DADDY R. F. FIELDS INSTALLS TELEPHONE IN CAR

In an effort to better serve the thousands of persons who have turned to him for a solution of today's perplexing problems, Bishop Daddy R. F. Fields has installed a telephone in his Cadillac car.

The car telephone, put in use Wednesday, now makes it possible for members of his congregation to reach the Bishop even when he is on the highways, serving the community.

Daddy Fields is one of two ministers in Baltimore, and one of the few in America to have a telephone in his private car. This is all a part of Daddy's policy of making his spiritual advice available to more and more people.

The car, a bright, shiny Fleetwood Cadillac, was presented to Daddy Fields last week by Tim Bright, Baltimore car dealer and Republican candidate for Governor.

Hundreds Turned Away

More than 3,500 persons packed Good Hope Hall, 655 W. Lexington St., last Sunday night, to hear Bishop Daddy R. F. Fields, pastor, and leading Republican figures speak on issues of the day.

Tim Bright, Republican candidate for Governor, and Marse Callaway, prominent Fourth District Republican leader, were among the speakers. The meeting has been described as one of the biggest and most successful religious and political rallys ever held in Baltimore.

Hundreds of late arrivals, unable to gain entrance to the giant hall were turned back at the door. Additional hundreds listened to the program on a public address system set up in the church basement.

Music was furnished by the Fields Gospel Singers, radio artists of Station WSID, and the Tim Bright Singers. Mrs. Elsie Ray was mistress of ceremonies.

Baltimoreans are still talking about the great crowd that braved a cold, driving rain to hear Bishop Fields, considered among the nation's outstanding faith men.

Lane Asks Further Study of Coppin College Future

Governor Lane now wants the Commission on Higher Education's recommendations for the disposition of Coppin Teachers College to be additionally studied by the State Department of Education.

This was made known in a letter which he sent this week in reply to questions raised by the Urban League's Education Committee and the Coppin Teachers' Organization.

"The State Board of Education should be given sufficient time to investigate this problem in all its ramifications," the Governor's letter said in part.

The State Executive called the attention to the "far reaching implications" of the recommendation of the State Commission that Baltimore City would be the most desirable place for the training of colored teachers.

Other Recommendations Cited

Two other recommendations of the State Commission were:

That the training of teachers for the public schools is a function of the State and not of any of its political sub-divisions; and

That the State Board of Education has the responsibility of continuing the program for the students presently enrolled at Coppin.

At the time the commission's recommendations were made public, Governor Lane also announced that the 200 students now enrolled at Coppin Teachers College would be permitted to complete their training in the city.

Transfer to Bowie Rapped

The City School Board, he said; will provide the needed space. Last year, the city administration voted to discontinue the operation of Coppin and turn this responsibility over to State authorities in September.

Opposition to any move to transfer Coppin's program to the recently accredited Maryland State Teachers College at Bowie has been voiced by the Coppin Parents Organization headed by Alexander Malone.

To date it has obtained over 1600 signatures on a petition urging that "the functions of Coppin be transferred to Towson or some other accredited college which is no farther removed from Baltimore City than Towson."

Governor Queried

The Parents' Organization was joined by the Educational Committee of the Urban League

In a joint letter to the Governor they asked five specific questions:

1. Does the announcement apply only to the present senior class?

2. What is to be done for and with the students now in the first, second and third year classes?

3. What provisions will be made for those 1950 high school graduates who would enter Coppin ordinarily next September?

4. How soon will such permanent provisions be made available?

5. What permanent provisions do you propose in Baltimore City for training colored elementary teachers?

The groups stated that they had been unable to substantiate the statement that the City School Board had taken action for the present Coppin program to be continued.

Obligation State's

"The obligation resting upon the State in this matter is clearly spelled out in both the equal protection clause of the 14th Admendment and the "separate but substantially equal doctrine," the groups contended in their missive to the Governor.

At its last meeting on Sunday, the Coppin Parents' Organization approved a motion to write letters asking for the support of civic, religious, fraternal and labor groups.

Forced Out-of-State Education Called Illegal

Attorneys Fighting U. of Md. Nurse School Ban Raise Issue, Outline Duty of Area

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland cannot legally force some citizens to go out of State for an education that is furnished other citizens within State borders.

This, in brief, was the argument presented in the Court of Appeals, Tuesday, by attorneys for Miss Esther McCready, Dunbar High School graduate who was denied admission to the University of Maryland Nursing School, solely because of her race.

The university referred Miss McCready to Meharry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., with the recommendation that she study there under the Southern Regional Education Compact.

Marshall Gives Surmation

The NAACP-sponsored case was opened by Donald G. Murray, Baltimore attorney, and the main arguments and summation given by Thurgood Marshall, special NAACP counsel.

The appeal was from a decision of Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith who ruled, last October, that although prior court decisions entitled colored students to attend the university law school, this did not apply to its nursing facilities. He ruled that law and nursing were "different."

Mr. Marshall began by saying he did not believe the Appellate Court had to touch on the segregation issue as the only issue was "whether one group can be educated in the State and another group forced to go outside State boundaries."

He continued:

"White student nurses are given the protection of the State of Maryland, while colored ones must take their chances with the laws of Tennessee. This young lady is being virtually banished from the protection of her home state, and banishment and exile are the worst forms of punishment.

Same as Gaines Case

"There is not the least bit of difference between this case and the Gaines Case. I submit that sovereignty can only be protected by maintaining schools within State borders."

Presenting the university's arguments, Kenneth C. Proctor, assistant Attorney General, said the compact is not aimed at segregation, but that it "is available as a means of effecting segregation when such means are not available within confines of the several states."

Mr. Proctor contended that the compact plan was the "most economical way" of providing education for all citizens. This statement was challenged by Mr. Marshall who in closing said the compact "is not the cheap way, but the more expensive."

Explains Compact

Mr. Proctor explained in detail the compact arrangement and said in his opinion "a little piece of Maryland" would be in Tennessee when Miss McCready studied there.

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury asked him if Maryland laws could be enforced in Nashville. Mr. Proctor conceded that they could not.

Judge Marbury pressed the question further:

"Isn't she entitled to be protected by laws of Maryland?

The assistant attorney general replied:

"Unquestionably."

Bred of Financial Need

Mr. Marshall pointed out that Meharry is the only school mentioned in the compact. And that the compact was "born and bred" around the Tennessee school audit's need of financial aid.

He concluded by asking the court to:

"Make it clear to the Attorney General and the University of Maryland that where education is furnished to one group within the State, it must be furnished to all other groups within the State and at the same time."

Attending the Appellate Court hearing were:

Mrs. Juanita Mitchell of the Baltimore NAACP, Miss McCready, appellant; Miss Helen Heath, and Robert Watts, Baltimore attorney, and graduate of the University of Maryland Law School.

2 Summer School Principals Named

The School Board, this week, named two summer school principals and approved the election of two teachers.

Lewis H. Murray, teacher-in-charge of Junior High School No. 120-A, will be principal of Douglass High School for the summer session.

Serving in the same capacity at Coppin Demonstration School No. 32 will be Mrs. Delores C. Hunt, vice-principal of Taylor School No. 132.

Teachers Probation Over

Having completed the required probationary service Miss Jean V. Julius was elected an elementary teacher at Wheatley School No. 110, and Leroy Flanagan a vocational teacher at Briscoe General Vocational School No. 451. Both changes are without additional salary.

Morgan State College was granted use of the Polytechic Institute auditorium on May 5 for a Fine Arts Festival by its choir and members of its music department staff.

Dunbar High School was given permission to accept 1000 books from the East Baltimore Community Co-ordinating Committee, and School No. 156, to receive a moving picture projector from its Parent-Teachers Association.

Teachers Get New Privilege

School Board Grants Sabbatical Leaves

Educational employees who have served satisfactorily for a period of seven or more consecutive years in the Baltimore Public Schools may be granted sabbatical leaves of absence for study, travel or other purposes.

This move was approved on Thursday at the regular meeting of the School Board.

The first sabbatical leave may be granted after the seventh consecutive year of active service. Additional leaves after such successive periods of seven years service will also be granted.

"Other Purposes' Up to Board

The "other purposes" for which the leave will be given must be recommended by the Board of Superintendents and approved by the School Board.

Persons on sabbatical leave may not enter into gainful employment except upon the recommendation of the superintendent and approval of the School Board.

The number of employees to whom sabbatical leave is granted shall be determined at any time by the number of qualified substitutes who are available for replacement purposes.

Seniority to Be Considered

From among all of those employees eligible for leave by virtue of their service, individuals who have served longest in the schools without receiving any sabbatical leave will be given first consideration.

The sum total of individuals on leave in any one year is not to exceed 3% of all educational employees and shall be distributed throughout the system.

During the period of sabbatical leave, each employee shall receive his regular salary, less the minimum salary for a substitute in the four-year training category.

In the cases of persons receiving salary differentials, the deduction of such additional sums may be required to provide the necessary replacements in the school system.

To Be "In Service"

Each employee shall be considered as in the regular service of the Board of School Commissioners and will be treated, with respect to his pension privileges and contributions, exactly as if he were on active duty.

All the privileges and opportunities which an employee would receive if on active duty will be granted during sabbatical leave. He will be considered for promotion on the same basis as if he were working.

Upon his return from leave, he shall have the right to return to the same position he left. An employee shall not be transferred from his position unless this would have happened in the normal course of operation.

Increment Continues

Time spent on such leave shall be accredited toward salary increments in the same manner as time spent on active duty.

Sabbatical leave shall be granted for a period of one or two full semesters, and applications for it must be turned in by June 1 for leaves to begin on Sept. 1 and by Nov. 1 for leaves to begin on Feb. 1.

As a condition of the granting of the leave, the employee must agree to return to the service of the Baltimore public schools for at least one year following his leave.

Report on Activities Asked

As an option to this service requirement, any individual may, if he so elects, refund the salary which he received during the period of leave.

Upon his return from the leave, the employee will be required to make such a report of his activities as may be requested by the superintendent of schools.
