New Koontz carton leak-proof

The H. E. Koontz Creamery, Inc., of Baltimore, has begun distributing milk in a new polyethylene lined and coated half-gallon milk carton.

Baltimore becomes the first city in the East to use the carton, which was produced by the American Can Company after five years of research.

The company has installed a new machine to shape and fill the cartons.

By the end of the year, it is hoped scores of similar installations will be made throughout the country.

CALLED "TUFFY," the container is completely new, not simply a modification of existing cartons.

It features a rugged five-barrier construction of laminated layers of paperboard, paper and polyethylene, making the container virtually leak-proof under normal abuse conditions.

It also has an entirely new pour-out and reclosing spout, giving it added consumer appeal.

such bad shape that it had to be taken out of service."

ON THE LEAKY gas tank, the superintendent declared:

"I knew it was leaking and so did they. Everytime I ask them to have a new one put on, they tell me to have it welded. It was welded three times before another one was put on, and this was used."

Mr. Lee said it is impossible to properly maintain buildings and equipment on the 50-acre campus:

"We don't have any tools and they won't buy any."

"When we need screw drivers, hammers, saws and plumbing equipment I have to bring it from home, otherwise we won't get them."

HUBERT HUBBARD, counsel for State, Classified Employees, asked Dr. Henry why was Mr. Lee considered incompetent now, since he has been given satisfactory ratings since he's been on the job.

"It's an accumulation of things," the president said. Mr. Lee said the action grew out of a dispute involving his using a station wagon to maintain the campus.

"They told me I would have to furnish my own transportation while working, and I refused," Mr. Lee said.

The superintendent said he is 40 per cent disabled as a result of an injury sustained on the job three years ago and is forced to use the vehicle because he is unable to do much walking.

IN ANSWER to the charge that he is unable to supervise his employmees, Mr. Lee said:

"I tell them to do one thing and they (school officials) tell them otherwise."

Pointing out that he is often sent to Baltimore, Washington and Annapolis by Dr. Henry, the superintendent declared:

"I'm just an errand boy."

Two maintenance workers testified in Mr. Lee's defense and Robert Brown, science instructor, testified for the administration.

Mr. Davis withheld ruling on the request to fire Mr. Lee, saying he will await results of further study. A decision will be rendered within 10 days, the commissioner said.

stance will continue until the South completely drops "a system of human values that came into being under a feudalistic plantation" era.

"It is true that morality cannot be legislated, but behaviour can be regulated," he went on, "it will take education and religion to change bad internal attitudes, but legislation and court orders can control the external effects of bad internal attitudes."

IN OTHER REMARKS during his one hour speech, Dr. King said:

Although the South is the principal offender in preventing full independence for the colored citizen, "no section of the country can boast of clean hands in the area of brohtrehood. Segregation may exist in the South in overt and glaring forms, but it exists in the North in hidden and subtle forms."

A piece of freedom is not enough, colored people must have all of it or they're not free. The colored citizen's destiny is bound up with the the destiny of America.

DR. KING made the following points during a questioning period after his talk:

"While the Kennedy Administration is friendly to civil rights, it has failed to exert leadership equal to the "enormity of the problem."

He criticized the White House for failing to sign an executive order barring discrimination in housing and for its lack of zeal in pushing civil rights legislation through Congress.

He said the nation's press has been generally fair and objective in accounts about him.

He discounted "a growing competition" between civil rights organizations, such as his own Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality. He said these groups were "all moving the same way," but some were using new and different approaches.

HE SAID that he owed much to the teachings of

DR. MARTIN L. KING
Sets Press Club precedent

Mohandas Gondhi, the great Indian disciple of non-violence but said his teachings must be applied in this country in the light of developments here.

He avoided a discussion of the differences between current political policies and philosophies of the newly emerging African states.

With regard to the black Muslim movement, he disagreed with its basic philosophy and declared that "black supremacy is as dangerous to society as white supremacy."

AT THE CONCLUSION of his remarks, George Cullen, club president, presented Dr. King with the National Press Club certificate usually awarded visiting dignitaries and a history of the organization.

Among those seated at the head table were: Senator Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, District Commissioner Walter N. Tobriner; Burl Bernard, director of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission; Angier Biddle Duke, U.S. Chief of Protocol; the Rev. Cannon R. Williams, of Washington Cathedral; Rabbi Tzvi Porath, president of the Washington Rabbinical Assembly;

Also Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president, Howard University; Carl D. Coleman, assistant to D.C. Commissioner John B. Duncan; Theodore W. Kheel, founder of the Gondhi Society for Human Rights; Brooks Hayes, special assistant to President Kennedy; Burke Marshall, head of the Justice Department Civil Rights Division; and Robert Luce, publisher.

Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr. of Michigan; Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president emeritus of Howard University; Luke C. Moore, recently appointed U.S. marshal; and Clearence Mitchell, director of the NAACP, Washington bureau were among those in the audience. Guests present at luncheon:

Attorney Frank D. Reaves the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, Theodore Brown, Chuck Stone, Dr. Henry Robinson, Edward Feggans, Attorney Barrington Parker, Edward Sylvester, Bruce Alston, Nelson C. rights in three crafts:

Custodian Service — Indianapolis, Atlanta and Tulsa.

Motor Vehicles — Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Mail Handlers — Baltimore, Houston, Norfolk, Toledo.

NAPE branches won 34 formal recognitions in this order:

Clerks — Chicago, Detroit and Washington; Mailhandlers, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Dallas, Atlanta, Louisville, Jacksonville, Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Detroit.

Custodial Service — Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Dallas, Columbus, Ohio; San Diego; Louisville, Oklahoma City and Norfolk.

Motor Vehicles — Milwaukee, Houston, Atlanta and Oakland, Calif.

MR. SMITH said unofficial figures showed NAPE branches polled 17,879 votes of 163,301 cast in the 62 big cities.

Mr. Smith told the AFRO, "We are pleased with the response shown in a number of cities though we suffered some disappointments in others."

During the election NAPE blasted the record of the competing craft unions and termed it ironic that the unions, which had often opposed effort of his group, then sought to get the votes of the approximately 1,600 colored postal employees.

He said that the predominantly white unions would not represent NAPE members adequately in the field of civil rights, and had often opposed NAPE'S fight for promotion for colored employees.

In citing its own record, the record of his organization, Mr. White enumerated the following:

1. Introduced the blood bank program in the Baltimore Post Office which last year saved employees $40,000.

2. Fought for mailhandlers group leaders and led the campaign which now makes it possible for them to take the supervisor's examination.

3. HAS WAGED a fight for years to get legislation which will protect letter carriers, special delivery messengers and motor vehicle service operators from law suits resulting from accidents.

4. Has effectively represented all workers in pay hike efforts and other legislation.

Mr. White pointed out that his organization is predominately colored only because until just recently most of the various craft unions refused to accept colored workers.

There's something good about a salad

During this time of year, the earth offers its Treasure Chest of vitamins and minerals from its bounty of gaily-colored fruits and vegetables. Such delectables can be attractively combined with other foods to make dishes for delightful summer eating. It's the crisp, tantalizing salad that reigns supreme as the Queen of the Cool-Foods for Summer. For a hearty Main Dish Salad, one that's a dressed-up version of an old classic, try this for supper tonight:

GOURMET CHICKEN SALAD

1 cup diced chicken, about
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup green pepped, chopped
2 green onions, chopped
2 medium tomatoes, diced
4 large stuffed green olives, diced
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
salt, pepper, paprika to taste
Mayonnaise to moisten
Lettuce cus

TO DICED chicken, add tomate, onion, celery, green pepper, olives and seasonings. Blend mustard with mayonnaise and mix with salad. Chill. Serve on lettuce. For 3.

When the weather is warm and sultry, a fresh crisp salad can be on the menu two or three times a week as a main dish. However, protein foods, such as meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cheese should be a chief ingredient. Recipes are seldom needed for the Toss-Type of Salad.

The opportunity for real creative design in food fashion is yours for the making. Try your hand at some of these "combinations - on-the-green" with your favorite salad dressing, seasoned as you like it — Don't forget the herb shelf:

DICED salami, cheese sticks, tomato wedges, an chovies.

Cooked Macaroni, Cheese sticks, ham cubes, pickle and onion.

Diced ham, sliced hard-cooked egg, diced celery, onions.

Ham, Turkey, Swiss Cheese pickles, onions.

Turkey, diced celery, grated onion, pineapple chunks, grapes.

Chicken, diced tomato, crisp bacon, chopped walnuts, celery.

Sardines, hard-cooked eggs thinly sliced cucumber.

Seafoods (Tuna, crab, lobster, shrimp) onions, pickle

Ham slicecs (rolled), fruit and cottage cheese.

For that California touch, add sliced avocado to vegetable and fruit salads. To delight your guests, serve the following:

AVOCADO BOATS
Four ripe avocados
One 7-oz. can tuna
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
pimiento strips
orange sections

HALVE AVOCADOS. Remove pits and scoop out pulp, making a shell. Mix together tuna, mayonnaise, cayenne pepper, lemon juice and salt. Spoon into avacado shell. Garnish with orange sections and pimiento. Vary the recipe by using shrimp instead of tuna.

Fancy breads give a Main Dish Salad more appetite-appeal. Familiar recipes may be easily varied for unusual effects, like Corn Meal Muffins with Bacon Bits, Cheese Biscuits, Blueberry Muffins, Garlic Bread and Popovers. If time is limited a wide variety of crisp salad crackers are available for purchase. For a salad accompaniment that is easy to prepare and delicious to taste, this recipe will add individuality to your main dish salad:

CORN MEAL CRACKERS
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup butter or margarine
½ cup sharp cheese, grated
½ cup milk
sesame seeds, if desired

SIFT TOGETHER flour, corn meal and salt. Cut in butter until it looks like coarse crumbs. Stir in cheese. Add milk, mixing lightly only until dry ingredients are moistened. Divide dough in halves. Knead each half gently on a lightly floured board, about 10 strokes. Roll out to 1/8-inch in thickness. Cut into 4 or 5-inch ovals or rounds, using a coffee can cover or cardboard pattern.

Prick with fork, press edges with tines, if desired. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Sprinkle each cracker with sesame seeds, press lightly with heel of hand. Sprinkle with salt. Bake at 425 degrees F for 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 16 large crackers.

Nutritionists advise that at least one hot food should be on a cold menu. Soups or hot vegetable juice cocktail are perfect for a Main-Dish-Salad. They improve digestion by bringing cold foods nearer to body temperature. Simple desserts like fruit, sherbet or gelatin desserts complete the Menu and make a Salad Meal irresistible!
