THE REPORT reminded the commission its attempt to model Maryland's higher education after California's should take into consideration the difference between the states in size, population, number of students, etc.

"We don't believe it to be a good plan for Maryland," the minority report declared.

It urged that the Governor, the Legislative Council, the General Assembly and the citizens of Maryland be urged to provide for the continuance of the separate Morgan State College Board of Trustees.

Why Did You Buy It?

By GEORGE W. COLLINS

Again this week, people going places and doing things — people on the move up — come in pairs. And these two exude charm.

But beyond this charming exterior breathes a skill, determination, resourcefulness and ability that has become a trade mark of people moving.

Meet Mesdames Arnetta M. Lottier and Lucille Nixon, interviewers.

No, they don't spend the day giving job applicants the shakes.

Founders of Lottier - Nixon Interviewing Service, 2422 Harlem Ave., Mesdames Lottier and Nixon gather information for marketing research.

* * *

ALTERNATELY referred to as poll takers, opinion collectors, data seekers, reaction checkers, survey conductors, Mrs. Lottier explains the function of their firm simply as:

"Doing field work for marketing research. Getting the true opinion of the buying public."

Products involved are as numerous as the word "buying" implies.

But due to a code of secrecy as rigid as that found in counter-intelligence, products involved remain anonymous.

Lottier - Nixon, founded six months ago, Mrs. Lottier reports, does whatever is necessary to compile information needed in marketing research.

Included are hours of telephoning, home visits, store audits, and in some cases, tabulating the final results.

Since literally millions of dollars hang in the balance, accuracy, promptness, honesty and integrity are basic ingredients of the operation, according to Mrs. Lottier.

Despite its young life, Lottier-Nixon has already given indications of growth.

Covering Baltimore, Washington and Annapolis, the agency employs 40 workers when surveys are being conducted, Mrs. Lottier stated.

* * *

UNLIKE THE youthful firm, its founders are veterans of the business world.

Before opening the office, Mrs. Lottier completed 10 years service as an interviewer with one of the largest research firms in the city.

Mrs. Nixon has a 15-year insurance office career behind her.

Among the firm's functions Mrs. Lottier lists:

Determining public reaction to proposed advertising copy.

Distributing sample products and returning later for customer's reaction.

Conducting monthly store audits to determine public acceptance of a given product.

The purpose of this information, Mrs. Lottier said, is to guide manufacturers in planning promotions, advertising campaigns and reappraising current marketing programs.

* * *

MRS. LOTTIER, mother of six children, points out that great importance is placed on surveys because:

"Manufacturers don't waste money by putting products on market without having some idea as to how they are going to be accepted.

"And if they are losing money on a given item, they don't stand still, they find out why."

The only way to get the "why," Mrs. Lottier emphasized, "is through research." And that's where operations such as Lottier-Nixon come in.

* * *

GIVING THE major reason for the firms creation Mrs. Lottier said:

"Manufacturers now realize how heavily the colored market weighs on the nation's economy.

"The colored buyer should also become aware of this."

Because of the millions these buyers pour into the economy, the interviewer believes, they are entitled to equal job opportunities in the manufacture, distribution and marketing of the products they consume.

"It is time they air their gripes through surveys, instead of over the back fence," Mrs. Lottier continued, adding:

"To say you don't like X brand because . . . does little good unless it reaches the ear of manufacturers."

Touching on the secrecy phase of their operation, the energetic proprietors described it as "walking on eggs."

"The public must be absolutely sure that information we get, which is highly personal, will be kept in the strictest of confidence."

* * *

ON THE other hand, their clients —the manufacturers —must be able

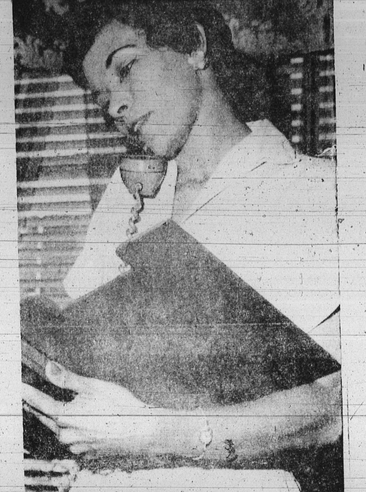
CHECK OFF — Mrs. Lucille Nixon tabulates survey data. Bulk of tabulation is done by IBM Calculators.



SEEKING REACTION — Mrs. Arnetta M. Lottier relies heavily on telephone to gather reactions of the buying public. Home visits, store checks are also important parts of her business.

9,000 Witnesses

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Baltimore and surrounding communities are hosts to more than 9,000 Jehovah's Witness delegates from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia this weekend.

Their three - day assembly opens today (Friday) at the Timonium Fairgrounds and extends through Sunday.

Known as well-mannered and orderly, their cleanliness is almost legendary.

When pre-convention workers arrive Monday, they swept and scrubbed the Timonium Fairgrounds and grandstand spotless. They'll do it all over again after the Assembly.

* * *

RELYING on the magic of brotherly love their money does not come from collection plates.

From funds voluntarily given, they are meeting the considerable expenses of the three-day convention.

Baltimore and Timonium merchants found them purchasing the following foods with cash, this week, as they planned to feed 27,000 persons a day:

6,000 lbs. beef 4,000 lbs. potatoes
1,800 loaves bread 1,000 pies
7,200 eggs 7,000 pts. milk
1,300 doz. ice cream bars 700 lbs. fish
600 lbs. chickens 4,000 lbs. cabbage
700 gals. canned vegetables.

Their cafeteria's ability to serve as many as 1,000 persons per minute has been studied by the U.S. Army.

* * *

TO KEEP THE convention running harmoniously, the Witnesses use 21 separate departments working on coordinated schedules.

The Housing Department arrived in Baltimore in mid-June, sent representatives from door to door to arrange rooms for delegates at not more than $3 a day.

Under the sponsorship of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, the legal corporation of the group, convention headquarters were established at 1623 Bellona Ave., Lutherville, Md.

Telephones were opened there and at the Timonium Fairgrounds grandstand rooms which now serve as offices for public relations, administration, cafeteria, education classrooms, first aid station, literature supply stations, many other divisions.

Dallas Wallace, a master in organization, is convention staff manager. More than 2,000 workers volunteer services. They came in cars with their families from all the district states.

* * *

DISCUSSION of the Bible and problems of daily living the Jehovah's Witness way is the overall aim of the convention. Members will study the Bible in daily class instruction.

At periods the ministers will make visits to Baltimore and Timonium homes on preaching missions they say are patterned after Christ's method "in the market place, the highways and byways."

All sessions are open to the public.
