Firm Extends Time in New Tithing Plan

The Lasting Products Company now has a tithing plan in effect where purchasers can buy paint and at the same time give 10 per cent of the purchase price to a church or charitable organization.

The plan, which has been extended to April 15 because of its success, started Jan. 15. Clerks at the seven Lasting Products paint stores give purchasers a card representing 10 per cent of the amount of their purchase.

These cards are turned over by the purchaser to his church or organization and will be redeemed in cash by the Lasting Products Co. at the end of the three month period.

The purpose of the Lasting Products Co. tithing plan is to acquaint more people with the advantages of buying paint at factory prices and also to aid the city's churches and charitable causes.

The stores are located at 202 S. Franklintown Rd., 103 S. Conkling St., 3005 Hamilton Ave., 2710 Cold Spring Lane, 1124 S. Charles St., 310 S. Broadway and 407 Eastern Ave.

Loyalty Firing Fought by Vet

400 Groups Back Suit of War-Maimed Ex-GI

WASHINGTON (ANP) — Nearly 400 interracial labor, civic, educational and religious organizations are lending their support to James Kutcher, white legless veteran who filed a suit in the District Court on Feb. 16 to challenge the constitutionality of the government's loyalty order.

Kutcher, who lost both legs in battle at St. Pietro, Italy, in October, 1943, contends that he was fired from his job as a clerk in the Newark Veterans Administration office in October, 1948, solely because of his political beliefs.

Leftist Party Member

The Purple Heart veteran told newsmen that he had never denied his membership in the Socialist Workers Party which he joined in 1936 at the age of 23, but, he continued, he had been denied the right to a hearing on why his party had been included on the Justice Department's "subversive" list.

Declaring that his party is anti-Stalin, the victimized veteran said, "we are not only on Tom Clark's black list, we are also on Joe Stalin's black list.

Party Non-Violent

"The Socialist Workers Party does not advocate violence," he continued, adding, "I never practiced violence in my life except when in the Army—and then at the request of the United States Government."

Speaking at a press conference held at Hotel Washington, Joseph Rauh Jr., one of Kutcher's attorneys, said this case is "an almost perfect example of what's wrong with the loyality program."

Two Men Convicted, Fined for Numbers

One man was fined $100 and another $10, Tuesday, in lottery cases before Criminal Court Judge Michael Manley.

The heavier fine went to Norman Bannister of the 1600 block Vincent St., identified as the "writer" in an operation at a Laurens St. pool room.

William Queen, of the 1100 block N. Calhoun St., described as a "player," was given the lesser fine. Both men were arrested Feb. 9 by Sgt. Wade Poole.

DR. JUANITA K. STOUT

NEW PHILADELPHIANS:

Dr. Stout Sees Law as Path to Equality

PHILADELPHIA

Dr. Juanita K. Stout, administrative secretary to Judge William H. Hastie, thinks law is an excellent field for women.

"I have found," she related, "that most women lawyers are good lawyers. Law is such a grind," she smiled, "and I think that most women who enter the field, do so because they are interested in it."

Dr. Stout, who incidentally prefers to be called Mrs. Stout, has been married seven years. Her husband, Charles O. Stout, is dean of men at Texas State University, Houston, Texas.

A native of Wewoka, Okla., Mrs. Stout did her undergraduate work at Iowa University and received her degree of doctor of jurisprudence at the University of Indiana.

Path to Equality

"I find law extremely interesting; I love it," she admitted. "Every case is an adventure in itself. And I think it is one of the fields through which the colored group will eventually achieve the equality it is seeking."

Although she has been here only a short while, since Dec. 30, last, to be exact, Mrs. Stout has already fallen in love with Philadelphia. "For five years," she said, "I lived in Washington and always passed through Philadelphia without stopping. And now that I am here, I plan to stay here."

While in D.C., Mrs. Stout worked for the government for a while and then went on to work for Houston, Houston & Hastie. "Yes," she related, "I worked for Judge Hastie before I went to law school."

Music First Love

she declared, "I plan to take it up again. Not for the concert stage, however, but for my own enjoyment and perhaps for community social work."

Before coming to Philadelphia, Mrs. Stout taught business law at Texas State University, Houston. Though she is extremely fond of law, Mrs. Stout admits that her first love was music. She did graduate work in that field at the University of Minnesota and Colorado University. "Someday,"

"There are two things which I plan to dedicate my life to," Mrs. Stout declared, "and they are the rights of women and the colored man's equality. Nothing makes me more angry than for someone to tell me I can't do thus and so because I am a woman."

Also Loves to Cook

Very feminine and very charming, Mrs. Stout admits that though she loves to cook, housework in general is not to her liking.

Mrs. Stout is an Episcopalian but has not yet affiliated herself with any particular church in Philadelphia. She is also a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. At the present time she is living with friends in Tioga.

New FEPC, Rent Laws Sought in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union, last week requested that a special session of the State Legislature be called as soon as possible to act on unemployment, and strengthen fair employment and rent control legislation.

The union, in a letter to the legislators, said the FEPC should receive additional funds because the number of colored unemployed people is out of proportion to the total population. The Rent Control Act expires June 30.

Nine to Sue Del. U. Board

Seek Judicial Ruling on Admission Refusal

DOVER, Del.

Court action against the board of trustees of the University of Delaware for its refusal to accept nine colored applicants is expected to be instituted this week for a judicial ruling.

The nine students, now enrolled at Delaware State College, applied at the university because their school is no longer accredited.

The board, however, refused them admission on the basis of a two-year-old policy which bars colored students from all except the engineering and the graduate schools.

Redding Heads Fight

Denouncing the ruling and the act of discriminating in the expenditure of public funds as "immoral," Louis Redding of Wilmington, Del., attorney for the group, began preparing for the court fight.

Delaware State College, located near Dover, lost its accredited rating about six months ago, shortly after the appointment of Dr. Edward T. Thomasson as president.

The school, set apart for colored students, has been under investigation since students there went on strike a year ago after maladministration charges had been made against its officials.

Lost 4-Year Rating

When the Middle States Conference of Colleges and Secondary Schools removed the accredited rating, it had been held by Delaware State College for four years.

The nine students involved in the present action are:

Irving J. Williams, Lillian F. Coleman, Thomas M. Paul and Jane M. Robinson, all of Wilmington; James C. Scott, Felton; Helen M. Handy, Seaford; Roy E. Holland, Lewes; Homer W. Minus, Felton; and Brooks M. Parker, Laurel, Del.

NORFOLK, Va.—(ANP)—James C. Cartwright, 29, Norfolk driver for the Greyhound Bus Company, was ordered held last week for grand jury action following his arraignment in Norfolk County Trial Justice court on a charge of manslaughter.

She was waiting for a local bus at the time. The charge of reckless driving against Seth Whitaker, 30, Suffolk, driver of the automobile was dismissed. All persons involved in the accident were white except

Town and Campus

BLANCHE HILLEN JONES

Registration is over and the gals and gobs are down to "brass tacks" once again.

The affairs, formals mainly, will be taking the limelights for many weeks to come.

The Social Committee was the first to hand out bids to the entire student body for a Valentine Dance, sponsored by the student council.

The next "gown and tails" affair was the annual Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority's sweetheart Prom on Friday evening, at the Christian center.

Who will be queen of the Zeta Sigma Ball? Iris Boswell and Virginia Briscoe are in the running.

Omegas Plan party

The Omega Psi Phi undergraduate chapter together with the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority undergraduate chapter of M.S.C. seem to be planning their "evening of joy" for sometime in March.

The Alpha Phi Alpha planning for May while Kappa Alpha Psi hints that it might be April. So there you go gals, get those "straplesses" lined up and don't forget that escort and remember, "Gents," if you want a simply "breath taking" corsage see Munby and Reid at Baldwin Hall.

The English Department entertained with great pleasure the young author of "Last of the Conquerors," William Gardner Smith, undergraduate student of Temple University.

He also appeared at the YWCA together with Miss Shirley Graham Tuesday night.

Seems if the ventilation system in our Soper Hall didn't quite suit one of our "higher-ups" last Wednesday. The statement which accompanied his dissatisfaction raised many student's eyes in wonderment. Was that necessary?

The new canteen has received the same generous approval as our Memorial Refectory did. "Open House" to view the neat structure was held on Sunday. Let's keep it looking that way.

Harry Evans appears so happy these days, and so does the "petit miss" in the green coat.

Mr. "X," won't you please make up your mind. That young miss in town, the one on the campus, and the other in the suburbs won't wait forever.

Will history repeat itself? Will those two sisters leave that one interest alone? Seems as if I got William Ad... matched wrong a few weeks back!!

See you there, B.H.J.
