Madison Ave. Church Choir scores in impressive concert

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The singing of a well trained chorus is like a tapestry with many colors blending, yet with clear and well defined patterns.

Madison Ave. Presbyteria Church choir of 24 voices is such a group. Under the very able direction of Clarence Henderson, choirmaster, the ensemble presented its annual concert before a large and appreciative audience Sunday.

The choir is developing such control of vocal and choral technics that these are not an end in themselves, but a means of achieving interpretation of the work at hand.

This was particularly noted in the two Bach chorales where the careful phrasing lent added meaning to the beauties of the text.

The organ interludes, played by M. Almira Miller, were admirably coordinated with the timbre and quality of the voices.

In Frank's "O Lord Most Merciful" (known as "Panis Angelicus) and the Rossini "Inflammatus," the choristers gave well blended background to the excellent soloists, Edward Clemmons and Jeanette Walters.

Miss Walters also sang Mozart's "Alleluia," giving its bravura passages with the exhilerating, soaring quality that characterizes her performance of Baroque works.

The spirituals that concluded the concert were given artistic attention that is rarely accorded folk music. The basses were most effective in "I Hear a Voice A-Praying."

The Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor and Mrs. Daniels headed a receiving line of Mr Henderson, Miss Miller and the choir at an informal reception on the church lawn.

MUSIC TO REMEMBER: Jeanette Walters distinguished singing of a Strauss art song and two arias, "Vissi D'Arte" and "Pace Pace, Mio DIO" at the graduation exercises of Peabody Conservatory. Among those receiving bachelor degrees in music education were Gloria R. Chester and William (Billy) O. Myers.

Delightfully spontaneous "Sounds from Space Singtime," under the direction of Miss Almira Miller at the testimonial dinner for Samuel R. Owings, retiring school principal.

Faculty and guests provided extra accompaniment by tapping on their water glasses and playing tamborines provided at each table.

Mrs. Doralyn Sykes, soprano as "moon messenger"; Miss Miller, Joseph Day, on the trumpet and Reppard Stone, trombinist, as "misguided missiles" and "cosmic rays" from the Haithcock String Trio further coordinated Mrs. Shirley Wood's clever program "Rocket to Retirement."

Students of advanced level were presented in concert by The Piano teachers Activities Group on a recent Sunday at Coppin State Teachers College.

Performing were: Linda Wharton, Jacquelin Saunders, Valerie Waters, Linda Johnson, David Williams, Kathleen Cain, Eugenia Anderson, Shelia Brooks, Carla Brewington and Wayne Dorsey.

THOSE PERSONS interested in securing the services of the Etude Octet (vocal) may contact Wendell G. Wright, 5104 Kenilworth Ave. 12 or Murray Schmoke, 2811 Gwynns Falls Pkwy., 16.

The premier performance of "An American In Israel" by Abram Borodin was given at the Jewish Community Center by the JCC Choral Society and Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Saul Lilienstein.

The intercultural chorus also sang a group of Israeli folk songs.

The Madison Avenue Branch YWCA presented its piano class in recital on a Saturday afternoon. The young musicians who are trained by Mrs. Norma Franks and Misses Saundra Mears and Hansonia Caldwell played a well balanced program of choice teaching material.

Programmed were: Dorothea Stern, Mildred Deanes, Brenda Haddock, Brenda Williams, Sally Haddock, Sonja Davenport, Paulette Gibbs, Andrey Fowlkes, Annie Beane, Gary Stern, Mary Baker, Geraldine Bell, Arlene Woodland, Gloria Beane, Leonard Cotton, DeLysia Lassiter, Anthony and Linda Booth, Sylvia Allen, Vanessa Robertson, Barbara Lipscomb, Rita Maclin and Myra Keal.

* * *

AMONG THE youth musical groups which have attracted considerable attention locally, we have received notice of the Amanda Specials, under the direction of Rev. Amanda Williams.

The chorus, with an age range from 5 to 15 years, has given numerous concerts of spirituals, gospel and "Classical" music. Members are Hope Dvory Williams, Shirley Hander, Benda Freeland, Evelyn Johnson, Cynthia Nelson, Rosalind Spence, Harold I. Williams and Harold Henry.

'ROCKET TO RETIREMENT' was the theme of the testimonial dinner held last week to honor Samuel R. Owings, for 42 years a teacher and principal in the Baltimore schools. Faculty of Carrollton Elementary No. 139 arranged the affair. Gifts were a scrapbook with tributes from co-workers and pupils, and this television set. Left to right, Mrs. Shirley Wood, toastmistress; Mrs. Owings, the honoree; Mrs. Anethia Williams and Mrs. Doralyn Sykes, who participated in program held at Sheraton Inn.

Hopkins magazine story by former Irene Colbert

Demands of colored people for first class citizenship constitute an assault upon the lives of every American.

So writes Mrs. Irene Colbert Edmonds, A.M. Hopkins '54, in the May-June issue of Johns Hopkins U. Magazine.

Mrs. Edmonds, former Baltimorean and daughter of a one time pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church, is now a professor of speech at Florida A. and M. College.

Legal equality is not enough, Mrs. Edmonds writes, colored people expect to be treated as human beings.

* * *

COLORED PEOPLE want dignity, freedom to enjoy all privileges and responsibilities of full citizenship.

They want to educate themselves where they choose, compete fairly for jobs, eat and live where they choose, vote where they wish, recreate where they desire and pray in the church of their choice.

Colored people do not want paternalism or pity. They do not want things made easy for them beacuse they are colored. The double standard is dead.

They are through with Jim Crow and back entrances,

WASHINGTON — The Prince George's County Board of Education recently honored Mrs. Agnes M. Edwards, affectionately referred to as "The Judge" by the Choral Choir, for 31 years of service as an educator in the high schools.

Dr. Jenkins says no to One board

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Morgan State College president, has opposed a state commission recommendation to combine Morgan's Board of Trustees with that of five state teachers college as a single State College Board of Trustees.

The proposal came from the Commission for the Expansion of Public Higher Education, of which Dr. Jenkins is a member. The commission, established in 1961 by Governor J. Millard Tawes to study the expansion of public higher education in Maryland, submitted its report to the Governor this week.

Dr. Jenkins in a minority report argued that separate boards of control should be established for each of the state colleges. As an alternate proposal, he suggested that Morgan State College retain the separate Board of Trustees it now has.
