BEST BUYS:

Snap beans, eggs on food economy list

VIRGINIA L. McLUCKIE
Food Economist

Maryland grown vegetables are beginning to appear at the produce counter as the summer season starts. The general picture is one of variety for your selection says, Virginia McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore Office, University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Maryland snap bean season is here. The local supply is supplemented by beans from Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina. Prices are at a fairly high level presently but can be expected to lower as the season progresses.

• • •

THESE BEANS are fresh, crispy and snappy and string less. In making your selection look for beans that are bright green, fresh appearing, and uniform in size with immature seeds.

Use fresh snap beans within a day or two of the time when you get them and store them in a moisture proof container in the refrigerator. Snap beans lend themselves well to a variety of seasonings.

• • •

CABBAGE IS on the best buy list.

The local crop is of very good quality. Sometimes cabbage is over looked because it is well known and readily available. It is a vegetable with a number of advantages. It costs little, a generous serving two to three cents.

It provides a generous amount of Vitamin C particularly when used raw. It is easy to detect signs of high quality with weight and firmness of a head. Cabbage keeps for longer periods in the home than more perishable vegetables such as leafy greens.

• • •

CUCUMBERS ARE another of the best buys. The coolness of this succulent vegetable in the salad bowl is unsurpassed. It is not necessary to peel cucumbers. Score the rind with a fork and when the vegetable is sliced the fancy edges make an interesting garnish.

Prices for other salad bowl vegetables are more attractive than they have been. Eastern, Boston lettuce, Romaine from local areas and Escarole and Endive are available.

• • •

SUPPLIES ARE increasing in peaches from Georgia and South Carolina; Cantaloupe from Arizona and California and Watermelon from Florida and Texas.

These are moderate priced fruits that should be selected carefully on quality. A few North Carolina blackberries and dewberries are on the market.

Blueberries of good quality are attractively priced. Blueberries are the long keepers of the berry family in the refrigerator they can be kept up to ten days. The first perlette seedless grapes and apricots have arrived from California, both carrying high price tags.

• • •

THE POULTRY INDUSTRY is supplying us with two of the best protein buys in form of fryer chickens and eggs. The summer season brings a big demand for fryers and the supply is increased to meet this demand.

Fryers are available in cut up styles to suit every use as well as whole. Try a new chicken recipe to keep eating enjoyment at a peak. For cooking indoors or outside on the grill chicken is highly recommended.

• • •

IF YOU START your day with one egg or two you will avoid the mid-morning slump because the protein of the egg gives staying quality to the breakfast you eat. Egg prices are low on all sizes. Grade A quality is recommended. For a quick supper or lunch try scrambled eggs with bits of left over ham, bacon or penny size hot dog slices or some grated sharp cheese.

ORANGERIED CHICKEN requires one Delmarvalous chicken, two to two-half pounds, cut up, one cup flour two teaspoons grated orange rind, two teaspoons paprika, two teaspoons salt, one - fourth teaspoon pepper, fat for browning, one tablespoon water, and juice of one orange.

Coat chicken pieces by shaking in a bag containing the flour, orange rind, paprika salt and pepper. Brown slowly in medium hot fat, turning as necessary.

When lightly browned, 15 to 20 minutes, reduce heat, add water, cover and cook slowly until tender, 20 to 25 minutes.

Remove chicken to warm platter and prepare cream gravy, substituting juice of 1 orange for an equal amount of milk. 4 to 5 servings.

Chiffon Cake

Entertaining friends and family often gives the homemaker a good opportunity to display her talents with an impressive home - baked cake.

Try a Chiffon Cake, about as attractive a cake as you can serve — and delicious, too. Chiffon cakes are light like their ever-popular cousin, Angel Food, yet they have the melt - in - the mouth richness of shortening - type cakes.

THE REASON is that Chiffon Cakes use vegetable oil as the shortening and stiffly beaten egg whites as the leavener, and combine the mixing methods required for Angel Food and shortening-type cakes.

Here's a recipe recommended by United States Department of Agriculture home economists:

Mix and sift together 2-¾ cups sifted flour, 1-½ cups granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Make a well in the dry ingredients and add, in this order:

One half cup vegetable oil, 5 unbeaten egg yolks, ¾ cup cold water, 1 teaspoons vanilla. Beat the dry and liquid ingredients together until blended and smooth.

Salmon Steaks

Colorful fresh salmon is one of the specialties of the Northwest. Baked salmon, fried salmon, planked salmon are all popular.

• • •

BROILED SALMON STEAKS are made with 3 salmon steaks, 1 inch thick, ¼ cup melted margarine, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.

Turn over regulator to Broil, or highest heat. Heat with broiler pan in place. Arrange salmon steaks on greased shallow baking pan, or lay on sheet of aluminum foil on baking pan. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Mix melted margarine, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over salmon.

• • •

PLACE BROILER pan so fish is about 2 inches from heat. Reduce heat to medium (350 degree Fahrenheit). Broil under medium heat until fish flakes easily with fork and is moist (about 8 minutes on each side.) Brush 3 or 4 times with melted margarine whiel broiling.

Remove fish to hot platter or plates. Garnish with lemon wedges and serve at once.

Murphy, presided at the noon luncheon.

Mayor J. Harold Grady headed guest speakers on the welcome program.

Mayor Grady welcomed the press to Baltimore and expressed the hope that the city be accepted as the convention seat again in future years.

• • •

HE RECALLED Frederick Douglass as pioneer editor of the colored press who outlined its purpose as "demanding redress and advocating liberty," in his journal, "The North Star," in 1848.

He pointed out that 114 years later, the colored press has successfully championed the cause of freedom.

Also speaking was Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Morgan president, who welcomed the group to the campus and requested that the press continue to champion the cause of education.

Dr. D.O.W. Holmes, president emeritus of Morgan said "We would not be where we are today if it were not for the protest of our newspapers."

Dr. D.O.W. Holmes, president emeritus of Morgan said "We would not be where we are today if it were not for the protest of our newspapers."

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

It was just one year before Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, in 1862, that the Mt. Moriah AME Church came into being.

The past week was a busy one for its members and friends as they celebrated the 100th anniversary of the church along with the sixth anniversary of its pastor, the Rev. A. R. Powell.

On Friday evening, a banquet was held with Jerome Edwards as toastmaster.

Speaker was Frank B. Butler, retired vice - principal of Bates High School. Mr. Butler discussed "Missions of the Church."

He pointed out four important factors to be considered.

"The first mission of the church is its obligation to be a sincere Christian fellowship to the community," said Mr. Butler.

"Secondly, the church must provide an adequate program of stewardship education and cultivation."

Speaking further on the second mission, Mr. Butler said, "No matter how hard we try, we cannot reap life's true riches, experience life's unblemished joys, nor possess life's abiding peace unless we acknowledge God as the giver of every good gift."

• • •

AS THE THIRD and fourth missions, he designated Evangelism and Education.

"Christianity can be learned and it can be caught and taught in the home, in community activities, in church activities and elsewhere.

"It is the special province of the church to see to it that something is done to promote the growth of Christian character and to establish the Christian way of life in all the activities of individuals and of society.

"Every aspect of church life is an educative process. The church must not, it must teach, or dies, "stated Mr. Butler.

Mrs. Joyce McManus, contralto, accompanied by Mrs. William H. Richardson, sang two numbers on the program.

• • •

TWO OF the oldest members of the church, Messrs. James Parker and Frank Simpson were cited for their years of faithfulness and support as members of the official board.

Other speakers were Mayor Joseph H. Griscom, who brought greetings from the City Council, the Revs. Clarence Davis, T. C. Freeman, presiding elder of the Hagerstown District of the AME Church, J. H. Carter, Charles Creek, James Johnson, Norris Morgan, Howard E. Nichols, Leroy Bowman and John T. Chambers, Elder J. F. A. Kerr, B. E. M. of Waynesboro, Va., Francis Neel, principal of Adams Park School and Mrs. Evelyn Parker.

Remarks were also made by the pastor and Mrs. Cecelia Greene, general chairman for the celebration. Mrs. Elizabeth Hodges, in charge of student activities at Bates High School, brought greetings and dedicated a reading to the church.

In his remarks the presiding elder, the Rev. Mr. Freeman, commended the church on its well-rounded out program.

He stated that the Sunday School is the largest on the Hagerstown District and that it is run by one of the best prepared superintendents and teaching staffs.

The church dining room was beautiful in an elaborate decor of a profusion of laurel leaves and tiny pink cluster roses. The main table was centered by a large white magnolia blossom flanked at each end with bowls of magnolia leaves and pink cluster roses.

Seated at the main table were:

The speaker and his wife, Mrs. Ellen Butler, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Johnon, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carter. Miss Mary Wiseman, principal of Bates Junior High School, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, the Rev. Mr. Davis, Mrs. Greene, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Powell, Mayor Griscom, Mr. Noel, Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. McManus and Mrs. Richardson.

The celebration ended on Sunday when two outstanding speakers appeared on the program at regular services.

• • •

THE MORNING speaker was the Rev. George A. Singleton of Philadelphia, Pa., editor of the AME Review. In the evening the Rev. Harrison J. Bryant, pastor of the Bethel AME Church and candidate for the bishopric, of Baltimore, was the speaker.

Mrs. Greene had as her committee, William Edley, chairman for the banquet; Mrs. Claudia Randall, secretary; the Rev. Howard Nichols, treasurer; Mesdames Ruby Powell, Annie Grandison, Mary L. Booth, Ethel Southall and J. Burnette Brown and Mr. William Brown.
