Madison Ave. Choir concert a contribution to culture

By B. M. PHILLIPS

The Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church Choir, directed by Clarence Henderson, appeared in annual concert on Sunday afternoon at the church.

The hour-long program featured Bach's 'Cantata No. 140, (Sleepers Awake!), with Jeese Costen, baritone, and Jeanett Walters, soprano, as soloists.

Mr. Costen is a student at the Westminster School of Music, Princeton, N.J., and a member of the famous Westminster Choir.

Miss Walters is a senior at Peabody Conservatory. She graduates on June 2, and will continue further study in Munich under a Fulbright Scholarship later this year.

For the Bach performance, the 21-voice choir was augmented by four instrumentalists: Henry Mapp, cello; Matthew Fraling and Robert Smith, violinists; and Walter Lee, oboe. Miss Almina Miller was at the organ.

This reporter found the concert a delightful one, but I asked Isador B. Oglesby, seated several seats away, to provide professional comment.

Mr. Oglesby, you know, is a talented musician himself. Many know him as Dunbar High music instructor; and as director of the Enon Baptist Church Choir.

Here are the comments of Professor Oglesby: He felt the program emphasized "the general cultural level to which music in churches has grown.

"It provides an opportunity for trained expression by instrumentalists and soloists in the community."

In particular, it was noted that 'the dicipline of training is revealed in the coordination of voice, organ and instrument to give to the general public a deeper sense of appreciation of music in worship services."

Professor Oglesby observed that the choir's numbers provided a cross-section of music history.

Selections included numbers by Wilson ('If With All Your Hearts'); Mozart's 'Ave Verum;' the lovely hymns, Hine's 'How Great Thou Art' and Cornwall's 'Come, Come, Ye Saints.'

Also, the beautiful spirituals, 'City Called Heaven,' 'I'll Never Turn Back' (beautifully done with soloist Arena Grant), and 'Ain't That Good News.'

Of the professional soloists, Professor Oglesby noted Miss Walters' voice revealed a 'warmth of expression and control, disciplined through a strong vocal ability."

And of Mr. Costen, he 'displayed artistry and understanding in his solo and duet parts."

Of Mr. Henderson, the choir director, it was observed that he and his choir are to be congratulated for their cultural contribution to our community.

Special commendation is due this choir under Mr. Henderson for preserving the Negro spirituals, and incorporating them in the program so beautifully.

Besides, those already mentioned above, other members of the choir are:

Sopranos: Mesdames Anne Boone, Margarite Daniels, Dorthy Monroe, Shirlen Lynch, Gladys Brown, Dr. Nancy Arnez and Miss Edwina Grant; Altos: Mesdames Dorothy Husketh, Alfreda Pinkney, Reba Brailsford, Lynore Hudgins, Arnett Rosemond and Miss Marilyn Oliver;

Tenors: Messrs John Myers, Edward Clemmond, Algernon Jackson and Bernard Miller;

Basses: Messrs Samuel Beasley, Leonard Wilmore, Charles Micheal, Paul Moore and Lawrence Willis.

The Rev. Reginald J. Daniels is pastor of Madison Ave. Church.

disorderly conduct but was dismissed by Judge Aaron A. Baer Saturday.

Miss Florence Wilkinson, a Morgan College coed, and a 16-year-old Western High School girl were also jailed in connection with the case.

Both are free on their own recognizance and their trials are set for June 3 at 9 a.m.

Commissioner Schmidt said the outcome of the investigation being conducted by Capt. Edwin E. Taylor, Northwestern commander, will await the disposition of the pending cases.

Parren J. Mitchell, executive secretary of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations is also conducting a separate investigation of Mr. Slaughter's complaint.

MR. MITCHELL said his agency entered the case after receiving complaints from Miss Ruth Fegley, executive director of Baltimore Fellowship House; Alexander Stark, 5th District delegate to the General Assembly, and Mr. Slaughter's attorney; and Dr. Aaron W. Siegman, psychologist at the University of Maryland and neighbor of the Western High School student.

The commission's findings too, will be disclosed following the trials, Mr. Mitchell said.

Miss Wilkinson said she was jailed when she went to the station with Mr. Slaughter's mother and wife, who posted bail.

The 19-year-old coed said she was taken into custody when she protested being "manhandled" by policemen who ordered them out of the booking room.

POLICE ARRESTED the high school student when she voiced an opinion on Mr. Slaughter's arrest, who also accused policemen of keeping part of his money and refusing to allow him to contact his family or attorney during the two and one-half hours he was under arrest.

Mr. Slaughter, who was jailed after acting as peacemaker between the white youths, said the turnkey dashed a bucket of water on him to "cool you off" when he insisted on permission to call his family.

Dr. Stinnett, a graduate of Henderson - Brown College, Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, received his doctorate from the University of Texas.

In addition to writing articles for various professional magazines in the field of education, he is author of a number of publications in teacher education and several public school textbooks.

The Baccalaureate vespers will be held in Pullen Gymnasium on Sunday, June 2, at 4 p.m. The message will be delivered by Evans E. Crawford, Ph.D., dean of the chapel at Howard University, Washington, D.C.

Rising wrath seen back of rights bill

A Congressman who ought to know, Monday predicted the House Judiciary Committee would release shortly after mid — June a tough— made so since Birmingham —civil rights bill.

Representative Celler (D., N.Y.), who is chairman of the House unit, said measures asked by the administration are being toughened up and expanded into a new bill with the teeth long-sought by civil-rights advocates.

He said the bill will include a controversial section giving the Attorney General authority to sue in behalf of individuals seeking equal rights. The Senate knocked this out previously in watering-down the 1957 Rights Act.

CELLER SAID other sections proposed would do the following:

—Provide that a sixth grad education be presumptive literacy in voting standards.

—Establishment of Federal rather than state registrars to enroll nonwhites on voting lists in the South.

—Establish an expedition statute to speed rights cases in the courts.

—Extension of the Civil Rights Commission.

Representative Celler in making his prediction issued this warning: "We are facing a crisis in colored-white relations. The civil-rights struggle is coming to a head—a tragic head.

"BIRMINGHAM and Oxford are symptomatic of the dangers we face unless we act and take control of the freedom movement which is getting into the hands of the extremists.

"Token relief and pseudo-measures of reform will not stem the rising tide of wrath among 20,000,000 colored Americans," said the Brooklyn Democrat. "The present rate of change is too slow."

U.S. eyes rights moves in Maryland

A survey has been undertaken by federal officials here in Maryland and other states to determine the future plans of integrationist groups, and also to determine the extent of segregation in such places as movie houses, restaurants, chain stores and factories holding government contract.

In Washington, Edwin O. Guthman, Justice Department press officer, said the action "was part of the department's normal intelligence work," but admitted that this was the most extensive survey of its kind ever undertaken.

He said that the survey covers Maryland and other border states, the south and areas in the north.

The survey was ordered by the Civil Rights Division, according to Mr. Guthman.

"It's part of the whole effort of the Justice Department to anticipate possible action in this area and to be of some assistance to local people before they have demonstrations and violence," he added.
