DR. FARBER went from his private practice in Sparrows Point to accept the appointment as a health officer for the Southern Health District in 1955.

In 1956 he was transferred to the Western Health District as a health officer.

In 1957 he was named director of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases.

In February, 1961, he was promoted to assistant Commissioner of Health to succeed Dr. Mark V. Siegler who retired.

A graduate of the Gilman Country School, Princeton University and the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, Dr. Farber served his medical internship at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

During World War II, he was a medical officer on an attack transport in the Pacific Theatre of Operations.

As director for communicable diseases he was responsible for the programs for the control of smallpox by vaccination and diphtheria and polio by innoculation and the control of other diseases such as pertussis, rabies and tetnus.

At the same time he directed the Health Department control services for tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

His duties as assistant commissioner of health were in preventative medicine where he had charge of all the medical functions of the department.

THE DIRECTOR of the project, Mr. Puryear, has this to say about its worth:

'We are confident that many individuals and families have received help in the improvement of their home and family life through our many discussion groups, training sessions, workshops, institutes, bulletins, pamphlets and radio and television programs.

"This assistance has been brought to them through the combined efforts of many other individuals, families, and private and public agencies.

"As families have been assisted and as individuals and agencies have helped, we feel that all have been enriched through these experinces and that these families who have been aided will themselves become more active participants in community activities."

The lawyer who collects guns as a hobby —he has an awesome array of them — is guided by a personal philosophy that embodies many:

"I'm convinced more and more each day of the worth of the Golden Rule. And I try to govern my life accordingly."

with the Pub Crawler

Gripes Of Joe and mike:

Yes, Joe, you told me about your beef on the disappearance of jazz and class promotions in our town, and can't say that I disagree with you.

But have you given any thought to Mike's gripe?

He has a thing going against local radio. And you know something, methinks he has something, too.

He swears by tre stars the majority of the town's disc jockeys are escappees from the nut house.

To check out his beef, I tuned in several stations the other bright. I chose the ones that thrive on rockum, sockum, rollum (but this was no problem since most of them fall in this category).

Now I swear by all the stars that with a few notable exceptions, he's right.

Such rhyming, jazzbooing, jiving, screaming and murdering the King's English you've never heard in all your days.

Would be sorta of nice to hear more Edmonds Dorseys, Chuck Richards, Sammy J's and Larry Deans, wouldn't it.

But I guess that's asking too much. Understand we're out-numbered by devotees of the jungle beat and all its madness.

Sotcha shame, too!

LET'S TAKE a look at the outdoor goings - on maybe that will bring a bit of relief.

For instance, loads of fun is in store for live theatre patrons who make it to Painter's Mill, out Reisterstown way.

Until Tuesday, you can catch Tom Bosley, who is turning in a whale of a job on "Fiorello," based on the life and career of New York's former colorful mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

Following Tom under the tent will be perhaps the zaniest husband and wife combination in show business: Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, doing "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?"

Peter is a chemistry professor who was caught kissing a shapely coed and Mary the jealous wife, starts packing for Reno.

To get off the hook, Peter cons a script - writing friend to concoct an excuse for his behavior. The whole deal blows up when the ghost writer dreams up a farce, making Hayes an undercover FBI agent, out to trap the lovely spy.

Hilarious complications set in when the real G-men become involve.

It was a Broadway smash. Should be here too, because the husband and wife duo were the original stars.

Only Stan leads Mays

Willie Mays, working diligently on inevitable enshrinement in the Baseball Hall of Fame, appears in his 9th All-Star game lineup here Tuesday afternoon at D.C. Memorial Stadium.

Only the redoubtable Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, outnumbers the San Francisco centerfielder in the matter of classic performance. Musial holds the record of 19 appearances.

Two other tan stars — Hank Aaron and Ernie Banks — follow Musial and Mays in seniority (or frequency) on the National League squad for the mid-summer classic. The Milwaukee outfielder and the Chicago Cubs infielder are making their 8th visits to the all-star scene.

ALTOGETHER, eleven tan players are included in the lineup of the senior loop. They are, in addition to Mays, Aaron and Banks, first baseman Orlando Cepeda, rightfielder Felipe Alou and pitcher Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants; Catcher John Roseboro, leftfielder Tommy Davis and shortstop Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers; pitcher Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, and outfielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Four of the eleven — Mays, Cepeda, Davis and Clemente — will be in the starting lineup for the NL.

This will hold true in the game here Tuesday afternoon and, barring injury or illness, in the second All-Star contest, slated for July 30, in Chicago.—LACY.

16 classes offered at SCATS sessions

DENMARK, S.C. — Sixteen trades are being offered during summer classes at South Carolina Area Trade School. According to the registrar, the largest number of non-vets in the history of SCATS are enrolled.

KING AND THE QUEEN — Eleanor Beverly of Baltimore, and Charles Berry (right) of Washington, D.C., receive trophies symbolic of victory in the mixed doubles competition of the 4th annual Open tennis tournament, sponsored by Netmen - Coed Tennis Club. Matt Mairs, local manager for P. Ballantine and Sons (center) makes presentation at conclusion of tourney at Druid Hill Park, Baltimore.

Lee winner of pin title

George Lee, AFRO circulation manager and bowler par excellence, captured the men's singles in the $9,200 Summer Bowling Festival, it was ascertained on Wednesday.

Lee, one of the first entries to submit a score in the tournament, turned in a tally of 222-202-287 for a high of 691. This, plus the 24-pin handicap, gave him a 715 gross. Both the 691 scratch and the 715 gross were best in a field of 295 men singles entries.

INASMUCH as Lee's rin was recorded over the Memorial Day weekend, he had to sweat out nearly a month of competition in which the rest of the field was trying to catch or better him.

Nearest at the July 4th completion was Jack Clegg, who rolled a 688 scratch. His 45 - pin spot brought him to within two pins of Lee at 715.

The tourney was the first of a projected Festival series. Lee was one of the relatively few tan contestants entered.

Bullet in window of home upsets Cubs' Ernie Banks

CHICAGO —(ANP) —In an ironic twist of fate, Ernie Banks, who has been promoting youth causes here, was repaid for his efforts early Sunday morning when an unruly group of jeveniles created a scene in the rear of his home and one of them fired a shot through a rear window of the house.

Banks, the Chicago Cubs home run slugger and star player, was away in Cincinnati at the time of the incident and his expectant wife and 3-year-old twin sons were not injured. The youth toughs had vanished by the time police arrived, but extra police were assigned to the area.

BANKS' WIFE, Elovze, 31, telephone her husband to inform him of the incident. She told police here that gangs of youths have been congregating near the home for weeks, cursing and causing disturbances.

Reached at his Cincinnati hotel, where he had just arrived after playing with the Cubs, in a 1-0 losing efforts in Milwaukee, Banks expressed concern for his wife and family and said he hopes Chicago juvenile authorities would be more active in enforcing the city-wide curfew for young people.

He also said he was seriously considering sending his wife to Los Angeles to live with her mother, Mrs. Eunice Johnson, until after their child is born. He said he didn't "want her to be afraid all the time" while he was traveling with the team.

BANKS' home is located on the southside. Mrs. Banks said she heard two shots fired in a gangway and at the rear of her home about 1 a.m. Sunday, after she returned from a Debutante Cotillion at the Palmer House.

Jacqueline Barrow, daughter of former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, made her social debut in the cotillion.

Mrs. Banks added that in the morning, she and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Jones, discovered the window of the breakfast nook on the first floor in the rear of the building had been pierced by a bullet. Searching further, they found a .38 caliber slug on the floor.

THE INCIDENT Sunday followed by a week similar one in front of the Banks' home.

Mrs. Banks said at that time a gang of teen-agers created a disturbance in front of the house and that she heard two shots. She called the police.

But as is their practice, the youth vanished only to return later.

6 to debut in Classic

No fewer than six colored athletes will be making their initial appearance on the Major League All-Star scene Tuesday afternoon, when the first of two 1962 classics is played here at new D.C. Stadium.

Four of these will be on the National League side when the "play ball" is called.

These are pitchers Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants; leftfielder Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and rightfielder Felipe Alou of the Giants.

THE AMERICAN League's complete roster was not available at AFRO press time Thursday night, but at least two freshmen will be lined up with the junior league stars Tuesday afternoon.

Catcher Earl Battey of the Minnesota Twins and leftfielder Leon Wagner of the Los Angeles Angels, will be making their debut in the midsummer classic.

Both Battey and Wagner won starting berths via selection by the player balloting a week ago — LACY.

Wife divorces ex-pro fullback

CLEVELAND —(ANP)— Charging mental cruelty, Mrs. Eula C. Mostley, wife of Marion Motley, former star fullback of the Cleveland Browns, last week obtained a divorce in the Common Pleas Court of Judge Ferry B. Jackson, thus ending the couple's 20-year marriage.

Mrs. Motley was granted custody of their three sons under a separate agreement.

Motley has been working for a whisky distributing firm, according to the divorce papers.

so is on the schedule. Following today's (Friday) opening rounds, the meet will continue through Saturday and Sunday when, weather permitting, the finals will be run off and trophies awarded.

For four years NAT KING COLE has been one of the key figures and captain of his own team in the annual All-Star Celebrity Baseball Game in Los Angeles. Here Nat is pictured with two of the guest ballplayers, a threat to any umpire, ARCHIE MOORE (l) and JOE LOUIS (r). This year Nat Cole' team boasted such other sterling ballplayers as Mickey Rooney, Michael Dante, Rafer Johnson, Chuck Connors, John Beradino, Dean Martin, Max Baer, Jr., Bob Newhart, Soupy Sales, John Bromfield, Pat Boone, Jack Warden, Peter Brown and Silver Silvers.

Cole is contemplating a plan now to take a similar team on tour next year to key cities for special charities.

Meanwhile, he is currently preparing to appear in his first tent show, "Sights and Sounds," which starts on a seven-week national tour from Colorado Springs on July 16. Other dates for the tour include: Seattle World's Fair, July 24-29; Salt Lake Lagoon, Aug. 2-4; Greek Theatre, Aug. 6-Aug. 14; Rim dall's Island, New York, Aug. 18; Buffalo, Aug. 20-26; Wallingford, Conn., Aug. 27-Sept. 2; Warwick, Rhode Island, Sept. 3-4; Framingham, Mass., Sept. 10-16.

Yankees meet DC Cubs on Sunday

The Vista Yankees made it seven straight games on Sunday when they defeated the Clinton Yellow Jackets 12 - 5 at Clinton.

The Yankees trailing 2 - 3 in the fifth inning went ahead to stay when Joseph Shepherd doubled with the bases loaded. Shepherd bagged three other hitters, including a home-run, triple and a single driving in a grand total of seven runs.

Claude "Lefty" Jackson started for the winners and was credited with the win, but got help from Richard Plater. Plater also homered for the Yankees.

The Yankees still trail the Brandywine AC's by one game. Brandywine's only defeat came at the hands of the Yankees.

Tre Yankees will take on the D. C. Cubs on Sunday at Homestead Park in Vista, Md. Game time is 3 p.m.
