Airport group wins, food union to appeal

In a ruling handed down on October 13 by the National Labor Relations Board, Region 5, in Baltimore, Host International, Inc., operator of the restaurant and gift shop facilities at Baltimore Friendship Airport, was completely exonerated of all charges filed against it by the Bartenders, Hotel, Restaurant and Cafeteria Employees Union Local No. 36 for unfair labor practices.

Anthon[illegible] Morioso, business manager of the union, told the AFRO that the union's attorneys will file an appeal immediately with the federal office of the nirb in Washington.

He said that of the more than 100 employees of Host International 85 per cent were black and were discharged as the result of qualification standards set up by the new owners of the restaurant and gift shop facility.

* * *

In its ruling the NLRB noted that there is an absence of conduct which would support a discriminatory motive in hiring. Local No. 36 had concluded that Host did not have the right to choose its own employee, but was obligated to hire all the employees of the former operator of the old food and gift operation.

The evidence revealed that Host interviewed all applicants and hired approximately the same per cent of Restaurant Associates employees who applied vis-a-vis non-Restaurant Associates employees.

In addition, the Board's investigation failed to support Union Local No. 36, contention that Host International was a "successor" to the business formerly operated by Restaurant Associates, Inc. findings by determining further proceedings in the

The Region concluded its findings by determining further proceedings in the case to be unnecessary and refused to issue a complaint in the matter.

Host is scheduled to begin construction late this month on an extensive remodeling program of restaurant and gift shop facilities at Friendship which will cost in excess of 1.2 million dollars.

Beall wants all polls watched in November

J. Glenn Beall Jr., Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, announced this week he has set up a committee for the general election to guard against irregularities that occurred at polling places in Baltimore City during the Sept. 15 primary.

Mr. Beall said he is hoping further that lawyers can be furnished to man every polling place in the state. There are 555 precincts in Baltimore alone.

Here is Mr. Beall's statement on the matter:

"Appalled at the mishandling of the primary election, I have appointed a committee of lawyers to help me prevent these foul-ups from occurring in the general election on Nov. 3.

"This committee includes George Cochran Doub, former assistant attorney general of the U.S.; his successor as U.S. attorney for the District of Maryland, Walter E. Black Jr.; Leon H.A. Pierson, also a former U.S. attorney; and James H. Langrall, former deputy U.S. attorney.

"I have asked them to appeal to the Maryland State Bar Association, to all our local bar associations, and particularly to the junior bar associations to furnish lawyers at each polling place in the state to guard against fraud or mistakes.

Shifts high among Md. teachers

Almost 7,500 schoolteachers and principals left Maryland school systems last year, a new study by the State Department of Education reveals.

But local school systems hired almost 10,000 new teachers during the same period.

Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, State Superintendent of Schools, noted that teacher turnover was the highest in 10 years, but pointed out that increased teacher supply made recruitment less difficult than in any year since the close of World War II.

* * *

The state school chief also noted that the net increase in teachers reflects the state's continuing growth in pupil population. He said the net increase also reflects slightly smaller class sizes and a small increase in the number of educational specialists, such as counselors, librarians, school psychologists, and others.

The study covers the 1968-69 school year and the summer of 1969, and shows that 17.4 percent of teachers and principals left Maryland jobs.

Most who left just moved away (2,137), but 1,192 left to have babies. 58 died, 493 retired, and 375 were dropped from the rolls. Also, 133 left because they were dissatisfied with teaching. Other reasons for leaving included illness, resuming studies, getting married, military service, and entering work other than teaching.

* * *

Over half the teachers hired during the period (5,834) were inexperienced and most of those (3,625) were Maryland residents. Pennsylvania, New York, Virginia, and the District of Columbia were the out-of-state areas from which most new teachers came.

DURHAM, N.C. — North Carolina Central University will send 24 seniors to student teaching posts in 15 schools in central North Carolina in November. Most of the students are now in the field observing classes in the schools in which they will work, according to George Clarke, director of student teaching at the university.

New service for senior citizens

A statewide Information and Referral Service for the Aged has been established to make it easier for elderly citizens residing any place in the State to find out what services, both public and private, are available to them. It is a pioneering joint project operated by the Health and Welfare Council of the Baltimore Area, Inc., and financed by the Maryland State Commission on the Aging.

The office, in the lobby of the State Roads Commission Building, 300 West Preston Street, Baltimore, is open 9-5 weekdays for telephone inquiries and personal visits.

Maryland is the first state in the entire country to offer such a service on a statewide basis, according to Senator Margaret C. Schweinhaut (D., Montgomery County), Commission Chairman. Senator Schweinhaut cuts the ribbon at ceremonies officially opening the Information and Referral Service for the Aged at 10:30 a.m., Monday, October 26.

* * *

For this new service, the number to call in the Baltimore area is 685-0525, while persons living elsewhere in the state can dial directly 1-800-492-0270, a toll-free, statewide line.

The Information and Referral Service for the Aged enables the elderly and their families, as well as agencies and professional persons, anywhere in the State to find out where to get help when problems arise.

For example, one phone call can ascertain what resources are available in a senior citizen's own community when he needs nursing home care, financial aid, or an outlet for his talents in volunteer work to help others.

UCC Seeks Prison Reform

NEW YORK — The Commission for Racial Justice of the United Church of Christ called upon the 2,000,000 members of the denomination to bring pressure on the government for prison reform.

It called especially for action against "the no-knock, quick-entry and preventive detention law-making which pervades current administration thinking" and is now being enforced in the District of Columbia. It stated racism, especially as it is expressed in the forms of institutional structures, is "the greatest crisis of our society and of our whole church."

The Commission declared that "The American judicial system is being used by those in power to systematically dehumanize and matically dehumanize and brutalize black men and women." It added that "the killings and brutalities committed against black people in Soledad Prison, Florida prisons, Arkansas State Prison, the Tombs and the Queens House of Detention are but a microcosm of a greater cancer which is killing an entire people."
