3 convicted of numbers

Fines totaling $1,200 and jail terms of 8 months were imposed on three persons convicted of possessing lottery material, in Criminal Court, Monday.

Judge Emory H. Niles acquitted three others, accused of similar charges, on grounds of doubt, illegal arrest and in one case where the state prosecutor denied the defendant was guilty.

Those sentenced were:

John W. Chappell, 64, 1841 N. Rice St., six months in the House of Correction, and $1,000.

William Wright, 45, 119 W Montgomery St., 60 days in jail to be suspended on condition that a $50 fine is paid.

Mrs. Alice Roseborough, 32, 1820 E. Lafayette Ave., $200 fine

THOSE ACQUITTED were:

Miss Gladys Blakely, 42 Pearl St., in her case, Judge Niles said, "I am in doubt as to who occupied the room where the lottery slips were found."

Willie Moore, 41, 1022 Presbury St., illegal arrest. Police admitted that during the raid of Mrs. Roseborough's home, Mr. Moore entered the house and was searched before he had a chance to object.

Charles Roseborough, husband of Mrs. Roseborough. Edwin Gerbing, assistant state's attorney, confessed that the man knew nothing of the numbers operations in the home.

MR. CHAPPEL, who received the longest sentence, told the court that he had just started writing numbers three days before he was arrested June 9.

"My wife has cancer and I am sick and can't work, so I took to number writing to get out of debt," he testified.

In the Chappel home, police discovered 16 lottery books; two of which were used and showed a play of $62 and 70 slips containing 480 numbers.

Mr. Chappell denied that his home was used as a pickup station but said he only wrote numbers for himself and his family so that he could get his commission.
