to rely completely on their findings, they said.

"This is not a 9 to 5 job," they chorused. "When a client orders a survey, he wants it yesterday."

Much like newspapers; interviewers' hr. on deadlines, therefore unthordox hours are the rule rather than the exception, they said.

"But I'm no hero," Mrs. Lottier, wife of George A. Lottier, pointed out.

"I have a housekeeper, otherwise I couldn't do it."

Her children are:

Mrs. Virginia Love, who is also an interviewer; June, a Morgan College junior; George A., Baltimore Junior College; Sadie, 11; Deborah, 4; and David, 18 months. The office is in her home.

Mrs. Nixon, is married to John Nixon. They have no children, and live at 2811 Baker St.

"ORDINARILY, 10 per cent of any survey must be validated," Mrs. Lottier said.

"But to be sure, we validate 15 per cent."

Validation, she explains it, is a recheck of portions of all information gathered in a survey.

This rules out phony telephone numbers, addresses, non-existing customers, etc., it was explained.

"And no interviewer worth his salt will be caught turning in false information," Mrs. Lottier said proudly.

The owners have but one ambition for the firm: "Enough work to keep our interviewers busy every hour of the day — and night, if necessary."

The interviewers, "friends since we were four," want it clearly understood that they are not to be confused with canvassers, solicitors, door-to-door salesmen and the like.

THEIR CALLING card reads:

"Thanks for the interview!

"By giving us your opinions, you are helping America's businessmen to serve you better. It is through surveys of this kind that they can learn about your preferences."

Key points of the card, as far as Lottier-Nixon is concern, is:

"Accredited Interviewer. . . . .

"Never wants you to sign anything.

"Never asks you for money.

"Never wants to sell you anything.

"Is only interested in adding your opinion to others as a cross section of the public."

During its brief existence, the agency has found a shortage of qualified interviewers. But it has moved to do something about this.

It will sponsor a training session for professional interviewers and a Morgan College professor, Clifton Jones, will be the instructor.

Typical action of people on the move—UP.

BALTIMORE AFTER DARK
On the TOWN with the Pub Crawlers

Cupid's bow struck two more night people the past seven and Kleeco's Jerri and her prince charming, Ralph, are looking for the preacher man.

No date has been set, but both signed the dotted line at the Marriage License Bureau a few brights back.

Methinks Jerri had plans of sashaying down the isle without notice, but it was her luck to bump into the Crawler just as she was taking out papers.

For latest developments, check with our miniature FBI man, Walter. Like the shadow, he knows ....and a lot!

"Their "2 to 4 a.m. snack hour" shows good promise. It is rapidly becoming the gathering spot of hungry nite people who trudge there when the 2 a.m. curfew shuts off the flow of liquids.

Incidentally, they are saying that vice squad "raid" the other ayem is as smelly as a fish market. It was staged, they are saying, and testimony at the trial will prove it.

SHIRLEY Q., longtime fixture on the upper reaches of the Avenoo, wants her friends to know she's now holding forth at Foster's Club, out Laurens St. way.

"And don't forget to tell 'em I'm' on the day shift," she pleads.

Tommy Liberto at the Downtown Club, located near the market "for your convenience," has dreamed up some new gimmicks. What they are we are not permitted to say because he doesn't want to spoil the fun. So swing in and have a lookee.

A swing around the neon circuit the last week again gave evidence that the outdoor season is ruff on doings after dark.

You may not find anything spectacular happening, but the gang finds the way to its usual hideout which include:

Carnival Lounge, Lucky Number, Knotty Pine, Red Fox, Jones Cocktail, White Elephant, Dotson's, Chick's Bridge Inn, and Haynes Lamp Post.

Subscriptions only cost a couple bucks and it is for a mighty worthy cause. Make sure you get yours.

Fans expect Colts to go all the way

By WALTER DEAN

The Baltimore Colts will be running again before too long, so how will the "Hoss" fare this season? An AFRO survey among fans shows most expect big things from the team.

Here is how they see it as the Colts start limbering up.

NATHANIEL JACKSON, 23, 1037 W. Barrett St., shoe salesman: "I think they will have a pretty good team. Their defense is questionable. They felt the loss of Eugene (Big Daddy) Lipscome, Milt Davis and Johnny Sample."

WILLIAM WILSON, 49, 3047 Brighton St., truck driver: "I think they will come thru this year."

JOHN ROBINSON, 52, 2404 Calverton Hghts., Steelworker: "I think the Colts will end up in third place."

LLOYD GREEN, 32, 1201 Luzerne Ave., clerk: "They have a pretty good team. They might make it this year."

WALTER J. KNIGHT, 46, 2338 Riggs Ave., welder: "They will finish in the first division this year."

EDWARD COATES, 29, 2014 Etting St., steelworker: "I know they will get over (win the championship) this year."

ALBERT WINDLEY, 28, 2314 E. North Ave., blast furnace man: "I think they will win the championship this year. They have a more solid team."

DAVID SKINNER, 21, 546 W. Hoffman St., valet: "They might play for the championship this year if they get past the Green Bay Packers."

JIMMY JOHNSON, 42, 815 Chauncey Ave.: "They should win second place."

JAMES HENDERSON, 17, [illegible] student: "The Baltimore Colts is not my team. I know this is not patriotic to say, but I like the Washington Redskins."

Jackie struck out, but fans liked him

"SMARTEST MEN IN BASEBALL." According to the two guys above, each is the smartest man he ever saw in the game. Jackie Robinson, left, says that his ex-manager, Chuck Dressen, is the greatest manager he ever knew. Dressen counters by saying Robbie is the smartest man he ever saw in the game, including managers and coaches. They exchanged compliments at the Old Timers' game, Saturday, at the Polo Grounds in NYC.

NEW YORK — Jackie Robinson may have struck out in his only time at bat during the Giants' Dodgers "Ole Timers Day" game at the Polo Grounds Saturday, but he was a tremendous hit with the crowd.

The erstwhile Brooklyn Dodger great, who will be inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown Monday along with Bob Feller, received a thunderous ovation during the introductions.

In addition to Jackie, wearing his old uniform No. 42, the only other players of his race to participate in the abbreviated contest—shortened because of players' ages and threatening rain—was Monte Irvin, one-time Giant Star.

ONE OF many honors to be bestowed upon the former fiery infielder, a star in the Dodger organization 10 years is a testimonial dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Friday.

The Los Angeles version of the Dodgers, under general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, has purchased a table and has urged other major league teams to do likewise.

Proceeds of the affair will be used to support Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s freedom movement.

Jackie also has been invited to be the special guest of the Cleveland Indians when Feller is given a day by the club where he achieved fame and fortune.

Robinson also is scheduled to be honored by the New York Yankees and the New York Mets.

ONE OF THE biggest boosters in the Jackie Robinson fan club is Chuck Dressen, who managed some of the great Dodger teams sparked by the now vice president of a restaurant chain.

"Robinson was the smartest man in baseball," said Chuck, "and I'm barring nobody — managers, players, coaches or anybody else. He never made a mistake, and he could beat a team a thousand ways, most of which you can't find in record books."

Gil Hodges, now with the yearling New York Mets, who played first base as a Dodger teammate of Jackie's, said of Robinson:

"There is not a white boy who ever played with or against Jackie Robinson who envies him the right to be in the Hall of Fame. I personally am proud to have played with Jackie because it was he who gave us the spark that made us a great team, and on and off the field he was my friend."

DIZZY DEAN, the fearsome pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals 30 years ago, who now is commentator on the "Game of the Day" telecasts, had this to say:

"There's no question about Robinson being one of the great ball players of all time. . . . He was a great competitor and he played the game for keeps. . . . It's wonderful to see him voted into the Hall of Fame."

And as for his off-the-field activities in the field of civil rights, the talkative Diz-

St. Louis Hawks eye Bill Bridges

ST. LOUIS (ANP) — The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association are reportedly interested in obtaining the services of Bill Bridges, 6 - foot - 6 forward, who started last season with the Kansas City Steers of the American Basketball League.

The announcement that the Hawks, one time stalwarts of the NBA, were interested in the tan hooper came as reports circulated that the ABL will be absorbed by the NBA this season. The ABL finished last season deeply in the red.

Bridges was being sought by he Hawks along with another Gene Tormohlen, center and Bill's teammate last season.

Reisterstown tops Silvercreek nine

The Reisterstown Playground at Franklin Junior High School was the scene of intense competition last Thursday afternoon when Reisterstown defeated the visiting Silvercreek Playground baseball team.

Through the excellent pitching of Bucky Carter and home runs by Clarence Carter, Shelton and Woody Madden the capable opponents were trounced 8-5.

The Reisterstown Playground held an exciting watermelon contest, sponsored by Reisterstown Recreation Council in cooperation with the Baltimore County Department of Recreation and Parks, Thursday.

Coming events will include bicycle, truck and talent contests, pet shows and recreation for all ages without charge. Activities begin at 9 a.m. each weekday.

Record competition marks VA bowling

A record number of teams and contestants competed in the 16th annual Veterans Administration bowling tournament sponsored by the Bowlers Victory League, Dr. Jacob R. Jensen, chief, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of the Baltimore VA Hospital, said.

Veteran patients from 74 VA hospitals competed in the team events for ambulatory, wheelchair and blind bowlers.

zy said:

"I admired Jackie both on and off the field. I believe a man is a man and should stand up for all that he has coming to him. I admire him for his fight to be recognized as a man."

THEN DEAN started to reminisce. He said that Josh Gibson was the greatest catcher he ever saw and Satchell Paige was the greatest righthander he ever played against.

"Gibson hit the longest ball ever hit off me when he blasted one up into the lights at Washington. . . . I never faced a tougher pitcher than Paige.

"Both of these men and many others would have been in the Hall of Fame if they had been white."

Rodney Watts plays in BJGA tournament

"I was very relieved when they sent me my starting time for the tournament," said Rodney M. Watts after he had been accepted to play in the Baltimore Junior Association Golf Tournament.

He had been told last month he could not play in the tournament because of racial bars.

After 18 holes Monday at Pine Ridge Golf Club, young Watts had only a 92 which ruled him out of further competition.

Mrs. Watts is the son of Judge Robert Watts of the Municipal Court.

IN JUNE Mr. Watts' dollar entry fee was returned after the explanation that some clubs where the tourney is held maintain racial bars.

Robert Swindell, author of the letter, later visited the Watts' home. He stated at that time there could be no guarantee Mr. Watts would be permitted to play in the tournament.

He said the association felt it unfair to ask the city to open its courses to the BJGA every year, thus the rotating system among private clubs.

A check of the private clubs where the BJGA holds tournaments, showed that none maintains a racial bar.

Mr. Watts re-submitted his application to the BJGA and received word last week that he had been accepted.

A senior at Mt. St. Joseph High School, Mr. Watts is a member of the school golf club and plans to continue his game after graduating.

When he is right, Mr. Watts says he shoots in the 70's.
