budget for the next fiscal year, and its approved in that form by the General Assembly.

This means that Mr. Spriggs would get no State funds until the beginning of the State's new fiscal year, 11 months from now, provided the request is contained in the new budget and is approved by the General Assembly which convenes for a 90-day session in January.

HOWEVER, DEL. Verda F. Welcome (D. 4th D., Balto.), who initiated General Assembly interest in Mr. Spriggs' case over two years ago, said Thursday:

"I am awfully disappointed, but I am confident that he is going to get his money.

"I am hoping some arrangements can be made whereby he can start receiving compensation."

Mr. Spriggs, meanwhile, said he has been without steady employment for over five months.

He said he does day's work here and there whenever possible.

The resolution directing compensation for Mr. Spriggs was passed by the General Assembly last March, after having been introduced by Senator J. Alvin Jones (D. 4th D., Balto.).

THE FIRST such resolution was introduced by Mrs. Welcome a year before, and was set for final General Assembly approval, when killed by Senator Jones in what observers deemed a political move.

Senator Jones was defeated in the past primary in his bid for the Democratic nomination for a second term by Mrs. Welcome, now the district's Democratic Senatorial nominee.

SINCE JULY 9 — without funds and under heavy responsibilities — Fellowship House has carried on this children's summer programs.

Five days a week, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon, 31 children of elementary school age and of different races meet at Fellowship House to enjoy games, arts, crafts, and supervised recreation.

A volunteer staff of adults and teen-agers keeps an interesting and purposeful calendar of events moving—music, folk dancing, art, puppets, marionettes, outdoor playtime in the park.

The Doll Library, containing character dools depicting famed persons, is used to illustrate the dignity of members of all races.

The Doll Library was shown in public schools during the past school year, received acclaim from educators.)

The daily story hour is conducted.

THE VITAL 1961-1962 Fellowship House program included, a push for city and state equal accomodations legislation and orientation of participants in action for equal rights.

Also, Fellowship House provided consultants and advisors for many community projects; instructors for a Department of Education Leadership Training course.

In March and April, members worked to bring about better race relations in the Glen Burnie area when there was objection to a colored family's moving into a former all-white neighborhood.

Fellowship House is still conducting race relations conferences with Glen Burnie ministers and community leaders.

MR. POOLE said when they finally realized that the drummer really was in trouble, it was too late. They pulled him out of the lake but all efforts to revive him were futile.

Relatives of the drummer said he was last home in May before continuing to travel with the carnival for which he has worked two years.

The Coddy's All-Stars were favorites of rock and roll devotees and were in great demand for nightclub and road show appearances.

Coddy, a graduate of Carver Vocational High School, was employed as a Department of Welfare investigator before organizing the band.

His group won wide acclaim when it played for the AFRO's Pub Crawler's Queen coronation.

PLANS TO trot out a Virginia barratry case naming the NAACP were vigorously protested by Sen. Keating who was joined by Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.).

The Virginia case is still pending before the Supreme Court. Keating insisted that it would be "highly unethical" to discuss the case until the court has made a final ruling.

Only two members of the subcommittee were present. They were Senators Johnston and Roman Hruska (R-Neb.). Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) the third mmember of the committee did not appear.

Senator Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) who was permitted to sit in on the hearing, commented that "Judge Marshall's professional life is as open as a book, and his character will match that of any member of the Senate."

SEN. DIRKSEN confessed puzzlement over what connection the Tyler NAACP case has with Judge Marshall.

"I didn't know we were here to try the NAACP," he said. "My understanding was that we were here to consider the qualifications of Judge Marshall for the Judiciary."

Sen. Johnston, mildly brushing aside this protest, said it was his duty "to complete the record."

Judge Marshall, well tanned and attired in a dark blue suit, was flanked at the witness table by Senators Jacob Javits and Keating, both New York Republicans.

SEN. JAVITS, who testified at the first hearing on May 10th, repeated his belief that "Mr. Marshall is one of best legal minds at our Bar with a demonstrative capacity for the position to which he has been appointed."

Sen. Keating described Judge Marshall as a "man of great ability, sterling character and the utmost integrity." He added "it is unfortunate that the Senate has permitted such a long time lapse in considering his appointment."

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman of New York appeared for the N.Y. City Bar Association. He said "I consider him to be a great asset to the Federal bench and to this court on which he is now sitting."

Besides Mr. Wilkins, also present at the hearing were Charles H. Matthews, Los Angeles attorney and longtime friend of Judge Marshall; Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore NAACP; Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, Clarence and Michael Mitchell of Baltimore; and Lawrence A. Oxley, Washington, D.C.

NAACP wants 'dolls for freedom'

The Howard County branch of the NAACP is urging each district to sponsor a baby for the Human Dolls on Parade for Freedom program on July 22.

The branch will sponsor a picnic on August 25.

Remus Dorsey, membership chairman, is campaigning for new memberships in the local branch.

The Rev. John W. Holland, branch president, attended the 53rd annual convention of the NAACP in Atlanta, Ga. The next regular meeting will be held in Guilford on July 16.

Martin estate

The estate of John R. Martin, who died here Oct. 29, 1961, is being administered by his sister, Mrs. Octavia Fisher of Cumberland, Md., and Dallas Nicholas, local attorney.

Mr. Martin is also survived by a niece, Mrs. Edelyn B. Raisin of Philadelphia.

The estate consists of insurances amounting to $4,623.13.

pointment to the HEW post was the "golden opportunity the President has been waiting for.

"Mr. Weaver would do an outstanding job," the New York governor continued. "About half of the activities in that department relate to urban areas and he would be right in the middle of an area he's familiar with.

"I hope he makes it to the post," declared Rockefeller.

The governor also mentioned his former involvement with the HEW department when he served as its first undersecretary. "So, it's a branch of government with which I'm familiar," he pointed out.

Rockefeller was also asked about the telegram he sent to Attorney General Robert Kennedy expressing concern for the safety of Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. who was jailed in Albany, Ga. this week.

"Rev. King is a very significant leader," said the governor. "He has been bringing the whole movement of civil rights back into the spiritual field.

"Because of his devoted and selfless leadership, there are those who would do him harm. This is why I expressed my concern to the attorney general," he said.

Dr. Allen left estate of $42,141

The estate of the late Dr. Willard W. Allen, fraternal leader, insurance and real estate broker, reached $42,141.15, according to administration account filed in Orphans Court the past week.

Dr. Allen died Oct. 2, 1961.

The bulk of the estate becomes the joint property of his widow, Mrs. Gladys V. Allen; and daughters, Miss M. Rosalind Allen and Mrs. S. Elizabeth Nalle, under his will.

Payments of obligations of the estate amounted to $7,717.12. Distributions under the will included $1,000 to Dr. Allen's sister, Mrs. Florine Burke; and $300 to a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Samuels.

$100 each went to the N. M. Carroll Home, the Maryland Baptist Home for Aged, Provident Hospital, the United College Fund, Enon Baptist Church, the Goodwill Industries, Infantile Paralysis Association, American Cancer Society, Catholic Charities and Associated Jewish Charities.

$31,923.94 is being held for future distribution to Mrs. Allen and the daughters.

The administration account was filed by George L. Russell Jr., attorney.

Pipe blow in fight is fatal

A 22-year-old man died in Provident Hospital early Thursday morning, still unconscious from a skull fracture received when he was struck over the head with a pipe Tuesday evening during an altercation at Madison Ave. and McMechan St.

Held on a charge of homicide is Calvert Holley, 29, 1600 block Madison Ave., at Central Police Station.

Lt. James A. Middleton said that police, responding to a call at the above intersection, found Holley standing over the fallen Miller. There was a length of pipe lying nearby, the Lieutenant said.

Police said Holley told them that he had beaten Miller in a fist fight when the man spilled a bottle of wine belonging to Holley.

WHEN MILLER returned with friends and threatened him, he defended himself with the pipe, police said Holley maintained.

Two men also were arrested as state witnesses and released on their own recognizance. They were Maurice Taylor, 24, 800 block of Decatel St., and Alfred Williams, 23, 1400 block Madison Ave.

'Fancy meeting you here,' says hapless gunman

A luckless gunman took his victim, an attendant at a Franklin St. filling station into the men's room to rifle his pockets, and came out to find himself looking into the muzzle of a police revolver.

Charged with assault and robbery in the case is Harry Johnson, 21, of the 2200 block of W. Mosher St.

At Western District Police Station, Officer G. McLellan reported that he was parked in a gas station in the 2500 block of W. Franklin St. about 4:30 a.m. Tuesday when he observed Johnson approaching another filling station in the 2400 block from the rear. The man was running and had a handkerchief over the lower part of his face.

By the time he entered the station, the officer reported, Johnson and the attendant were in the restroom with the door slightly ajar.

When he ordered the man to come out with his hands up, the surprised gunman dropped his weapon and was shoved out by a relieved attendant, David H. Gelz, Officer McLellan reported.

Mr. Gelz said that the man had taken $94 from his pockets and wallet. The money was found in Johnson's pocket.

Unity meeting called July 22

Muhammad Mosque No. 6, 514 Wilson St. has called an East Coast Unity meeting for July 22 at 2 p.m., inviting ministers of all faiths, fraternal groups and laymen to come together and become better acquainted.

The meeting will allow five to ten minutes for each minister to speak on unity.

Falls 2 floors in domestic tiff

An East Baltimore housewife fell off a second - story roof and injured her leg during a domestic tiff, Northwestern police reported.

Her husband later led police on a chase through a series of backyards and turned on them when they finally caught him, the officers reported.

Recuperating from injuries to the left knee at Johns Hopkins Hospital is Mrs. Lucille Bennett, 1200 block of Linwood Ave. Her husband, Earl Bennett, 40, is charged with assaulting her, assaulting Officer Elmer Scheltz, and with disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace.

A hearing was postponed at Eastern District Court pending Mrs. Bennett's recovery.

Mrs. L. Atkinson

Mrs. Laura Emma Atkinson, 67, 719 Baker St., was buried at Western Star Cemetery Wednesday after funeral services at Emmanuel Christian Community Church.

Mrs. Atkinson died Saturday at Mercy Hospital. She had been ill two weeks.

Active in both church and fraternal work, Mrs. Atkinson was a member of the Emanuel Church, was a member of the Nazarites, and the Janie Grayson Bible Class.

She was a member of the National Ideal Society, Rose of Sharon, Beausant Circle P.H.A. Knight of Pythias Auxiliary and Calvary Chapter No. 32, O.E.S.

A NATIVE of Ellicott City, Md., Mrs. Atkinson came to Baltimore at an early age.

Survivors include two brothers, Robert and Randolph Presco; a nephew, James Presco, and a niece, Mrs. Frances Boyce, Washington.

State official believes retraining funds coming

James Reid, director of vocational education State department of education, said Tuesday he believes the money for the retraining of unemployed workers under the Manpower and Redevelopment Act would soon become available to the nation.

The $35 million appropriation has been bogged down in the joint Congressional appropriation committees because they can not agree on where to meet to discuss the measure, he said.

The program, was to begin in Baltimore on July 2.

"I think this thing is going to break very soon because funds for the operation of the entire Federal government are involved, and there is going to be some pressure brought to bear," Mr. Reid declared.

Meanwhile, the Department of Employment Security, which will handle applicants for the program, reports it has received some.

But echoing Mr. Reid, staff director Robert Hammann said his department is waiting for the money to be appropriated.

James O. Proctor, supervisor of adult vocational education, who will select the schools where training will take place, also is waiting for word of the money from the state department.

"We haven't any directions as to what we should do. No schools have been chosen as yet.

"We need some kind of starting spark," he declared.

Held in attack on 14-year-old sister-in-law

A 17-year-old Northwest youth was ordered held for grand jury action without bond in Western Police Court Saturday on a charge of criminally assaulting his 14-year-old sister-in-law.

According to police, the youth approached the girl on Orchard St, July 4 and persuaded her to take a walk with him. Police say the assault took place in the man's St. Mary's St. apartment.

He was arrested July 6 at his home in the 500 block of St. Mary's St. on a warrant sworn out by the girl's mother.

Stiffer court fines asked in traffic cases

A larger State Police force, and more stringent punishment by the courts for offenders were measures asked this week by Frank Small Jr., Republican candidate for governor, as means of curtailing traffic fatalities in Maryland.

"The State Troopers are doing a fine job, but our increasing death count proves that the force must be expanded," Mr. Small said.

"When drivers lack concern for the safety of themselves and other drivers; the only way to impress upon them their responsibilities is to arrest them and accord them appropriate punishment.

"It's very discouraging for a conscientious law enforcement officer to bring traffic violators to justice, only to see them let off with insignificant fines.

"The courts must realize their ability and responsibility for deterring traffic violators."

An important amendment to medicare bill

One of the amendments to the controversial King-Anderson medicare bill would be a boon to 65 and older colored citizens if the bill passes.

A high percentage of elderly colored persons were unskilled laborers who were not covered by Social Security insurance.

Under the original plan, they would have been ineligible to participate in the proposed health program.

The amendment, proposed by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (Dem., N.Y.) and Sen. Jacob K. Javits (Rep., N.Y.), would extend coverage to "all those who are presently aged and not protected by a federal program."

The amendment would affect an estimated 2,500,000 additional persons.

Benefits under the amendment would be paid from the general fund of the treasury.

The original proposal would have offered health care to some 15,000,000 Social Security and Railroad Retirement pensioners.

Register, vote —one vote counts

Who says that one vote does not count? President Kennedy won the popular vote by a very thin margin of one-quarter of one percent of the total popular votes cast.

Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams were elected by ONE vote in the electoral college.

By just ONE vote the territories of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington became states.

The 1950 gubernatorial election was won in Wayne County, Mich., by dess than ONE vote per precinct.

THE NAACP and the Civic Interest Group are again sponsoring a register to vote campaign.

It is a campaign intended not only to register as eligible voters as many citizens as possible, but one to encourage more voter participation in the coming November general election.

Latest registration figures show 116,404 colored citizens on the books as eligible voters in Baltimore, through AFRO weekly tabulations.

There was an all - time high of 115,761 colored citizens eligible to vote in the past May primary.

At the time, this represented 28.41 percent of the total voter registration of 407,481 citizens here.

Of this total at the time, 291,720, or 71.59 percent were white citizens.

A new official breakdown of city registration by the Board of Supervisors of Elections is expected within two weeks.

The City Council gave tentative approval Thursday evening to a resolution proposing the establishment of a permanant nine - member commission on redistricting of the city's Councilmanic boundaries.

If approved at the next special session before the 23 deadline, the proposal will go on the November ballot as a charter amendment for voters to okey or reject.

The commission members would be a councilman or a person designated by councilmen in each of the six districts, a representative of the Democratic and Republican State Central committees, and an appointee of the mayor, to be confirmed by the Council.

The measure was opposed by Anthony F. DiDomenico (Dd) who argued that redistricting is a legislative body right that should be "jealously guarded."

IN OTHER Council business, a resolution condemning the Supreme Court's decision in the New York public school prayer case was approved.

An ordinance tightening restrictions on female patrons and employees in taverns and nightclubs was introduced as a result of the current "Block" probe on Baltimore St.

Francis X. Gallagher (3d), attempted to get passage of an ordinance protecting, by upgraded zoning, a tract of vacant property in the vicinity of Woodbourne Ave. and the Alameda, but was unsuccessful when four of the 12 councilmen present walked out, leaving the body without a quorum.

The ordinance, introduced at request of the integrated Kenilworth Park Neighborhood Association, would lower from 16 to 6 the dwelling units per acre which could be built on the property, thus giving zoning protection from overcrowding.

Carry-out shops okeyed by Zoning

The operation of carry-out food shops at 602 N. Collington Ave. and at 2601 Aisquith St., were approved Tuesday by the Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals.

An appeal to operate a tailor shop in the basement at 609 Dolphin St. was rejected.

The board approved, however, the locating of an auto repair shop in the rear of 2017 Dukeland Ave.

Among the cases scheduled to be heard the coming Tuesday, beginning at 1 p.m. in Room 231, City Hall, are: Appeals to permit a day nursery on the second floor at 2106 W. Mulberry St.; a body, fender and paint spray shop at 1324 Harlem Ave., and a case asking that a church be prohibited from locating in the basement at 2746 Edmondson Ave.
