Roberts is 1st again, it's TJD job

William E. Roberts, who in the last campaign was the first black citizen in Maryland since the Reconstruction Era to file for governor, became the first to file Thursday evening for mayor of Baltimore City.

Mr. Roberts, 44, filed shortly after 6 p.m. at the Supervisors of Elections, planking down the unreturnable fee of $150. He is a Democrat.

"I'm filing this time to win," he told the AFRO. "I think the city is sick, and we need to unsick it, what with the dope among the young people and other problems."

When he filed for governor, he said he did not expect to win but wanted "to keep our people within the system and give the outsiders a candidate."

That campaign, he said, cost him a $290 filing fee and $86 in expenses.

In that state-wide primary race with four other Democratic candidates including Gov. Marvin Mandel, Mr. Roberts polled 45,000-plus votes and ran a respectable second behind the governor.

He heads a Walbrook Ave. insurance agency that bears his name, and attended Morgan State Coliege, Eastern College and the University of Baltimore. A few years back he was a Liquor Board inspector.

Mr. Roberts says he is not affiliated with any political organization and will campaign independenty with whatever support he can muster.

At least one other black citizen is expected to enter the mayor's race, possibly two if no agreement can be reached in the community.

Whether Mr. Roberts would chose to stay in the race, should a lone other black candidate with more undisputed popular appeal emerge, remains to be seen. — MAX JOHNSON

Pupils name new wing for Evers

The boys and girls at School No. 94 recently held an election to name a wing of the new Harford Heights Elementary School that will be completed in 1973.

The teachers and children engaged in many interesting, and worthy activities to promote the candidates of their choice. Posters, slogans, poems, songs, and riddles were written.

The children gained knowledge of the democratic procedures as practiced in America.

After campaigning for a week, a general election was held on October 30, 1970.

Medgar Evers received the largest amount of votes. Therefore, the new wing will be named Medgar Evers.

Outstanding contributions to the project were made by the children in Mrs. Jeanette Davis, Delores Mack, Madeline Wynn, Rebecca English, and Miss Joan Rockstroh's classes.

Aides also contributed their time and efforts.

Mr. Milton Murray is principal, and Mrs. Alice Thomas is assistant Principal.
