Bureau to organize basketball leagues

Basketball leagues in six divisions will be organized by the Bureau of Recreation starting Monday No. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at 1129 N. Calvert St.

Teams will be formed in the junior, midget, and club classes.

Colts fans stage excursion to D.C.

Undismayed by the Baltimore Colts dismal record of one win and four losses in National Football League play, the Colts Associates will make a gala football excursion to the Griffith Stadium wigwam of the Washington Redskins, Sunday.

Buses will leave Baltimore a noon on Ct. 31 from Hecht's Northwood Shopping Center parking area, the Edmondson Village Shopping Center parking area and from Shipping Place in Dundalk, for transportation direct to Griffith Stadium.

Ft. Meade Generals whip Naval Seahawks

FORT MEADE, Md. — The Fort Meade Generals football team scored its fourth consecutive shutout victory, rolling over the U.S. Naval Receiving Station Seahawks, 28-0, at Washington Saturday.

A five-yard pass from Bob Henry to Van Julian, two dashes around right end by Lex Prindle, of one and five yards, and a brilliant 69-yard scamper by Don Lipelt, accounted for the Generals' touchdowns. Lipelt and co-captain Nick Farkas each kicked two extra points.

CHAMPION WITHOUT GLORY—Johnny Saxton, newly crowned welterweight champion, laughingly chats about his future with his manager, Blinky Palermo. Saxton gained a unanimous decision over Kid Gavilan in a controversial title bout in Philadelphia last week and was booed by the crowd. He is a champion without glory, but hopes to prove his worthiness to the title in future bouts.

'That gun isn't loaded' kills in the home and in the woods

Throughout Maryland, hunters are one more heading into woods and fields hoping to bag a wild turkey or other forms of wildlife.

Unfortunately, according to J. Charles Judge, chief, Home Accident Prevention Unit, State Health Department, many will be less fortunate than their quarry by becoming victims of their own or some other hunter's carelessness.

Even more tragic, Mr. Judge says, is the fact that almost as many more will suffer a similar fate, not in the field but in the sanctuary of their homes.

Usually these will be the younger members of the family —the ones who chance to be in the line of fire when "the gun that isn't loaded" is accidentally discharged.

MR. JUDGE stated that throughout the nation, the National Safety Council estimates 2,600 persons die annually as a result of firearms accidents. Countless others are seriously injured. Of this total the greatest percentage are boys and young men 14 to 24 years of age.

In Maryland, the outlook is not much brighter, Mr. Judge continued, stating that in the last four years alone 32 residents have been killed accidentally by firearms.

These have occurred mainly in preparing to clean guns, or knocking it off a rack or other support, pure horseplay, or showing a supposedly unloaded firearm to a friend.

—o o o—

ABOUT ONE-THIRD of all fatal accidental shootings occur in connection with hunting trips, Mr. Judge points out.

The principal causes here are moving suddenly into the line of fire, excited hunters firing quickly at game, hunters not being seen or being mistaken for game.

The principal causes of casualties occurring through accidental discharge of guns are those wherein the hunter stumbles or falls; the trigger catches in brush; bumping or jolting guns during removal from a vehicle or boat; the gun discharging while the hunter is crossing through or over a fence; horseplay; and during loading and unloading.

When hunting, Mr. Judge urges wearing clothing which makes you clearly visible. Red or orange is recommended. White may be mistaken for a deer's tail, he cautioned.

Treat every gun as though it is loaded making sure that the muzzle is always pointed in a safe direction. Never keep a loaded gun in the house under any circumstances.

If a gun is kept in the home, make sure the ammunition is stored separately, especially out of sight and reach of children.

TO HONOR ARCHIE MOORE

WASHINGTON

On Nov. 26, the District Federation of Social Clubs will honord Archie Moore, lightheavyweight champion, at a dance at the Lincoln Colonnade.

As I See It

Coach Eddie Hurt stood in the center of the crowded dressing room in the midst of towering ... of his football squad. ... in his rear pockets and his hat sitting back ... he smiled as he

—o o o—

"WHEW! That was a tough one."

Did you think your men would pull it out?" I asked, recalling that in the fourth period his Morgan Bears were trailing West Virginia State 26-13."

"I had an idea that we might make it. But, I wasn't confident.

"You gotta hand it to these kids of mine they displayed courage to come from behind," he added.

To that I agreed.

—o o o—

"JERRY McARTHUR was the difference. He is a great kid. One of the best. All you have to do is spring him into the open and he'll do the rest," Coach I ... said.

That was pretty high praise for the lad from Baltimore. And the kid is only a sophomore.

Outside after the huge flood-lights were tuned off stood Coach Mark Cardwell of West Virginia's losing Yellow Jackets.

—o o o—

"WE SHOULDN'T have lost it," he said.

"An inexperienced kid let Morgan throw a pass over him. It was inexperience that beat us," said the Jacket coach referring to Gary Freeman's clincher toss to Joe Buckson to give Morgan its 32-26 victory in the final seconds.

"We don't have much this year, but we figure to be tough in November. Maybe we might do something next fall," Coach Cardwell continued.

—o o o—

BOTH COACHES had little to say in praise of the officiating but they didn't condemn the officiating either.

When asked what they thought they merely stared.

Under the new rules, it isn't kosher for a coach to make remarks about poor officiating, no matter how burned up they might be.

But they stare, can't they?

THE GAME itself was the most thrilling of the Capital Classic affairs. The lead changed four times and there were plenty of long runs and at times good tackling.

West Virginia's O'Bryant Scruggs, a tackle, is one of the best linemen to come along in years. He turned in a terrific performance.
