US classrooms no model for Africa

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — An eminent educator Thursday cited the United State's segregated school system as the best example he knows of how not to run public schooling. Separate but - equal is "ruinous," he told a U.N. subcommittee.

Horace Mann Bond, dean of Atlanta University's School of Education, issued the indictment before the U. N.'s 11-nation committee on apartheid. The group is seeking a way to end South Africa's strict racial separation policy.

Bond said segregated facilities have a ruinous physiological effect on non-whites in the U. S. and warned that the same thing will happen in South Africa under the segregationist education acts.

He said studies by U. S. educators have proved "racial segregation irreparably damaged the child subjected to it" by setting up inferiority feelings that led to self-hatred and aggressiveness.

AT THE STATE level the rising revolt of militancy showed in a rash of pupil applications for transfer to all-white schools for the coming fall session. The move was especially apparent in several North Carolina cities.

At Edenton, N.C., 14 children formally applied for admission to all-white schools, both high and elementary, and Gastonia experienced its first effort toward integration with the filing by one student for transfer to a white school.

Guildord County (N.C.) school system had the first attempt at integration in that system with applications for reassignment by two children who wish to transfer from Rena Bullock to all-white Sedgefield School next fall.

• • •

SUPT. E.P. Pearce of Guildord County said he has also received 17 applications for reassignment from pupils now attending county schools who wish to attend Archer and new Smith School in the Greensboro city school system.

Wake County (N.C) school officials said Tuesday they received their first transfer applications this week when nine blanks were turned in. Seven applicants now attend Raleigh's Berry O'Kelly High School. Forty-five blanks have been requested.

At Virginia Beach, Va., 59 students have applied for admission to all-white or predominantly white schools. Supt. Frank W. Cox, said Wednesday. Thirty - eight pupils were assigned to white schools here last year.

• • •

WEST GEORGIA College at Carrollton, Ga. registered the first colored student in its history Tuesday. A college spokesman said the 33-year-old woman was enrolled in elementary education without incident.

A colored student was reported to have applied for admission to the all-white Dudley Hughes Vocational School in Macon, Ga. Tuesday. One education official predicted he will be admitted.

After a three-year dispute, the New Rochelle (N.Y.) Board of Education will shut down the predominantly colored school at the end of this month and send its pupils to integrated schools.

"As trustees of the education of our children we do not believe that a segregated school can provide the same educational benefits to its children as can an integrated school," said the school board president, Frank Marino.

• • •

CLARENCE R. TODD, a civilian employee of the Quantico Marine Corps Schools, will become the first colored person in history to serve on the Fredericksburg Va., school board. He was approved June 12.

The number of school districts in Kentucky with no immediate plans for integration has been reduced to at most 10, a state official said Monday. The aide said he expects all schools to be integrated by the fall of 1964.

At Lexington, Ky. a federal judge approved part of a proposal for integrating Jassamine County Schools Monday, but threw out an option plan that he said would perpetuate segregation on the elementary-school level.

• • •

ALL FIVE JUDGES of the 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday heard arguments in the Powhatan County School desegregation case. The panel will decide whether a U. S. Dist. judge was correct in issuing an order prohibiting the county's closing public schools to avoid integration.

Mobile (Ala.) County Monday that it was too late to attempt to submit a desegregation plan for the sch l term starting this fall.

The statement was contained in the official's brief filed in U. S. District Court in opposition to a motion of attorneys for the NAACP asking that the school board be required to submit a desegregation plan.

• • •

A MASS DEMONSTRATION today night's Board of Education m group that is protesting alleged discrimination colored school children in St. Louis, Mo.

The Norfolk, Va. School board dropped the test quirement Thursday for pils wishing to transfer from one school to another CP attorneys had charged the testing was used to minimize integration.

Two children will be admitted this morning to summer session at the all-white Hopewell H Hopewill, Va. It will be the first public school desegregation in that Virginia city.

HAS RETIRED
THANKSGIVING FOR BENEFITS RECEIVED

So often, Lord, I come to Thee
To ask Thy help in time of stress,
But now in gratitude I come,
To say my thanksgivess.

For all the mercy Thou hast shown,
In countless gracious ways,
I now would be of service, too,
That I might prove my praise.

Lord, I would have a listening ear,
To hear Thy children call,
In my own heart remembering,
No need to Thee is small.

Now It's The Doctors

The crusty American Medical Association which allows city and county units to bar colored doctors, and accredits hospitals which exclude patients, nurses and doctors, is in trouble.

The annual convention in Atlantic City has been picketed because the medics have not abolished jim crow.

Sounds reasonable to us. We wonder how Johns Hopkins Medical School, for example, can be accredited if it has never admitted and graduated a colored American physician.

The least they can do is put Johns Hopkins on the black, or is it the ily-white list?

We attended a Hopkins commencement the other day and we discovered the Hopkinites can't sing — not even their alma mater song. It's a sad case of slow learners.

So we are with New York's Dr. John L. S. Holloman and all the other doctors who picket AMA.

Doctors are not normally good pickets in civic causes. They fear losing patients. But out-of-towners have no patients in Atlantic City.

Let Us Pray Voluntarily

We wish we could be alarmed by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to ban compulsory prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

Volunteer prayers and reading from the sacred writings of all religious faiths are not barred.

At present, the daily recitation of the Lord's Prayer and scriptural Readings are so perfunctory as to be almost meaningless.

We teach children everything else, why not teach them to pray and to want to pray, so that, as the spirit moves them, they will stand up in the opening exercises each school day and voluntarily give thanks to the Creator for life and health and country and home and school and teachers and parents.

Then, to pray for Divine guidance, for love and faith and hope in their own lives, and peace in the world.

Wouldn't you be proud of children who could voluntarily pray to their God in their own way?

Survey in Detroit bares hiring trend

DETROIT — A job opportunities survey prepared for Mayor Jerome Cavanagh revealed that less than 10 per cent of the employes in four big city departments are non-white.

The departments are the fire, police, civil service and assessors.

In addition, the police, assessors and civil service departments and eight other city divisions have less than 10 per cent non-whites in managerial and professional positions, the survey says.

• • •

THE EIGHT other departments are buildings and safety, controller, treasurer, civic center, purchasing and supplies, Detroit Street Railway, Zoo and the traffic and ordinance division of Recorder's Court.

The survey, praised for its thoroughness by Mayor Cavanagh, was made by the Civil Service Commission.

"Employment of non-whites by the city tends to follow well - established patterns. Those departments such as housing and welfare, having extensive contacts with the non-white community recruit a high percentage of non-white employes," it states.

"Those departments such as Public Works which have a large number of jobs as laborers traditionally hire a high percentage of non-whites.

• • •

"REGARDING THOSE departments in which the percentage of non-white employes appears to be unreasonably small, questions should be raised concerning hiring practices and recruitment problems."

Percentages of non-whites is very small in the Fire and Police Departments, the report notes. In the Fire Department, there are three per cent in general staff and 12.5 in professional and managerial. In the Police Department, there are 6.17 in general staff and none in the managerial category.

Richard V. Marks, executive director of the Commission on Community Relations, said his commission would make the report available to all city departments, the conduct more thorough studies in those 11 departments which seem to have an imbalance in racial groups.

OF THE CITY'S 25,762 employes, 9,128 (35.4 per cent) are nonwhite, the report found, and of professional and managerial employes, 899 (22 per cent) are nonwhite.

The largest employer of nonwhites is the Detroit Public Works, with 63.9 per cent in general staff and 18.7 in professional and managerial jobs.

The Detroit Street Railway general staff has 42.9 per cent non-whites, but few in managerial jobs (12).

LARGEST EMPLOYER of non-whites in the white collar categories is the Welfare Department, (42.8 per cent). The Health Department and Commission on Community Relations both employ over 30 per cent in these categories.

Mayor Cavanagh hailed the city's employment pattern as "a good example for our total community so far as equal employment opportunity is concerned.

Churchmen hear President's plea on racial issues

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — Some 200 church leaders gathered in the East Room of the White House Monday afternoon to hear an appeal from President Kennedy on the explosive racial issue.

There were at least a score of colored clergymen scattered throughout the group that had been summoned to the Executive Mansion from all over the country.

When they emerged after more than an hour, most said the conference was "useful" and applauded the efforts of the President to improve the lot of colored Americans.

• • •

BUT SOME thought the atmosphere was restrained. At least one was downright antagonistic over a suggestion that the Nation's churches form an integrated alliance of goodwill to resolve the racial problems facing the people.

Another segment, more optimistic than the rest, felt that much more would be eventually achieved than envisioned by the White House.

During the meeting, President Kennedy stressed the necessity of "voluntary action" on the part of the clergymen to get the program moving.

• • •

HE SAID that whatever pace was set in improving civil rights would be set by non-whites themselves. He told the gathering that the Administration had decided to devote the months of July, August and September to improving race relations.

His brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, pointed out about 500 cities that he considered as "prime targets" in combating racial evils.

A minister from Lakeland, Fla., raised the question of the Administration's attitude on intermarriage between the races. He said it was expressly forbidden by the Bible.

• • •

THE PRESIDENT replied that marriage was a personal matter to be solved by the men and women involved. He quickly pointed out that the conference was called to deal only with the problem of equality of opportunity for all Americans.

Before the conference was adjourned, Irvin J. Miller, of Columbus, Ind., president of the National Council of Churches, was appointed chairman of a Presidential advisory committee to work out plans for interfaith support.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, could not be present but he sent his chief lieutenants, the Revs. Ralph D. Abernathy of Atlanta, and Fred. L. Shuttlesworth of Cincinnati.

• • •

AMONG OTHER religious leaders observed at the conference were AME Bishop George W. Baber, Philadelphia; Rt. Rev. John M. Burgess, Suffragan Bishop of Massachusetts, Boston; AME Bishop George Daber, Philadelphia; Rev. Walter E. Fauntroy, Washington, D.C.; AME Bishop Carey A. Gibbs, Jacksonville, Fla.

The Rev. J. H. Jackson, president, National Baptist Convention, USA, Chicago; Dr. Frederick C. James, director, AME Commission on Social Action, Sumpter, S.C.; Methodist Bishop Edgar A. Love, Baltimore, Md.

The Rev. J. T. Scott, Overseer of the Colored Churches of God, Cleveland, Tenn.; Rev. Marshall Shepard, City Council, Philadelphia; and and AME Zion Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, Washington.

• • •

THE REV. MAURICE A. DAWKINS, The Peoples Independent Church of Christ, Los Angeles 31; Bishop Carey A. Gibbs, African Methodist Episcopal Church, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dr. J. Oscar Lee, Exec. Dir., Dept. of Racial and Cultural Relations, National Council of Churches, New York, 27.

The Rev. James Robinson, United Presbyterian Church USA, New York; Dr. Gardner Taylor, Concord Baptist Church, Brooklyn, New York; Bishop William R. Wilkes, African Episcopal Church, Atlanta.

Bishop Smallwood Williams, Bible Way Church, Washington.

'We pay bills,' NAACP says

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — A lomb, smoldering feud between the NAACP and rival civil rights organizations broke into the open Sunday at a rally in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, attacked the Congress of Racial Equality, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Non - Violent Co-Ordinating Committee for "furnishing the noise" while the NAACP "pays the bills."

The NAACP has long been concerned over charges by rival civil rights units that it is slowly losing its grip on the colored masses. Support, instead, was reported going to less mature but "more effective" civil rights groups.

• • •

MR. WILKINS told an audience in Carver Theatre that the other civil rights organizations were claiming credit for racial advances won by the NAACP.

"They furnish the noise and get the publicity," Wilkins charged. "While the NAACP furnished the manpower and pays the bills."

He acknowledged that all of the groups were fighting for the same objectives, but said CORE misled the public on the number of members it had at Jackson, Miss.

CORE did not have 200 as claimed, not even 20, but "just two" at Jackson, he said.

• • •

MR. WILKINS admitted that all of the other groups are "doing something", but reminded the audience the NAACP "is not here today, gone tomorrow."
