tion."

ASKED TO explain, Mr. Fox said: "That is the statement I am authorized to make. I am just an employee of the hotel."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Fox, since 1943, has been assistant secretary and general manager of the Baltimore Sheraton Corp., a subsidiary of the Sheraton Corp. of America).

Reports that the powerful Baltimore Hotel Assoc. Inc., threatened a boycott of the Sheraton when it announced its change of policy last December have been rampant for sometime.

Mr. Fox refused to comment on these reports. He did say, however, that the hotel's new policy could not work if the Sheraton - Belvedered was prevented from enjoying association with other local hotels.

He said that membership in the local association is required if a hotel would affiliate with the national hotel group and have the benefit of publications and exchange of business.

Mr. Fox added: "We have shown our good faith in trying to pioneer here in Baltimore but any action of this kind must have the cooperation of all the hotels. I am not too discouraged. I think things will work themselves out."

ASKED ABOUT existing reservations for conventions and groups, Mr. Fox said:

"We are bound to honor all existing reservations but you must understand that these reservations must be in accord with the laws of the city. The liquor law regulation is one of the real stumbling blocks to this situation."

Among events already scheduled for the Sheraton is the Urban League's annual dinner on March 13.

The Sheraton - Belvedere is one of 21 hotels located in 17 U.S. cities operated by the Sheraton Corp. of Amesica of which Ernest Henderson is president.

Headquarters are in Boston at 470 Atlantic Ave. All Sheraton hotels welcome all guests except the Sheraton in Baltimore.

NOTICE that the Sheraton - Belvedere had reverted to its old policy was contained in a letter sent to all members of the Baltimore Hotel Association on Jan. 21st. The letter signed by H. Nelson Busick, president and manager of the Lord Baltimore Hotel, said:

"You will recall that recently Albert Fox was instructed by Sheraton headquarters to change his policy relative to the housing and service of negroes. (sic)

"This policy change has been rescinded, and the Sheraton-Belvedere is again on the same basis regarding the housing and service of negroes as all the other hotels in this Association." (Mr. Busick's letter spelled Negroes with small 'n.')

Efforts to get Mr. Busick to say whether the change of policy followed a meeting of the group proved futile. His office reported him ill at home. Mrs. Busick, when reached at their Hopkins Apartment home, said he was too ill to talk.

School No. 138, Harlem Ave. and Monroe St.; Abraham Lincoln School No. 141, Mulberry and Payson Sts.; James Mosher School No. 144, Mosher St. and Wheeler Ave.; the Cherry Hill Elementary School, No. 159; and Elementary School No. 145, Poplar Grove St. between Lanvale St. and Lafayette Ave.

Relief for the Cherry Hill School is in sight with the building of a third elementary school in that section. The addition to School No. 144 will relieve the conditions at Schools Nos. 100, 137, and 138. The new Gwynns Falls School will accommodate some of the pupils at Schools Nos. 138, 142, and 148, Miss Adams said.

As dark as the picture is, it is brighter than in 1953, said the superintendent. Additional facilities made available this year include the new Elmer A. Henderson School No. 101; and 10 classrooms at the new Cherry Hill Junior High School No. 180.

Facilities in churches are still being used, including those at Temple Baptist Church and the Knox Presbyterian Church.

Lack of safety and health facilities prevent more such facilities being used, Miss Adams said.

She also pointed out that pupils are being transported to less crowded schools to avoid part-timness in several situation Among these are 140 pupils from Cherry Hill School No. 159 to the Mt. Winans School No. 156.

WILLIAM H. LEHR, director of school facilities, said the bid of the James F. Hughes Construction Company to build the addition to Southern High School at a cost of $2,283,000 has been accepted.

Miss Pauline J. Harris, and Miss Twilah Williams were appointed to elementary school positions.

The resignations of George B. Browne Sr., teacher at School No. 136, and Earl C. Hill, teacher at Dunbar Junior-Senior High School, were accepted.

SITE OF RAID—This is the home at 2915 Elgin Ave., where police arrested three men on Tuesday afternoon, and charged them with participation in what was described as a $6,000,000 lottery operation.

SLIM MYERS

SONNY PRATT

arrest was illegal.

ACCORDING TO police officers who staged the Elgin St. raid, the house served as the center of a numbers operation doing an estimated $6,000,000 business a year, making it one of the largest, if not the largest alleged lottery rings in the city.

The only operation to compare in size with the alleged Elgin St. business, police said, was broken up in the fall of 1953 when a raid in the 3300 block Brighton St., uncovered a ring doing a $3,000,000 annual business.

These police estimates of the size of the alleged Elgin St. operation, however, have been disputed by several men close to the numbers business, who told the AFRO they doubted if the combined business of all lottery operators in the uptown area equaled $6,000,000 a year.

Despite the confusion over the size of the reported operation, the Tuesday raid did succeed in touching off speculation that police may be planning a "crackdown" on other persons suspected of playing leading roles in the multi-million dollar racket in the uptown area.

SUCH REPORTS are helped along by the recent revelation that, at least one lottery writer has been talking at length with police, and others are reported ready to give information in exchange for favors.

In addition, other reports indicate that one law enforcement officer, believed to have direct if somewhat shady contacts with uptown numbers writers, may be "pointing the finger" at his former friends, in an effort to re-establish himself in the good graces of his superiors.

To make the current situation even more of a puzzler to local numbers men, there are also reports that uptown backers are being "fingered" by out of town gangsters, who want to either force them into a "shotgun partnership" or else make it impossible for them to continue in business.

The last report, however, is not completely new, since an AFRO reporter uncovered the plot several months ago and even obtained the name of the man who is known to be behind the plan.

THE TUESDAY raid has served to add fresh fuel to these reports, although the official police report says the raid was staged as a result of information that narcotics laws were being violated at the house, and police accidentally stumbled on the alleged lottery ring in a routine investigation of the complaint.

Police report that when they arrived at the house (which is rented in the name of Mr. Pratt) to investigate the complaint, they were met at the door by Mr. Pratt's 13-year-old stepdaughter, who answered the bell and immediately yelled:

Police! police!

The three policemen, from the Northwestern District annex, — Lt. Frank Battaglia, Sgts. Harry Linton and Sgt. Joseph E. Judd, said they explained the narcotics complaint to the girl and she admitted them to the house.

Once inside the house, the officers said they heard the sound of an adding machine and Sergeant Linton dashed up the stairs to the second floor where he found the men seated about the table, each operating an adding machine among stacks of lottery tapes.

PRATT, MYERS and Franklin were then taken to the Northwestern station house where they were booked on lottery charges. Late that evening they were released in a total bail of $4,500 supplied by a professional bondsman.

On Wednesday afternoon, the three defendants appeared before Magistrate E. Everett Lane with Senator Cole as their attorney, and the state represented by John C. Weiss and Preston A. Pairo Jr., both assistant state's attorneys.

The appearance of the state prosecutors at a preliminary hearing was highly unusual, since it is only in very rare instances that the state's attorney sends a representative to a preliminary hearing.

It is believed that their appearance was due to the alleged size of the operation and the fact that the state's attorney obviously considered the case important enough to have a representative on hand.

AS THE HEARING opened, the three defendants kept their seats as Mr. Cole requested a postponement of the hearing in order to obtain several witnesses and a stenographer.

The postponement was opposed by the state which said that it was ready for the hearing and that it had enough evidence to establish a "prima facie" case on which the three men could be held for action of the grand jury.

Mr. Cole repeated his request and added that he hoped to obtain testimony from the missing witnesses which would enable Magistrate E. Everett Lane to dispose of the case in the police court, instead of having it sent to the grand jury.

(Mr. Cole did not elaborate on this statement, but it was understood that he intends to attack the legality of the arrests, on the grounds that the officers had no search warrant when they entered the house.

If he is successful, the defendants can be released at once, even though the state's attorney still has the right to take the case directly to the grand jury in spite of the dismissal.)

After considerable wrangling between Mr. Cole and the state's attorneys, both sides finally agreed on Saturday as the date for the hearing.

Magistrate Lane ordered the men held in the same bail for the hearing.

OF THE THREE men arrested, the dapper Pratt and Myers, are the best known in the city.

Mr. Myers has been a popular local businessman, while Mr. Pratt is the son of the late Harry T. Pratt Sr., principal of Douglass High School and co-owner of the Druid Laundry.

At his death in 1945, the senior Pratt left the bulk of his estate to his son, including several pieces of property. The estate dwindled to such a point that in January of this year the Pratt home at 2411 Madison Ave. once a city showplace, was sold at public auction for $6,880.

Mr. Myers is engaged in real estate and associated with Club Tijuana, owned by his wife, Doretha.

Court of Appeals refuses to rehear Bennie Caldwell

WASHINGTON

With Chief Harold M. Stephens dissenting, eight Justices of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District, Thursday, refused to grant Bennie Caldwell's motion for a rehearing before the full court.

Chief Judge Stephen, the opinion said. "Is of the view that the petition for rehearing before the full court should be granted."

Mr. Caldwell, convicted last year for the time on charges of jury tampering, now has no other recourse than to appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Voting probe

The Grand Jury spent four hours on Thursday listening to testimony of witnesses summoned in regards to the voting probe in the 23rd and 33rd Precincts of the 15th Ward.

State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro said Friday that he had nothing new in regards to the investigation.

The AFRO learned, howerever, that addtional witnesses are expected to be called before the Grand Jury.

ing foul play, reported it to police officials.

INVESTIGATORS SAID that Mrs. Daniels told them she had slapped the child a couple of days before when the youngster refused to eat.

Police said that x-rays revealed that the child's jaw had been broken several days before. They said that when the child was brought to the hospital there were holes in her face and all her teeth were loose.

According to police, records at City Hospitals revealed that the child had spent most of her life in and out of that institution.

Police said the record shows she has been treated there for brain injuries, a dislocated shoulder and broken arm.

At her death, an x-ray revealed that the child's right arm had been broken, but never treated.

Officers said that hospital employees said the little girl "was a pretty child and we were crazy about her."

ACCORDING TO police, the child's father, Robert L. Daniels, 30, is unable to work and the Danielses are getting welfare aid. They have received monthly checks as high as $175, police said, and the father drives a big car.

Conditions at the home are deplorable, police reported. They said that the dead child slept in a crib that had a hole in the mattresses through which they could see the floor.

The springs were broken, police said, and the prongs — some as long as a finger — protruded through the mattress. The other seven children slept in beds equally as unfit, police reported. The youngest child is one-month-old.

Police said the other children seemed to be healthy.

THE MEDICAL Examiner's office said that an autopsy revealed that the child had a broken jaw, numerous injuries to the legs and had had a brain injury since birth.

Police reported that they were told at City Hospital, where the child was born, that it was normal at birth, but shortly afterward the child was admitted to the hospital with a brain injury.

The mother has been held at the Pine St. station since Tuesday.

Officers said that the mother told them that some of the injuries to the child occurred when she fell out of the crib and high chair.

Wife freed in cutting

A young housewife who testified she cut her husband and a strange woman with a can opener when she found them in a compromising position in his brother's bedroom, went free on Wednesday in Northwestern Police Court.

Mrs. Lucille Guy, 27, of the 600 block Calhoun St., said the twin cutting took place on Tuesday afternoon, when she found her husband, Elwood, 35, and Mrs. Mattie Strothers, 32, of the 700 block N. Carey St., in bed together at a house in the 1800 block of Lorman St.

"He saw me and picked up a wine bottle and hit me with it, I looked for something and saw the can opener and I stuck him and her," the housewife said.

THE HUSBAND was injured in the chest and Mrs. Strothers was cut about the face. They were treated at Provident Hospital and later released.

While Mr. Guy declined to testify, Mrs. Strothers readily admitted that she had met the husband only a few hours earlier and that after telling her that he was single, she agreed to accompany him to the Lorman St. house.

For his part in the episode, Mr. Guy was fined $50 and costs, and was told by Magistrate E. Lane, "Your wife has a good basis for a divorce."

DISASTER

- Family of 7 homeless after fire
- Children need shoes and clothing

NEWARK

A Newark mother, who with her seven children were among 20 families left homeless Jan. 26 when fire swept three adjoining buildings in a tenement district, told the New Jersey AFRO-AMERICAN that the boys and two youngest children are in urgent need of shoes and clothing.

The fire which Chief Harry Sommers said was caused by a defective flue in her first-floor apartment at 9 Hillside Pl., routed Mrs. Verna Covington, 32, and her seven children:

Renee, 2; Dennis, 3; Rodney, 5; Paulette, 6; Gordon, 8; Lindsley, 9; and Carolyn, 10.

MRS. COVINGTON said she was preparing lunch at 11:30 a.m. when Theodore Green, a second-floor tenant, rushed in and asked her if she smelled smoke.

Minutes late, the building was a mass of smoke and flames which, fanned by a heavy wind, spread to adjoining buildings at Nos. 7 and 11 Hillside Pl.

When firemen arrived all of the tenants in the three buildings had escaped without injuries.

CLASSES IN A wing of the Charlton St. School which is across the street from the fire scene were suspended and pupils were led to other parts of the school.

The children's father, Sim Covington, an un-employed construction worker, was out looking for a job when the fire broke out.

The family is on relief, Mrs. Covington told the AFRO that her neighbors came promptly to their aid and supplied the children with warm clothing until they were given shelter by her sister, Mrs. Lillian Parish, 15 Hillside Pl.

SHE ALSO praised the teachers and PTA members at Charlton St. School who lost no time in seeing that her children of school age were supplied with shoes and some clothing.

However, she pointed out, the two youngest children, Renee, 2, and Dennis, 3, are in urgent need of shoes, and the boys are in need of pants, jackets, sweaters, socks and coats.

Shoes and clothing for the children should be sent to Mrs. Covington in care of her sister, Mrs. Parish.

FIVE OF THE firemen who toiled in the cold and had to combat a thick pall of smoke for five hours before putting out the fire, were injured:

Treated at Martland Medical Center were:

Leo Wroble of Engine 12, Edward Jorda of Truck 5, Lawrence Cavanaugh of Truck 9, Robert Howard of the Salvage Corps, all for hand cuts; and Capt. Dennis McLaughlin of the Rescue Squad, for a knee injury.

Lacy answers divorce suit

WASHINGTON

Samuel H. Lacy, sports editor of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers Wednesday answered the divorce complaint filed against him last week by his wife, Mrs. Alberta V. Lacy, 722 Park Rd., NW.

Mr. Lacy was sued for an absolute divorce on the grounds of adultery. Mrs. Lacy named one Barbara Minnie Daniel—who she said was also known as Barbara Lacy—as co-respondent.

Mr. Lacy denied the charge that he had failed to support his minor son, saying "he has always supported his minor son to the best of his ability and is willing to continue to do so."

HE ALSO denied claims that his weekly earnings approximated $150 as his wife had charged. Mr. Lacy said he averages $80 a week on his job. He demanded strict proof of other allegations made by Mrs. Lacy, and asks that her complaint be dismissed.

Miss Daniel also answered and she said had insufficient information about most of the charges to make proper answer. She, too, asked dismissal of Mrs. Lacy's complaint.

Belford V. Lawson Jr., attorney, represented Mr. Lacy and Miss Daniel. Mr. Lacy lives at 2101 North Ave., NW.

Officer in shooting acquitted

Given a leave of absence 16 days ago after a 20-year-old man was shot and killed, Patrolman John R. Pierce of the Northeastern District won an acquittal Tuesday in Central Police Court.

Patrolman Pierce and Harry C. Stayler, a special officer from Johns Hopkins Hospital, fired six shots at Coleman and another man on Jan. 17 when they caught them tampering with a parked car.

Coleman was killed when one of the bullets struck him in the neck. He resided in the 800 block of Greenmount Ave.

The officers said they found the two men working around the car in the 1600 block Jefferson St. around midnight.

PATROLMAN Pierce reported that when he ordered one of the men out of the car, he threw something in his face and ran. At about the same time the second man started running.

It was brought out at the hearing before Magistrate Marshall Leving that Coleman was shot after throwing a brick at the officer and after ignoring his instructions to halt.

The special officer said he fired one shot in the air and Patrolman Pierce three before they started chasing Coleman.

The automobile in which the two men were caught belongs to Mrs. Geneive Hock of the 1900 block E. Thirtieth St.

Launch drive for Crusade for Freedom

The Crusade for Freedom, nationwide drive for signatures and "truth dollars" to carry on Radio Free Europe's fight against communist lies, will be launched in Baltimore on Tuesday, February 8.

Thomas D'A. Brophy, past president of the American Heritage Foundation, will informally discuss the operation of Radio Free Europe with a group of civic and patriotic leaders and representatives of the press in the auditorium of radio station WFBR, 10 E. North Ave., next Tuesday at 3:45 p.m.

February 12 to 22 will be "Freedom Week" in Baltimore. During that week, the Crusade for Freedom will make a concerted drive for signatures on Freedom Scrolls and for "truth dollars" to help Radio Free Europe fight Communist lies with the truth.

Walter Sondheim Jr., is Maryland chairman of the Crusade.

Minister's son surrenders in 1941 gun slaying

PHILADELPHIA

The influence of a good father upon his son was evidenced, last Thursday, when Jacob B. Stevens walked into City Hall and surrendered in the pre-Pearl Harbor slaying of John Monroe in 1941.

Less than 100 miles away in New York City, Stevens had decided to get on the side of the law in answer to the pleas of his father.

No matter what the circumstances, the elder Stevens could never condone his son's taking a man's life at Coulter St. and Pulaski Ave., on Dec. 5, two days before Peerl Harbor.

STEVENS' FATHER is a minister in New Jersey.

A look into the records bore out Stevens' story to Homicide Detective Robert Winchester and his commanding officer, Captain David Roberts.

The fugitive was accompanied by his attorney, Lewis (Tanner) Moore. Mr. Moore is a former assistant district attorney.

MONROE, WHO was 20 at the time the two shots took his life, lived at 420 Winona St. The 21-year-old Stevens, who lived on Germantown Ave. near Rittenhouse St., never even returned home for his clothes.

Several witnesses identified the fugitive Stevens as the slayer before the January grand jury in 1942. He was indicted.

Two of the witnesses were Luther Allen, then of 101 E. Collom St., and Lloyd Johnson who now lives at 1519 W. Pike St.

Another was Joseph Frazier, a Germantown barber. He, however, has since been killed.

STEVENS, ACCORDING to the witnesses got into the argument with Monroe after leaving the Wissahickon Boys Club. Monroe was heard to say:

"There is no use to pull your knife."

Stevens replied, "I' got this," and the gun barked twice.

Married and the father of two children, Stevens did not appear to live the life of a fugitive. He served in the Army from 1943 to 1945. He became a tailor after getting a job in the garment industry shortly after he went to New York City.

Stevens is now in Moyamens-
