Composer and Director of Play

Waters E. Turpin (left), composer, and Arthur C. Lamb, who will direct the premiere of "Let the Day Perish" at Morgan College, beginning March 21 for four days.

Case History Basis for Regent Picture

Dr. Frederic Loomis, who delivered his 6,000th baby more than a decade ago, recently supervised the birth of his first motion picture, Paramount's "Paid in Full," now playing at the Regent Theatre.

Starring Robert Cummings, Lizabeth Scott and Diana Lynn, the film is based on an actual case history in Dr. Loomis' files. Naturally, names, dates and locale have been changed.

But the dramatic tale of a woman who accidentally kills her sister's baby and replaces the dead child with one of her own remains intact.

The second feature, "When Willie Comes Marching Home," has an all-star cast.

PHOEBUS TO ANNOUNCE WHETHER HE'LL RUN

Sen. Harry T. Phoebus, Republican, Somerset County, Eastern Shore, will issue a statement on March 27, as to whether or not he will run for Governor. The Senator is a member of the Governor's Commission on Problems Affecting the colored Population.

Morgan Sets Prem Dates for "Let the Day Perish"

"Let the Day Perish," an original play by Waters E. Turpin, English instructor at Morgan State College, will have its premiere on the campus, March 21 through March 24, directed by Arthur C. Lamb.

The play reveals the plight of the urbanized colored American caught in the throes of the great depression.

To Ma Branson, migrated widow of a southern farmer ,played by Covelle Taylor and Dolores Parker, alternately, the depression brings vicissitudes that cause her old religious faith to waver and the vision of the "Promised Land" for her and her children to become a nightmare.

The play is an attempt on the part of its writer to present, in distilled form, the impact of economic and social injustices upon a minority group and the individual and mass paranoia those injustices breed.

The cast of characters:

MA BRANSON ..... Covelle Tyler
and Dolores Parker
THALIA BRANSON ..... Grendolyn Hill and Naomi Wade
BILLIE BRANSON ..... James E. Campbell
LOUISE ..... Jerolyn Johnson and Geraldine Greene
AUNT MAE ..... Mary Holladay and Helen Pramm
T. P. ..... Lee Robinson
CORA LITTLE ..... Dorothy Sheppard
AMIE LITTLE ..... Mattie White
BROWNIE ..... John M. Day and William Chichester
INVESTIGATOR ..... Daniel Lyle
POLICEMAN ..... George D. Rooks and Harry Monroe
AGITATOR ..... E. George West and Russell Lyles

Popular Stars in Harlem Film

Popular Fred MacMurray combines suspense with comedy in his co-starring role with Clair Trevor in Universal-International's "Borderline" now showing at the Harlem.

The story of the top figures in uptown political circles admitted to this writer this week that it is plainly evidenced that the tide is turning against the Lane and D'Alesandro administrations, and that George P. Mahoney, newly announced gubernatorial candidate, has made great inroads within the past few weeks.

THE QUESTION naturally arose as to: "Where does Jack Pollack stand at this time?"

THE ANSWER, accepted as logical, was: "He hasn't opened his mouth as yet, and won't until Mr. Lane declares his intentions." FROM THIS CORNER, it seems that Mahoney is going to furnish the strongest opposition to the present regime in the forthcoming election. And, you can bet your life, if the upper echelon continues, there is going to be some deserting, since losing the re-election of Lane will weaken his supporting group.

OF COURSE, there is no overlooking the possibilities of strong GOP opposition when the Republican candidate is announced, since they, too, have an eye on the gubernatorial mantle and will be striving for victory and a regeneration of party strength for all concerned.

MORE THAN EVER in the history of State and local politics, this year's election is going to determine the fate of colored citizens. It will determine whether they will stand up for political freedom, or will continue to bask in the ignominy of political chicanery.

THERE ARE MANY incidents that could be called to mind in which present and past administrations (generically speaking) have not acted for the unbiased interest of all of Maryland's citizens—and too many are still satisfied with this laissez faire policy.

THIS FALSE SATISFACTION does not bespeak leadership. Rather, it keeps the majority of the minority on the block. This writer would like to see some strong men—of their own convictions—meet the challenge.

DURING A RECENT sort of insurgent meeting, those in attendance decided that they couldn't buck the opposition as proposed. So, in direct words that came out of the meeting: "If we can't beat 'em, let's jive 'em," which was just plain, dumb reasoning.

THAT IMMEDIATELY revealed that the so-called political leaders were just followers and had no will of their own. There's no point in trying to feel half satisfied when not satisfied at all.

THE AVENUE SPEAKS—A cross section of persons interviewed by this writer, said:

GEORGE WILLIAMS, law-read: "I'm strictly a Mahoney man. If he conducts the State as he did the racing business, his will be a wonderful administration."

CHESTER E. LEE, businessman: "Mahoney would make the best Governor. I think Lane has bungled the job."

JOSEPH NEAL, staff representative, CIO: "Mahoney certainly raises the question in my mind as to who would make the better Governor. Mahoney or Lane. I don't know that Lane has done anything. But he did fly the Confederate flag on his ship going out of the Maryland Harbor to attend the Conference of Southern Governors."

BERNARD FREEDMAN, businessman: "Mahoney would give a squarer deal. I believe. More so, than Lane has done."

JAMES B. BARNES: "Mahoney is my man 100 per cent."

STANLEY COSTON: "He'll get my vote."

THOMAS JONES, florist: "From his past performances, I think Mahoney is the right man."

DOC CAMPHER: "I think he (Mahoney) is an impartial man and that he will make the best Governor."

MARTY FREEDMAN: "He (Mahoney) would mean more to the businessman than the present Governor."

THISANDATHATTA — Monsie Milbourne 522 Sanford Place, lit up end after a recent illness. The Mo'Me Club will open its cabaret feature Sunday at the Mountain Elks Home. The Strike Struck a Miss which was dismissed with a Kiss. Bill Chase's Schuyler party in the York's Blue Room a crowded affair where most of the Joe Louis fights were shown.

SHIRLEY DIGGS now co-prop of the Speedway parlor . . . Ganby's latest show too hot to stick. Some of the stars walked out . . . Big John Strothers stopping traffic in the 1300 block while taking a taxi . . . Mahoney's handwriting in sight life circles . . . Girl friend of one of the two boys found dead recently hasn't left her bed since getting the news.

BALTIMORE'S BLIGHTED area, revealed by the Urban League, is a focal point for both adult and child—delinquency—a breeding place of crime and shame . . . Marijuana juice smacked in win giving out a brand new kick. The mixture is called Snickela. It's also good for termites, deadly . . . An Avenue delicatessen center of the colored district, still practices J.C. Only takeout packages available . . .

ALL RACES SHOULD see the new film, "Prejudice" . . . The Dallas Four, vocal group, includes Manuel Pack, Oscar Wainwright, George Kess and Al Jefferson . . . The National broadcasting Co. barred Paul Robeson from the air, yet permits stirring remarks about his race to be broadcast to the world.

THE NEXT POPULAR trend in night life will be the reduction in the prices of beverages. Too many people are staying home with their own bottles . . . Milton Davage cooking up a talent show . . . The $64 question is: why did Cotton Byrd miss the entire Mardi Gras at the Sphinx? . . . Milton (Skies) Rowlette, the barman, has a record of staying put on one job . . . An uptown panhandler mumbling about three pennies being dropped in his cup . . . High pressure salesmen prominent in Northwest Baltimore.

MONKEY BUSINESS—Babette, the baboon, heads a regular featured program over a local TV station, but sponsors go lacking for a sustaining talent show of humans . . . Local TViewers peeved over commercial interruptions during Wednesday fight nights. A clothing concern and a brewery break in the middle of rounds. One tavern has cancelled the brew.

THE OLD TIPSTER SAYS: We called "Dan Johnson" as the "Mystery Voice" on "Sing it Again," and "Fond of Chewing Gum" to "Stop the Music" . . . Saturday night at 10, try "Jack Sharkey" to hit the "Sing It Again" jackpot. On Sunday night at 8, we like "Ming Toy," a Chinese tune, to "Stop the Music."

FLASH AND A DASH—Julius Berkoff and Cliff Styles are co-managers of the new Town Store at Pennsylvania Ave. and Mosher St. which reopens tomorrow, Saturday. It's an off-shoot from the Village Store Day Village, an interracial set-up and a credit to the Avenue, if you grasp the meaning.

CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK —A strong uptown political factor says tell Mr. Reid of the Fifth District, who is opposing the Carver Vocational School, Bentalou and Pressman Sts., that there are enough colored voters, now in that district, to keep him from going back in the City Council, and that's plain talk in any language.

THAT'S ALL FOR NOW, except —Dollars from the benefit fashion show and extravaganza at the Coliseum, March 31, will go to the YMCA boys camp. One of these boys might be your own.

Coast Guard Seeks Radio Technicians

March 21 has been set as the deadline date for applicants who wish to take examinations for the positions of electronics mechanic or radio mechanic at the U. S. Coast Guard yard, Curtis Bay.

Applications should be made to the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Coast Guard yard, Curtis Bay, 26.

The minimum wage for electronics mechanics is $11.26 a day, with a maximum of $14.96 a day. Radio mechanics salary starts at $12.32, with the maximum at $13.28 a day.
