Douglass strategy defeats Carver

Douglass High School basketers moved safely in front of the pack in the city scholastic race Thursday afternoon, trimming Carver Vocational High, 55-49, in a whistle-to-whistle thriller.

It was an uphill battle most of the way for Coach Mack Payne's youngsters, who were recording their second win in as many starts in local competition.

The Ducks had previously beaten Dunbar High, 62-40, and Thursday's triumph gave them an overall 2 record for the season.

* * *

CHARLEY BRIGHTFUL proved the margin of difference between Douglass and her Trainer rivals, tallying 28 points, eleven of them in the last-quarter surge that decided the issue.

Carver led most of the way, holding at 19-10 at the end of the first quarter and being ahead, 29-28, at halftime. Beginning the final period, the Trainers were still in the van, 45-42.

It was at this point, however, that Payne called on switch Brightful from his forward position to center, a move designed to confuse big Charley Butler, whom Carver Coach Sodie White had assigned to cover the Duck sharpshooter.

* * *

THE CHANGE put Lawrence Newton nearest to Butler and kept the top Carver defensive man working against a shorter team of Ducks.

Freed of the big guard, Brightful went on to count 11 of the 13 points chalked up by his team during the final quarter. In the meantime, Douglass was concentrating on stopping Butler and Carver's other big shooter, Gabriel Bell, to the end that the Trainers garnered only five tallies in the closing stanza.

Carter receives $25,000 title bid

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — A $25,000 offer was forwarded late last night to lightweight champion Jimmy Carter to defend his title in a bout here in the spring.

According to Jackie King, local promoter, Carter is being urged to meet Joey Lopes, of this city. The offer was nationally ranked as a featherweight in 1951, before he went into the army, but now is campaigning as a lightweight.

Mims to test Savage in TV bout Monday

NEW YORK — Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., the world's second ranking middleweight, and Milo Savage of Salt Lake City, the scrappy fighter to show here in years, will be the feature attraction at St. Nick's Arena, Monday night.

The scheduled 10-rounder will be televised over the DuMont Network at approximately 9 p.m.

Savage, in whipping Moses Ward in his debut at St. Nick's on Jan. 17, did everything but knockout his highly publicized foe. Milo appeared the most devastating punches uncovered in many a day.

Accepting the bout as a substitute for Jesse Turner, Savage tore into Ward at the opening gong and stood his ground punch for punch. He scored a pair of knockdowns over the Detroit middleweight as well.

MIMS IS a feared middleweight. He is considered a cinch to win the 160-pound title if ever given a crack at it. Holly's knockout victory over the crack Trenton, N.J. middleweight, Georgie Johnson, in 9 rounds was his best in 1954.

Previously, Mims wrapped up decisions over such outstanding fighters as Wayne Bethea, Cecil Bratton, twice; Moses Ward, Lester Felton and Jesse Turner. He actually received his first recognition in a losing fight with Sugar Ray Robinson in Miami on April 19, '53. Mims and Robinson almost boxed a dead heat. The second ranking middleweight was declared the loser by a single point.

Mims figures to be put to a real test against Savage. He certainly will have plenty of use for his all-around skill when he climbs through the ropes on Monday night to meet the Salt Lake City tornado.

Carver seeks winning trial

The Carver High School of Rockville, Md., will be trying to get back on the winning trail Friday when it meets the Page-Jackson squad of Charlestown, W. Va., at 8 p.m. in the Carver gym.

Coach J. A. Harvey's freshmen dominated squad lost its fifth game of the season to Douglass High of Leesburg, Va., 40-39 last Friday after two consecutive victories.

The Carver squad turned back Douglass High of Upper Marlboro, 35-30 last Tuesday and defeated Page-Jackson, 37-32, recently for its first win of the year.

The school lost its first four games but hopes to win at least six of the remaining eight contests, including another victory over the Charlestown school, according to Coach Harvey.

Morgan four eyes Millrose battle

Return of Jenkins to Villanova spells trouble

NEW YORK — Clocked last week in the fastest time executed by a mile relay team this season, Morgan State College will seek to continue this pace in the Millrose meet tomorrow (Saturday) night in Madison Square Garden.

The relay team executed a nifty 3:19.4 indoor mile in the Boston AA meet last Saturday, beating out a powerful University of Pittsburgh foursome anchored by John Sowell. Villanova, which brice this season has nosed out Morgan at the tape, running without crack anchorman Charlie Jenkins, came in third.

The new season high was set by the Morgan foursome of Herman Wade, senior, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Rudy Solomon, sophomore, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Jimmy Rogers, senior, British Guiana, B.G., and Josh Culbreath, senior, Norristown, Pa. Closest time of the season to the Boston running of Morgan was a 3:19.6 mile set by Villanova in the Boston Knights of Columbus meet earlier.

RUNNING FOR the first time this season in New York in the Millrose meet; the Morgan mile relayers expect to face a Villanova foursome headed by Jenkins on the anchor, Fritz Germ State.

All these teams are good and each has a very strong anchor man. This will be a great problem—either building up such a strong lead that these achor men won't be able to catch us, or finding an anchor man strong enough to run against these other men without a substantial lead,' Coach Eddie Hurt said.

Still experimenting to get the best running combination, Coach Hurt said that he'll draw from five runners—Wade, Solomon, Rogers, Culbreath and Otis (Jet) Johnson of Philadelphia, Pa.

"Four from this five will run Saturday, but I don't know in what order yet or just what four, the mentor said.

Also entered in the meet will be high-jumper George Dennis and sprinters Ed Waters and Linwood Morton.

Dorie Milller Center marks Family Night

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — Grown folk and children participated in "The Family Night" program sponsored by the adult advisory committee of Dorie Miller Recreation Center recently, table games.

On Thursday a "Fun Night" program was conducted by the staff. The activities included a cowboy and cowgirl show, crafts exhibit, doll show, music, singing and square dancing.

Square dance instructions are given each Thursday at 8 p.m. by Mrs. Rudolph Schubert. Separate hours for adults will be arranged if participation warrants.

JUNIOR BOYS' cage action in the Dorie Miller Basketball League saw the Skyliners chalk up their second and third straight wins over the Aggies, 53-42, and the Blue Devils, 48-28.

Butcher, M. Robinson and R. Judge continue to be the outstanding scorers for the Skyliners with 15, 14 and 10 points, respectively for the two contests.

The Gridiron Five, newcomers in the senior boy league this year, collected their first two victories last week by defeating the Lakers, 29-26, and the Lucky Clovers 49-34. Charles Simpson of the Gridiron Five, is high scorer with 16 points per game.

Action in the adult league was hampered last week by footballs. The Pacesetters picked up a forfeit over the Vagabonds and Pace-makers won over the Kings.

As I See It

By AL SWEENEY
WASHINGTON

Last week's National Football League draft meeting in New York City reaffirmed an opinion that Washingtonians have had about the local grid professionals, the Redskins.

Of the 22 players drafted by Joe Kuharich with the advice of Owner George P. Marshall not one was a person of color.

I don't think that we need any further evidence that the Redskins management doesn't intend to hire colored players and that grid fans should govern themselves accordingly.

* * *

LAST YEAR, the only teams that failed to sign a colored player in the NFL were the Detroit Lions and the infamous Redskins.

However, this year in the draft, it is noted that the Lions picked Elijah Childers, a tackle from Prairie View, as their sixth draft choice.

This fellow Childers, I am told, is quite a lineman and his high ranking among the Lions draftees indicates that Buddy Parker wasn't just giving his finger exercise.

The other eight teams have colored players.

* * *

THE NEW YORK Giants chose Mel Triplett, Toledo, fifth choice; the Chicago Bears drafted Ohio State's spectacular Bobby Watkins, a halfback, second choice; J. D. Smith, a halfback, North Carolina A. and T., No. 15; Henry Mosely, a back of Morris Brown, sixth choice;

THE GREEN BAY Packers picked Charles Brackins of Prairie View, a back, as 16th choice; and Robert Carter, a tackle, as 18th choice;

The Baltimore Colts chose Leo Lewis, Lincoln U. (Mo.), a little All-America back, as sixth choice; they also picked Jesse Arnelle, the Penn State end, who was traded to Los Angeles;

The Pittsburgh Steelers on their 11th draw chose Lincoln U's (Pa.) James Cooke, an end.

I feel that the recent draft shows conclusively that attitude of many fans toward the local pro gridders Redskins to the effect that they sing, "The Hail With The Redskins" is not unfounded.

Boxing Decision Hits Joe Louis

Court says Bomber party to monopoly

By LOUIS LAUTIER

WASHINGTON D.C. (NNPA) —The Supreme Court decision Monday, holding that the International Boxing Club is subject to the anti-trust laws, may hit Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, in the breadbasket.

The effect of the decision is to reinstate the complaint of the Federal Government in the Federal District Court at New York City against three corporations and two individuals. The case was dismissed on authority of a 1922 Supreme Court decision holding that organized baseball was outside the scope of the Sherman anti-trust law and a decision last year adhering to the 1922 opinion.

* * *

LOUIS WAS not named a defendant in the boxing case, although he owns a fifth interest in the International Boxing Club of Illinois and the International Boxing Club of New York, two of the three corporate defendants. The other corporate defendant is Madison Square Garden.

If the Government should win a decree on trial of the case in the Federal District Court, IBC's stranglehold on the boxing game will be broken and boxing returned to promotion by local promoters.

Exclusive contracts held by IBC with titleholders will be cancelled and the Garden and Norris and Wirtz enjoined from discriminating against any promoter.

The District Court also will be asked to enter such an order as will restore free and open competition in the broadcasting, telecasting and motion picture production and distribution of such contests.

* * *

THE GOVERNMENT has never disclosed why it did not name Louis as a defendant in the suit, although it claimed that the conspiracy to eliminate competition in the promotion of boxing began in 1946 when the defendants entered into an agreement with Louis.

The complaint alleges that in January, 1949, the defendants entered into agreements with Louis then heavyweight champion of the world. Under the terms of the agreements, Louis agreed to retire from active boxing, resign his title, procure the exclusive rights to the services of the four leading contenders for his crown in a series of elimination contests for a successor and assign those exclusive rights to the defendants.

The agreements provided that Louis was to receive $100,000 from the defendants and stock in the corporations which were to be formed by the defendants.

* * *

CONTRACTS WERE entered into between Joe Louis Enterprises, Inc., an Illinois corporation, in which Joe owned the majority of the stock and Jersey Joe Walcott, Leonard Charles, Lee Savold and Gus Lesnevich, the leading contenders for Louis' title, on February 14, 1949.

These contracts provided that the exclusive services of Walcott, Charles, Savold and Lesnevich were to be rendered to Joe Louis Enterprises or its assignee and that an elimination professional contest was to be conducted among them for the heavyweight championship of the world.

The contracts also provided that Louis Enterprises, or any party or corporation designated by it, was to have the exclusive right to broadcast any of the contests, both in radio and television and the exclusive right to arrange for the production and distribution of motion picture films of the contests.

* * *

LOUIS LATER resigned his title and, through agreements entered into among the defendants and others, the two IBC corporations were formed. Joe Louis Enterprises assigned its contracts with Walcott, Charles, Savold and Lesnevich to IBC of Illinois, Louis was paid $150,000, and the elimination heavyweight championship contests were promoted by the defendants.

Charles was recognized by the National Boxing Association as the heavyweight champion as the result of his winning a 15-round unanimous decision over Walcott in Chicago June 22, 1949.

Universal recognition was given to Charles after he defeated Louis, who attempted a comeback in Madison Square Garden, Sept. 27, 1950, in a 15-round bout in New York City.

* * *

IN A 6-2 decision, Monday, the Supreme Court ruled that the promotion of professional championship boxing contests on a multi-state basis, coupled with the sale of rights to televise, broadcast, and film the contests for interstate transmission, constitutes "trade and commerce among the several States" within the meaning of the Sherman Act. The majority opinion was written by Chief Justice Earl Warren. Justice Felix Frankfurter

Bates cagers roll over weak Upper Marlboro 5

ANNAPOLIS — Bates High School, coached by string ace Earl Langford, Bob Jones, Monroe Green, and Melvin Pindell showing the way, rolled to its easiest and most impressive victory of the season by trampling a weak Douglass of Upper Marlboro basketball team 74-22 Tuesday on its own boards.

Taking advantage of a leaky defense and the loose ball handling of the visitors, every man on coach John Holt's improving contingent scored except Carpolina Langford, junior brother of Earl Langford, Jasper Little, Franklin Johnson, Carrolton Green and Norman Randall to work on their ball handling for they too were as effective as the first team and rattled out a 34-9 lead at intermission.

* * *

BATES IN chalking up its third victory of the season swiped the ball from Douglass when it looked almost certain the losers would tally and almost on every occasion converted it into a score.

The 74 points was season high for the Little Giants and marked the first time that a Holt coached Bates team has held anyone under 25 points.

It was also the highest amount of points Bates has scored on any team since trouncing this same outfit a year ago 103-42.

With the second string five showing to extremely great advantage, Little, a canny senior playing his first season of High School ball, appeared to be the best of the fivesome, as he along with Langford on numerous thrusts scored three and four straight baskets in a row.

Bates will undoubtly have its hands full Friday(today) when it takes on Dunbar of Baltimore.
