431 - word statement.

When the reading clerk had completed it, several of the veteran councilmen looked at each other with the plainly unspoken question — we've got something new here, haven't we?

• • •

AND WHEN the astute, distinguished Councilman Parks arose to have his statement journalized — he looked every bit of ten feet tall.

Here, then, is perhaps the launching of colored political leadership so sadly needed — for so long.

If his activities during the 29 days of his tenure in office are indications of things to come — Councilman Parks might just turn the trick.

So far — he has provided me with a refreshing opportunity to say something nice about somebody here for a change.

ONE PUBLIC official who came out publicly for Mr. Jennifer this week is Hyman A. Pressman, comptroller.

Mr. Pressman, in a letter to Mayor McKeldin, said in part:

• • •

"Mr. Jennifer's magnificent achievements, together with the fact that he is at the top of the list, would ordinarily be more than enough to assure his selection.

"Since Mr. Jennifer was once before mistreated when he was first on the list for promotion to the second highest position to the Bureau of Recreation, it is most important that he be treated fairly on this occasion.

"I, therefore, appeal to you to see that a great injustice be prevented, thereby preserving your immaculate record regarding equal rights."

IN SAVANNAH

Peaceful demonstrators attacked with tear gas

(SPECIAL TO AFRO)
SAVANNAH, Ga. — Some 289, including 16 adults, were arrested here Wednesday night during a massive demonstration — the largest-witnessed in Savannah — against racial segregation and discrimination.

The arrests were made at Holiday Inn where the mayor and other city officials called on the some 1,000 peaceful demonstrators to leave.

When they failed to do so, club-swinging and kicking policemen plowed into the demonstrators and began making arrests — hauling them off to jail in paddy wagons, buses and trucks.

• • •

FOLLOWING THE arrests at the inn, a member of a national chain, the demonstrators — growing in number until more than 3,000 had joined in — marched on the police headquarters.

It was then that city and county police, as well as state troopers, used tear gas to disperse the demonstrators protesting the arrests of the almost 300 earlier.

Police claim they resorted to tear gas after failure to get a pumper from Fire Department headquarters a block away, explaining that the crowd was so dense firemen could not get through with hoses.

• • •

WITNESSES called the demonstration the largest in the history of the long struggle for civil rights in Savannah. The Wednesday arrests brought the number to nearly 1,000 jailed during the last two weeks.

The demonstrations resulted in the city closing two public squares where meetings and rallies have been held by the sponsoring group, the Crusade for Voters.

The organization, which is headed by Jose Williams, is being assisted by the local chapters of the NAACP and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

SINCE PROTESTS were begun two weeks ago only one goal has been accomplished, the removal of "white" and "colored" signs from drinking fountains in the County Court House.

Further goals are the elimination of segregation and discrimination in all public facilities and places of public accommodations.
