Four-Team Cage Bill Slated for Heart Fund

Four of the city's outstanding basketball teams have been paired in a gigantic basketball double-header for the benefit of the Maryland Heart Fund, at the Richmond Armory, Feb. 24.

In the first game, the Easterwood A.C. Maryland All-American Athletic Association champions, and sporting a 22-1 record, will meet the East Side Sportmen. In the second game of the evening the 231st Battalion will test the Y Big Five.

If the previous meeting of the Easterwood-Sportsmen is any indication of the intense rivalry of these two clubs, this meeting means that basketball fans will have another chance to see two of the city's better basketball teams in action. In the previous meeting Easterwood beat the East Siders 53-46, with Easterwood scoring ten points in the last two minutes.

Coach Jesse Peaker of the 231st Battalion will have his team gunning for the Y Big Five in this, the rubber game between these two teams. In their first meeting the 231st Battalion turned back the Y Big Five 58-52, and the second game the Y reversed it to the tune of 51-48.

The entire proceeds of this double header will go to the Heart Fund. The teams and officials have donated their services and the use of the Armory has been given free of charge.

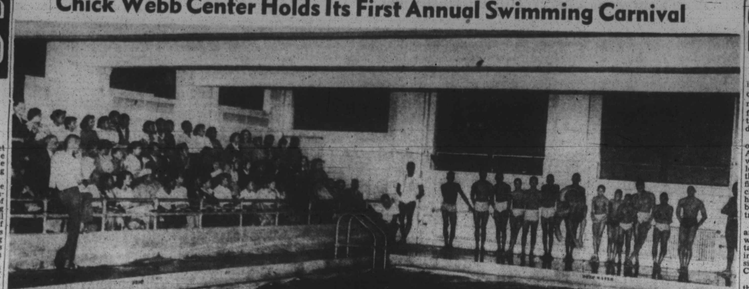
Chick Webb Center Holds Its First Annual Swimming Carnival



Over 600 spectators gathered in the new $200,000 Chick Webb Recreation Center, last Week end, to witness a three-day water carnival. Swimmers at the end of the pool are part of the performers who took personal bows as their names were announced at the end of the affair. T. Madison Garrison, instructor at the pool, stands at left.

600 See Chick Webb Center's First Water Carnival in 3 Days

In keeping with the high calibre of programming conducted throughout the Chick Webb Center the first water carnival was presented last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The program, originally scheduled for two days, created such a sensation that an additional performance was staged Saturday afternoon.

On Thursday and Friday nights, over 200 people were deprived an opportunity to see the show, because of an overflow of spectators.

Saturday afternoon's performance was therefore witnessed by well over 200 adults and children, bringing the total for the three days in excess of 600 spectators.

Interpreted Teaching Methods

The carnival was planned to interpret the methods of teaching swimming, rules and regulations, water safety and progress of the swimmers both individually and collectively in an entertaining manner.

A chain dive by the intermediate swimmers; sausage dive by the intermediates; formation of pinwheel in water by the beginners;

A swimming skit — "The Instructor Knows Best," featuring Archie Sturdivant as instructor, Dickie Harris as Problem Child;

Mass surface diving by the intermediates, demonstrating and back surface dives; a demonstration of steps of beginning swimmers;

Life Saving Depiction

A life saving demonstration, featuring James Ralph and Oliver Stern,—senior life savers; John Bruce and Leroy Hawkins —junior life savers; canoe demonstration by Red Cross representatives, featuring Allen Caldwell and Chuck Deaver on Thursday and Chuck Deaver and Melvin Cade on Friday;

Drill formation swimming by the intermediates; a novelty act of clowns, featuring Stanley Stern, Ronald Wilson, Leroy Pittman, and Leroy Hawkins;

As rosebud's reflection, featuring the Chick Webb dance group and the intermediate swimmers; tandem swimming, featuring Mrs. Kroveille Brinkley, Miss Rose Smith and James Harris; and synchronized swimming, featuring James Ralph and Oliver Stern.

Bear Thinclads Depart for AAU Indoor Meet

Seven Morgan State College track stars left this afternoon (Friday) for New York City where they are slated to compete in the National AAU indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Headed by Coach Eddie Hurt, the Bears hard-hitting mile relay team of Bob Tyler, Sam LaBeach, Bill Brown and George Rhoden left from Pennsylvania Station at 2:40 o'clock. They were scheduled to arrive at New York shortly after 6 p.m., and will take up quarters at Sloan House, the dormitory section of the 34th St. (Downtown) YMCA.

In the troupe along with the relay stalwarts are Thurlow Brown, who is entered in the 3-mile run; Lester Scott, down for participation in the 60-yard high hurdles and Churchill Thompson, broad jumper.

While Tyler, Rhoden and Brown, of the relay foursome are listed as competitors in individual events, it is unlikely that they will take part in anything but the relay race.

Too Strenuous

Coach Hurt explained that it would be much too strenuous a grind for his boys to seek individual laurels.

Rhoden, for example, is an entry for the 600 however, in the qualifying round is slated for 3 p.m., the semi-finals for 8 p.m., and the finals for 9:30 p.m. This would mean three different 600 spins in the course of seven hours and, in addition, the qualifying heat of the relay is set to go off between 9 and 9:30 p.m.

Brown, likewise, is entered in an individual test, the 1000 However, the same situation exists in this event. There would be two races for Brown at 1,000 yards and the qualifying relay round, all within four hours of one another.

Because the time element would work undue hardships on these men, Hurt told the AFRO Thursday evening he would more than likely scratch them from the individual races and concentrate on the team event.

Carver vs. Dunbar

Carver Vocational High School basketers will meet Dunbar High School in the East Baltimore gym Monday afternoon.

Carver Outlasts D.C. Dunbar Five

WASHINGTON

Carver Vocational School, playing in spurts during the first three quarters while being deadlocked nine times, turned in a steady performance in the final period to trip Dunbar 61-54 here Wednesday night at Banneker Gym.

The Baltimore Tradesmen, second place contenders for the South Atlantic Conference championship with a 6-2 slate, sped to an 8-0 lead in the opening minutes of the first quarter, then contentedly fizzled on numerous scoring chances as Dunbar came from behind to knot the score four times before the half when the locals trailed, 28-30.

Sparkplugs in the visitors' off-and-on offense in the first half were Arthur Roseborough, who tallied nine of his 18-point total in the first half from Carver's Clifford Pixie post, and Calvin McCoy.

McCoy and Bobby Jones tied the contest in the closing minutes on a fast break which often found a Carver player free under the basket.

Truman Plugs Civil Rights Again

WASHINGTON

President Truman made another plug for his civil rights program Wednesday when he addressed the Attorney General's Conference on Law Enforcement Problems in the Department of Justice Auditorium.

The Chief Executive declared:

"We must recognize that human misery breeds most of our crime. We must wipe out our slums, improve the health of our citizens and eliminate the inequalities of opportunity which embitter men and women and turn them toward lawlessness.

"These programs represent the greatest of all anti-crime measures.

Equality of Opportunity

"And I want to emphasize, particularly, equality of opportunity. I think every child in the nation, regardless of race, creed or color, should have the right to a proper education. And when he has finished that education, he ought to have the right in industry to fair treatment in employment.

"If he is willing to do the job, he ought to be given a chance to do that job, no matter what his religious convictions are, or what his color is," Mr. Truman asserted.

The President said he believes that it was just as much the duty of law-enforcement agents to protect the innocent as to prosecute the guilty.

"Nevertheless, the weak, the victims of prejudice and public excitement are entitled to the same quality of justice and fair play that the rich, the powerful, the well-connected and the fellow with pull thinks he can get.

Due Process of Law

"Moreover, the guilty as well as the innocent are entitled to due process of law. They are entitled to a fair trial, to counsel and to fair treatment from the police. The law enforcement officer is the same duty as the citizen—indeed, he has a higher duty—to abide by the letter and spirit of our Constitution and laws."

Mr. Truman added that as President of the United States, he had the most honorable and greatest job in the world. "I am invested with certain great powers by the Constitution in the operation of the Government of the United States.

"But I was put into this place by the people. I am the servant of the people. And in the first place, I am a citizen of this great country. And as a citizen, it is my duty as President to be exceedingly careful in obedience to the Constitution and the laws of this great nation."

Head Blow Eases Sentences for 7

Two men, one of whom had three stitches in his scalp as the result of what testimony established to be a club blow received from a policeman, were meted suspended fines in Western District police court, last Friday, by Magistrate Julius A. Romano.

David Sewell, 32, charged with disturbing the peace and pointing a rifle at another man, John H. Sumpter, 35, the man Sewell allegedly threatened, who also was charged with disturbing the peace, were the men who "got off light."

Both of the defendants reside in the 600 block of W. Fairmount Ave.

Fleeing Man Raised Alarm

Two officers testified that they went to the home of Mr. Sewell after they saw Sumpter running down the street, shouting that Sewell had pointed a loaded gun at him.

Investigating, the officers said, they had found Sewell with a rifle in his hands, which they took away from him.

Both of the policemen declared that Sewell had been struck in the head when he attempted to snatch the rifle back from them.

Says Officer Got Angry

Sewell told a different story. He maintained that one of the policemen, Patrolman Charles Slipper, got angry and struck him with his club when he asked the question: "What are the cops doing here?"

Looking at the bandage on Mr. Sewell's head, Magistrate Romano expressed his belief that Sewell had already paid for his actions.

$5 Democrat Dinner Marks Unity Effort

The third annual Democratic dinner to be held on Feb. 24 at the Morgan State College dining room, will represent the first united effort of the Fourth District's two main Democratic factions.

Guest speakers scheduled to appear include:

Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglass, U.S. Senate aspirant from California; Philip B. Perlman, U.S. Solicitor General; Rep. William L. Dawson of Illinois and Dr. Marshall Shepard, Recorder of Deeds of Washington.

Sponsored by the Citizens' Democratic Club, of which Lloyal Randolph is president, the dinner represents the combined efforts of all Maryland Democrats.

May Mark New Trend

It will mark a united program by the Randolph and Dixon Democratic groups and may be an indication of a new trend in city politics.

Governor Lane, Mayor D'Alesandro and other State and city officials are among the 700 guests expected to attend and participate in the affair.

Dr. Bernard Harris, Park Board member and chairman of the arrangements committee, recently said unity within the party when he declared:

"We can no longer divide our forces. We must band ourselves together and move forward in unison toward our common goals."

He emphasized that the dinner, tickets for which are now priced at $5 per plate, was not just his organization's affair, but represents the combined forces of all Democratic Democrats.

'Separate-But-Equal' Schools Theory Ruling by D.C. Court to Be Appealed

WASHINGTON

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld the so-called "separate-but-equal" theory of education in a 2-1 majority opinion on the combined Brown Junior High School-Marguerite Daisy Carr cases, Tuesday.

Judge Bennett Champ Clark and Judge E. Barrett Prettyman wrote the majority opinion. Judge Henry W. Edgerton, in a scholarly dissenting opinion, went into great detail in opposing the majority view.

Lawyers in the three cases, representing the Browne Junior High School P-TA and the District Branch NAACP, sponsors of the suits, evidenced no surprise at the decision handed down.

To Appeal to Supreme Court

Leon A. Ransom and Belford Lawson said they will ask the Supreme Court to review the cases as soon as possible.

Judges Clark and Prettyman concurred in the lower court decision in dismissing the Browne case, holding that since the double shift complained of was eliminated prior to the trial, the cases became debatable and were properly dismissed on that basis.

Judge Edgerton contends that the case matter is broad and direct attack on compulsory racial segregation in the public schools of the District. The court should take judicial notice, he held.

Carr Case Issues Clear

Miss Marguerite Daisy Carr had asked the court to declare:

That neither the laws of the United States nor the laws of the District make the maintenance of racially separate schools mandatory;

That the Board of Education has exceeded its authority in decision that segregated schools are illegal; and that the board cannot compel her to attend any specific school set aside for persons on a racial basis.

She asked to be permitted to attend the school nearest her residence which would be the Eliot Junior High School, a white institution.

Browne Parents Aroused

The Browne Junior High School pupils' parents made complaints concerning the maintenance of segregated schools in the District. They protested the double shift then in effect at Browne and the transfer of some Browne pupils to elementary school structures.

They further asked the court to enjoin the board from not permitting them to attend the junior high school which would guarantee them equal educational opportunities with white pupils which they contended they were not receiving.

Lawyers for Miss Carr and the Browne pupils held that the board's segregation policy was a violation of the 5th and 13th Amendments to the Constitution, which guarantee justice, under the due process of law and equality of opportunities.

Cling to "Equality" Precedent

Clark and Prettyman held that the Supreme Court has consistently held that if there be an equality of the privileges which the laws give to the separated groups the races may be separated.

"Constitutional invalidity does not arise from the mere fact of separation, but may arise from an inequality of treatment," they wrote.

Edgerton's Dissent Logical

Judge Edgerton argued that ending the double shift at Browne did not make Browne equal to Eliot.

He held further that "equal protection of the laws is not achieved through indiscriminate imposition of inequalities."

This is also true of the right to due process of law created by the Fifth Amendment, he declared, adding:

"It is plain that pupils represented in these appeals are denied better schooling and given worse because of their color."

Majority Opinion Cited

In the majority opinion, Judges Clark and Prettyman stated:

"It is said that we may draw conclusions of inequality from naked general statistics such as the average age of buildings, the average pupils per room, etc.; but unexplained general statistics are notoriously unreliable promises for particularized conclusions."

They said that they could not consider the Strayer Report, because it had not been presented at the time in evidence.

"So far as the facts and circumstances shown by this record are concerned it appears that the treatment accorded these colored plaintiffs, of which they complain, would have been accorded them had they been white," the two-some said, adding:

"If the separation of the races in and of itself is not constitutionally invalid, such treatment, indiscriminate as to race, is not the unequal extension of privileges which violates constitutional prohibitions."

In answer to the Strayer Report Judge Edgerton pointed out:

"The Supreme Court has stated: We have frequently held that in the exercise of our appellate jurisdiction we have power not only to correct error in the judgment under review but to make such disposition of the case as justice requires . . . And in determining what justice does require, the court is bound to consider any change, either in fact or in law, which has supervened since the judgment was entered."

"When the appeal was argued the Strayer investigation was still under way and only a part of their report had been submitted to Congress."

Judge Edgerton held also that since colored students, who would be allowed to attend Eastern High School if they were white, are excluded from Eastern and required to attend Cardozo, to the extent of the difference between Eastern and Cardozo they are denied equal schooling because of their color.

The Constitution does not permit courts to wait for Congress to act. When U.S. Courts order integration in the District of Columbia schools, they will be integrated.
