New plea asks pro for welfare post

What makes a good director of the State Department of Welfare?

The Maryland chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, Inc., this week gave the welfare commissioners an outline of the qualifications they feel necessary to hold down this top welfare job.

The social worker group's group advice to the state welfare board comes as the deadline nears for naming a successor to the late Thomas J. Waxter as welfare chief.

Dr. Alvin Thalheimer, welfare board chairman, on Wednesday told the AFRO a new director should be named by July 3.

The NASW has gone on record regarding the type of man it feels best suited for the job in what is regarded in some quarters as a move to block possible appointment of a state welfare director as politically favored by Governor Tawes.

THE NASW favors a welfare director who can handle people as opposed to the view of those who would like to see money handlers get this state agency post.

The social worker organization's position was outlined in a letter from its chairman, Dr. Richard W. Bateman, to welfare board chairman Dr. Alvin Thalheimer.

Dr. Bateman said:

"As the time approaches for the Board of Public Welfare to name the new director of the State Department of Public Welfare, we are continued confidence in your leadership as chairman in assisting the board to select the person best qualified for this position through experience, education, ability and social philosophy."

Dr. Bateman told the welfare board chairman that all candidates for the director's job should be examined carefully as to their philosophy, principles and values concerning welfare agency.

"As the professional social work organization in Maryland," Dr. Bateman explained, "We feel it is incumbent upon us to highlight the kinds of principles to which we believe the Director should adhere:

* * *

THESE PRINCIPLES, Dr. Bateman listed, include:

1. A firm, warm belief in individuals and their worth regardless of their race, religion or creed.

2. A public welfare program that assures that basic needs are provided at a level commensurate with health and well - being.

3. Recognition that race relations is the foremost internal problem facing the nation and that the proper solution of this problem within the framework of the United States Constitution poses a particular challenge to the Department of Welfare.

4. Acceptance and development of the new emphasis on rehabilitation in Public Welfare.

5. Recognition that illegitimacy is national in scope and is found in all economic and social groups and that its elimination constitutes constructive rather than punitive measures.

In closing, Dr. Bateman asked the welfare board to weigh the qualifications of the candidates, not with regard to political or geographic consideration, but rather in relation to their demonstrated ability in public administration . . . and their convictions about the fundamental philosophy on which the program rests."

Mereda Gaither, local soprano, gets rousing welcome at concert

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Mereda Gaither, former Baltimore soprano, received a rousing welcome at her concert given recently in the auditorium of First Baptist Church.

The strikingly handsome singer has a reservoir of power, with a brilliant trumpet-like quality. This was highly effective in "Hear ye, Israel," where Elijah declaims his stern warning and much to be preferred to the usual pleading sentiment some singers employ.

With Jonathan Brice at the piano the singer was afforded authoritative and sympathetic support.

* * *

MISS GAITHER, who is a graduate of Juilliard, formerly sang on the choir of Douglas Memorial Community Church. She has appeared with the New York City Center Opera Company and at the Metropolitan, and is currently a member of the Rutgers Opera Workshop.

The Civil Liberties of W. Sampson Brooks Temple No. 682 sponsored the recital.

SCHOOL NO. 95, at Strieker and Saratoga Sts., made history in local music education circles as the first public school in this area to initiate and finance a Young Musicians Series concert.

Under the leadership of the principal, Dr. Delores Hunt, the following schools and principals cooperated in the plan: No. 100, Miss Lillie Stevenson; No. 11, Mrs. Edith Thomas; No. 138, Miss Ann Bowers, and No. 140, Thomas Wheaden.

Mrs. Francis DeM. Armstrong, music specialist, assisted with preparation and appreciation lessons in the various schools.

The capacity audience of young listeners from the five schools, proved to be most attentive and thoroughly enjoyed the concerts by the Baltimore Symphony Woodwind Quintet.

Next season School No. 149, of which Edward Murray is principal, will finance and present a YMS Series concert.

* * *

THE WOODWIND QUINTET also presented a concert this season at School No. 137, Franklin St. and Clifton Ave. As a means of encouraging good concert manners outside the school, Mrs. Louise Dennis, principal, and the faculty conducted an interesting experiment of having the pupils dress as they would for a Sunday concert in the community.

The Baltimore Symphony String Quartet performed at a special assembly of the 11th and 12th grades at Dunbar High School, as a part of the YMS spring program. Mimeographed programs were provided for the concert, which was introduced by Robert P. Diggs, principal.

At the annual closing luncheon of the YMS Executive Board, report was made of 101 concerts given this season, including one benefit event at the Baltimore Museum. Over 40,000 young people attended these events, which were presented by New York and local artists. Already 43 concerts are booked for next season.

Forged checks net man 8-year term

An eight-year sentence was levied on David L. Crewes, 36, 300 block E. Biddle St., in U.S. District Court, here Wednesday, following convictions on six charges involving forged checks.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Benjamin R. Civiletti, who prosecuted the case before Judge Harrison L. Winter, said the FBI had information Mr. Crewes was the "ring" leader of a check-passing ring in 1962."

Mr. Civiletti said the government had no proof the defendant actually passed forged checks, but charged he made them out and shared the money with other persons who passed them.

The checks in the case, he said, were stolen from a company in Laurel and one in Baltimore in May of last year.

They were drawn on five banks in Baltimore and one in Washington for approximately $64 each, Mr. Civiletti told the court.

* * *

A SEARCH of the basement in the house where Mr. Crewes lived, he said, uncovered a locker with check protectors and identifications of 60 persons along with a typewriter alleged to have been used to prepare the six checks.

Mr. Crewes did not testify in his own behalf during the two and a half day trial. However, 23 other witnesses were called.

Judge Winter sentenced Mr. Crewes to eight years on each of the six charges of causing inter-state transportation of forged securities, but ruled the sentences would run concurrent.

The defendant, the court was told, was convicted in 1959 in a state court for forgery.

Chew renamed registrar at Sup. Elections

William H. Chew, 1134 Myrtle Ave., first of his race to hold this post here, has been reappointed to a third term as Republican registrar at the Supervisors of Elections, Fayette and Gay Sts.

Prior to his placement on this post four years ago, he served seven years as a Liquor Board inspector under appointment by the then Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

Mr. Chew has been executive of the 19th Ward, member of the GOP city and state committee since 1950, and is chaplain of the city committee.

He is a graduate of Hampton Institute, an Episcopalian, a 33rd degree Mason, past exalted ruler of the Elks, and a member of the NAACP and YMCA.

Sen. Brewster lauds JFK's rights appeal

Maryland's U.S. Senator Daniel B. Brewster on Wednesday praised President Kennedy's message on civil rights as an eloquent and historic appeal to the Congress and to the "conscious of America."

The state's junior Senator issued this statement:

"The legislation which the President proposes seeks to acquire the right of every American to vote, to an education, to employment and to service in public places throughout the nation, without arbitrary discrimination.

"This legislation will provide the equality of treatment and of opportunity for all our citizens, which was intended in the Emancipation Proclamation, the 14th and 15th Amendments and in the 1959 Supreme Court decision.

"Every racial incident in this country, whether in the north, south, east or west, damages the American ideal at home and abroad.

"Dramatic events of recent weeks are regrettable, and I applaud the President's appeal for an end to demonstrations and violence."

* * *

SENATOR BREWSTER then had this to say:

"The final solution to this pressing national problem will require the full cooperation of every branch and level of government and of every citizen.

"I m convinced that the Congress must provide the necessary leadership through prompt action."

Parents, we think of you always, Though we do not speak your name, Sweet memories are kept in silence, Dear parents, you're not forgotten, Nor will you ever be.

Your memory is our keepsake, With my Saviour and my loved one I shall meet you over there.

DAUGHTERS, NELLIE WATTS and CLARA GILLES.

You are not forgotten, dear husband,

Nor will your ever be.

While life and memory last, We will remember thee.

We cannot say, and kiss you once more,

Nor tell you our sacred place in our heart, But keep you there dear husband.

Not one day of it I wish them, There's such a vacant place, But I'll meet them in Heavenly Mansions, And see their smiling faces.

Sadly missed by Mother, Sister, Brother, Aunt.

In silence often I grieve, My memory keeps them ever near, Remembrance is the only flower I can place on your grave.

LOVING AND DEVOTED DAUGHTER AND SISTER, ANNA M. GREEN

JEFFERSON — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, ANNIE JEFFERSON, who passed away June 22, 1957.

What could we give her hand to take, What could we give her hand to make Her patient face to see her smile.

Or in the days that used to be, But some sweet day we'll meet Beside the tall and stately Palms, And clasp each other's hand.

In Heaven, that happy life.
