United Church Board holding session here

Listing "racial justice" as a national priority, the 225 members of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries met in Baltimore this week to decide what course of action the Church will take in this issue.

Milton L. Upton, staff secretary to the Board, told the AFRO Monday "We recognize that racism, institutional and individual, exists in America and that we, as a church, are victims as well as perpetrators."

Responding to this problem, the Rev. Howard G. Spragg, executive vice president of the Board, announced in a proposal Monday night that six predominantly Black colleges be considered as the center for a new law school "devoted especially to tre (legal) problems of minorities."

Being considered for the center are Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Dillard University, Ne w Orleans, La.; Le-Moyne College, Memphis, Tenn.; Talladega College, Talladega, Ala.; Houston-Tillotsen College, Austin, Tex.; and Tougaloo College, Jackson, Miss.

Plans are to establish a program at one or more of these colleges to train blacks and other minorities in law.

The colleges were once a part of several United Church schools set up during the Civil War to educate freed slaves.

Now privately run institutions, they still receive financial contributions, however, from the United Churches.

The administrative arm of the United Church, the Board plans and administers the social, economic, and religious programs of the United Church.

Funding for these programs is provided through the Board, which has contributed over $203 million dollars for social and economic projec's in community development throughout the country.

Speaking at the Board's opening banquet Sunday at the Heritage-United Church Attorney General, Ramsey Clark told the group:

"America is a house divided with one side crying for order and the other pleading for justice. You will never have neither order nor justice unless you have both."

The Board will be inession until Wednesday at the Holiday Inn, Lombard and Howard Sts., to draft resolutions and design specific programs for implementation in the Church's policy.

Acquittals in Atlanta death decried

ATLANTA — Various civil rights groups met recently to oppose the acquittal of two policemen in the death of Andre Moore, 15, in Summerhill.

Charles Stinson of the Urban League said, "We're appallel at what's happening in the black community. When we try to work within the system for justice, we have to apologie for what happens."

Young Moore was shot Aug. 4 when he broke away from an arrest for curfew violation and threw a rock or other missile at them, the policemen said. They were indicted for voluntary manslaughter but acquitted by a white jury.

The incident caused several days of tension in the area during the summer.

* * *

The Rev. Joe Boone of the Metropolitan Summit Conference said his organization will put pressure on "the Chamber of Commerce, which really runs this town, to put an end to police repression in the black community."

Lonnie King, president of the NAACP, called the verdict "extremely shocking."

He declared, "When blacks do work within the system, it seems, they get justice Southern style. There are those in this community that plead with blacks not to riot and create unrest but work for change and justice within the system.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon officially wrote Army horse and mule auctions into the history books last week.

He signed legislation eliminating a requirement that the Army buy horses and mules on the open market. There has been no demand for horses for Army use in years.

The legislation permits the Army to buy horses with its general funds, rather than through an auction, if it needs them for ceremonial or other purposes.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

It was a great thrill to Co-MC with Ed Rodgers of WEAM of Washington, D.C. the great Temptations' Review at Cole Field House, on the campus of the University of Maryland, before a packed house of. 14,000, with hundreds turned away.

The Temptations did an extraordinary, outstanding performance, that left the audience completely satisfied and somewhat breathless. Of course the warm-up was also exciting, which included the inimitable Bo Hannon's Motown Band, the soulful singing of Judy Clay, and Ed Hendricks discovery, The Posies.

All in all it was an unforgettable performance without any incidents in view of the fact that because of conditions beyond their control Gladys Knight and the Pips weren't there.

The following night, I made an appearance at the Baltimore Civic Center with the Chicago Rock Show to a packed house of 12,000. It too went off great, without any incidents.

Many hearts are saddened in and around Baltimore because that was supposed to be the last ROCK or SOUL show to appear at the Civic Center, according to City Hall. All ROCK-SOUL shows have been banned.

There had been some rowdiness following a small dance, not in the big concept or auditorium room, and that blew the lid off the merchants heads and as far as the merchants and City Hall are concerned, the best solution was to ban all SOUL and ROCK shows.

NEW YORK

Take four talented singers, original musical arrangements a four-piece rhythm section; blend well with showmanship, costuming, hard work and good luck, and you've got Top Shelf.

This young vocal group had a hit first record, "Give It Up." Their new single "You're Hurting Me" "Dogone, Baby, I Love You," will be released soon by Epic Records.

Roland Smith, Reggie McKoy, Charlie Matthews and Billy J. Lee — all New Yorkers — are young enough (average age 22) to enjoy singing "now generation music" and secure enough in their musicianship to rework and personalize the standards — until they are unmistakably Top Shelf.

The National director of promotion for Hot Wax Records, George Morris, knows his label is carrying its name well — HOT WAX

With the latest 100 Proof (Aged in Soul) single, "Somebody's Been Sleeping," flying up the charts, Hot Wax has released a new Flaming Ember record, "I'm Not My Brother's Keeper," which seems destined to join 100 Proof high atop the charts.

Soon there will be, according to George, a new single from Honey Cone. This all-girl trio was recently selected Top New Female Vocal Group by Record World.
