NAACP re-elects Mrs. Lillie Jackson

Installation of officers this Sunday 3 p.m. at Bethel

Reporting 7,050 members and $18,061 in cash from its successful annual membership campaign, the Baltimore Branch NAACP unanimously re-elected Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president at the annual election of officers and victory membership meeting Tuesday night at the Sharp Street Methodist Church.

Serving her twentieth year at the helm of the NAACP, Mrs. Jacson recounted the growth of the branch from its inactivity in 1935 to its present status as the Thalheimer Award winner at the National Convention in Texas last summer for being one of the largest branches and having the most active program in the country.

A native Baltimorean, Mrs. Jackson's mother, Amanda Bowen, was freeborn in Baltimore in 1854, Her father, Charles Carroll, descendant of the signer of the Declaration of Independence, was Freeborn in Howard County in 1838.

Said Mrs. Jackson, "The spirit of freedom is in my blood stream."

DURING THE MEETING, Mrs. Jackson paid tribute to the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers and its president, Dr. Carl Murphy, for their long fight against injustice to and oppression of colored citizens.

Mrs. Jackson declared the NAACP and the AFRO-AMERICAN had been twin generals in the NAACP's fight for freedom.

The church also came in for special commendation from Mrs. Jackson. She said: "The NAACP is God's workshop and the ministers of our city have been most cooperative in helping to help God bring brotherhood to Baltimore."

The labor, business and professional people were also praised for their constant support of the NAACP's cause.

The president pledged an unceasing, uncompromising fight of the NAACP until every vestige of unconstitutional discrimination is ended.

The branch voted to continue the membership campaign until December 15th to give every church organization, and interested citizen an opportunity to get their memberships and contributions in to the branch office at 402 Dolphin Street.

Bathroom murder hearing delayed until December 10

Delayed so psychiatrists can examine Tyson; friends recall last Thanksgiving with teacher, this year he had turkey in jail

At the request of defense council Joseph Rosenthal the scheduled hearing for Lucian M. (Lou) Tysou, charged in the fatal beating of kindergarten teacher Mrs. Grinage N'vhulson, has been moved from today (Friday) to Dec. 10.

Mr. Rosenthal said he made the request in order to give his psychiatrists the opportunity to examine Tyson. The attorney is expected to enter a not guilty plea by reason of insanity at the Tyson hearing.

Tyson has been charged in the death of the pretty and frail teacher who was found by police in the locked bathroom of her home in Tyson standing near her body. The location of the death scene has marked the case as "The Bathroom, Murder."

• • •

MEANWHILE, Tyson went through a new experience on Thursday, as he spent his first Thanksgiving as a prisoner. In this case his prison was the City Jail where he is being held without bail pending trial in the death of the woman he once planned to marry.

Last Thanksgiving, Tyson and Mrs. Nicholson were a happy couple as they and 9,998 other spectators watched Virginia State defeat Morgan, 20-7, in the annual football classic, at Morgan's Hughes Stadium.

After the game, there were the traditional Thanksgiving feasts, but this Thursday Tyson ate a lonely prisoner's dinner, far removed from the persons and places which he knows so well, and which remember him as a handsome well-dressed man who was seldom without a friendly smile.

HIS MEAL AT the jail consisted of roast turkey, giblet gravy, sweet potatoes, sauerkraut, pumpkin pie, rolls and coffee.

Last year's Thanksgiving game stands out in the memory of Emmanuel McCray of the 1600 block Bentalou St., who remembers that he accompanied Tyson and Mrs. Nicholson

Maid testifies in Sheppard case

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Mrs. Elnora Helms, a maid in the home of Dr. Sam Sheppard and his wife, Marilyn, for two years prior to the murder of the doctor's wife in July, testified in the first-degree murder trial here Tuesday.

Mrs. Helms, a poised woman, who watched Dr. Sheppard during the cross-examination, told the jury the doctor and his wife switched from a double bed to twin beds last spring after returning from a California trip.

Dr. Sam, who is charged with the murder of his wife, is accused of having an affair with Susan Hayes, a hospital technician while on the California trip.

• • •

PUT ON THE STAND by the prosecution, Mrs. Helms was asked by Saul Danaceau assistant prosecutor: "Before the trip, what room did they occupy?"

Physician's wife sues for divorce

Says Dr. Pair's violence, threats placed her in fear of her life

A suit for a partial divorce has been filed by Mrs. Matilda (Tillie) Pair who also seeks a court order to prevent Dr. James Pair from selling his property and moving out of town.

In the divorce papers filed in Circuit Court last week, Mrs. Pair gave her address as 2401 W. Lafayette Ave., where she and three-year-old James Jr. are living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Young.

She said that she lived with the physician at 1919 Ruxton Ave., until November, 1953, when "by physical violence, threats and abusive conduct, he placed her in fear of her life and safety and forced her to leave him."

• • •

SINCE THAT time, she said, she has received no support for herself and the child other than a $120 check dated October 5 and a $60 check dated November 1, 1954.

This amount, she pointed out, is "obviously insufficient," noting that he earns an average income of $14,000 annually.

Mrs. Pair also accused Dr. Pair of "evading process issued by the State's Attorney's office by causing false information to be given to the State's Attorney."

In September, she took out a summons for the physician who at that time was a patient at Provident Hospital.

It is understood that through her attorneys, Mrs. Pair agreed to withdraw the summons and the case was dismissed. No proceedings against the physician are pending in Domestic Relations division.

WASHINGTON

A 22-year-old Army private, back in the United States from service in Korea, was sentenced to nine months at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge, Tuesday, for alleged refusal to wash dishes in an Army officers' mess.

The sentence was meted out to Pfc. Elmer Robinson 3459 Kemper Dr., Arlington, Va., by a general courtmartial sitting at Ft. McNair upon the accusation of an officer who charged him with "willful failure to obey an order from a superior officer."

A STEWARD at the officers' mess at Ft. McNair testified that Pfc. Robinson had complained of not feeling well, and finally said that he was not able to work on the day of the alleged offense.

The declaration that he was unable to work came after two visits to the dispensary on which occasions medical corpsmen said that they were unable to find anything particularly wrong with him.

LIEUT. COL. F. W. Hendrick, who served as counsel for the accused soldier, based his defense upon the claim that Pfc. Robinson had been illegally assigned to the officers' mess in the first place.

Thanksgiving Gift to the Nation

An Editorial

The Justice Department brief, filed with the U.S. Supreme Court late Wednesday was President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving Day gift to the nation.

In it the President of the United States speaking through his Attorney General, Herbert Brownell Jr., by way of a brief to the high court urges that some start on desegregation of schools begin immediately and that the lower federal courts follow through as promptly as feasible.

There are four important points in the brief that the nation needs to remember:

1. That there is no legal justification for failure to end school segregation.

2. That there is no longer any "local option" on the question of integrating the schools. (This means no lower court, no state, no county, no school board shall do anything different. The constitutionality of this subject is no longer debatable.)

3. The matter of enforcing prompt desegregation of schools is not the judiciary's alone, but a matter for every officer and agency of the Government, Federal, state and local, which is charged with the duty of enforcing the Constitution and rights guaranteed under it.

4. The Government's suggestion is that the ruling applies not only to cases involving the four states and

FRANK E. WALKER, West Baltimore district manager of the N.C. Mutual, with offices at 1301 Pennsylvania Ave., advised the AFRO that through the years repeated efforts to reach the people due these amounts have proved futile.
