put a man in the cell nude and without a mattress cover.

Bill Mock, public information officer for the Department of Correction, said that it "was around 3:30 or shortly before that one of the officers who checked the MO cells every half hour, reported that Drummond was standing in a corner talking to himself."

* * *

At 4 p.m. Drummond wasn't talking, he was dead.

No true and cry for an investigation has arisen to uncover the unofficial facts leading to the suicide of Solomon Drummond, Jr. But at least one person in a position of authority has already stated her position.

Senator Verda Welcome, told the AFRO, "I don't know what happened to that young man or what made him take his own life. I hope to find out.

"What I do know is that his death is the product of the kind of institution a man like Warden Fitzberger creates. This man typifies everything that the racists stand for.

"He is severely strict and he is the only reason these men who were found innocent of all charges are still being punished even after one month. The death of that young man is a direct result of negligence.

"I am holding Warden Fitzberger responsible for the death of that young man."

that he had "heard about the complaints but those officers would take that straight to the union. It's not really Department business."

The man whose business it really is is Tom Rapanotti, business agent for Local 1195.

Mr. Rapanotti said, "the men have indicated to me what their complaints are but no action will be taken until all of us can get together on this."

Mr. Rapanotti admitted that the union had indeed voted to support Mr. Allen's candidacy for State's Attorney "but," he explained, "it wasn't unanimous and I never said it was.

"In fact I went on television to announce the vote and I said Local 1195 had voted to support Mr. Allen and that's the truth. I don't know where they get this unanimous stuff from, but when we get together we'll find out."

Mr. Rapanotti and the complaining officers are scheduled to meet at 9 a.m. this morning (Friday) to discuss the grievances.
