Work-to-play marks Lambdas' conference

...with Lula Jones Garrett

Workshops in the morning, a chic luncheon in the afternoon and a fabulous cocktailer in the evening were convention fare for Lambda Kappa Mu sorors, who journeyed from six states for the regional meeting in Washington, Saturday.

In fact the session held over to Sunday . . . but the doings then were strictly business, with aims of setting up plans for the national convention in New York, come June.

The conference was held in Hotel Statler, with the group taking over the South American, the California and the Federal rooms for work. The luncheon was in the Congressional room . . . and probably never in its suave history has the Statler seen such a colorful group.

* * *

DYNAMIC "MAGGIE" Butcher, of the D.C. School Board, Howard University and now on loan to the NAACP, was the honoree.

She received the sorority's award for outstanding service . . . the Lambda Kappa Mu sorors presented to her a perfectly lovely sterling silver ash tray in the form of an oak leaf (the sorority's insignia).

As always good to hear, Dr. Butcher was also good to see . . . in deep brown tweed and black accessories. Though she changed hats right in the midst of the luncheon. . . for when Artie Bell, the designer, showed her faulous hats (as a part of the luncheon program) Dr. Butcher took a multi-colored little number right off the model's head, donned it for the remainder of the luncheon session and for flying that evening to Tampa, Fla. where she had another speaking engagement.

Eva P. Archer, suave in blue, presided at the general session which opened the conference and there was a briefing session by Philitus W. Joyce of Long Island workshop coordinator. These sessions had to do mainly with methods of running and improving the sorority.

Leaders included Catherine Cowell of Staten Island, N.Y.; Fannie Giascoe of Baltimore, Viola B. Christian of the Bronx, N.Y.; and Ethel Wynne of Brooklyn, N.Y.

The cocktail party, a lovely thing to behold, was in the reception rooms of the National Association of Colored Women, where some 200 Washingtonians met the visiting sorors.

Next day (Sunday) they went to the National Council of Women's headquarters for the business session, at which Baltimore's Vivian Alleyne, grand basileus, presided.

* * *

DELEGATES TO THE conference were:

Kay Bailey, Julia Coban, Irene Brogenson, Barbara Jackson, Charlotte Moss, Enid Baird, Philitua Joyce, Edris Bloomfield, Viola Christian, Louise Gibbs, Adena Hinton of NYC;

Sally Gumbs, Verna Johnson, Edith Dodson, Esme Dear, Ethel Wynne, Dorothy Joseph, Emma Potts, Angelina Lynch, Ivy Burnside, Florence Carter, Ruth Gibbs, Brooklyn, N.Y.;

Martha Woodard, Clara Tarry, Bethel Stevenson, Isabelle Kiah, Garnette Henderson, Eunice Bragg, Eva Archer, Eames DesVerney, Alice Saunders of New Jersey;

Elizabeth Thomas, Lillian Jenkins, Carolyn Travlee, Euberta Rodgers, Ann Price, Gwendolyn Williams, Thelma Wall, Sally Young, Beatrice Leathers, Dura Richardson, Magnolia Campbell of New Jersey;

Peggy Freeman, Lorraine McCoad, Grace McCray of Pittsburgh;

Josephine Maxwell, Veta Greig, Eunice Brooks, Hattie Tilghman, Fannie Glascoe, Lillian Rustin, Louise Anderson, Ida Wroten, Vivian Turks, Mary Owens and Gannie Holly of Baltimore;

DR. AND MRS. Henry C. Welcome's party, at the Mc-Do-So Club, Saturday night, was both informal and delightful.

Inspiring the affair was a demand on so many of their friends for a viewing of the films they made while on a tour of Europe the past summer. And the pictures, all in color, lived up to the expectations of all.

Enhancing the showing, were pictures made by Henry Niles, who served on the 4-point porgram in India, until recently.

The Welcomes' pictures were strictly on the beauty angle. Mr. Niles showed much of the poverty side of India and the work now being done to upgrade living in that country. He (Dr. Niles) was careful to explain that there is an entirely different side of India to be seen, that the country had an advanced civilization far ahead of that of the Western world, and that the people of that country are actually receiving a very small percentage of aid in their building program.

Guest of honor was Dr. Indie Tarkunde of India, who is at Sinai Hospital while studying in this country.

Guests came in around nine for cocktails and talk. Saw the pictures, Stayed for other refreshments and more talk until a late hour.

They included:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendrickson, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Christmas Sr., Dr. and Mrs. Talmade Pinkney, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips, Mrs. Pauline Watts;

Mrs. Albert Laforest, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Christmas Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Mark Patterson, Mrs. Carl Murphy, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nixon, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Munroe;

Dr. Bernard Levin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Niles, Miss Cushing Niles, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bliss, Mrs. Theresa Waters, Mrs. Ruth Shipley and Mrs. Mae Gellman.

THE LAWYERS WIVES met Tuesday evening at the home of Lucille Fitzgerald. Co-hostesses along with her were Sarah Bundy, Mercedes Douglas and Ada Cooper.

Plans were made for their annual Christmas party and further plans were initiated for a mid-winter benefit party for their Worthy Student Fund.

Joining in the hilarious games led by Mercedes were:

Catherine Green, Zaidee Koger, Verna Gosnell, Madeline Murphy, Anna Williams, Ruth Rosedom, Clarice Parrish, Maaret Koger, Erovelle Brinkley, Thelma Baylor, and Jacquelyn Watts.

PHI DELTA KAPPA sorors, meeting at the YWCA on Saturday evening had as guest speaker Dr. Joseph Durham—director of student teaching at Morgan State College.

Plans were consumated for another in a series of seminars to be held at Morgan with prospective teachers. This being a yearly project of Gamma Chapter as a part of their services to the community. Soror Dorothy Thomas is chairman of this activity.

Incidentally, Miss Thomas was recently elected to Kappa Delta Pi of Beta Pi chapter of the School of Education at NYU where she is earning a Master's degree in psychology.

Other plans heard were provision for collecting games to take to children at Crownsville for Christmas; an elaborate extravaganza to be held later with all proceeds going to Crownsville was presented by Soror Victorine Adams.

Present at Saturday's meeting were:

Inez Redmond, Mamie Dorsey, Dorothy Foster, Katherine Nelson, Josephine Lansley, Frances Thompson, Fannie Lawson, Beatrice Rawlings;

Melba Logan, Amy Weaver, Mary Brooks, Clarice Robertson, Gladys Wallace, Mildred Kirkland, Delores Hunt, Elsie Carter, Shirley Watkins, Dorothy Ford, Louise Gray, Della Macer, Alverta Cundieff, Bennie Rouy,

Susie Cordery, Dorothy Thomas, Almira Collins, Sadie Bryant, Bertha Cross, Inez Mason, Allegra Taylor, Effie Scott, Carrie Staten; Florine Allen, Mary James, Theresa McIver, Edith Spriggs, Anne Payne, Carrie Cooper, Orangie Epps, Willie Mae Stawley and Aurelia Green.

KITTY LANE celebrated a birthday, Monday night, so her good friend, Dukye Woode, had a bit of a surprise for her.

Called in Harriet Jones, Birdie West, Vivian Pendleton, Letitia Ashe, Alexander Malone and of course, Magistrate Everett Lane (the honoree's husband) for cocktails, hors d'ouvres, pinochle and contract bridge . . . and of course the loveliest birthday cake.

* * *

ASSISTANCE TO the Mental Hygiene drive and Christmas gifts for patients at Henryton were adopted as year-end projects by members of the Toujcurs Amies Club Saturday night.

Terrie Gilmore was hostess for the November meeting at her Pulaski St. residence.

Prizes were won by Cora Gilson, Frannie Lawson and Francis Mackay, who with Dolores Latimore, were guests.

Members present were Effie James, Cora Gilson, Fannie Lawson, Daisy Harris, Elaine Hassel, Rosa Gaskins and Mary Holmes.

THE BALTIMORE Guardsmen who go all out to make their annual Thanksgiving weekend social "the most," are really going whole hog this year.

They have already signed recording artist Johnny Sparrow and his group to play for their dance tonight, and closed party, Saturday night, at the New Albert.

Now comes word that in addition to Sparrow, they have acquired the services of Bennie "Mr. Blow Your Horn" Green and his trombone for all of the affairs.

Jazz fans know Bennie has perhaps the greatest of all modern trombone players. Its an old saying that good music makes a dance. If that's true, then the Guardsmen with Sparrow and Green should have the most tremendous social function this town has seen in many a moon. The affairs as always are by invitation only.

Among the out-of-town guests expected to dance with the G-m is debonair Grant (Slick) Reynolds of New York who is expected to be Cadillacing this way early this afternoon.

If "Slick" maintains the pace he set at the Philly G-men's affair in the spring, when he took a half-floor at the Ritz Calrton and poured refreshments like the stuff was going out of style, then this old town is in for some real partying.

Look for many a big head come Sunday.

THEIR VENTURE in Washington (organization of a sister chapter) having hit the jack pot, members of the Chipperettes were in the midst of plans for a second chapter in Buffalo, N.Y., this week.

They met on Friday with Louise Robinson, whose catered dinner was par excellence . . . named Mrs. Robinson president; Pauline Blackwell, secretary; and Vonzella Murray, treasurer.

Other members are Cita Finney, Bernadine Harrison, Arnetta Lottier, Vonzella Murray, Nicki Randolph, Ellsworth Rhetta and Frankie Wood.

Mrs. Robinson had as guests Miriam Brown, Robbie Chissell, Helen Gattis, Ivy Harris, Ruth Jennifer, Vashti Matthews, Hortense Perkins and Merita Stokes.

HORNS OF PLENTY, spilling a galaxy of nuts, fruits and vegetables, centering tables, and the YWCA auditorium be-decked in fall flowers was the beautiful setting the Harvest Tea given by the Twenty Women, Sunday.

This against a background of soft music, and with the "Women" in their "most" in the role of hostesses, made the loveliest of affairs.

The tea, a benefit for their charities, was given by:

Queenie Lane, Louvinia Hall, Louise Williams, Lillian Harris, Marie Brown, Julia Gambrill, Margaret Hall, Zelma Johnson, Florence Murray;

Elizabeth Snead, Juanita King, Ann Burton, Mabel Scott, Mary Lyles, Rebecca Swindell, Esther Brown, Ellen Stewart, Violet Lindsay and Elizabeth East.

The Northwest Child Study Club was entertained last Thursday evening by Iona Collins and Flozella Clark, in the former's gay club room.

They heard an excellent talk by Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney, to whom, by the way, they presented a check for $50 for the NAACP Legal Aid Fund.

They also garnered two new members, Dr. Gladys Jones and Mrs. Anita Myers.

THE PHARMACEUTICAL Association and its auxiliary were guests of Dr. Delores Douglas and her mother, Mrs. Roche Douglas of Sanford Place, Sunday evening.

They listened to a report of the activities of the national convention, recently held in Philadelphia, and approved the awarding of their $200 scholarship to Emanuel Christian.

Mr. Christian, a graduate of Douglass High School, is studying pharmacy at the University of Maryland.

The group also presented an intravenous pole to Provident Hospital.

Dr. John Hagan is president of the association, and Mrs. Fred West, president of the auxiliary.

Others at the meeting were the Charles Barnums, George Lees, Clarence Reynoldses, William Rosses, Hayes Buchanans, Benjamin Greens; and Mesdames H. Scott, Rebecca Davis, Carol Lee and Lena Dickerson.

* * *

THE COSSOCKS held forth this week . . . added $35 to their $100 gift to the NAACP, completed plans for their conference here, this week.

The annual session will draw 30 men from this city, New York and Philadelphia. Their schedule will include a business session in the conference room of the Urban League, at one Sunday afternoon; dinner at the Tijuana at five; and a stag party in the club room of Charles Bruce that night.

Mr. Bruce is the newly elected president of the Baltimore chapter. Also elected for the 1955 term are Arthur B. Roane, secretary; Kanzler Randall, secretary-treasurer; James Lee, business manager; and Albert Rice, vice president.

PARTY PRATTLE: Suave, no end, was the party given for the Washington Repertory Players by the Baltimore chapter of the Howard University Alumni Association, Sunday.

The artists, under direction of Anne M. Cooke, presented "The Miser" to a capacity house in the Booker Washington School Auditorium . . . and then went on to the N. Carey St. home of Dr. Isaac Young to personnally meet

Yes, you can beautify your complexion the same way professional models do with Black and White Vanishing Cream. It's greaseless (can't cause blackheads), actually checks skin oiliness. Your make-up looks fresher, your skin feels softer.

● For face powder that clings like mist, lipstick that stays on and on, look for the name Black and White.

Remove make-up with Black and White Cleansing Cream. Soften skin with Black and White Cold Cream. 35¢ each.

THERE WERE A number of folks who saw a part of "The Miser," but shared evening with the Rachel Taylor Wesleyan Service Guild which presented the Phoenix Choir in a recital in Metropolitan Methodist Church . . . and enjoyed a perfectly delightful coffee hour later.

I probably didn't see all of those who poured, but I received a cheering cup from the hands of Theresa Waters, who held down one end of one of the beautifully decored tables . . with Verna Gosnell at the other end.

And over all were the watchful eyes of Margaret Wheatley, more handsome than ever in toffee lace, and orchid corsage.

Other members of the Guild participating were:

Letitia Ashe, Juliet Bragg, Mary N. Brooks, Irene Carter, Ida P. Carrington, Eleanor B. Colvin, Genevieve Fields, Mae Fortune;

Marie Foster, Julia J. Gambrill, Julia P. Gambrill, Mayfield Green, Anita Henson, Juanita Hill, Edna J. Howard, Dora Hutchinson, Marie Lessiter, Lillie Mack;

Mother is the former Marion Seay . . . and Dad is now stationed at Camp Rucker, Ala.

Samuel R. Owings, former city school principal; and Miss Zenobia Hollis, retired city teacher, were honored by the faculty of the Phyllis Wheatley School No. 110-A at the Madison Avenue Branch YWCA, Wednesday evening.

That was a lovely reception that Mrs. Gertrude Duckett of Druid Hill Ave. gave in honor of her daughter, Doris, Sunday, following the latter's confirmation. Members of the confirmation class, and close friends were guests.

Mrs. Carrie Jordan, mother of Bishop Fred Douglass, who came East to see her son off to Africa, has been the house guest of Miss Elizabeth Johnson. Elizabeth Telley, director of the Bar-Wil-Bar Home, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Barethrope, are in from Washington, where, ensconsed in The Shoreham, they attended the National Association of Registered Nursing Homes.

The Ascoe Club Auxiliary met on Tuesday, set up plans for a Christmas party for their gentlemen.

Then they had fun, themselves, with games and refreshments. Edith Scott and Marie Murphy shared the hostessing to:

Edith Saunders, Emma Owens, Aileen Cook, Marian Smith, Henrietta Scott, Mary Christmas and Catherine Carroll.

Two of the members, Dora Miller and Mary Thomas, were absent because of the illnesses of their respective husbands, John Miller and James Thomas.

And speaking of illnesses, Mrs. William Dixon is back in circulation after a spell in Johns Hopkins Hospital, and a bit of surgery.

THE MEETING of the Alpha Wives was turned into a mythical radio and tv broadcast Tuesday night. More than 30 members sat spellbound while the gripping drama, "Love in the Ape House" unfolded to a thundering climax.

The play, presented with suitable background music by the Alpha Wives Orchestra, was the highlight of a gay evening of fun at 910 Edmondson Ave.

Leading roles were portrayed by Hilda Higgins, Mae Campbell, Ada Veney and Blanche Hughes. Catherine Adams was the director while costumes were the handiwork of Mary Pitts.

Wielding the baton in front of the orchestra was Vashti Matthews as "Mrs. Ray Brock."

Bridge and pinochle occupied the remainder of the evening. Prize winners were Robbin Chissell, Minna West, Eleanor Bracy, Audrey Davis and Francis Mackay.

Others present included: Louise Dennis, Patricia Page, Miriam Brown, Olivia Dixon, Verda Welcome, Marguerite Brown, Kay Carter, Marye Oliver, Irene Templeton, Ellen John, Ellsworth Rhetta, Maxine Higginbotham, Vivian Pendleton, Mattie Connor, Ella Edemy, Alma Gray, Rubye Walker and Anita Myers.

Serving as hostesses were Hilda Higgins, Catherine Adams, Mae Campbell, Ada Veney, Vashti Matthews, Blanche Hughes, Vashti Murphy and Mae Pitts.

RUMORS ARE making the rounds that Dr. and Mrs. Barnett Rhetta Jr., will soon unveil a fabulous home in the upper Ashburton section. It is reliably reported that the deal was closed by Edward F. Shipley who is known to have been working on securing the property in the above $20,000 bracket — way above!

Also making the rounds at the same time was word that another young doctor and Mr. Shipley are huddling about a piece of property located in the same area.

You can rest assured however, that at these box car figures, there won't be any mass migration on either side.

What I think is the most interesting story in the realty section, this week, concerns a small colony in the West Walbrook area (only 20 families) who have decided that they want to break the lily-white pattern. One family is leaving for the West. The remaining 19 are quietly scouting around for a non-white buyer for the beautifully landscaped, spacious home. This is also a five-figure deal.

Back from Germany, this week, are Capt. and Mrs. Roland H. Rogers and Ronnie, and will be guests of honor at the homecoming and birthday party given by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Rogers, Sunday, at the latters' Lanvale St. home.

South Baltimore Notes

By GEORGE W. E. HILL

South Baltimore joins with the many thousands who are celebrating the Southern Life Insurance Company's 45th anniversary.

The five men who organized Southern Life should live in the memories of the people in all sections of the city and state.

They were Cornelius H. Jones, a merchant; the Rev. Lewis Davenport, a second hand furniture man; Alfred Nixon, a freight clerk; Dr. M. Alexander, and Deleware Williams.

* * *

THESE FIVE men, with $300 invested it in what was called the People's Benefit and Fraternal Society. Today the organization is worth $500,000.

Can we do anything more worthwhile than give thanks to God for such individuals who made it possible for such a valuable business organization?

We may also give a word of praise to our present day Southside gentlemen, Joseph Bush and Ross Sye, representatives of the company.

Thanksgiving Day service was held at First Baptist Church, Mt. Winans, with the Rev. Herbert Moore, host pastor. The Rev. W. R. Chew presented the Thanksgiving message.

The choir consisted of members of Bethany Baptist, First Baptist, Mt. Winan Methodist an Star of Bethlehem Ame churches.

The pastors are the Revs. H. Moore, Hammond, W. R. Chew and Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dukes of 126 W. West St., who lost all of their clothing and furniture in the recent South Baltimore fire, are very happy for the charity given to their family by Mrs. Gilman of the South Baltimore Hospital.

The entire family of eleven was given clothes, food and shelter by Mrs. Gilman.

For the unselfish deeds by Mrs. Gilman we would give an orchid for the year.

People often wonder how a championship fighter can hold back enough strength to score a late-round knockout. The answer is simple: a good fighter paces himself. So does anyone else who wants to put his best into his job . . . and get the best out of it. Pacing is an important part of success. When you've been piling up the minutes and hours of steady work, good sense calls for a break. That's when people everywhere reach for frosty bottles of delicious ice-cold Coca-Cola. After "the pause that refreshes" with a bottle of Coke, they go back to work . . . or back to play . . . refreshed.
