Shriners schedule circus at 5th Regiment

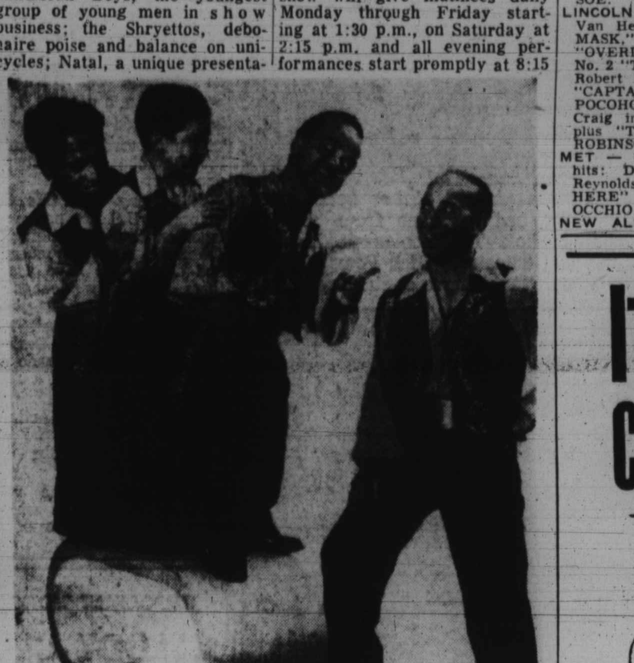
Dick Clemens, intrepid lion tamer, and three girls from Hollywood, elephant stars of numerous MGM motion pictures, headline the vast array of animal acts featured with the 10th Annual Boumi Temple Shrine Circus, produced by Polack Bros., opening at Fifth Regiment Armory Monday, Nov. 1 and continuing with two-a-day performances through No. 6.

Other outstanding animal performers with the three-ring spectacle include: Klauser's Bears, depicting Goldilocks at play with a number of huge "brownies;" The Hanneford Family, expert bareback riding family; Poly Orea, with the greatest display of White Spitz dogs in spectacular fashion; Portis M. Sims, beautiful and educated Liberty Ponies.

AMONG THE acrobats are the Six Sons of Morocco, the All American Boys, the youngest group of young men in show business; the Shryettos, debonaire poise and balance on unicycles; Natal, a unique presentation by the gorilla man; and Alfredo Landon, whose tumbling midgets comprise the "smallest" act in circusdom.

Many performers among the animal trainers, acrobats, clowns and aerialists will be making their first appearance in the United States.

The well - rounded 30-act show will give matinees daily Monday through Friday starting at 1:30 p.m., on Saturday at 2:15 p.m. and all evening performances start promptly at 8:15



CAREFUL—In jest Alfredo Landon, right, is admonished by three members of his midget tumbling act which will appear with the 10th annual Boumi Temple Shrine Circus, produced by Polack Bros., at Fifth Regiment Armory, Nov. 1-6. Landon's performers are the smallest tumblers in the world.

WALTER CARTER of 623 George St., was interviewed by WAAM's Mack Edwards on the TV show, "Everybody Wins," recently. Mr. Carter, a polio victim since childhood, told of his work with Goodwill Industries pointing out that it was the Red Feather Agency that gave him a self-supporting job. Interview was part of station's support of joint Red Feather-Red Cross drive through November 11.

Bureau of Music to present concert here

The Bureau of Music will present the annual fall and winter concert by the Baltimore City Orchestra and Choirs on Friday, December 3, in the auditorium of Douglass High School, Gwynns Falls Parkway and Pulaski St., at 8:30 p.m. Harrison M. Dodd is conductor.

This concert will help celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Bureau of Music, which was founded in 1914.

Along The Avenue

One of the top practitioners of culinary art on the local scene is George Nelson, owner of HASSLINGER'S RESTAURANT at 1125 N. Gay St., a restaurant that features some of the finest food served in an atmosphere that sparkles with cleanliness.

It doesn't take a gourmet to realize that eating can be strictly routine or it can be something special, and the latter remark applies to HASSLINGER'S.

Honest George, the food is the best and the restaurant is the perfect place for a meal that will be enjoyed and remembered.

ON THE SAME side of town is one of the column's favorite spots, the CLUB AMBASSADOR, at Fayette and Washington Sts., where Bill Swindell and the Swingtones are making things hum this week.

The ex-Lionel Hampton ace is backed by a good local group that allows him plenty of room in which to display his talents; which are something to listen to when he begins to hit on all four.

Swindell is a man of many moods. He certainly has the talent to click with a name band as his fans will testify, but he seems happiest when he is playing with his own small group, and local club owers are grateful since the name of Swindell has enough magic to draw a packed house.

The AMBASSADOR has one of the friendliest and easiest going atmospheres on the local scene, and the easy swinging Swindell is right at home in the popular spot.

THE MAX ROACH quintet opened this week at Club Tijuana and has succeded in converting quite a few persons to a fuller appreciation of what modern music really means.

With Roach is Clifford Brown, one of the best of the new trumpet men. Brown and Roach have been featured together in several jazz concerts on the West Coast, one of which was recorded on a long play record and released several weeks ago.

Both the record and their music in person, show Roach and Brown as perceptive musicians, with Brown demonstrating a sense of conception and timing that is a pleasure to hear.

Groups like the Roach outfit are trying to break away from what has become the traditional form of jazz, and their efforts are well worth listening too. Unfortunately, modern music hasn't been helped too much by the exhibitionists who put on a show, but can't play well enough to join a high school band.

However, with musicians of the ability of Roach and Brown on hand, you can forget about the show offs and concentrate on the best in modern music, which is what TIJUANA always features.

WHILE ON THE subject of jazz concerts, it seems the opportune time to note that a number of small record companies have made a lucrative business out of recording these sessions.

Some of the efforts have been quite good, but some of the records should have been smashed before they saw the light of day. It isn't the easiest thing in the world to record music in an auditorium, a converted basketball palace, or a theatre, and often the technical imperfections ruin whatever good the music had at the start.

For our money, the best jazz concert recordings ever made include those in the Benny Goodman Carnegie Hall series, some of the early Jazz at the Philharmonic sessions, and the efforts of Dave Brubeck.

THERE HAS been a lot of enjoyment at RICTOR'S RED FOX LOUNGE this week as owner, George Fox, staged another outstanding entertainment idea. The idea was based on the Halloween holiday, with the club decorated with a Halloween flavor.

Noisemakers, horns and prizes have been distributed every night and on Monday night will come the grand climax when the RED FOX stages a "costume bawl." There will be prizes for the most original male and female costume and a good time for everyone.

It should be quite an evening and one that shouldn't be missed. To make the evening even more entertaining, there is the music of Lou Bennett, and the singing of Wee Bea Booze and Elaine Middleton, a combination that can't be beat.

So get out your costume and come up to the RED FOX on Monday for the time of your life. See you there.

THE CLUB CASINO comes up with a triple threat bill on Monday when they open with Mildred Anderson, Eddie Davis and Doc Bagby. Mildred is the young lady who earned her fame with Bill Doggett.

Such a show should draw a healthy crowd to the CLUB CASINO, what with all that talent to be heard and seen.

—o O o—

MONDAY NIGHT will see the opening of the Lady of Song, Miss Dinah Washington at the COMEDY CLUB. If you have heard any records lately or played a juke box, you are aware of the entertainment the lady brings with her.

Dinah will have her own group and intermission music will be supplied by what the column thinks is one of the finest young groups in the business, the Organax Trio with Bill Wilson.

The boys have been playing an extended engagement at a Washington club where they did a terrific business. Its a pleasure to welcome them back.

No evening out would be complete without a visit to TILLIE'S at Fayette and Wolfe Sts., where there is always good food and drinks to be had to make the evening complete. That's it.. Have fun.
