CITED — Mrs. Elizabeth Bunch gets William G. Baker Award for outstanding service at Pratt Library. Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd makes presentation of certificate and $250 cash. Looking on are, Henry Evans, chairman of Pratt's board of trustees and Edwin Castagna, director of the library.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bunch wins Pratt Library top award

"I could hardly wait until this morning. I've had to live with the tension all that time and couldn't even tell my closest friend."

Mrs. Elizabeth Bunch told the AFRO after receiving the 1970 William G. Baker Jr. Award for outstanding service "to the library, its staff, and the community".

Mrs. Bunch, a desk supervisor at the Roland Park branch of the Enoch Pratt Library, received the award from Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in a special ceremony in Wheeler Auditorium of the central library Tuesday morning.

She is the first black nonprofessional to be a honored in the 21 years that the award has been presented.

In the past, two black professionals staff members have received the award. It is the highest tribute that the library can pay to a staff member.

It is the policy of the awards committee, composed of professional and non-professional staff members appointed each year, to notify the awardee several days prior to the awards ceremony.

Upon learning of her selection, Mrs. Bunch said, "I felt honored but it had to be kept secret.

"Now that its over I can relax again."

The William G. Baker Jr. Award, which consists of a certificate and $250 check, is made possible each year through a $5,000 endowment fund given to the library in memory of Mr. Baker who was a member of the Board of Trustees for 32 years.

The money, Mrs. Bunch says, will be sent to her girls to help them in school.

Mrs. Bunch, who joined the Pratt staff in 1957 as a clerical assistant at the Patterson Park branch, has seven children, four of whom are in college.

She and her husband, Edward R. Bunch Jr., a Baltimore City fireman, live in the 3100 block The Alameda.

They attend Pleasant Hope Baptist Church (Govans) where Mrs. Bunch is an active member of the Flower Circle, president of the Santuary Choir, and vice president of the Presidents.
