ANNAPOLIS VISITORS—Members of the Caribbean club; pose in front of the home of their president, Mrs. C. M. Lawrence, 1033 W. Lanvale st., before starting 6-car motorcade on Tuesday to Annapolis. Club went to state capital as guests of Senator Harry Phoebus who recently issued a blanket invitation to all colored organizations to visit him while legislature is in session.

Club visits Annapolis; guests of Senator Phoebus

Senator Harry Phoebus kept his word.

Members of the Carribean club visited Annapolis, this week as guests of the genial state senator from Somerset county.

When the six-car motorcade containing the club members reached the State Capital, they were met by a delegation headed by T. Norwood Brown, Annapolis alderman.

Both houses of the Legislature were in session. On arrival at the State Senate the club members were introduced to Bernard Melnicove, Democratic senator from Baltimore's 4th district.

Welcomed By Melnicove

Senator Melnicove mounted the speaker's rostrum and welcomed the club members in an impromptu address. The senators present and other visitors in the gallery applauded the club members.

Mr. Brown then escorted the group to the Governor's office. Governor McKeldin was talking to some school children but interrupted his talk to greet the visitors.

The club members were also introduced to Dr. Harry "Curly" Byrd, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, by Senator Phoebus.

The trip was the outgrowth of an invitation extended an audience of more than 1,000 persons by Senator Phoebus at a recent Masonic Rally in Baltimore.

At that time Senator Phoebus asked those present to be his guest while the Legislature was in session.

List Of Visitors

Among those who made the trip, Tuesday, were:

Mrs. and Mrs. John Cole, the Rev. and Mrs. Octavius Graham, Mrs. Naomi Davidson, Mrs. Maxie Gray, Mrs. Addie Hill, Mrs. Lillie Jones, and Mrs. Mary Walker.

Mrs. Rollfus Mallory, Mrs. Mabel Whitfield, Mrs. Daisy B. Jones, Mrs. Bertha Williams, Mrs. L. Garrison, Mrs. Olga Rodney, Mrs. Elise Hunt, and Mrs. Agnes Brown.

Also, Mrs. Elenote McCollum, Mrs. Edna Williams, John Jones, and Mrs. Lillian Lawrence, who is club president.

On Thursday a group of Eastern Shore residents visited the legislature as guests of Senator Phoebus.

Second annual family welfare services planned by Council of Social Agencies

The Baltimore Council of Social Agencies will hold their second annual Family and Welfare Services Week March 14-20.

Clark S. Hobbs is Council president.

The Council is a federation of voluntary and governmental agencies engaged in health, welfare and recreational work in Baltimore.

Fifty-four local organizations, which form the Council's Division of Family and Child Care Agencies, are participating.

Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent of the Department of Education, is chairman.

To Focus Attention

Events planned are to focus public attention on work being done by agencies of all denominations, to strengthen family life and to provide better opportunities for the development of children.

They will include public meetings with nationally known speakers, tours of agencies, institutes, seminars, open houses, and an intensive program of radio and television.

Speakers will be available to address civic clubs, schools, Parent-Teacher Associations and other groups.

Mrs. Roberta Finkbinder, assistant director of the Baltimore City Department of Public Welfare, is program director.

"Every Child Needs a Family" will be the slogan and theme for the observance.

Activities

The week's activities will open with a proclamation by Mayor D'Alesandro. The first event will be a luncheon at 12:30 p.m., March 15, at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. Dr. Fischer will preside.

Guest speaker will be Dr. James L. Hymes Jr., professor of Education, George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

About 1,000 persons will attend including lay and professional leaders of social agencies, and members of the community who are interested in the work of these groups.

Meeting On Adoption

Two major meetings on adoption and juvenile delinquency will highlight the week. Details will be announced later.

Eight conferences on problems affecting families and children are being held this month and next month for staff members of social work agencies, as a preliminary to the principal events of the week.

Speakers and panel discussions will feature these meetings.

Among the organizations taking part in the joint celebration are the Red Feather family and child-care agencies of the Community Chest.

The Department of Public Welfare, the Jewish Family and Children's Bureau, and the Associated Catholic Charities;

Also the Maryland Children's Aid Society, the Juvenile Court, the Department of Education, the Baltimore League for Crippled Children, the State Department of Mental Hygiene, the University of Maryland Mental Hygiene Clicic and Boys' Village.

Included among these are 12 agencies which help the child in their homes or which offer foster family placement, protective services or adoption.

There are also 16 institutions offering placement for the dependent child as well as for the seriously disturbed child, the delinquent and the feebleminded.

Four agencies give probation service, special aid to handicapped children, day care and residence for unmarried mothers and their babies.

Jay McRae to organize Young Dems

Jay Garland McRae Jr., a law student at the University of Maryland, has been appointed chairman of a special committee to organize Young Democratic Clubs in the colored colleges of Maryland.

His appointment was announced this week by Joseph D. Tydings, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

This is a part of a grass-root expansion program of the Young Democratic organization throughout the state aimed at raising the total membership to the 10,000 mark.

Mr. McRae is married and a veteran with 21 month's service in the Pacific with 1st Cavalry Division during World War II.

He is presently in his senior year at the University of Maryland Law School and is a graduate of Boston University.

He was captain of the crew, a member of the Scarlet Key leadership honor society, and also stayed on the dean's list during most of his college career.

Mr. McRae is also a member of the Elks.

Mr. McRae's appointment by Tydings was presented at a meeting of the state executive committee of the Young Democrats held recently at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

Hold suspect in lottery raid

An adding machine was the principal clue used last week by the vice squad in the arrest of a suspect on a lottery charge.

Sgt. Arthur McGee made the disclosure during a hearing at Northwestern police court that resulted in James Dobbins, 35, of the 2800 block W. North ave. being held for the grand jury in $2,500 bail.

The officer testified that the adding machine was seized in a raid last Thursday afternoon on a house in the 1100 block Laurens st., the alleged headquarters of a numbers ring.

No one was in the house at the time of the raid.

Used Serial Number

In addition to the machine, police seized other numbers equipment that indicated the house was the headquarters for at least 29 writers, the officer said.

Using the serial number of the machine, Sergeant McGee said that it was traced to an office equipment store in the 100 block of S. Howard st., where the owner allegedly identified it as the property of Mr. Dobbins.

While the officers were in the store, Mr. Dobbins called the owner and asked him to take the machine out of his name, Sergeant McGee said.

The store owner asked Mr. Dobbins to appear at the store the next afternoon, and when Mr. Dobbins showed up he was placed under arrest, it was testified.

Sergeant McGee also said that when Mr. Dobbins handed a key case to one of the vice squad officers, a numbers slip fell to the ground.

Mr. Dobbins pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was represented by Milton A. Allen.

Health Society head to speak

Miss Elaine Nichelson, executive director of the Mental Health Society will speak Tuesday, March 2, at the Pennsylvania ave., Branch of the Enoch Pratt Library.

Speaking at 7:30 p.m., she will open a series of health talks sponsored by the Health Committee of the Alpha Kappa sorority.

Mrs. Gladys Jones is chairman and Mrs. Thelma Winder co-chairman of the committee. The series will continue through the month of March.

On March 9, Dr. Patricia Husson, will speak on school health.

Dr. Nels H. Nelson will discuss venereal diseases on March 16.

Dr. Howard W. Jones Jr., of the American Society of Cancer is the March 23 speaker, and on March 30, Mrs. Mindelle Moore will discuss tuberculosis.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Speaking at the university convocation of the Atlanta university center, Dr. Judson C. Ward, dean of the college of arts and sciences of Emory university, stressed the role of the university in imparting attitudes which would be important to the students in later life.

JUST WHY...

a Diamond from STIEFF means so much more!

WE NEVER sell our $100 diamond rings for $75, nor do we price them at $150 to have a "discount sale."

OUR $100 RINGS are worth $100. When you wish to buy a diamond ring for $100, or $200, or $500—or a thousand dollars, we suggest that you shop several stores.

YOU'LL SEE that at STIEFF'S you'll get a flawless diamond for the same money—or less—than you can purchase a less satisfactory stone elsewhere.

OUR $100 DIAMOND RINGS and all our other rings are always well worth the fair price marked clearly on the tag.

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

"WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE A REPORTER?"

asks WILLIAM G. NUNN, Sr.

Managing Editor of the Pittsburgh Courier

The first thing a cub reporter learns is that every news story has to answer five questions—and fast: Who? What? Where? When? Why?

It isn't always easy. Once we dug three months for a single "who." We finally got it and scooped the country on identifying the famous "unnamed Negro messman" who took over a machine gun at Pearl Harbor.

The leg work and digging that go with that kind of job would be drudgery to some people. Not to me. It's all a matter of taste, I know. But I wouldn't trade my life, even if I could, for the life of one of those movie-style reporters.

Fortunately for newspapers, those fellows are strictly make-believe. You know the ones—they sit around, feet on desk, hat pushed back, smoking cigarette after cigarette. The only real-life part is the smoking. Many newspapermen do smoke a lot. And a lot, like me, smoke Luckies.

Why Luckies? I can't talk for everybody, but I can tell you why this newspaperman smokes them. They taste better to me than any other cigarette.

Reporting on Luckies

We're glad William Nunn brought up that matter of taste. Most people, when they stop to think about it, agree that taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain Luckies' better taste. First, they're made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Second, Luckies are made better to taste better . . . always firm and fully packed to smoke freely and evenly.

So, for the smoking enjoyment you get from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky.

Remember, Luckies are made by The American Tobacco Company, America's leading manufacturer of cigarettes.

WASHDAY—While her 2-year-old son Michael Jr. plays nearby with his pet dog "Buttons," Mrs. Ruby Hatfield of 344 Melvin avenue, Catonsville, takes advantage of the sunny weather to hang out the family wash. Mrs. Hatfield spent more than two years in the Wacs during World War II. She and her family live in the Melvin Park apartments.

MAN AT WORK—The admiring youngsters in the picture gather around as postman Alexander Jackson, 3421 Paton avenue, picks up another load of mail from a box at Poplar Grove and Lafayette avenue. Mr. Jackson doesn't mind their "zillion questions", however, and says the general friendliness he finds on his route makes his job enjoyable. He has been working in the post office for seven years.

SPRING IN THE AIR—A warm day in February was put to good use by Mrs. Marie Brown, 2918 Baker st., who is shown prunning a hydrangea shrub in her front yard. Mrs. Brown's hobby is raising flowers and she has a carefully cared for garden in her back yard. Hubby Robert works at Sparrows Point and also operates a tailor shop at 610 N. Fremont ave.

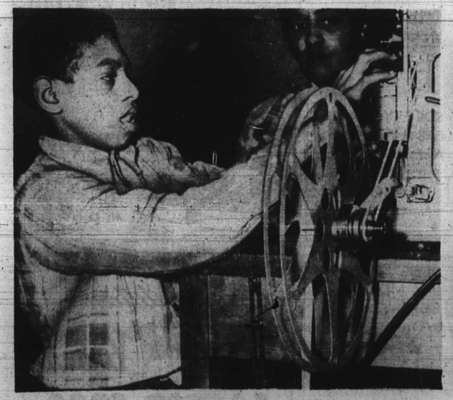
MORGAN'S TOP SCHOLARS — Here are four of the seven Morgan State college students who made all "A" averages for the first semester. Left to right: Magnus Macauley, British Guiana; Doris Keeley and Clara Adams, both of Baltimore; and Dolores Hill, Bronx, N. Y.

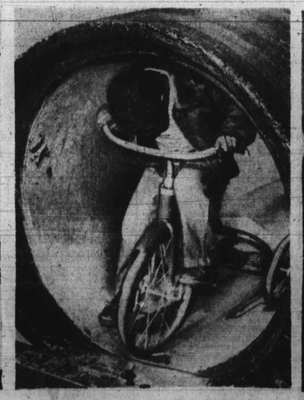
INSURANCE FOR SALE—About 112 different types of insurances are handled by Earl Koger of the Koger Insurance Agency, 2126 W. North ave. Mr. Koger is shown above as he checks a record with Miss Ida Mae Johnson of 1708 N. Calhoun st., his secretary. Standing is Miss Mary Horsey of 2849 Mulberry st., clerk-typist.

CHANGING COURSES—An 18-year-old Carver High school pupil, Thomas Heard, 2453 Brentwood ave., gets permission from Saul Perdue, principal, to change his machine shop course. Young Heard first had to produce a note from his parents granting authorization for the change.

CAMERA SPECIALIST—After almost 17 years in the camera department of a local loan office, John Payne, 37, 2122 Smallwood st., recently opened his own camera, radio, record and television shop at 2137 W. North ave. Shown with him is his clerk, Mrs. Oliva Boone of 2024 W. North ave.



NEVER TOO YOUNG—Only 12 years old, Henry Stevenson, 720 Portland st., fifth grade pupil at School No. 162, has already qualified as an expert projectionist. Henry is shown as he adjusts film in a 16 mm projector. The picture was shown to the pupils in connection with a bond drive. Henry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stevenson. In the rear is Mrs. Gwyndola Logan, teacher.



LOW UNDERPASS — William Michael, 4, 806 Lexington st., has found a new use for athletic equipment on the Poe Homes playground. He started the fad of riding his tricycle through this concrete pipe and now other children have picked up the stunt.

TEACHERS OF TOMORROW—Baltimore will have three more elementary school teachers when these three young ladies complete their 4-year courses at Coppin State Teacher's college. Left to right: Georgia Smalls, 1826 Monroe st.; Frances Williams, 1012 N. Payson and Velma Robinson, 2805 Harlem ave. All are freshmen. Their favorite subjects: English, mathematics and music.
