Aide refutes change at Burch's office

A black attorney on the staff of Attorney General Francis B. Burch took issue Wednesday with a statement by a member of the Interdenominal Ministerial Alliance that the Burch office was "closed" and employed no black citizens.

The attorney, James L. Bundy, assistant attorney general, did not mention the member of the Alliance, but gave the AFRO the following statement on the matter:

"It has come to my attention that a member of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance stated on TV on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27, that Attorney General Burch ran a 'closed office' and employed no blacks on his staff.

"I do not know whether this person was speaking personally, or as a representative of the Alliance, but I regret that he did not check the accuracy of this statement before making it on television.

"I know for a fact that there are blacks on the attorney general's staff because I am a member, of that staff. I was appointed by Mr. Burch as an assistant attorney general on Oct. 1, 1968 and have worked with him closely since that time.

"I also know that three other black attorneys have served as assistant attorneys general under Mr. Burch.

"These lawyers left the attorney general's staff to take positions of authority and prestige in the Executive Department of the Federal Government, the State Government, or the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

"Additionally, to my personal knowledge, Mr. Burch has offered positions to six other black attorneys during the past two years. Since there is now a scarcity of black attorneys, the gentlemen who were offered these positions declined because of greater opportunities in private practice.

"One of those offered a position was David Allen, son of Milton B. Allen, now the Democratic nominee for state's attorney for Baltimore City. This offer to David was made long before anyone dreamed that his father would be a leading candidate for high public office.

"Another young attorney offered a position by Attorney General Burch was Larry Gibson, a member of the School Commissioners of Baltimore, and a partner of Mr. Allen.

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office has employed many black students as investigators.

"In fact, all nine black students who have applied for such jobs have been hired by Mr. Burch, and I am proud to say that they have performed very important work in a most efficient manner, in a branch of state government which is of greater assistance to the black community than any other.

"I might also add that the secretary to Robert F. Sweeney, deputy attorney general, who is Mr. Burch's No. 1 aide, is a black woman, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clarke."

Committee to plan Birche memorial

In an effort to "institutionalize his work and perpetuate his memory," twenty former members of the Baltimore Boys Choir, Inc. met in Catonsville last week to formulate plans to honor their recently deceased founder-director William Meredith H. Birche, Jr.

The well-known music teacher, choral director and arranger died in Baltimore on October 11 after a short illness.

The tentative plans as outlined by former choristers the Rev. William Land and George Bruce have a three-fold purpose: 1) to establish a scholarship fund in Mr. Birche's name (2) to make available to librarian's sister, Mrs. Estelena Shows, and her husband, Richard Shows.

Accepting membership on an advisory board so far are the Rev. Arthur J. Payne, Mrs. Bernice Matthews, Irvin Bryant and Edward Watson.

An eleven-member executive board was elected at this time to work out details of the three-fold project. They are Mrs. India Silver, the Rev. Marcus Wood, Luther Johnson, Louis Oliver, George Bruce, John Sutton, Richard G. Richardson, George Milburn, Clegg Blackwell, George Taylor, and Joseph R. Johnson.

The group will hold a meeting on Sunday, November 8, at 4 p.m. at 4107 Normount Avenue to discuss ways of enlisting support for the projects named. All former members of the choir are urged to contact any member of the board regarding a general membership meeting which is scheduled for December.

Bishop William S. Barnes, assistant bishop, serving as spokesman for the church and family, told the AFRO Bishop Carr had been ill for two months and was confined to his bed last Saturday.

BISHOP RANDOLPH CARR
Services held Saturday for church leader

He added that Bishop Carr was taken to Hopkins Hospital Sunday for a recurrence of a heart attack he suffered in 1960.

Bishop Carr, educated in London and the British West Indies where he was born, began his progresive religious kingdom with a storefront Pentacostal church at 219 N. Mount St. in 1934.

Since then, his small Rehoboth mission has expanded to include thousands of members in the West Indies Islands of Jamaica, Nevis, St. Kitt and Monstrat; South America, England, Canada and several American cities.

In an AFRO interview in 1958, after visiting his European churches, Bishop Carr said, "Our members have been divided into groups with specific duties involving the heart, the hand and the mind."

He explained that as a result, members have few known marital difficulties and there are few cases of juvenile delinquency.

• • •

Bishop Carr's wife, Mrs. Veronica Carr, will continue to receive friends at the residence, 7306 Liberty Rd., and at the church where the body will continue to lie in state until the services.

He is also survived by three sons, Randolph A. Carr, Jr., 41, John, three, Elliott, four, and a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, six months, all of Baltimore.

New race statement by Church of Christ

The Board for Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ adopted a priority program for racial justice at the close of its annual meeting here this week.

The program is designed not only to further the church's efforts "to rid society of racial injustice" but also to insure that the board's own structure and behavior "will demonstrate its commitment to racial justice."

The policy statement adopted by the 50-member board of directors today was developed in response to the call of the Seventh General Synod, the representative body of the two-million member United Church of Christ, and as part of the current nationwide emphasis on racial justice in the 7,000 local churches of the denomination.

The Rev. Dr. Howard E. Spragg, New York City, executive vice president of the board, emphasized that the statement "does not represent a sudden new interest in racial justice . . . it codifies long-established programs and policies of this board.

• • •

"It should also provide the background and impetus for a new forward movement and new kinds of work toward liberation of minority groups from racist oppression and whites from the tyranny of racism," he said.

The United Church board set up a priority team to coordinate the program. It is to include staff members of all divisions of the board having responsibilities in the area of racial justice. The chairman is to be Black.
