Miss Mattiwilda Dobbs, coloratura soprano, autographs program for Daniel G. Monroe of 215 T St., NW

MATTIWILDA DOBBS:

She wore simplicity and a smile

By MARY STRATFORD

WASHINGTON

When choppy winds literally blew Mattiwilda Dobbs into town last Friday, the 28-year-old coloratura soprano still kept intact for reporters her simplicity and her smile.

Miss Dobbs, who was in Washington for her second D.C. recital in six years, was welcomed at the airport by another "Hurricane Hazel," but this time the winds wore a winter's garb of ice and snow. The opera star later appeared in concert at Lisner Auditorium sponsored by Beta Sigma Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

THE STORM delayed Miss Dobbs' plane winging its way from Atlanta. It tied up traffic as she wound her way from the airport to the Delta House, where she was scheduled to meet the press at 2 p.m.

When she hadn't appeared for the press conference as the clock and time swung around to 3:15 p.m., there appeared in concert at Lisner Who appeared in the Holland Festival in the leading role in Stravinsky's "Le Rossignol" in 1952;

Who sang at the Glyndebourne Festival in March, 1954, and made her professional debut in New York City's famed "Town Hall;

THE STAR who made her first concert tour of the U.S. in 1954, Who sang at the Glyndebourne Festival in March, 1954, and made her professional debut in New York City's famed "Town Hall;

THE STAR who made her first concert tour of the U.S. in 1954, Who appeared in the Holland Festival in the leading role in Stravinsky's "Le Rossignol" in 1952;

Who sang at the Glyndebourne Festival in March, 1954, and made her professional debut in New York City's famed "Town Hall;

THE STAR who made her first concert tour of the U.S. in 1954, da Dobbs was late!

The waiting reporters stared gloomily out of the window where iced rain sleeted the pavement; where chained car wheels spun helplessly in the snow drifts, and where there was no sign of Mattiwilda Dobbs.

Patricia Roberts, national secretary of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, told reporters: "She'll be here in a minute. She just called from the airport."

THAT WAS AT 2:30 p.m. Miss Dobbs arrived some 45 minutes later.

A small thrill of excitement and tension ran through the group as someone finally announced: "She's here."

Officers of Beta Sigma Chapter and reporters looked toward the door as they awaited the entrance of a grand madame in the informal setting of the Delta House lobby. They were disappointed.

There was no entrance and no grand madame. Mattiwilda Dobbs slipped unobtrusively through the door, removed her coat, shook the weather from her hair, and smiled.

The smile was an overture in simplicity. It was unaffected as the casual cut of the lavender suit she wore. It was as much a part of her as the dimple in her chin, or the natural arch of her eyebrows.

She chose not to sit in the center of the room, where a chair at head table awaited her, but sat instead on the sofa, and anyone entering the room might have thought she was an anonymity, having a cup of coffee with a group of friends, rather than the favorite of European Opera houses.

"The plane was a half hour late from Atlanta," she said, "and when I arrived in Washington, we had to circle the airport several times before we could land."

SHE MIGHT have been a school girl, proud as punch of the part she played in the senior play, as she said: "One of the most thrilling moments in my life was when I sang in New York last year for the first time."

She could have been the girl who had lived next door to you as the YSOO of how she and her six sisters used to sing together when they were children.

"I come from a musical family, but I'm the only one who ever sang professionally," she stated.

The hope she expressed to some day sing with the Metropolitan Opera, might have been the dream you'd had when you sang with the church choir, but you lost when you discovered you were no Mattiwilda Dobbs.

THIS WAS MISS Dobbs:

The girl who was acclaimed by critics as possessor of one of the finest voices of the times;

The opera star who sang in 1953 in the La Scala Opera House in Milan as Elvira in the "Italian In Algiers"—the first buffo her race to sing at the La Scala;

The Georgian who sang at London Royal Opera House before King Gustav Adolf and Queen Louise of Sweden during their visit to England;

The girl who won first prize in an international music competition in Geneva in 1950;

3 generations in hospital together

Three generations of the same family are in Johns Hopkins Hospital this week.

Mrs. Louise Dolvey, 2226 Ivy Ave., a postal employee, underwent a major operation. She is confined to the women's clinic.

Her daughter, Mrs. Ellen D. Howard, 2304 Auchenterolly Terrace, gave birth to her second son, a 7-pound boy whom she has named Larry H. Howard. She is likewise confined to the women's clinic. Mrs. Howard is the wife of Harold Howard who is also a postal employee. She is a teacher. Their other child is Harold Jr., 2.

and then returned to Europe to sing in Scandinavia and London among other European concert halls;

The girl whose husband, Don Luis Rodriguez, Spanish script writer, died last year, but who lived up to the tradition of "the show must go on" when she appeared in concert four days after his death;

The singer who won her way to Europe through a John Hay Whitney, Opportunity Fellowship.

THIS WAS Mattiwilda Dobbs, according to the press release.

But to you she was the singer who encountered the inconvenience of a snow storm, brushed the weather from her face, and entered her press conference wearing simplicity and a smile.

It is embarrassing to management and ushers to seat late arrivals to concerts. Early arrivals take into consideration the disadvantages of parking and they leave home in time to park and be in their seats at 8:30 when most concerts begin.

AMONG GUESTS who attended the recent reception for President and Madame Paul E. Magloire of Haiti at the Pan American Union in Washington were, seated, left: Mrs. Elise Hunt of Baltimore and Mrs. Lois Turner of Washington; and standing: Mrs. Blanche McRae of Baltimore and Mesdames Dorothy King and Blanche Curry of Washington.

Dobbs recital delights Washington music-lovers

By MARK FAX

WASHINGTON

That there is always room at the top was once again demonstrated last Saturday evening, when Mattiwilda Dobbs presented a distinguished song recital in the Lisner auditorium.

Virtually unknown in America a year ago, this young artist has catapulted herself into a foremostplace among concert singers by virtue of sheer intelligence, talent, industry and an unusually beautiful voice.

Choosing a program cleverly calculated to reveal the best characteristics of her voice, but at the same time adhering to the highest standards of musicality, program building, this young lady literally enraptured a near capacity audience with singing as nearly perfect as it has been this reviewer's privilege to hear.

THE MOST basic quality revealed in Miss Dobb's recital was singularity either the voice nor the singing itself, but the solid musicianship which undergirded her every number.

This basic musicianship was apparent in her flawless intonation, strict adherence to the composer's intentions, and absolute mastery of the problems of nuance and pure vocal technic.

Thus there was never a moment when this splendid young artist resorted to trickery or sensationalism in order to capture the minds—and hearts—of her audience. Her program was, therefore, a thoroughly musical experience and one of the highest order.

HAVING A basis for that aspect of musical art in which the musical art in which the musical idea takes precedence over the musical sound, it is only natural that the interplay of the lines of Rachmaninoff's beautiful "Vocalise" between voice and piano should serve as a surcease from such Lucullan tonal inebriation.

A REVIEW of Miss Dobbs' recital would be incomplete with out mention of three importantly related factors.

Factor number one was the perfect collaboration given Miss Dobbs by her excellent accompanist. Rising to the level of a highly skilled artist in his own right, Paul Berl shared equal responsibility with the singer in such numbers as Ga's "Variation," the Menotti excerpts and, of course, Poulenc's "Voculise."

Factor number two is the sense of civic and cultural responsibility evidenced by Beta Sigma Chapter of the Delta Sigma The Theta Sorority, Inc. in making it possible for Washington to hear this most distinguished young artist.

FACTOR number three is a gripe. Lisner auditorium, with its myriads of curtains is really not a good place in which to present a musical event.

This writer cannot at the moment think of an alternative place, but the fact remains that the curtains which so abundantly bedeck the stage of Lisner act as so many sponges which absorb sounds almost as rapidly as they are emitted.

Washington's last Saturday evening, heard only a portion of Miss Dobbs' wonderful voice, the other portion having been absorbed by Lisner's draperies. But we liked what we heard and we look eagerly toward another season when we can hear more.

700 Boy Scouts aid Crusade for Freedom

More than 700 Boy Scout and Explorer troops in the greater Baltimore area are taking a lead in calling attention to the current Crusade for Freedom—a national effort to make Americans conscious of the special privileges enjoyed by all who live in democratic countries.

The Scouts will conduct a campaign to secure signatures on Freedom Scrolls, and will also distribute more than 50,000 envelopes that describe the work of Radio Free Europe, the privately owned broadcast network that carries messages of hope and encouragement to the people behind the Iron Curtain.

Ad agency to issue new catalogue

BROOKLYN — An advertising agency specializing in the colored market will begin operations here on March 1, with the issue of a mail order catalogue.

The agency, which was formed in 1940 by William L. Vomack, who was formerly associated with Ziff-Davis Publishers, specializes in the preparation of news directed to the colored market through weekly newspapers, magazines and direct mail.

THE NEW EDITION of its mail order catalogue will include paper recording disks designated to grace the customer and carry a sales story.

The project began last year and is intended to create a direct mail area with many advantages for manufacturers whose sales depend on advertising.

Woman hit by car sues for $75,000

WASHINGTON

The A. P. Woodson Company, located in the 1300 block of H St. NW, is being sued for $75,000 damages in a negligence suit filed in District court, Friday.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Maurice Howell of the 1600 block of 12th St. NW, who claims she suffered numerous injuries after being struck by an international tank truck driven "recklessly" by an employee of the Woodson company.

The driver of the truck was identified as Ralph A. Lunsford. The accident occurred on Jan. 1, while Mrs. Howell was crossing the street at 10th St., NW and Rhode Island Ave., according to the petition. She asked for a jury trial.

WILL YOU HAVE LONG MAGNIFICENT HAIR?

By Jean Allison

Many women tell me how they envy people with naturally attractive; long hair—smooth, soft, growing out so thick and healthy. They ask, "How can I have hair like that?"

Scientific facts now give the answer: It all depends on the nature and condition of the scalp. In other words, you can have gorgeous hair like that only if your scalp is ready and able to make it so.

More and more of my friends are discovering that when they want to improve the looks of their hair they must think about the condition of the scalp too. They are now scorning the amazing facts about Sulfur-8 Hair and Scalp Conditioner and how it works for the health of the hair.

The Power of Sulfur-8

A new scientific form of sulfur is being hailed by hair and scalp experts throughout the world. This discovery, actually a potent "supersulfur", is the wonder drug featured in the great Sulfur-8 Hair and Scalp Conditioner formula. Only Sulfur-8 has this formula.

Of course, Sulfur-8 cannot give you a new scalp, nor make your hair grow or be longer. The fame of Sulfur-8 allows, but when used in time it usually works wonders on certain conditions that can hold your hair back from looking its best.

You may never know how beautiful your hair can be until you try Sulfur-8 and give it a real chance to do good work. You will like its new, pleasant fragrance too.

Something Wonderful Happens

Happy Sulfur-8 users have been telling me about its marvelous results in helping the most abused dry hair look softer, smoother and more lustrous. They are thrilled by the new beauty of their hair and have been telling their friends how it can be theirs. The fame of Sulfur-8 has grown so fast that already millions of jars have been sold.

Get Sulfur-8 at the drug store today. See what it can do for you!

Beaux Arts, Mardi Gras high on play program

...with Lula Jones Garrett

I hope, my dears, that your costumes are dusted and ready . . for the Urban League Guild gals swear there has not yet been a party such as their Beaux Arts Ball, at The Famous Monday night is destined to be.

Molly Moon is fetching the New York contingent down, and they have augmented their entertainment.

Omega men are expecting a cross country section of guests at what, they assure, is to be the biggest of their Mardi Gras Festivals, the same night.

Their regional director, C. V. Harris of Brooklyn, N.Y. has wired that he will be here , , as have a score of others from New York, Philadelphia, Washington and New Jersey.

Theodore Brown, of the recreation department, will direct the grand march. Carl White is basileus of Pi Omega, the host chapter.

IT TAKES A GROUP like the Stork Club to make a social affair out of a serious panel discussion such as the one they presented Tuesday night.

They had picked an expert panel, invited an array of parents and friends, ordered plenty of cakes and coffee and secured the auditorium of the Pratt Library.

With such a subject as "Are We Problem Parents?" there is no wonder there was scarcely standing room. Their panel including Father Van V. Bird, Mrs. Mercedes Douglass, Edward Murray and Dr. Talmadge Pinkney was moderated by Mrs Pearl Cole Brackett. Miss Ruth Green was consultant and Mrs. Jean Turpin chairman of the affair. Mrs. Catherine Greene presided.

ONE OF THE MOST WIDELY acclaimed dramatic successes to have reached the American theater in recent years has been chosen as the next presentation of the Arena Players. This is "All My Sons," the play by Arthur Miller about a manufacturer who rationalizes his guilt in a monstrous swindle, by discounting his responsibility toward society and stressing his responsibility to his family. This Broadway hit will open a four-performance engagement, including a Sunday matinee, at the Arena Theatre, February 18-20. The Arena Theatre is located at 1907 Warwick Ave.

THE TAN-ETTES held forth on Saturday night at a Valentine frolic in the club room of Bernice White's home.

The girls outdid themselves with eatables and sippables, offering a very gay evening, indeed, with card playing, dancing and games.

Mary and Alfred Williams took a prize with their mambo specialty. The men pulled a real surprise when they presented Valentines and gifts to the ladies at the end of the evening.

Mary and Warren Stanley, Gloria and Joe Sims, Willie and Melvin Gist, Mary and Alfred Williams, Bernice and Nathaniel Hall, Vera Frye, Earl Britt, Jimmie Clay, Billy Brown and Bernice and George White.

Sir Stork and Mr. Virus kept Elizabeth Butler and Ruth Tonkins from joining the group.
