Miss Anastatia Phillips is married to James Benton, Jr.

Miss Anastatia Yvonne Phillips, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Franklin Phillips and James Lewis Benton Jr. of Natrona Heights, exchanged marriage vows here, Saturday afternoon at two.

The double - ring ceremony, in Sharp Street Methodist Church, was performed by the Rev. Drs. Kelly Jackson and Edward Carroll, before an altar banked with flowers and palms and lighted by candelabra.

The candle lighters were Monica Bond and Reba Fitchett, and the program of wedding music was by Samuel Tunstall, soloist, and Norman Ross, organist.

MISS PHILLIPS, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza, made with short sleeves and a circlet neckline. The A-line skirt was appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace, the borders pearls.

The removable train fell from beneath two panels of organza which were appliqued with Swiss embroidered Alencon lace.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to an orchid which had Alencon lace petals. Long white gloves and an elongated cascade of white orchids completed her ensemble.

MISS LYNDA HALL, maid of honor, was gowned in green satin-faced sheer, with short sleeves and circlet neckline. The skirt, belled at the front and back fullness emanating from a full fabric rose.

Her hat was of matching roses with net leaves and a circular veil embellished with Swiss embroidery. She carried an elongated cascade of pink roses.

THE BRIDESMAIDS, whose dresses were made like that of the honor attendant, but in pink, wore matching hats and carried cascades of carnations tinted green.

They were Misses Carol St. Clair and Gertrude Hughes of this city, Sylvia Williams of New York City, Lillian Sanders of Cheraw, S.C., Althea Leslie of Natrona Heights, Pa., and Clara Townsend of Snowhill, Md.

CEPHAS BENTON of Natrona Heights, was best man for his brother. The ushers were Franklin Phillips, Jr., Humphrey White, Luther Bond and Alvin Hamilton of this city; Rudolph Edwards of Brackenridge, Pa., and Chester Howell of Natrona Heights.

Allan Stokes was ringbearer, while Angela Russell of this city and Dominque Tillery of Washington were flower girls.

THE FLOWER GIRLS wore white organdy frocks embroidered in pink and green. The dresses were made with Peter Pan collars, puff sleeves and full gathered skirts. They carried cascades of pale pink sweetheart roses.

The Misses Bond and Fitchett wore frocks of ocean green, embroidered in nylon bodices and semi - bouffant skirts.

FOR HER wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a pink linen suit with pink and green blouse, incidentally the colors of her sorority, Alpha Kappa Alpha. She is a graduate of Western High School and of this year's class of Clark College. Last summer she studied abroad on a scholarship.

Mr. Benton, who graduated from the Brackenridge High School in Pennsylvania, and Clark College, is an Alpha Phi Alpha man, and while pending military assignment is engaged in social work at Fort Gordon, Augusta, Ga.

FOR HER daughter's wedding Mrs. Phillips wore a mauve pink silk sheath with scooped neckline and short sleeves. Re-embroidered ribbon, touched with sequins, trimmed the dress. Accessories matched the dress. She wore a white orchid.

Mrs. Benton chose an ensemble of green, including lace sheath and matching hat and accessories. She, too, wore a white orchid.

EIGHT HUNDRED guests attended the reception in the lower auditorium of the church, where a summer garden formed the background for the receiving line. Palms and flowers decorated the entire auditorium. A plot of green grass, backed by a full size tree and myriad flowers, together with white iron furniture, fountain with birds, completed the setting.

Punch bowls, and compote dishes were completely covered with pink roses and green leaves. A table at the near entrance to the auditorium displayed the wedding cake with tinted bride and bridegroom and replisend, bridesmaids; and ushers: Franklin Phillips, Jr., Humphrey White, Luther Bond, Alvin Hamilton, Rudolph Edwards, Chester Howell and Cephus Benton, best man.

to study in Ohio this summer, after which he will return home.

The Chambertains' dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Therman O'Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cummings, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan Pitts, Mrs. Carrie Johnson and Mrs. Gladys Turner.

THE GUEST CLUB, a group which enjoys playing bridge, entertained on Saturday at lunch and cards, in the Elegante Room.

Their guests included members of Washington's Idle -A While Bridge Club. Among those of that group present were Ann Potter, Ruth Logan, Helen Waters, Erma Tucker, Gloria Carter, Theresa Archer, and Ethenettia Weeks.

Local guests were Vivian Pendleton, Mattie Gardner, Bernice Brown, Elaine Wright, Laura Pair, Esther Garner, Lil Dearing, Beth Patterson, Alma Gray, Ada Veney and Esther Jewett.

The first prize at bridge, a head of Wagner, went to Ruth Logan of Washington. Elizabeth won the second prize, an ebony plaque. To Vivian went third prize, a beautiful vase, and Ann Potter took another vase.

Theresa Archer's prize was a bar novelty, and Mattie Gardner won a set of snack tables. The only child member winning a prize was Hazel Bailey, to take home a lovely pair of salt and pepper shakers.

Each of the guests received a bud vase.

Members of the hostess club are Mary Pitts, Myrtice Bennett, Bernice McDaniels, Grace Hunt, Louise Lockerman, Christine Moore, Hazel Bailey, Gwynn Brooks, Helen Mae Chamberlain, Freida Byron, Phyllis Shamwell, Lilyan Slater and Anthia Williams.

WE GIRLS, the newly organized club of young professional women, honored one of its members, Sylvia Barnes, at a bridal shower on this past Saturday evening.

The affair, held at the home of Patelle Green, was centered around a pink and green motif. How surprised the birde-elect was to find out that she was not to take minutes at a regular monthly meeting, but was instead to be the recipient of many, many lovely dainty articles, all of which suited her perfectly.

Members of We Girls present were Beatrice Braswell, president; Joan Young, Sandra J. Oliver, Marie Coleman, Marjorie Rawlings, Gloria Pasteur, Sarvilla Thomas, Frankie Miller, Vickie Shipley, Cynthia Thomas and Patelle Green.

The honoree will be married to Nathaniel Gay, on Saturday noon, at Saint Cecilia's Church.

INTEREST AND ACTIVITIES in connection with the African Republic of Nigeria have drawn several Baltimoreans to Washington, D.C. during the past two weeks.

There was the lawn party at the Nigerian Embassy, Sunday, last. His Excellency Ambassador and Mrs. Udochi were gracious host and hostess. Herbert M. Frisby, Arctic explorer and historian and Mrs. Albert L. Cassell, president of the American Society for Nigeria, were the guest speakers.

Mr. Frisby selected as his theme — "Americans reaching outward to help Nigeria." He pointed out how the Baltimore Chapter of the Society has assumed guardianship of a Nigerian student enrolled at Morgan State College.

Among those attending the Lawn Party were — Dr. and Mrs. Martin D. Jenkins; Mesdames Annie R. Frisby, Genevieve H. Harris, Ralph Dix, Viola Freeman; Misses Ruth L. Russell, Hermoine Wharton, and Mr. and Mrs. John deCicilio.

Mr. Frisby, Mrs. Genieve Harris and Mr. and Mrs. J. Percy Bond also were guests at the fabulous banquet termed "A Night in Nigeria" given in the Presidential Room of the Hilton-Statler Hotel in honor of The Honorable Doctor K. O. Mbadiwe, Minister of State in Nigeria who is visiting the United States on a government mission.

ON THE PAST SUNDAY, at the Liberian Embassy, when Ambassador and Mrs. Peal entertained at a garden party, Gloria Cross of Ellicott City and Thelma Ashe of this town were guests of Gwendolyn de Cecilio at the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. (John) de Cecilio dashed back to Washington, Monday, for the elegant reception given by Ambassador and Madam J. M. Udochi of the Nigerian Embassy in honor of Her Excellency, Mrs. Flora Azikiwe, wife of the Governor General of Nigeria.

TWENTY THREE members of the Business and Professional Girls Club of the YWCA attended their closing affair on Monday, June 17, 1963 at a cocktail hour and dinner.

Cocktails were served from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at Ex-president's home, Mrs. Eleanor Barksdale, 2230 Penrose Avenue. At 8:00 p.m. the group proceeded in a motorcade to Macco's Lounge for dinner.

During the dinner hour the group presented the out-going president, Mrs. Eleanor Barksdale, with a gift of a beautiful vase. Mrs. Barksdale will be moving to New Jersey this summer.

Those attending the affair were: Mrs. Georgia Williams of Philadelphia, Pa., Eleanor Barksdale, Elaine Welch, Frances Garner, Miriam Cook, Waltyn Prettyman, Geraldine Thrope, Eva Creigler, Juanita Davi, Marguerite Wilkins, Verlie Saunders, Gwendolyn Culbreath, Bernice Williams, Bernice Burrell, Bonnie Lee, Mildred Mason, Margaret Hill Johnson, Lucille Dixon, Beverly Epps, Anne Woods, Hattie Turner, Susan Watson, Odessa Howard and Thelma Baylor of this city.

POT-POURRI: Ambrose Smith, musician and insurance man, and Rachel Savage will be married, Saturday. Twill be a small, informal wedding at the Macedonia Baptist Church with a reception to follow on the lawn at the Frank Bucks' home in Catonsville. The bride-elect is a cousin to Mrs. Buck.

Tucked in Maryland General Hospital (Room 234) and still quite ill is Mrs. Nellie Glenn of Sparrows Point, who suffered a heart attack three weeks ago.

Those adorable who performed at Vivian Madison's Dancing Class' recital, Sunday ago, in "Alice's Wonderland of Dolls" included Robin Walker, Lisa Saunders, Kim Knight, Lynn Knight, Elizabeth Griner, Desiree Giles, Jean Lockard, Kathy Flowers, Deidre Willis, Denise Oliver, Barbara Hamm, Linda Waller, Charmaine Waller, Daphne Raign, Iris Raign, Janelle King and Michelle Reed.

In town, this week, Avon Long (the original Sporting Life in Porgy and Bess) on the sad mission of funeral services for his mother, Mrs. Bertha Wilson.

ON FRIDAY EVENING, immediately following the testimonial dinner for Charles W. Fletcher, retiring principal of Sollers Point High School, the school faculty and staff joined the honoree's out-of-town guests, relatives and friends for cocktails at the Fletcher's beautiful Wheeler Avenue residence.

The guests, attired in the latest fashions for summer evening wear, were entertained lavishly. A variety of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and cocktails were served from a huge, goyly decorated lawn table.

June rosebuds peeped from behind the edge of the lawn to create an atmosphere of natural beauty. While many guests chatted, others took an opportunity to see the gifts given Mr. Fletcher by his faculty and the Sollers Point community.

A sterling silver bowl and matching cups, sterling table service, sterling champagne bucket. Two purses were given, one from Shiloh Baptist Church, Turner Station, and one from the Faculty; also, a cash gift from Dudalk Bank staff, and a movie camera from the Parent-Teacher Association. In addition, many florists of Baltimore and Baltimore County sent bouquets of flowers to the home.

The out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Weeden, Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. Jean Capers, attorney of Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Paula Weeden, of Lynchburg, Mrs. Helen Skipper of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Louis Davis of New York City and Mr. and Mrs. Carol Bailey of Wilmington, Del. to enumerate.

THE CLAN held their Saturday meeting with Jennie White, at her beautifully appointed Sequoia Avenue home.

Following the business session the girls lunched and were then off to an evening of bowling.

About were Elizabeth Young, Dealer Wing, Myrtel Strupp, Mona Corbin, Bernice Turner, and guest, Eva Creigler. Ann Woods another member, had deserted these parts for an out - of-town trip. The group plans to see Brigadoon, in Washington, at their next meeting, when Liz Young will be hostess.

"WHY DIDN'T THEY HIT ME BACK?"

Nobody gets lynched. Colored people who make trouble just disappear . . . People say they won't. North. But everybody knows what really happens — they get taken out and drowned. There is a strong tide in the Bay.

That was Lesson Number One for the white boy in the leather jacket. He learned it well. So it was easy—and right —when he took along his brass knuckles to teach picketing Freedom Riders in Easton, Maryland, their lesson.

But he couldn't understand those people.

"Were they yellow?" he wondered. "Why the hell didn't they get mad and hit back? I hit this one guy as hard as I ever hit anyone in my life . . . I had to find those guys and ask them why they hadn't hit me back."

Twenty two year old Eddie Dickerson found them, and asked them—and he stayed with them.

His family disowned him. His white friends never spoke to him again.

Woman Power pledges $18,608 for Provident

A group of women known as Woman Power has pledged $18,608 to the new Provident Hospital Building Fund to bring the total solicited for the project to $378,449.

The 122 women, meeting at the Sheraton - Belvedere Inn, raised their original pledges for the projected 200 - bed hospital which will be constructed in the Northwest Baltimore.

George Russell Jr., co - chairman of the campaign, gave a breakdown of the first phase of the solicitation.

HE SAID the board of trustees of the hospital have pledged $90,301; the medical staff $148,625; the hospital employees, $19,295; the hospital auxiliary, $5,000; special gifts, $21,900; business division, $7,873; Morgan State College employees, $1,495; general solicitation half completed, $22,833; clubs and organizations, $36,795.

Mrs. Russell told the women that the second phase of the campaign will begin on Nov. 20, when the Advertising Club of Baltimore sponsors a luncheon for the hospital at the Emerson Hotel.

"By that time," Mr. Russell said, "I believe the campaign will have passed the $500 mark."

THE ESTIMATED cost of the new hospital which will include a Nursing School, is $8,000,000.

Of this amount the state and city have granted $4,800,000. It is anticipated the Federal government will give approximately $800,000.

As the first phase of the campaign nears an end, Mr. Russell pointed out that only 50 per cent of the house - to house project, which has netted $22,833 has completed.

He lauded the hospital employees who with $19,399 are more than $1,000 over their goal.

HONOREE'S ADMINISTRATORS — Mrs. Madeline Williams Tate, seated, who recently retired as a member of the faculty of Bates High School at Annapolis after 45 years of service, was honored at a testimonial dinner by the school. She is flanked in this picture by the following principals under whom she served consecutively, left to right: Frank B. Butler, now retired; Douglas S. King, now supervisor of secondary education for Anne Arundel County, and Herbert S. Hilliard, principal of Bates.
