Falcon Gun Club hosts ESTA event on Sunday

WATERLOO, Md. — The Eastern Skeet and Trapshooting Association will hold the second of six competitive events Sunday. It was announced early this week by Harry I. Macer, president.

The Falcon Rod and Gun Club will serve as host to the affair, with the Ladies Auxiliary providing refreshments.

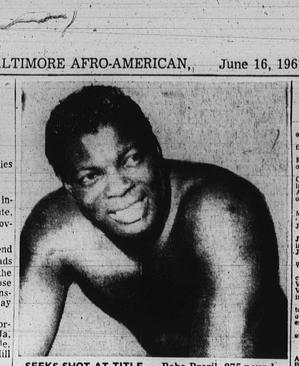

Included on the program will be competitions in singles, doubles, handicap, ladies and junior classifications.

TWELVE CLUBS have indicated they will participate, each with its eye on the coveted high - point award.

Going into the weekend meet, Patuxent Club leads the race for honors at the end of the year. Among those set to challenge the Martinsburg, Md., team on Sunday are:

Falcon, Mattawoman, Cornelius, Dorie, Ke-Wa-Ja, Mainline, Metro, Triangle, Twin Sycamore, Walnut Hill and Peninsula clubs.

SEEKS SHOT AT TITLE — Bobo Brazil, 275-pound, 6-foot-5 strongman from Benton Harbor, Mich., has eyes set on heavyweight title match if he can get over Big Bob Orton at the Coliseum tonight (Friday). The Brazil-Orton go is co - featured with bout between Antonino Rocca and Japan's Baba the Giant.

Cleveland Indians slate Md. tryouts

The Cleveland Indians will conduct a tryout camp at Gambrills Baseball Park in Gambrills, Md. on Wednesday and Thursday, June 20 and 21. Sessions will start each day at 10 a.m.

Players must be 17 to 22 years of age to participate in the program. American Legion players who attend must have a written permit from their post commanders.

In charge of the camp will be Cleveland scouts Hal Newhouser, Ray Mueller and John "Poke" Whalen. Newhouser is a former Détroit pitching star. Mueller was a standout catcher in the National League for 17 years.

Gambrills, Md. is on Maryland State Route 175, off State Route 301 and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway about seven miles south of Ft. Meade.

Althea, Jackie in champ golf

NEW YORK—Althea Gibson, renowned tennis champion, and Jackie Robinson, Baseball Hall of Famer, are among the favorites in Schaefer's "Tournament of Champions" golf event, which will be played at the Lakewood Country Club in Lakewood, N. J. on June 25.

Competitors in the tournament will include only champions.

The field will include sanctioned 1961 - 62 tournament winners, club champions and qualifiers in major national amateur events. Miss Gibson and Robinson were both winners in the North-South tournament in Miami last February.

DEFENDING their titles in this exclusive tournament are James Walker of New York whose score of 69 topped the field last year, and Elizabeth Wright also of New York.

The annual "Tournament of Champions" is sponsored by the F. and M. Schaefer Brewing Co., of N. Y., Albany and Cleveland and the Eastern Golf Association. The New England Golf Association is also co-operating.

Graduation Notes

Here is a graduate who deserves special gold stars: Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, 26 Graduation items 24 pt.

sex, finished with honors at Coppin State, Teachers College last week.

She is the mother of four children, Clifford Jr., Mrs. Brenda Scott, Irvin Johnson, 12, and Corliss Johnson, 11.

There are also four grandchildren, ages 5 months to 5 years. The graduate's husband, Frank Edwin, is employed by American Standard.

In addition to keeping up with her studies during the past three years Mrs. Johnson kept house and worked in First Baptist Church, where she is chairman of women's day activities.

She plans to teach, hopes her assignment will be in a county elementary school near her home.

Congratulations due: University of Maryland Medical School grad: Dr. Theodore C. Patterson. He will interne at Sinai Hospital, beginning July 1.

Later, he will be associated with Dr. Joseph Thomas, prominent Dundalk physician. Remember when Dr. Thomas delivered Theodore? You know he was proud.

Here for the graduation: Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Tureaud (Lucille) of New Orleans, where Mr. Tureaud is a prominent attorney. Their daughter, Sylvia, is Mrs. Patterson.

Also here: Ilis sister, Mrs. Ruby Kirton, Wilberforce, Ohio; and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Vanee Chavis, Greensboro, N.C. Of course, the Patterson youngsters, Gina, 4; and Tina, 4 months, were there to see dad get his sheepskin.

Another U of Md. grad, Mrs. Percy Baker (Helen), who earned her law degree. She's quite a lady.

She is the wife of the Morgan State College professor. Remember she has weathered several cancer operations, and is constantly on the go learning new things, meeting new people?

When she was named to the AFRO Honor Roll 1 n 1950, she was cited for the courage, faith and determination which she had exhibited to overcome the dread disease.

Mrs. Baker holds degrees from Va. State College, and the Rhode Island College of Education.

There are two sons, Percy Jr., 28, a Morgan student, and James E., foreign service officer stationed in the U.S. Embassy in Niger.

More grads: Dr. and Mrs. T. Bradshaw Higgins (Hilda), are in from Andover, Mass., and are they beaming!

Their youngster, Ivan, Jr., did all right for himself at exclusive Phillips Academy, the preparatory school.

They were pleased as punch that the faculty saw fit to praise Ivan for his 'outstanding record and contribution' to the institution, so much so that they awarded him the coveted Kingsbury prize.

That is the award given to an outstanding student who, in the opinion of the headmaster and faculty, is especially distinguished for perseverence and resolution.'

During his days at Phillips, Ivan starred as goalie on the varsity lacrosse team, and won the school's most valuable player award. He also captained the varsity wrestling squad, walked off with the title of 'best captain.'

There is more to indicate this kid is going places. He was elected student director of the Phillips Society; chaired last year's successful charities drive, raised over $6,000.

And, he was secretary of the athletic advisory board, assistant head of the school's police division and a member of the student congress. Whew!

On June 30, he leaves for a European tour with a group of Harvard University faculty members and their children. When he returns in September, he enters Rutgers University as a premedical student. Better keep an eye on this youngster.

By the way, the Higginses' other child — Audlyn, has become quite an attractive youngster. She finished Bennington (Vt.) College a year back, has been working in the Federal Reserve Bank here this year. She plans graduate work in art in the fall.

Finishing Phillips Exeter, the famed Exeter, New Hampshire prep school on Sunday was 17-year-old Daniel (Danny) Howard Murphy. He is the son of AFRO President John H. Murphy 3rd and Mrs. Murphy.

In the fall, he goes to Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

His roommate there will be an Exeter classmate, J. Conway Wilson Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Conway Wilson. (He is a Richmond, Va. dentist.)

At Exeter, Danny finished in the top third of his class, was a member of the wrestling team, dramatic club, debating society, and served is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Wallace Hall.

Junior High notes

If you need any proof that junior high schools are literally bursting at the seams, all you have to do is attend a graduation at one of them. Classes are so large they have to hold two sessions.

At Lemmel on Thursday morning, the 773 grads participated in a 'promotion assembly' program.

Pupils who made marks of 80 or better received certificates at the 11 a.m. assembly; the rest in the afternoon.

Girls wore sensible pastel dresses; boys their Sunday suits.

Lester B. Wallace Jr., one of the grads, goes to Park School with a $1,100 scholarship for each of the next three years. He passed a competitive exam.

Lester and Helen Bishop, the school's valedictorian and salutatorian, are children of American Revolution awards.

Top students who won cash gifts from Principal, Hermione Wharton and the faculty were — Roberta Truitt, 91.6. $25 savings bond: Gail Seith, 91.3, $15; and Edith Gee, 90. $10.

American Legion awards went to Patricia Jackson, who was active in the PTA; and Cortland Jones, president of student council.

Familiar name among the grads: Bannister Raines Jr., the friendly AFRO newspaper carrier in our neighborhood.

At Garrison Junior High, it was the same story. The 500 grads made it necessary for two separate exercises. Pastel dresses and suits were the dress.

Biggest hand went to the tiniest boy in the class — Lawrence D. Sanders. He completed the three - year high course in two years!

In the class: two Lloyd brothers, Ralph and Robert C. Their dad, Dr. Robert Lloyd ('I have a built - in basketball team, there is another one coming out next year), was one of the graduation speakers.

He is administrative assistant to Dr. George B. Brain.

Spied in the audience: Dr. and Mrs. George Brown. Their son, Philip was among grads. And the Alfred Woolridges whose talented daughter, Stefanie, graduated.

At Booker Washington No. 130 on Thursday, there were 650 grads. Half of them received certificates at 10 a.m., and the rest at 1 p.m.

As in the other schools, girls were pastels, many of them dressier than those worn by Lemmel and Garrison girls.

Boys, most of them, wore suits. Two boys, however, were in formal attire, white coats and tuxedo pants.

Famous name grad: Booker Washington.

Ranking students are Phenious Smith, Melvina Byrd and Barbara Staton.

There was tremendous applause for Cynthia Johnson, largest girl in the class, but one who carries her weight with dignity; and for 4-foot tall Mildred Burton.

People, places, things

Sandwiched in between graduations this week has been many a party, reception, farewell gathering, one of the loveliest of which was the bon voyage affair Dr. and Mrs. G. Franklin Phillips (Hazel), threw for their teen daughter, Anastatia on Wednesday evening.

It started with an intimate dinner in the Sheraton-Belvedere's Red Room, continued at their Bentalou St. home, where any number of friends called to greet the attractive honoree, admire gifts, and sample champagne from a flowing fountain and admire a cake made in the shape of a steamer.

Anastatia, a senior at Clark College in Atlanta, is off this week for a summer of study in France (at the U. of Genoble).

The newlywed Wayman Lattimores (Anne Williams), returned from a N.Y. honeymoon just to be present.

Another chum, Sylvia Williams, came down from New York; and a Clark College beau, James Beaton, from Atlanta, ere he goes on to his home near Pittsburgh, and to N.Y. to begin a social work career.

Also at the Sheraton-Belvedere the same night was a sumptuous party (in the Empire Room) honoring Frank J. Sorrell, retiring principal of Houston Junior High No. 181.

The faculty turned out full force. And they made a beautiful picture.

As usual — this group of co-workers — evidenced a special warmth and friendship — and it is an understatement to say that a good time was had by all. They are the greatest.

Morrison Leroy Davage, 44 years a teacher in the public schools, was the only Dunbar faculty member to retire this year.

He was history teacher there, was guest of honor at a retirement banquet Wednesday night at Wilson's.

About this and that

Personable Helen McGill, who has been teaching here for two years, is off again. As of June 22nd, she is Puerto Rico-bound to begin the first stages of her training for the Peace Corps.

After training there, she will go to a midwestern college for further indoctrination, and then to the Ivory Coast for two years.

Travel abroad is nothing new to Miss McGill. From 1958-60, she served as recreation director in France. And, before taking up her teaching duties here, she taught at the Stewart Indian School in Stewart, Nevada.

She is a native of Gary, Ind., where her parents Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus McGill, live. She took her college training at Marymount College in Selina, Kans., and at Boston University.

Enon Baptist Church on Sunday morning.

Godparents were Howard and Evelyn Jones of Washington; Afterwards, there was a reception at the Reaveses' Allendale home.

Young Jeffrey Carl was very much in the spotlight—he romped all over the lawn.

About were Messrs. and Mesdames William Bailey, Samuel Blackwell, Clarence Dyson, Harry Gail, Arthur Hatcher, Julius McRae, Elihu Norris, Harvey Seay, Archie Williams, Chester Molloy;

Miss Olive Caulk, Mrs. Franklin DeShields, William West, Mrs. William West, Mrs. Rosa Mebane.

And, Mrs. Marie Armstrong, the Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Payne, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Phillips and children, Marie, Benjamin and Rachael.

Also, the baby's maternal godmother, Mrs. Addie Williams; and Mrs. Reaves' two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Goodman and Mrs. Bessie Martin.

And, her nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, Jacqueline, Jerelyn, Jocelyn and Gwendolyn Goodman and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodman.

A column ago, we noted that the children of the late W. Llewellyn Wilson had purchased the Montebello Terrace home in Morgan Park, where they grew up.

Last Sunday, five of the seven children had a reunion — their first time together since 1952.

Remember when Mr. Wilson was the teacher of music at Douglass High? Remember that one of the sons is named for Dr. Pezavia O'Connell, the beloved Morgan State College professor, who lived across the street?

Pezavia looks like his father. He lives in Garden City, N.Y., where he is a partner in an insurance firm. He is married (Delores), has no children.

Also present: — Mrs. Charlotte Downie, a teacher and columnist (she writes Eastside News for the AFRO); who lives in the family home.

And, her twin, Eleanor, now Mrs. John Worrell, a registered nurse in N.Y., Ada Saunders, who has developed into a beautiful young lady with a handsome head of hair.

She is director of recreation at Queens, N.Y. General Hospital. She is a divorcee. Her son, Leigh, is 7.

W. Llewellyn Jr., owns and operates a grocery store here in Baltimore. He and his wife, Ann, a Douglass High teacher, have four children.

Unable to make the reunion were: Miriam, now Mrs. James Fields, who lives in Dayton, O. Her husband teaches, and she is a medical technician. They have four children, and Maude is now Mrs. Joseph Bostic, and lives in E. Elmhurst, L.I., where her husband is in insurance. They have two children.

More this and that

Keep your chin up cards to Leonard Underwood, the real estate broker. He was in U.S. Public Health Hospital this week to have a cyst removed from his left eye, should be at home by the time you read this. Your cards should be addressed to 1905 McKean Ave.

Similar hellos to Mrs. Annie Waters, who has been ailing for sometime. She'd love to get your cards. Address them to RFD 3, Box 177, Joppa, Md.

Which reminds me to mention that her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Blanche (everybody calls her 'Honey'), is retiring after 41 years in the Baltimore schools.

Congratulations to her at Joppa, P.O. Mountain, Md. Isn't it marvelous to retire while you're still young and active and able to do the things you've dreamed of? Mrs. Waters has not yet decided whether she will just sit down and rest on her 13 acre place near Bel Air, Md., or whether she'll allow herself to become involved in her first love, Girl Scouting.

Wanna bet that she won't keep still long?

Drop a note of cheer to Mrs. Beulah Diggs, guidance counselor at Bates High in Annapolis.

She was busy, last week, burying her sister-in-law, who died unexpectedly.

Remember, back in March, she came home to find her husband dead in his room? Remember, he was principal of the Eastport School at the time of his death. Remember?

Cards to Dr. and Mrs. William Hall's son, Billy. He was in Sinai Hospital, this week, but should be home by the time you read this.

Mr. and Mrs. Queener Willis' daughter, Karen Maria, 8, was hit by an auto, but is out of danger and doing nicely at home, 2220 Roslyn Ave.

By the way, Mrs. Willis (Carolyn), is the new president of the Baltimore Chapter of Jack and Jill of America.

More people and things

Orchids to Druid Hill YMCA staff members and mothers' club members who made Saturday a grand and glorious day at the Y for many youngsters and their parents.

It was carnival time. You would have to see it to appreciate what fun it was to old and young alike.

There were games — like the golf putt, the ring toss, the basketball throw —where kids could vie for prize. Not unusual, we were advised, was that win or lose you drew a prize.

The winners and the losers (consolation) selected their prizes from the same table!

Of special interest to a number of kids was the drop a-penny in the jar game. If you were successful, your prize was 5 cents!

Of course, since it was a carnival — there was a variety of refreshments — hot dogs, ice cream, cakes, punch etc.

And, for father who joined their sons, there was swimming too. What a delightful way to spend a Saturday afternoon. The kids loved it. We parents did, too.

If it is culture you like — and who doesn't — there is plenty of it abroad this weekend.

For example on Saturday (June 16), 7:30 p.m., in the Morgan Arts Auditorium at Morgan, there is the recital by the Therrell Smith School of the Dance of D.C.

A group of 80 youngsters from Washington and surrounding area, will appear on the program. And, they do say that it is quite a show.

And, on Sunday at 5:30 also at Morgan's Murphy Auditorium, there will be the beauteous Hilda Simms, appearing under auspices of the Cossocks Club.

Looking for a place to picnic? Newest recreation spot is Nixon's Farm located on Highway 32, just 20 miles from Baltimore on Route 40. See advertisement in this issue for further details.

Visitors Mr. and Mrs. Meredith (Lena) of Temple, Texas, are here with their daughter and son-in-law, Adelle and Ben Foreman.

Mrs. Verniece Reynolds' mom, Mrs. Rosalie Moseley, is here from Norwalk, Conn.

And, his dad was elected president of the school's PTA, marking a first for that school.

Say a prayer for Mrs. Florence Murry. She is in critical condition at Freedmen's Hospital in D.C.

She collapsed while taking a photo at Howard University commencement, where her niece, Linda Hall, was among the graduates. Linda is the daughter of Mrs. Anne Wallace Hall.

Fleming says 'don't blame us' for mass exodus

Colored people are not responsible for the mass exodus of whites to the suburbs, Dr. G. James Fleming, Morgan professor told members of the Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc. at their annual meeting Thursday night.

"It's people like you who seem to think when a colored man moves into a community the rest of the 18 million are just around the corner who must be blamed," he said.

Dr. Fleming took sharp issue with City Councilman Peter G. Angelos (D-5C) who had warned Baltimore "was facing a crisis" because of the large influx of colored families.

Baltimore, Mr. Angelos contended "could not survive with a 70 or 80 per cent colored population." He said colored leaders must take the search for new housing beyond city limits.

William Wilson of the Baltimore Real Estate Association contended that his organization was working "to prevent the growth of blight by blight." Neighborhood stability, he said, must become a reality.

Also heard on the panel discussion held at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel was Louis B. Kohn, businessman.
