55 organizations back harbor loan Question 'E'

By Dr. SIDNEY KOBRE

More than 55 organizations, including business and labor groups, as well as professional associations, have endorsed enthusiastically the Harbor Campus of the Community College of Baltimore. Civic and neighborhood groups also have expressed their support, along with educational associations.

This was the tally made by the campaign committee yesterday at the time the AFRO-AMERICAN went to press, said John H. Murphy III, vice chairman.

"We are gratified at the overwhelming support the downtown campus is getting from those in every type of occupation, religion and ethnic group," Mr. Murphy declared.

"Neighborhood peoples, too, have recognized the value of the campus to them and their families, and have stood up ready to be counted."

The Harbor Campus will be bounded by Water, Gay, Pratt Sts. and Market Place. It will cost about 12 million of which $5.7 million will be supplies by the city an equal amount by the state; and $ 00,000 will be granted by the federal government.

The construction loan for the downtown campus will go on the ballot and will be marked question E next Tuesday, November 3.

In a last minute before the election plea, Mr. Murphy, president Harry Bard and Dr. William V. Lockwood, vice president of the Harbor Campus, declared that.

"Friends of the Harbor Campus need to get out and vote on Tuesday. Those who oppose the downtown campus loan have made it clear that they will vote.

"We must protect the needy students — both black and white-who want to enroll in a college, but without the Harbor Campus will be handicaped. The college is being built for those who in East and South and Southwest Baltimore as well as for those who work in the downtown area."

In analyzing the long list of organizations supporting the Harbor Campus campaign, Mr. Murphy pointed to the fact that both businessmen and workers have endorsed it.

"We note he said that the Citizens and Downtown Merchants, the Junior Association of Commerce, as well as the Executive Salesmen and the Salesmen and Marketing Association, favor the downtown campus — they know it will benefit them, as it will supply trained for business and industry manpower.

On the labor side, Mr. Murphy said that the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Insustrial Organization of Metropolitan Baltimore as well as the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Baltimore Port Council of the AFL-CIO, back the downtown branch of CCB.

The supporters cut across community and neighborhood lines, as the Southern High School Community Council, the South Baltimore Community Council as well as the Loyola-Northway, Callaway Garrison, Goldstream Park, and Harlem Park NEighborhood group have signified they will say "yes." Among citywide groups the Kiwanis Club, the Metropolitan Civic Association, Third District Citizens for Good Government, said okay to the loan.

Awide variety of church groups have indicated their approval. These include the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, the Baltimore Jewish Council, the B'nai Brith, Unitarians, Walters M. E. Church and the Maryland Council of Churches have endorsed, too.

Among the professional people in the city, dentists, pharmacists and other nelth groups have placed their approval on the loan, for CC Bhas 14 health related programs. The groups include the Baltimore City Dental Association, the Maryland Dental Association, the Chi Delta Mu (made of physicians dentists and pharmacists) the Maryland Pharmaceutial Association, the Baltimore Pharmaceutical Association, the Occupational therapy Association and the Physical Therapy Association.

It is of importance to note, Mr. Murphy explained, that a number of educational groups which should know the advantages of having a downatown branch, have given their support to the campaign.

Maryland State Teachers Association, the Baltimore City Council of Parent-Teachers Association have approved. To these should be added the Paul Dunbar High School PTA, and the Delta Sigma Theta, professional educational fraternity.

The loan has also been supported by the Southern High School Community Council, the Clifton Park High School Community Council. High School students in the Metropolitan Student Government Association, and the Student Government Association of the Community College of Baltimore and the college alumni have expressed approval of the loan.

Aggie air game threat to Morgan

GREENSBORO, N.C., — "Our main concern is stopping their passing game," declared Morgan coach Earl Banks as his bears arrived for tomorrow's (Saturday) game against A and T College.

"This fellow (Charles) Middleton is a real cutie at quarterback," Banks goes on, "and can do a lot of things. He's something like the oldtime triple threat. He runs the ball well, passes reasonably well, and also receives.

"A and T has a series of plays from whicr Middleton becomes a flanker, moving out from the QB position, and catches passes thrown by one of his halfbacks, Jerry Turner. He caught two that way which helped beat Norfolk State.'

Figures released by the CIAA substantiate Banks' fears. Middleton is fifth in passing, fifth in rushing and second in the conference in total offense.

Add to his potential as a receiver, the likes of Willie Wright, the Aggies ALL-CIAA flanker, and new comer Larry Bolton, it is obvious that the Bears will need to be on the alert for enemy aerials.

A and T has beaten Morgan in each of the last two years by one point — 7-6 in 1968 and 20-19 in 1969. Avenging these setbacks may be difficult since the Aggies may expect to receive much incentive from the fact that this is their homecoming . . .LACY.

American women exposed their knees!

We began aging the whiskeys for today's Schenley.

For most people 1962 is just a memory. But for whiskey drinkers it's an important year.

That's when the vigil over the whiskeys for this year's blend began.

We let them mellow for eight long years (the only leading blend that does). Eight long years that lighten-them-up and cool-them-out, before we blend them with the finest neutral spirits.

When you taste Schenley Reserve, you'll be glad 1970 started in 1962.
