"Oh For A Faith That Will Not Shrink"

O for a faith that will not shrink, Tho' pressed by ev'ry foe,
That will not tremble on the brink of any earthly woe-
Of any earthly woe;-

That will not murmer nor complain beneath the chast'ning rod,
But, in the hour of grief or pain, will lean upon its God;-
Will lean upon its God;-

A faith that shines more bright and clear when tempests rage without, that when in danger, knows no fear, in darkness feels no douubt, in darkness feels no doubt.

Lord, give us such a faith as this, and then, whate'er may come,
We'll taste, e'en here, the hallowed bliss of an eternal home,
Of an eternal home.

Words To Live By

By REV. R. T. NEWBOLD
Pastor, Grace Presbyterian Church

The more we trust ourselves, the less we feel a genuine need for trusting God. And yet, the disappointment resulting from trusting self should lead us to see the importance of relying upon a power beyond and greater than self.

However, this business of maintaining faith in God is not always easy. It is especially difficult during times of trial. Because this is true, we should frequently reflect upon two thoughts.

The first is: Periods of trial confront every man.

Sometime we stand on one side of the fence in life believing there are no trials on the other side.

• • •

WE ARE OFTEN so impressed with our neighbors' bouyancy of spirit until we are convinced trials have bypassed him. Only God and those neighbors know how often the smiles we see cover up the heartaches we cannot see. No man escapes!

True enough, the trials of one man take different forms from that of another; the times they approach one varies from that when they come upon another.

The effect they have upon all persons is not the same. But we can be assured that periods of trial confront every man.

It matters little whether a man is a Christian or non-Christian, whether he is intelligent or not, or rich or poor, sooner or later he learns that trials are woven into the fabric of life.

The second thought is: Times of trials test the genuiness of our trust in God. Several months ago, I observed a crowd gathering around a man standing at a busy corner. Upon drawing near the center of the group it became apparent why the crowd gathered.

A salesman was standing near an automobile talking about the merits of a certain type of automobile wax. As he talked he lit a match, placed it in contact with the waxed surface of the auto. It brilliantly ignited into flame.

But when the flame was extinguished it was revealed the finish of the automobile was unharmed.

The real proof of the merits of the product the salesman was trying to sell was not in what he was saying.

Rather, it was in what he did. It was revealed when he put a match to it so that people could see how it stood up under fire.

GOD SOMETIMES allows the pressures of life to make things hot for us in order that everyone can see how we stand up under fire. For anybody can trust Him with a pocket full of money; it's easy then.

But the test comes when the money is gone bills are past due, pantry shelves are empty and "times are hard."

Anybody can have faith in God when he is being treated with respect and identified with success. But the real test comes when disrespect and abuse are heaped upon him and when friends are whispering and enemies are shouting: "He's a failure."

The classic example of a man who stood up under fire comes from the record of Job. Things were hard and hot for him. The question was: Can he stand up under such conditions?

Soon the answer came: "Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him." Behold, it is the answer which the hymn-writer echoed years later when he wrote:

I trust in God
I know He cares for me
On mountain bleak, or on the stormy sea
Though billows roll
He keeps my soul.

Prayer

My, what a lift in a time like this, when the world is in despair, to hear a child answer the telephone and say, "mother can't talk to you just now, she's in her room in prayer."

What earthly interest could be as grave as this vital act—her household to save, by breathing a blessing of holy air, upon what might have been a home of despair?

WASHINGTON

Bowing out of Federal service after almost forty-four and a half years of duty classed as excellent and efficient, Fred M. Chives, 67, 4422 Hunt Pl. NE., Monday was given a purse and a plaque by his co-workers at the District Building.

Mr. Chives, born in Spotsylvania County, Va., was a messenger in the Department of Licenses and Inspections.

He began service on Sept. 6, 1910 as a messenger at the District Building and transferred to the inspections' office in 1918.

His first job there was that of messenger-chauffeurr. In succession he was a switchboard operator and a mimeograph operator, then a combination of mesenger-mimeograph operator until his retirement Monday morning.

• • •

MR. CHIVES was presented with an elaborate framed certificate of merit signed by all three District Commissioners and their secretary, G. M. Thornett.

The certificate cites Mr. Chives "for excellence and efficiency in performance of duty during 44 years of service."

Asked what he intends to do with his time, now that he no longer has to report to the District Building, Mr. Chives replied that he intended to work as a part-time real estate salesman for the Eastland Gardens subdivision.

• • •

MARRIED TO the former Miss Henrietta J. Peterson of Washington, in 1914, there are no children in the Chives family.

Mr. Chives is a member of the 19th Street Baptist Church. He came to the District when he was three years old, and moved to Falls Church, Va., where he lived while still a boy. He attended night school there in 1909.

During his 44 years with the District, Mr. Chives served under five different inspectors of buildings. He holds no memberships in fraternal or club groups.

High tribunal denies petition of ex-student

Permission refused in attempt to sue Howard University

WASHINGTON (NNPA)—The United States Supreme Court Monday rejected the petition of Edward L. Bradley, a former medical student at Howard University, for a review of the judgment of the United States Court of Appeals here in refusing to direct the District Court to appeal his suit against the university as a pauper.

In his petition for review, Bradley said the District Court refused to permit him to proceed as a pauper in appealing from its judgment denying him the right to readmission to the Howard University College of Medicine.

In denying him this right, he said, the District Court failed to certify that his request was made in good faith or to rule that the request was not brought in all honest as required by the District of Columbia and the United States codes.

• • •

BRADLEY WAS refused readmission in September 1949. He had been given a deficient grade in one subject, he said, but removed it on reexamination. Dr. Joseph Johnson, dean of the medical school, he said, refused to permit him to be readmitted.

Bradley sued the university to compel his readmission. He charged in his petition for a review that because of inconsistent and contradictory testimony highly judicial to him, the court refused to order his readmission.

He said he desired to appeal the case but was without funds. After the District Court denied his request to proceed as a pauper, Bradley filed a petition for a writ of mandamus in the Court of Appeals to compel the District Court to permit him to proceed as a pauper.

• • •

HIS PETITION for a review included a copy of a letter written by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover Feb. 23, 1954, to Mrs. Dovey J. Roundtree, Bradley's attorney. Mr. Rover's letter indicated that Mrs. Roundtree had sent him a letter written by Dr. Robert S. Jason to Bradley.

"From the evidence at hand," Mr. Rover wrote, "it seems apparent that there are some conflicts in the testimony of various witnesses who appeared and testified. However, conflicts in testimony do not necessarily indicate the existence of perjury.

"After reviewing all of the facts involved, it is our view that this matter is solely administrative in nature and therefore determinable as between the university and your client."

Roosevelt, speaker; and Ed Sullivan, columnist and T-V personality. In the background is Mrs. William Mason, president of the NCNW.

Churches, TV, discipline blamed for delinquency

WASHINGTON

Weak discipline in the home, bad television programs and the locked doors of churches were criticized at the 15th annual meeting of juvenile delinquency sponsored by the People's Drug Stores, Tuesday.

Approximately 50 community leaders including numerous clergymen, social workers, recreational leaders and policemen attended the two-hour session held in the salesmeeting room of the drug company at Florida Ave. and N. Capitol.

Richard Gibbs, secretary of the company served as moderator of the discussion until it began to travel on its own momentum aided by Michael (Casey) Jones, public relations counselor and Milton Dawkins.

• • •

AFTER MR. GIBBS introduced persons who had been attending the sessions for several years, Elder Michaux set ehe discussion tone when he warned that children follow the examples of their parents in smoking and drinking.

"I'm not preaching against smoking," the Elder said as a number of the group puffed on their cigarettes and cigars, "But we don't have a boy or girl in our church who smokes," he said.

The Elder also said "True members of his church don't allow their children to look at TV when they are not at home with them to supervise the selection of the programs.

• • •

"IF THEY can't be home, then they get rid of the TV because bad movies are bad influences on our children," the clergyman declared emphatically.

The Elder's remarks followed an earnest plea by Mrs. Naomi Williams, wife of the Rev. Andrew Williams of Forrestville, Md. for some social worker "who don't care about the almighty dollar," to come to rural Maryland and help out with the children.

Mrs. Williams told the group that if someone didn't come to the country soon, the country children would be coming to the city "And you'll never have juvenile delinquency solved.

• • •

A PROGRAM for trying to eliminate the problem was given by Stan Anderson, Miss Ruth Corley and John Hawkins of the District Recreation staff of Mrs. Florence S. Matthews.

The group recommended club activities for the children, consultation with the parents and opening of places after 6 p.m. for the children to go and play.

• • •

MRS. MARTHA WILLIAMS, a social welfare worker, led the attack on the church when she stated that most of the community's religious buildings are closed all but two nights a week.

"We can come and pat ourselves on the back all we want but until we began to provide some place for these children to go we are always going to have juvenile delinquency, Mrs. Williams declared.

• • •

MRS. JULIA WEST HAMILTON, who was introduced as a new member of the group, echoed Mrs. Williams sentiments saying that the YWCA was the only decent shelter for a colored girl in the city.

"The only place the District government has for out girls is the House of Detention and its a shame but we can't get anyone to do anything about it," Mrs. Hamilton said.

• • •

THE REV. D. JOSEPH Edwards attempted to come to the defense of the church by telling the clapping audience there are still 19,000,000 children who are not juvenile delinquents.

"The Good Book said we should be more concerned about that one than all those other 19,000,000," Mrs. West reminded him.

• • •

OTHER SPEAKERS at the lively session included Woolsey Hall and George Beasly of the Federation of Civic Associations, L. C. Collins of Zion Baptist Church; Mrs. Arthur Luckett, Director of Young People at Vista Baptist Church;

THE REV. Edward Williams of Grace Methodist; Malcaih Charity of the Boy Scouts Troop 503 and Miss Loretta Broadus, 11, who sang the Lord's Prayer.

• • •

THE REV. B. H. Whiting of Friendship Baptist Church took the floor at one point to shout over the discussion that he was happy "We have reached some agreement at last at these meetings.

"Usually we end up in an argument and everyone goes away angry," the Rev. Whiting said. He displayed an engraved invitation inviting persons to attend the round table discussion on

1. The general and growing disregardfor consttiuted authority;
2. Weak discipline in the home and school;
3. Vicious movies and comic books;

"We're all in agreement with these points, aren't we?" The Rev. Whiting asked. Someone in the group said yes but nobody ever sat down around the table.

Mr. Dawkins explained that invitations to the meeting are mailed out once a year to churches, groups and agencies using the drug company's movie service. He passed out boxes of chocolate covered cherries as the participants departed.

Report urges Govt. to reduce support of HU, Freedmen's

WASHINGTON (NNPA)—Withdrawal of major Government support from both Howard University and Freedmen's Hospital is recommended in the task force report on federal medical services sent to Congress Monday by the Hoover Commission.

The Hoover Commission is a Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government and takes its name from former President Herbert Hoover, who is its chairman.

It was created by an Act of Congress approved July 10, 1953.

Medical Services Task Force was headed by Chauncey McCormick of Chicago, who died last Sept. 8. Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp, president of Winthrop-Stearns, Inc., of New York, succeeded him.

The section of the report dealing with Freedmen's Hospital and Howard University follows:

• • •

"WE FIND a need for improvement in the standards of Freedmen's Hospital and also of Howard University's colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy.

"Freedmen's Hospital, founded around the time of the Civil War, is a federally owned institution operating under the supervision of the Public Health Service.

"It is the teaching hospital of Howard University's college of medicine and is financed by receipts from pay patients, by reimbursements from the District of Columbia and nearby counties for indigent residents, and by a direct appropriation through the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

"Howard University was created by Congress in 1867. It is (congressional appropriations an private funds) operating to a limited extent under Federal supervision. It is administered by a private board of trustees having the perpetual right to appoint successors and to select its own president and other officers.

• • •

"WE BELIEVE that these institutions should not continue indefinitely in the present administrative framework because (1) they are not a proper Federal responsibility and (2) the relationship is not a healthy one for the institutions themselves.

"Through a program which would improve the facilities and operational standards of the hospital and the university, both could achieve a status independent of major Federal support.

"The Task Force recommends that Freedmen's Hospital and Howard University remain, for the present, under the general supervision of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and that the department exercise its influence to improve the university facilities and operational standards of Freedmen's Hospital annd Howard University's colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, including a determination as to how the university and Freedmen's Hospital may be placed on an independent basis."

According to the Federal Budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, Federal funds provide 52.5 per cent of the operating costs of the undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree, and eight professional schools.

• • •

FEDERAL appropriations for 1955 for salaries and expenses of the university totaled $2,720,000 toward a total budget for the university of $5,439,348.

The Federal appropriation for Freedmen's Hospital in 1955 was $2,880,000. Its reimbursement for indigent patients from the District of Columbia and nearby counties in Maryland and Virginia was about $732,737.

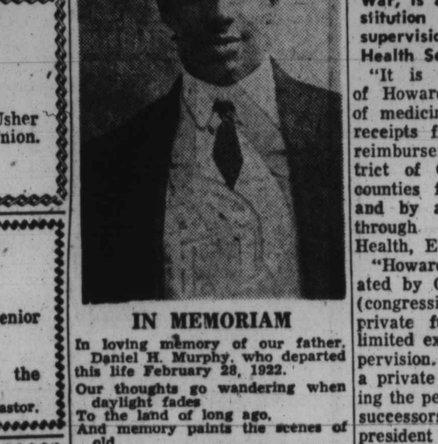
Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare has appointed a 10-member Freedmen's Hospital Study Commission to study the future role of Freedmen's as a medical training and research center, as a teaching hospital for Howard's college of medicine, and as a service to the Washington community.

This commission also will study the kind of organizational relationships and financial support the hospital's role warrants.

CLYDE H. HENDRIX of Clinton, Iowa, is the chairman of the commission which held its first meeting here behinid closed doors Feb. 24-25.

Other members of the commission are Benson Ford, vice president of the Ford Motor Company; Mrs. Isabella J. Jones, Harrisburg, Pa.; Dr. John W. Lawlah, former dean of the Howard University Medical School; Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Evening Star;

Mrs. R. Louise McManus, director, Division of Nursing Education, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. Peter Murray, president of the New York County Medical Society and a trustee of Howard University; G. Howland Shaw, director, United Community Service; Garnet C. Wilkinson, retired First Assistant Superintendent of Schools of the District of Columbia; and Judge Luther Youngdahl of U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.



IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our father, Daniel H. Murphy, who departed this life February 28, 1922.

Our thoughts go wandering when daylight fades
To the land of long ago,
And memory paints the scenes of old
In the gold of the twilight gloom:
We seem to see in the soft dimlight
The faces we love the best,
And think of them when the day's last ray
Goes down in the far-off West.

Sadly missed by his children, MRS. CLEMENTINE E. KNOX, JOHN H. MURPHY III, & JEANNE MURPHY.

Broker, purchaser dispute over $500

WASHINGTON

A dispute over a $500 payment received for purchase of a house two years ago, was aired in Municipal Court, this week.

Miss Ruth Lucas, real estate broker, who is holding the money in escrow, said during the hearing, that she is entitled to a share of the deposit along with another real estate broker and seller, named as defendants in the case.

• • •

THE INTERPLEADING, filed by Miss Lucas, names as defendants, Mrs. Coyle James, of the 1500 block of Allison St., NW.; Jose Jaudens, seller, and Cuzier A. Metzler, real state broker.

Miss Lucas asserts that purchase of property in the 1600 block of Varnum St., NW, for Mrs. James in 1953, was not completed after the matron changed her mind. Also involved is the incomplete sale of a house owned by Mrs. James in the 1400 block of Q St., NW.

The complainant charges that $100 was to be paid to her in lieu of all other services while handling the transactions.

However, in a counter claim, Mrs. James alleges that the entire $500 should be returned because the transactions were not completed, and accused Miss Lucas of fraud and misrepresentation.

Miss Lucas recently resigned from her position as secretary to Judge Armond D. Scott, because of illness.

The hearing entered its third day before Judge Nadine Gallagher, Monday.

Judge Gallagher took the case under advisement at the completion of testimony, Monday.
