students wanted to be on the show.

"You definitely can't be on the show, because you don't have tickets," he told them.

However, Donnie Fleming, leader of the group, explained they were not interested in being on the show, but were protesting Dean's staging "white" and "colored" shows.

MR. QUIGLEY, declaring he has no control over policy, and since he is a newcomer here, does not, know what the present policy is regarding the program.

He urged the demonstrators to holdoff until policy-making officials return and the matter could be ironed out.

When the students insisted on picketing atop the hill, Mr. Quigley declared:

"I don't know what kind of people you are. I don't want these children (the ones on the show) threatened, embarrassed harmed."

Assured they were committed to the non-violent technique of protesting, the station official told the group:

"I don't want to stop you from demonstrating. You have every right in the world, but for safety reasons, I ask you to demonstrate down here (foot of the hill)."

"Ray Charles Day," theme of the Thursday's teenage-dance program, was taped last Friday. Charles Ford, operations manager, said.

Dean asked to comment on the demonstration, replied:

"I have no comment, I don't know what it is all about."

The show was the center of a controversy several years ago, when spectators criticized school officials, committed to a policy of integration, for allowing students to appear on the program on a segregated basis.

courses will be offered in mechanical, electrical and architectural and typographical drafting.

The program is conducted by the Maryland State Employment Service in conjunction with the Board of Education.

"Those who are unemployed and who have lost skills should realize that the training program is the best possible opportunity to assure themselve of permanent future employment," David L. B. Fringer, head of the employment service stated.

THE PROGRAM is essentially geared to the heads of families, but younger persons are also acceptable.

A high school diploma is preferred, though not mandatory for any except the electronics course.

An applicant is required to pass an aptitude test to assess his aptness for the field of his choice. The tests are standard ones supplied by the Bureau of Labor.

An applicant must also have held a job three years preceding his application. Only heads of families will receive the maximum allowance of $31 while they are taking the course.

Those 19 to 21 will receive $20 per week, and applicants aged 16-18 will receive no allowance.

Mr. Murdock said that the qualifications will probably be less rigid as more courses are offered in the lesser - skilled occupations.

—Miss Stepteau

McCulloh St. shortly before 11 a.m. June 21.

Taken to Provident Hospital, she was pronounced dead on arrival at 2:55 p.m. Death came as the result of a heart condition friends say she was aware of.

Close friends also report the artist, who was widely known by her maiden name, Miss Stepteau, was in the process of moving from a residence in the 900 block Carey St. to a new apartment in Mt. Winans.

She was to have completed moving on the day she died, they told the medical examiner.

MISS STEPTEAU was born in Baltimore. A gifted and versatile musician, she is remembered for her ability to execute any composition from classics to jazz at the piano or organ.

For more than 30 years she displayed her talent at concerts and, on occasions, at night clubs.

She was at one time married to a Padasene, Cal'f. physician and was a social figure on the West Coast.

Upon her return to Baltimore, she starred in East Baltimore night clubs, and remained popular as late as 1950.

THE BODY was on view at the Elroy Wilson Funeral chapel on Brantly Ave., Tuesday and on Wednesday up to funeral time.

Miss Stepteau was a legend among Baltimore musicians some of whom gathered at the Sphinx Club Tuesday night to honor her memory in music and song.

More than 150 persons were present at the 1 p.m. rites at the church.

Among them were her long - time acquaintances, Misses Alberta Taylor, Charlotte Brent and Mrs. Esther Conway who aided in making funeral arrangements.

Musicians from Local 543, the union of which Miss Stepteau was at one time a member, were also present.

The Rev. William Woods, church pastor delivered the eulogy and said: "He who knows all, knows that Zerita has finished her work."

He recalled she taught at one time in the Texas schools.

He revealed Miss Stepteau joined the Star of Bethlehem Church in 1961 after serving as organist and choir master from June, 1960.

Continuing, he stated, "She was a likable person with wit and humor that won friends."

A highpoint of the rites included the piano selection, "Abide with Me", played by Ray Chambers, 3016 Chelsea Terrace, who later told the AFRO Miss Stepteau was able to cheer anyone "down in the dumps and blue."

The Rev. Morgan of Allen of Metropolitan Methodist Church, was soloist.

Pallbearers were Albert Stanley, Edward Wynston, Bernard Spencer, Melvvin Goldsboro, Leroy Loggins and Arthur Javis.

Among survivors is Miss Stepteau's brother, Harold Stepteau, nieces and nephews and great-nieces and sister - in - law, Mrs. Nellie Wright.
