C. Markland KELLY
36 Years' Association with Buick
CELEBRATES WITH YOU MR. & MRS. MARYLAND ANOTHER ANNIVERSARY

It was just 20 years ago, March 1st, 1935 (we were the only Buick Dealer left in Baltimore) that we moved from 105-113 W. Mt. Royal Ave. to our present location, Charles St. at Mt. Royal Ave. Back in those dark days, things were pretty rough. We had delivered only 361 new Buicks and 518 used cars, 879 in all. We wondered when we would have enough business to fill our new home. WE DID AND SOON.
OUR POLICY OF NEVER CARRYING A USED CAR IN STOCK OVER 30 DAYS WAS ESTABLISHED. WE HAVE NEVER WAVERED from that policy. WE HAVE NEVER ASKED YOU TO BUY ANY OF OUR MISTAKES. That's why we INSIST on a FRESH USED CAR STOCK every 30 DAYS.
Our operation (120,000 sq. ft., all heated) allows us to carry on our entire SALES and SERVICE business under one roof.
WE OWN OUR BUILDING (no mortgage) WHICH ALLOWS US A LOW OVERHEAD THAT WE PASS ON TO YOU. So through March we are offering a

20 YEAR APPRECIATION SALE
of all our used cars at the LOWEST PRICES IN TOWN. Compare our prices and see. We do not tolerate "PACKS or HIDDEN CHARGES."

Montgomery Controversy
Citizens rap 12-year integration plan

WASHINGTON
The majority of white and colored Montgomery County citizens are opposed to the 12-year plan of integration recommended to the county school board, an AFRO survey reveals.
"It would have been possible to get a unanimous recommendation calling for integration in much less time, but no one wanted to compromise too much. "There was complete agreement on everything but the time," a prominent member of the 19-man Citizens Advisory Committee stated.
THE SPOT sampling of the county area was made Tuesday, after the final recommendation of the committee was made public, along with four minority reports.
An AFRO reporter found that four different minority reports calling for everything from immediate integration to a further study of the problem more accurately reflect the views of the people than the 12-year majority report.
The thinking of the community can be roughly divided into three groups.
1. Practically all of the colored citizens and many liberal whites want immediate integration by September, 1955, if not sooner.
2. A great many white citizens in the surburban, middle and lower county area (Bethesda-Silver Spring-Rockville) favor immediate integration as soon as the final Supreme Court ruling is issued.
3. A majority of white citizens in the agricultural, upper county area (Gaithersburg-Laytonsville-Damascus), where most of the colored pupils live, favor a sytem of gradual integration.
THIS GENERAL diagreement on the timing of integration was also reflected Tuesday when a 10-man delegation of upper county white citizens appeared before the school board.
Tracey Coleman, president of the Colesville PTA, who acted as spokesman for the group, presented petitions which he said contained 4,000 names asking "that the board take no action on integration at this time."
Mr. Coleman told reporters later that the people he represented were not opposed to integration but wanted it "planned in a reasonable, efficient, economical manner."
ASKED IF he would go along with a one-year plan for integration, Mr. Coleman replied: "If the board thinks it can be done in that time, after careful study, we'll go along." I don't think it'll take 12 years.
The PTA leader said the signers of the petition came from the Colesville, Damascus, Greenmount and Gaithersburg area.
"There were supposed to be two colored people in the group but they couldn't come" he said. The spokesman said he was sure some colored citizens signed the petitions but he couldn't give their names.
A CHECK with citizens in the prosperous dairyland area revealed a hard core of white opposition to immediate integration but this rporter could not find any colored citizens opposed to it.
Howard Gibson, principal of the modern white Gaithersburg high school, refused to make any statement on the reaction of the community to the integration proposals.
He admitted that he would probably get about 275 colored pupils if a change were made. Colored children from the area now attend the consolidated Carver High School in Rockville.
"ANY EMPLOYEE of the school board would be silly to talk about the policy of integration," Mr. Gibson said, as he referred the question to Mrs. Roland Green, a teacher at the white Laytonsville Elementary School.
Mrs. Green is president of the Gaithersburg PTA, which has already issued a strong statement asking that immediate integration not be attempted in the upper county schools.
The Gaithersburg and Damascus PTAs' positions are different from the majority of the county PTAs, however.
The executive committee of the Maryland PTA council has already recommended immediate integration and referred the action to its local units for action.
At least eight PTA groups, including one in the upper county area, have already endorsed the recommendation according to Mrs. Felix Putterman of Silver Spring.
MRS. PUTTERMAN is a member of the League of Women Voters, which is also planning to make some recommendation on the integration proposals following a current study.
Not all of the Gaithersburg PTA members agree with the official position of their organization, this reporter learned.
The nearby colored Longview School PTA at Emery Grove has been having interracial meetings on "human relations" in the school and some parents from the Gaithersburg PTA have been attending.
"ONE OF THEM called and said he was sorry about action of his group. We can't get many but we are still trying," a PTA and school official who asked that her name not be used, stated.
"The high school parents in the area come quicker than the parents of elementary school children," the spokesman said.
Charles Stewart of Laytonsville is president of the Longview School PTA.
Up further in the county, the Rev. Warren A. Firth, white, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Church, said he felt the people in his section are resigned to integration but "they want it slow.
"I DON'T think there'll be any trouble when it does come. Some parents might put their children in a private school which recently opened in Howard County, but that's all," he said.
The Rev. Mr. Firth said Harrison King, a member of the school board, is a member of his church. "He's conservative, but he's coming around," the minister said.
The pastor is the father of two children; and his wife is secretary at the Laytonsville School. He admitted that all the colored persons with whom he talked wanted immediate integration.
TWO COLORED citizens in the Brook Grove section of the area readily confirmed this reaction Mrs. Carroleasia Howard and Mrs. Maggie P. Gaither said "we want it now."
Mrs. Howard said she keeps five children for the social welfare agency in the county.
Kenneth Green, 11, and Theresa Jackson, 12, two children who attend the Longview School about 4 miles away, said they also thought integration would be "okay."
Merrill and Charles Lynn, two brothers who attend the Lincoln Junior High School about 14 miles away in Rockville, also said they favored immediate integration.
The boys were walking with two sisters, Edith and Laura Bright, who told reporters they didn't have any thoughts on the subject.
But, two white children questioned in the area said "we don't think too much of the integration idea." The boys identified themselves as Walter Hill and Lester Cole.
"I guess it would be all right, but we'd be fighting all the time," Walter said. He attends Gaithersburg High. Lester is in the 6th grade at Laytonsville School.
LOUIS MONK, principal of the regional Lincoln Junior High School in Rockville's Lincoln Park, was surprisingly outspoken in favor of integration.
"We all wanted it as soon as possible and nobody agrees with the 12-year plan" Mr. Monk said. Asked what would happen to Lincoln under integration Mr. Monk said:
"Oh, they are going to have to close this school anyway, it's substandard. We hope to be integrated into the other schools."
• • •
THERE ARE four other substandard colored schools in the county slated for closing, according to Supt. Forbes H. Norris.
They are Kengar, Takoma Park, Linden and River Road elementary schools, all in the upper county area.
One of the finest schools in the county is the combined academic and vocational Carver High School and Junior College, about a mile outside of Rockville. Dr. P. L. Moore is principal of the institution.
Dr. Moore was one ofthe three colored advisory committee members who signed the five-man minority report asking for a 3-year integration plan.
Dr. Moore readily admitted his views did not represent the opinion of most of the colored people in the area. 'They want immediate integration," he said.
"I'm not apologizing for my thinking. If I weren't a school administrator and didn't know these things take time, I would be for immediate integration, too," he said.
• • •
DR. MOORE pointed out proudly that the effective Carver curriculum was the result of many years of planning and said the same type of planning ought to go into integration.
"We can't just put our colored pupils into these upper county schools. A curriculum has to be planned to fit them," the educator emphasized.
"THE UPPER county schools are geared for agricultural training. Less than one per cent of our pupils go into farming now. They can make more money in construction work," the principal explained.
Dr. Moore said much of the problem is caused by the fact that 80 per cent of the 10,000 colored pupils are in the upper county area where most of the tensions over integration exist.
There are 44,380 school children in Montgomery County, with only 2,800 or a little over 6 per cent of them colored. There are only 10,330 colored citizens in the county of 164,134 people.
"Many ofthe white people want integration but they want some basis for action before doing anything.
"The attorney general hasn't even ruled yet and until it does segregation is still legal," Dr. Moore stated.
The Carver High sits on a knoll adjacent to the Rockville Drive-In Theatre which was opened last year to colored patrons after the Supreme Court decision.
A MOVING force in this opening, along with the current drive to open Rockville restaurants and theatres to colored citizens, is Alphonso Lee, who lives on fashionable Martin's Lane, right behind the drive-in.
A long-time resident of the county, vice chairman of the interracial civic unit committee, Mr. Lee has been active in every integration movement in the area for 37 years.
Although his eyes are failing him he still attends the Rockville Board meetings" just to see what is going on.'
• • •
MR. LEE said he moved into the county when colored children were not getting any education at all. I had to send my two daughters to my mother in Washington to go to school," Mr. Lee said.
"In order to get equal schooling for our children we had to trick one board.
"We told them we appreciated the compliment they paid colored pupils in expecting them to learn as much in seven months as the white children were getting in ten, but it was awfully hard on the teachers.
"THEY EQUALIZED the schools the next year and then we asked them to equalize the salaries, since the teachers were doing the same amount of work," Mr. Lee said.
Mr. Lee said his daughter, now Mrs. Ethel Williams of Philadelphia, and Wiliam Gibbs were the two teachers involved in the successful equal pay teachers fight begun by the NAACP.
The Rockville NAACP has not been too active in the present struggle for school integration, Mr. Lee said. Mrs. Madge McElroy, president of the branch, said the chapter is beginning a drive now to get more support.
Of course, I can say we're for immediate integration but that's all I can do," Mrs. McElroy said. "We can't get any help from the churches," she added.
The Clinton AME Zion Church and the Mount Calvary Baptist Church are the two largest religious groups in the community, but the pastors could not be reached for comment.
One active group on school integration is the Teen-age Youth Forum, which meets weekly in the Rockville City Hall.
THE GROUP is sponsored by the Civic Unity Committee headed by Mrs. Leo B. Orbach of Twinbrooks near Silver Springs Ethel Shelton, a Carver High School senior, is temporary chairman of the group.
Ethel's sister, Sylvia, a former Howard Unievrsity student, said the forum began with more white than colored children, but now some of the white children's parents appears to be keeping them away from meetings now.
Miss Shelton said visits between Carver and Lincoln and Richard Montgomery, Bethesda Chevy Chase were begun by the Youth Forum.
"Two white girls from Bethesda called Ethel, Sunday, and took her to the movies, if that means anything," the older sister said.
SUPT. FORBES H. Norris confirmed that the interracial student visits were being held in the schools. "Even Damascus has been getting in on some of that," he said.
The superintendent was ordered to bring in a report as soon as possible on a program of interracial teacher-in-service training and student activities at the board meeting, Tuesday.
The general opinion among teachers, officials and citizens appears to be that colored teachers are as well perpared, if not better than whites, to teach in all the state schools.
"They got the best teachers and the best schools,' said Mr. King, in trying to explain to reporters why colored people should want to remain in their own schools.
When asked if all the teachers shouldn't be used for the benefit of all children, Mr. King said "some are prepared to teach certain things, but maybe they could learn to teach others."
The Laytonsville board member is the only member of the board who has expressed reluctance to state his position on integration.
Four other members of the board have previously indicated they feel the process should begin as soon as the final Supreme Court order is issued.
They are Wylie W. Barrow of Rockville, Wayne Birdsell of Silver Spring, Mrs. John G. Scharf of Bethesda and col. Lathrop Smith of Trevella.
Mrs. Rose C. Kramer and Willard McGraw, chairman of the board, have said they preferred to wait until the final Supreme Court ruling before stating their position.

State High cage tourney on at Morgan

Semi-final and final rounds of the Maryland State Secondary Athletic Association basketball championships are under way at Morgan State College.
The semi-final brackets are being contested today (Friday) at 1:30 p.m., and at 5:15 p.m., and the finals will be held Saturday at 5:15 o'clock.
Competing are teams from the following schools:
CLASS A—Sollers Point, Fairmont Heights and Mace's Lane;
CLASS B — Central Consolidated, Lincoln, Pomonkey, R. R. Morton and Eastern, and CLASS C — Havre de Grace Consolidated, North Street, Woodson and Carver High, the latter of Elkton.

'The Saver' held

Willie (The Saver) Jeffreys, 38, 900 blk. S. Sharp St., is fighting extradition to N. C. where he is wanted for escaping from the Gates County Prison Farm on Aug. 12, 1943, after serving one year of a 25-year term for murder.
Jeffreys, has been living in Baltimore under the name of James Harris. He was arrested Monday for violation of a firearms law in Northwestern, he made a $500 bail when he was held for grand jury. Detectives compared fingerprints and found he was a fugitive.
When they went to his home to re-arrest him, they found Jeffreys with $3,536.17 mostly in small change which he said he had saved over a period of years while running an ice cream store at his home.
The money has been deposited for him in a savings account at a local bank.

Divorces mate because he 'banged' her around

Mrs. Thelma Jiggetts, secretary at the Cortez Peters Business School, who charged her husband, William, with "banging her a couple of times", divorced him, this week.
Mrs. Jiggetts, who lives at 1729 Pulaski St., testified that her marriage to Mr. Jiggetts lasted a brief three months.
Married on Dec. 12, 1952, the wife said that the folliwing March he told her that he was sick and tired of marriage, and, next morning, packed up and left.
IN APRIL, she said, he phoned that he wanted to talk to her. They met on her porch, she said, and walked a few blocks. That's when he "banged me," she said.
Mrs. Jiggetts won custody of their son, and Mr. Jiggetts, who lives at 2327 Bryant Ave., was ordered to pay her $8 per week for six months, and $10 per week thereafter.
• • •
MRS. DORIS Wilson won a divorce from Kenneth Wilson of 1651 Smallwood St. and custody fo their daughter. The father was ordered to provide $10 per week for the child's support.
Mrs. Wilson, whose address is 1512 N. Pulaski St., and who is on the staff of the Baltimore City Health Department, said that she left her husband because of his drinking.
Once, said the wife, her husband came home so intoxicated that another man had to bring him in, while she was having a dinner party.
He would become boisterous, would fight and use vile language while in such a condition, the wife said. His conduct was adjudged constructive desertion by the court.

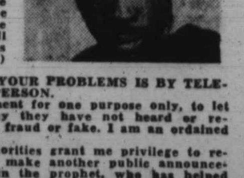
NOTICE OF REGRETS
PROPHET JOHN THE CONQUEROR
(The Original Root Man)
2222 N. 13th Street
Phone ST. 7-2258—Phila. Pa.



Takes this means of announcing with regrets to the many thousands of people who have written him for help and blessing that due to U. S. Post Office Rules and Regulations, Prophet John The Conqueror has been denied the privilege of receiving or sending mail through the Post Office.
Therefore all letters sent during the months of December and January have been withheld from delivery. I have been informed by authorities that all letters showing names and addresses of sender will be returned (to sender) by the postal authorities.
MY ONLY WAY OF ANSWERING YOUR PROBLEMS IS BY TELEGRAM, TELEPHONE OR COME IN PERSON.
I am making this costly announcement for one purpose only, to let my believers and followers know why they have not heard or received their blessings from me. I am no fraud or fake. I am an ordained minister and God sent man.
If and when the U. S. Postal Authorities grant me privilege to receive or send mail, I will immediately make another public announcement. Until then, please keep faith in the prophet, who has helped thousands.
Remember no Mail can be received or sent; only Telephone Telegram or Come in Person.
IN 24 HOURS
PROPHET JOHN THE CONQUEROR
Double guarantees to ENDEAVOR to telegraph you his prayer best fitting your problem.
Love—Luck—Money—Sickness. Let him teach you to Trust in God, delight thyself also in the Lord and he will give thee the desires of thine heart. Psalms 37-4. When sending telegrams, include birth date, name and address and $5.00 money order donation.
See the March issue of Our World Magazine for story on Prophet John The Conqueror.
