carolyn Cochran, in Springfield, Mass., a year before he came to Baltimore. The evangelist was educated at Sumner High School in St. Louis and at the Amie McPherson Bible College.

Catonsville Pupils in Banneker Play



Puplis of the Benjamin Banneker School in Catonsville dramatized the life of Banneker as part of their History Week observance. Seated here is Chester Whye as Banneker, with Dwight Hines as they reenact a Market scene.

Funeral Rites Heldfor Spencer White

The funeral of Spencer White, retired Navy man, was held Friday, Feb. 17, at the Jackson funeral home, with interment following in Baltimore National Cemetery.

Mr. White, who was 70 years old, died of a heart attack on Tuesday. He lived at 1514 McCulloh St.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Bowen White; sister, Mrs. Mae Anderson; a niece, Mrs. Maurice Doles; and other relatives.

7 Groups Plan for Women's Day

Seven committees are completing plans for the annual Women's Day program on Feb. 26 at the Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Pearl C. Wilson will be the morning speaker.

Committee members are Mesdames and Misses Mattie Callis and Henrietta Peck, decorations; Marguerite Daniels and Florence Dennis, finance; Anita Hawkins and Anne Mosely, hostesses; Sadie Bryant and Reba Brooks, publicity; Mabel Frisby and Blanche Lindsay, speaker; Elsie Carter and Louise Anderson, program.

Music by the junior and senior choirs of Memorial Baptist Church will be offered at the 11 a.m. service. Charles Stanley is director.

At 5 p.m. there will be a concert by the Interracial Fellowship Choir under the direction of Dr. G. Edward Moyer. A tea will follow in the Sunday School room.

Mrs. Furman Templeton and Miss Eugenia Hardy are co-chairmen of the Women's Day observance. The Rev. Reginald Daniels is pastor.

2 Choirs to Sing for Women's Day

Special music by the Memorial Baptist Church senior and junior choirs will be presented on Feb. 26 at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church which is marking its annual Women's Day.

The guest choirs will sing at the 11 a.m., service when Mrs. Pearl Cole Wilson will speak on "Women in a Challenging World."

There will be a musical program at 5 p.m., to be followed by a tea. Mrs. Furman L. Templeton and Miss Eugenia Hardy are co-chairmen of the Women's Day Program. Mrs. Sadie Bryant is in charge of publicity.

Millions to Pray in 60 Languages

Wrld Day of Prayer to be observed on Feb. 24, the first Friday in Lent, will form a chain of prayer with millions of persons in 90 countries praying in 60 differnt languages.

The observance is sponsored by women's devotional groups throughout the world. In America, it is backed by the United Council of Church Women, an organization representing 10,000 women.

World Day of Prayer is interdenominational, interracial and international in sceupe. Offerings are divided between missionary work at home and abroad.
