INDUCTION OF 10 new members, installation of newly-elected officers, a $1500 pledge to Provident Hospital and a shower of personal gifts for senior citizens were the highlights of the closing meeting of the Baltimore Club of the National Association of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The pledge with $325 cash was presented to Marshall Pringle, campaign manager, and Charles Tildon, chairman of the clubs and organization division of the Hospital Development Program by [illegible] J. Day, president. Ten groups in the club had vied in raising the initial payment with Alice R. Matthews well out in front.

Emma H. Brown, first vice president, introduced and welcomed the new members. Lillian S. Watty gave national and local highlights of the club.

The new members are Gwendolyn Brooks; teacher; Grace L. Burke, personnel director at Morgan State; Roslyn C. Catlin, teacher and musician; Alice B. Ford, public health nurse; Gladys C. Turner, Clarissa K. Mathews, teachers; Hilda P. Smith, office manager; Susie Strother, radio personality; and Melinee Yerrell, Pauline Brooks, apparel shop manager. Matthews, corresponding secretary; Helen A. Hill, assistant treasurer; Edna Rawlings, treasurer; and Alice R. Matthews, chaplain.

As a part of the club's senior citizen program members brought a shower of articles ranging from slips to tooth-paste to be presented to the inmates of the Carver Nursing Home. An appeal for rockers and easy chairs made by the chairman, Jeannetta P. Wilson over Station WEBB and through the solicitation of Sarah P. Diggs has resulted in the promise of nearly a score of chairs.

Hostesses for the evening were Charlotte P. Swan and Hattie Tilghman, co-chairmen; Romaine Taylor, Jeannette Turner, Jessye Valentine, Virgie Waters, Maybelle J. Weaver and Jeannetta Wilson.

THE BALTIMORE custom of entertaining in the home, always gracious, has taken on added charm in recent years.

'Twas a "Fiftieth State" party when the Organization met with Mary Bacote in her Fernhill Avenue home, Saturday. Guests were greeted in her rose garden by Mrs. Ethel Clark and Linwood Koger, Sr.

Carrying out the theme of the affair, Ernestine Lewis and Veronia Green were fashionable in Hawaiian accessories accentuating their floral shifts. After cocktails guests dined on Hawaiian salad, barbecued pork and chicken, etc.

Later in the evening they left the garden and went inside for games and surprises.

Henriett Jones, this month's shower honoree, was delighted with the lingerie she received. Members, too, received surprise gifts from their "secret pals".

Enjoying the fun of the evening were Mae Cornish, Veronia Green, Henrietta Jones, Lillian Wilson, Leana Ferrell, Alphua Williams, Jeanette Johnson, Marion Amprey and Ernestine Lewis.

Zetas entertain at spring dance

Despite the impish teasing of old mother nature, spring was here and it was evidenced at its best recently at the Annual Spring Formal of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, held at the Catonsville Armory.

The women wearing all the jaunty cream puff colors so familiar to the season glided across the floor to the romantic melodies of the Rivers Chambers Orchestra. Many were attired in elegant floor length sheath gowns that are all the rage this spring. The men were handsome and suave in white dinner jackets, dashing and continental in the new formal blues and the fashionable reds that were seen on the floor.
