TOT DIES IN TRAILER

CHICAGO (ANP)—Judy Gusiniere, 2, was burned to death when fire destroyed her parents' trailer home.

in the living room. A spark from an earlier fire is blamed for it.

Tenants Were Away

Capt. Edward Lynch of the Dundalk fire department, said the "two fires were obviously set by someone determined" to burn the house down.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner, tenants, were away from home at the time. Mr. Skinner, a merchant seaman, is said to be in Panama.

His wife, located in Baltimore, said she had not been to the house since last Friday, as she had been living with her mother during Mr. Skinner's absence.

18's Lottery Case Trial Rescheduled

delayed in December, when attorneys representing the 18 defendants raised the issue of flaws in the search and seizure law by which Capt. Alexander Emerson raided a North Ave. home and made the arrests.

This issue also was pending in a county case, since carried to the Court of Appeals.

In December, it was said that the Adams case would be delayed until a settlement of the other case by the Court of Appeals"

Not To Await Decision

This week, it was learned, however, that the Adams case has been set for trial despite the lack of a Court of Appeals decision in the county case.

Meanwhile, William Maynard, deputy State's attorney, originally assigned to the case of the 18, is seriously ill.

Reports are the case now will be prosecuted before Judge Michael Manley. Alan Murrell, assistant State's attorney.

Suspects Listed

Others involved in the raid, which Emerson said uncovered one of the city's largest numbers headquarters, have been identified as:

Morris Fox, Howard Anderson, Mrs. Edmonia Wilson, Rudolph Fortune, Carlos Hutchins, Clyde Martin, Noland—Clark, John Henry Taylor, Joseph Quille;

Gas Lamps on Streets Off Ave. to Burn Brighter Soon

Although temporarily delayed, work will soon begin to increase the lighting power of gas lamps on side streets off the Pennsylvania Ave. business section, the Avenue Business Association was assured this week.

The delay is caused by a strike at the Wells-Rich Corporation's foundry in Philadelphia, it pointed out.

The Mechanical Electrical Bureau, headed by Walter C. Theme, had promised the association to begin work on Thursday, increasing the candle power by 100 per cent in all street lamps leading to Pennsylvania Ave. from Franklin St. up to North Ave.

The plan would cover lamps in blocks from Myrtle Ave. on West to Druid Hill Ave. on the East.

The Philadelphia Foundry makes the burners needed for the increased illumination, which will be temporary until new electric lights can be secured.

The association also learned at its meeting, Tuesday, that plans are underway to get the Avenue resurfaced. The Department of Highways has sent a request to the Baltimore Transit Company to find out what type of public conveyances will be used on Pennsylvania Ave., so they can get to work.

Other Needs Aired

The business association is also circulating petitions asking that the Mayor and City Council give adequate policing, and improved transportation facilities, besides better electric street lighting and resurfacing of the entire street.

Some 5,000 petitions ase being put in stores up and down the Avenue.

Ave. Easter Paraders to Win Prizes

Prizes for persons 2 to 90 years of age will be given by the Pennsylvania Avenue Business Association between 1 and 5 p.m. during the Easter Promenade on Sunday, April 9.

On Pennsylvania Ave., from Fraznk l St. to North Ave., judges will ride up and down during the four hours and give some 40 gifts certificates in:

The best dressed toddler (2 to 5); best dressed boy or girl (6 to 9); pre-teen (9 to 12); teen-age boy or girl, the best dressed couple and the wearer of the most outstanding hat.

Grandstands to Be Erected

The certificates will be exchanged for prizes ranging from diamond rings, shoes, hats, hose and pen and pencil sets.

A grandstand will be set up at Pressiman St. and Fremont Ave., where at 5 p.m. winners will receive their awards. Some 110 merchants are participating in the affair.

Father of 5 Lands Job, Lost Relief

Things began looking up, this week, for James Hardy, a laborer and father of five children, whose welfare check was discontinued last month because he lacked carfare to get a dollar-an-hour job.

Mr. Hardy, smiling broadly, told the AFRO Tuesday, that he had obtained a job at $1.03 an hour and would begin work on Wednesday.

Generous Baltimoreans trekked to the Hardy home at 709 W. Lexington St., with gifts and words of encouragement, shortly after an AFRO story told of the family's plight last Friday.

Couldn't Get to Curtis Bay

The family's troubles began on Feb. 14, when Mr. Hardy was offered a job in Curtis Bay which paid $1.12 an hour. He didn't have the carfare and his application was marked "refused job offered."

Mr. Hardy later obtained employment through the State Employment Service. The Council for Jobs and Relief reported, too, that their attorney arranged a temporary stay of eviction for the family.

Prisoner Charged by Banks Freed

After serving three months of an 18 months term, imposed for assaulting a special policeman, later accused of "dictatorship," Arthur Lee Willis, 29, was freed, this week, by Judge Robert Prance.

Willis, of the 400 block Asquith St., was sentenced in December on the testimony of Special Officer George Banks, who charged that Willis and another man robbed a civilian and assaulted him on Nov. 28.

When the trial of the second defendant, John Taylor, came before Judge Joseph Sherbow, last week, it was disclosed that Banks did not make an official report of the alleged crimes, and did not arrest either man until a week later, although the identity of both was known and they frequented the neighborhood.

Probe of "Specials" Urged

Judge Sherbow acquitted Taylor and called for an investigation of special police appointments. The constitutional safeguards special privileges of Banks, who worked at a tavern, subsequently was taken away by the police commissioner.

Judge Sherbow commented that Banks abused his authority to the "point of dictatorship."

As a result of this case, Willis was released from the sentence he had received.

Alan Murrell, prosecutor, who investigated the cases with David Hurwitz, attorney for Willis, declared to Judge France that Willis had been denied many of his constitutional safeguards.
