PRAYER OF WEEK

Our Heavenly Father, we pray that loving kindness may abide in this house. We pray that at work we shall find strength, joy in achievement, and finally we pray that in our relations with others we shall demonstrate a knowledge of Thy presence. Amen.

The Right Of Polite Dissent

(An Open Letter to MR. ELI FRANK JR.)

Dear School Commissioners' Chairman:

Your statement that a school board member's remarks did not strike a responsive chord among many Board members is strange doctrine.

When was it presumed that a Commissioner should be denied the right to dissent?

All members of the Board of School Commissioners are equal. The chair has no rights above other members.

Each member took the oath of office to do his best to serve his conscience and the law to the best of his or her ability.

Not to the best of the ability of someone else, Mr. Frank.

Clean Block Campaign

For 28 years the AFRO has conducted its Clean Block Campaign to beautify our city.

This year will mark Campaign No. 29 and once again we are looking forward to a most successful drive that will touch every area of the community.

We confess to feeling a deep sense of pride when we look back over the record of more than a quarter of a century and recall the thousands of youngsters and adults who proudly wore the big "Clean-Blocker."

It is because of them that the Clean Block has attracted nation-wide interest and garnered a number of awards.

Even more important is how they have shown the rest of Baltimore that hard work and ingenuity can turn drab looking areas into islands of beauty.

This year's campaign opened last Friday under the direction of a new Clean Block director, Mrs. Jeanette Leath, who took over her duties with the death of the beloved Mrs. M. Francis Mackay, who filled the post so well.

To the children and adults already enrolled we extend our congratulations on the civic spirit they are displaying.

To prospective Clean-Blockers who have not yet entered, we say get that dirty old pencil and the application blank in this issue immediately and get it off in the mail.

To those who believe in the campaign and its goal and would like to help we point out that contributions to the prize fund are being sought and donations can be sent to the Clean Block Office here at the AFRO, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md.

Too Much Talk

The reluctance of the School Board to end promptly the nefarious districting system, that confines colored children to certain schools and largely part - time classes, is unreasonable.

Usually, the School Board has acted with reasonable dispatch when blatant discrimination is apparent.

A state may not discriminate against children on the ground of color (Brown vs. Board of Education, 1954), and it may not enforce such discrimination by executive, legislative or judicial processes (Shelly vs. Kramer).

There has been too much talk already.

NAACP briefs should be prepared and the courts should be asked properly to determine whether the Brain School administration program is lawful.

Baltimore acts so slowly, sometimes, that it appears to be stupid. But when it makes up its mind, it can move as rapidly as any other city.

Not Enough

The recent appointment of Dennis P. Mello as a police lieutenant was a welcome step, if a long overdue one.

But it now leaves the city with only two colored male police sergeants, and both of these are attached to the Western District.

With a police force of some 2,000 men, if this is not rank facial discrimination, it will do until a more vicious form of racism comes along.

The appointment of Mr. Mello is a step forward, but just a short step. It falls far short of what the Police Department should do to bring about equitable representation of colored officers in ranks above patrolmen.

We know, as a matter of record, that there are a number of colored officers who have passed the examination for sergeant, but who have been bypassed in favor of white officers with lower examination scores.

This does not surprise us. Long ago we lost any confidence we might have had in the fairness of the promotional system of our Police Department.

Commissioner Bernard J. Schmidt and his comrades can declaim to the high heavens that no racial prejudice exists in the department, but the sorry racial record of this agency tells a far different story.

Knowing how the Police Department works, we can't look forward with any real hope to future improvement, unless the public demands that the department scrap its jim crow philosophy.

With all of the current indignation over job discrimination in our city, we hope the Police Department won't be forgotten.

Civil Defense Change

The Western District Volunteer Civil Defense Organization's District Control Center, along with others in the city, has been ordered to close its operations in the library at North and Pennsylvania Aves. on July 1.

Because the AFRO has worked closely with the district coordinator Charles N. Perry and others of the district, we know that Western boasted of the best organized setup in the city but that it had a tougher time, for some reason, getting proper communications equipment than any other.

The AFRO would like to pay tribute to all the CD volunteers who have devoted time and efforts to the program in the past and hope that, in the best interests of the nation and city, they will continue to participate.

There will be considerable interest in how well the new arrangement will work under leadership of the district police commanders and military reserves.

With cooperation from all there is no reason why the new plan cannot be effective, but if it is not, the blame will be laid at the door of City director Richard G. Prather and other higher ups.

We are certain that, as under the old setup, the Western District, if given the chance, again will be among the best CD units in Baltimore.

To Mr. William J. O'Donnell

Dear State's Attorney:

Don't be so touchy when Mrs. Juanita Mitchell suggests the Grand Jury should hear eyewitnesses to police brutality, not merely witnesses.

We can't help being wary of your attempt to do something about the shocking disregard of law by the cops.

Even when so distinguished a jurist as Judge Morris Soper pointed to laxity in the police department and indifference in the State's Attorney's office, little was done about it.

There is a general feeling among many lawyers and judges that police should have extra - legal rights to enter homes of citizens, arrest them without probably cause for non-existing breaches of law, beat them brutally and force them to give statements out of the presence of their attorney or parents.

Just this week, police said they arrested teenage youngsters and "got a statement from them."

Police should not have questioned those children without their parents or attorneys being present. The statement they boast about will be thrown out in any competent court.

But police may rely on the case not getting to a competent court.

If you can make the cops behave, you are better than any State's Attorney Baltimore has had.

However, Mrs. Mitchell doesn't think you can do it when you fail to call eyewitnesses to police misbehavior.

Honest and truly, we don't think you can do it that way either.

And if we can add one more thing, your office should be grateful to the NAACP and Mrs. Mitchell.

You would not be making any effort at all to look at police procedures if it weren't for them, would you?

More On Schools

Readers are invited to submit letters for publication. All letters must be signed but signature will be withheld if requested. Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. Address them to "Our Readers Say," AFRO-AMERICAN, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md.

Dear AFRO:

Who appointed Dr. Houston Jackson, the only colored person in a top job in the Baltimore City Public Schools, to judge the qualifications of all colored persons applying for promotional jobs?

Why do he and the school board have two standards of promotions? Has Dr. Jackson been brain-washed to the extent that he feels the colored man must "prove himself" above and beyond the stated qualifications?

This seems to be the policy of the school board also. Since when does a colored man have to have the educational qualifications, longevity of good human relations, plus be a social worker, a politician, a church worker, and an all-around community helper before he is eligible for a promotion?

Many colored teachers have their Master's degree and points equivalent to a doctorate degree, have taught 10, 15, 20 years, have been rated satisfactory, and are not chronically absent, yet they are still in the classrooms. Doesn't experience and professional improvement mean anything?

I deplore the unfair practice of setting certain standards, then overlooking them to make personal selections. This is true of the colored person. Why are many good colored teachers still in the classroom after unsuccessfully seeking promotions) and unqualified people in every sense of the word, including lack of community work, pushed forward? Why is the husband and wife team favored? What is the logic behind this promotional practice?

Why aren't positions that are to be filled made known, and I don't mean the few "top-drawer" jobs you see infrequently in the Newsletter? Why isn't everyone given a fair chance for the job? The only time colored teachers know a position has been vacated or has been created is when they read that it has been filled.

Why is it that practically all of the staff of the Administration and Annex buildings is white — from the Superintendent to the Supervisor of Custodians?

My last questions are: What can the colored teachers do to fight these odds? And, why doesn't the Department of Education treat its colored teachers with as much respect and fairness as it does its white teachers in all areas?

WILLIAM B. DORSEY

Dear AFRO:

The Md. League of Women's Clubs is proud to commend Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Phillips for the courageous stand she took single-handedly in an attempt to make the School Board realize that equal opportunities in the school system can not be achieved through "token," "unprecedented" assignment of colored personnel.

While it is true that as the only woman school commissioner with children in the schools she stood alone at the June 19 meeting, in rejecting the personnel appointments (AFRO - June 22), the Md. League supports her position.

Through the 129-member clubs, we represent over 6,000 women, the majority of whom reside within Baltimore. As colored women and mothers, we are proud of our School Board representative.

We are prepared to give our wholehearted assistance in eliminating all forms of discrimination in appointments and assignments of personnel as well as children.

president

Russell and Truman

Dear AFRO:

President Kennedy, the Attorney General, and other national leaders have recently made excellent statements on civil rights. But reported remarks by two other prominent Americans, Senator Russell and Harry Truman, were much in error.

Senator Russell of Georgia has reportedly claimed that granting of equal rights, regardless of race, would be a step toward Communism. Such a notion is obviously preposterous, and its absurdity would be laughable were it not tragic.

Equal justice before the law is of the essence of democracy. How then can the strengthening of American Democracy lead to Communism? Senator Russell has paid the Communists a very high and undeserved compliment.

The truth is that the realization of democracy is our surest defense against Communism. If the Senator from Georgia has lost faith in the American democratic ideal, thinking that it means Communism, he would be wiser to keep it a secret.

Mr. Truman reportedly feels that people who would gather at the Capitol, peacefully to oppose a civil rights filibuster, are surely "demagogues." This need not be so. The word is democrat, not demagogue.

The determined drive to make clear to Congress that subverting urgently-needed civil rights legislation by filibuster is now an intolerable affront to justice is an act of mature responsibility.

To allow civil rights legislation to be killed by a visionless filibuster is to invite further disorder, violence, and bloodshed.

President Kennedy has pointed the way toward the necessary progress in justice and freedom, in a spirit of reasonableness and goodwill. If we are to move through the current racial crisis with honor rather than disaster, it is the President's current course which we must follow.

REV. DAVID ANDREWS

Dr. Stone And Race

Dear AFRO:

I note in this morning's releases that Dr. William S. Stone, school board member, expressed concern that the Board has allowed its program to become almost exclusively involved with problems of race" during the last three months.

Maybe Dr. Stone has not been reading the newspapers. This question of race is a pressing one which no longer can be ignored. Every newspaper in the country, television, and radio stations are giving racial problems preferred space.

President Kennedy, Congress and other responsible city, state and government agency are likewise concerned with racial problems.

Life Magazine, this week, gives unprecedented cover coverage to the story behind the brutal killing of the NAACP Mississippi leader, Medgar Evers. Race problems are with us. School Boards like the Baltimore one of which Dr. Stone is a member, would do well to recognize problems must be solved now. We're in a revolution.

Two Unsung Heroes

Dear AFRO:

The New Provident is almost inevitable. Many people are to be praised for making it possible. But, there can be no building unless there is a foundation.

There are two "unsung heroes" who laid the foundation which started the work for a New Provident. These two women worked tirelessly, at their own expense.

They made long trips and contacted the right people with many disappointments and failures, but finally accomplished their goal after many, many months of conferences, telephone calls, letters, and more conferences.

Our hats are off to those who have worked, are working, and will work for the realization of the New Provident. But, let us not forget our "unsung heroes," Dr. Effie O. Ellis, former Coordinator of Medical Education at Provident Hospital, and Mrs. Irma George Dixon, member of the House of Delegates.

GERTRUDE C. MUIR

Another Problem

Dear AFRO:

It seems that all types of problems are confronting us now. One of these is the problem of job employment for the ex-convict. Our society tries to evade the issue when it's brought out in the open, but it can not be evaded.

We talk of the high rate of crime, but we do not realize that we are partly to blame for this simply because we will not give the ex-convict a chance to reform.

If we try to help him become a credit to his community, we can help lower the rate of crime.

They all, I am sure, want to lead decent, honest lives, if given the chance. Let's give them that chance.

MISS JACKIE JOHNSON

Scallions Awards

Dear AFRO:

When the time comes to give your "Scallions Awards" reserve your most potent one for the tan disc jockey and the local folks who support the segregated policy of the "Buddy Deane Show."

How ironic to see teenagers, college students, ministers, civic organizations, prominent entertainers risking their lives in the Deep South while here colored people are openly appearing on a segregated show.

By the same token, orchids should go to those DeeJays who refuse to appear, support and brazenly announce: "Happy to be here today, Buddy."

Praise For Mello

Dear AFRO:

It was my privilege to serve as an Assistant State's Attorney at the same time police officer Dennis P. Mello was assigned to the investigating staff of the States Attorney's office.

His promotions to detective sergeant and now lieutenant were well deserved. He is a highly trained, well qualified and eminently capable police officer. He is a good family man, a gentleman and his promotion is a credit to the Baltimore Police Department.

AFRO Credo

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself:

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people;

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their future assured;

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for everybody;

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustice, mere favoritism or compromise.

The Senator Says No Filibuster . .

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS

With all the interest created by President Kennedy's civil rights message to Congress and the bills the administration has submitted, there seemed to be no better place to turn than to Senator Hiram P. Mugglewump to learn which way the wind is blowing from certain quarters in our nation's capital.

Such a course seems to make sense, since one way of discovering what your enemy is doing, is to go ask him.

This brings us around to the substance of the interview with Colored Folks Enemy No. One, Senator Mugglewump.

REPORTER — I understand from reliable sources, senator, that you and other southern congressmen are planning to stage a filibuster to kill the civil rights bills.

SENATOR — I can see that y'all is another one of them loose minded northern reporters is that don't never get the facts straight. Me and the rest of the home boys ain't planning to have no filibuster.

We all is just planning to have an extended debate on this mess of unconstitutional bills that Kennedy done gone off and dreamt up.

R — What are you planning to talk about?

S — I figure for a starter I'll read the Encyclopedia Britannica — all 24 volumes of it — and if that don't get the job done, then I starts reading the true history of the South, Gone With the Wind.

R—DO you think your talk will halt passage of the bills ?

S — Son, after listening to the old senator run off at the mouth for ten or 11 hours, them other senators will be so anxious for me to shut up, they'd even vote against motherhood.

R — Why do you believe that you have to resort to such tactics to keep the bills from passing?

S — Son, them northerners got us outnumbered, and if they ever gets to pass one of them bills, specially that one about voting, I'm a dead duck back home. I might even have to go to work if them colored folks ever starts voting.

R — Many thinking people believe that the government has to pass these bills if any start is to be made in solving the race problem.

S — Son, if they ever solve the race problem I ain't got nothing to talk about. And besides that, we can't let the United States cram nothing down our throats, unless of course it's some government money.

R — That view fascinates me, senator. On one hand you attack the federal government, and on the other you never turn down any funds from the treasury.

S — Son, when it comes to money, the senator got a mighty forgiving nature.

R — I get the impression that you don't think too much about the rights bills do you?

S — Not any more than I can help it. I got enough headaches as it is, the way these colored folks been acting up. I picked up a copy of a Washington paper the other day and they had so many stories about colored folks on the front page, I thought for a minute there I was reading a copy of the AFRO-AMERICAN...you know that's that colored paper.

R — DON'T you think that the President is acting in the best interests of the country in trying to solve the problem?

S — Son, Kennedy and his little brother ain't doing nothing but turning this country over, lock, stock and barrel to the NAACP. Next thing you know they'll be making Roy Wilkins Secretary of the Interior.

R — Is that bad?

S — Sure it is. Look at the way them colored folks been demonstrating in my hometown singing all them hymns and doing all that marching like everyday was the 4th of July.

They even got the nerve not to spend no money in a white store where they can't get no jobs. Now that's what I call being down right Communistic. How do they expect us white folks to keep on getting richer if they ain't going to spend no money in our stores?.

R — I'LL admit you have a problem there, but I can't see any harm in peaceful demonstrations.

S — Peaceful...Son, you must be kidding. Everytime them colored folks get up one of them demonstrations they gets the white folks nerves upset and the next thing you know them colored people is running into the ends of clubs, and fire hoses, and bothering them poor little innocent police dogs who got to bite back in self defense...Now you can't call that peaceful, can you?

You ought to see the un-American way them colored folks act.

When they have one of them demonstrations and our nice peaceful white cops beat them on a head a little bit, they ain't got no better sense than to fall down in the middle of the street blocking traffic and start bleeding all over our clean white concrete.

I'm telling you son, things is getting critical. Just last week we had so many colored people with sore heads lying in the street tying up traffic, it took the president of the White Citizens Council an extra 15 minutes to get home.

R — From what you have said, I assume that you won't be voting for any of the rights laws.

S — Son, I wouldn't even vote for the 14th Amendment. I'd like to talk longer but I got to go.

R — What's the rush?

S — I heard tell that 100,000 of them colored folks is going to march on Congress.

R — But why the rush?

S — Soon as they get on the outskirts of town I'm leaving. I'm rushing to make sure I can get me a reservation going south...You ain't never going to catch the old senator facing no 100,000 angry colored folks.

R —Thank you senator.

If YOU Ask ME

By E. B. PHILLIPS

Setting the record straight

The statement of a Baltimore Sun reporter that I turned my back on Chairman Eli Frank Jr., while he was speaking to me at the School Board meeting Wednesday was in error.

I advised Mr. Frank before the meeting began that I would vote against appointments which were to come up.

He expected me to vote, 'no' just as I did at last week's meeting.

If, while reading to the Board the explanation of my segregation of public school children.

Furthermore, . . . I know Chairman Frank to be a fine man. His father before him, the late Judge Frank Sr., was a fine man, whom I first knew as a cub reporter.

He was helpful and kind to a young girl, just out of college, learning the ropes of our courts and I admired him because he joined the NAACP, regularly paid a membership.

In all our dealings Chairman Frank has been courteous, although he has not always agreed with my opinions. I know of no occasion to which he can refer where he has not received the same kind of courtesy from me.

So, Sun reporter or no, 'taint true what you read.

P.S. — More furthermore, — A Harvard graduate (which Chairman Frank is, class of 1925), would NEVER be discourteous to the daughter of a Harvard graduate, (which my Dad is—class of 1913).

So mote it be!

'no' vote my back was at any time toward the chairman, it was inadvertent.

I would not knowingly be discourteous to our chairman, while insisting on my right as a Commissioner to explain my vote and have my statement included in the minutes.

One hundred years from now, or even one year from now, I would not want history to show that I sat in a public school board meeting and failed to vote against segregation.

About this and that

This thing of color: The other day, one of my smaller children was trying to describe a schoolmate. 'You know his mother," the child said.

I didn't recall.

After several questions and answers, I asked a foolish question: "Is he white or colored?"

My youngster answered: "No, he's fat." Bet that will teach me.

And, this exchange also helps to remind me that youngsters particularly those under ten like mine, don't give a hoot about color. They are more likely to report a playmate is tall, short, nice or bad.

Did you hear the story about President Kennedy and the small son of his assistant press secretary, Andy Hatcher, who happens to be your know-what (colored, that's right).

The youngster was breathless when he reached home to report that President Kennedy had recognized him when he came to school to visit his son.

'Maybe Pop told him what color shirt I had on,' was the bland comment of the Hatcher child. How about that!

Does one reach the point in life where he or she decides these must be drastic changes in the way one decides things?

This writer thinks so. The Lord willing, and if I can live to be three times as old as I am now, I am of the firm belief that the brutal assassination of Medgar Evers has changed my entire outlook.

I have just decided that from here on in (for the rest of my days, Mom), I will NOT be concerned with whether people like me, love me or admire me.

And, whether they are public officials, or so-called friends, all the more reason why I won't bother to be concerned.

The only thing one should insist on is that those with whom he associates respect his right to express an opinion, to differ with them on issues which concern him and his.

And, brother, whether they like, admire or love you is something for the birds, and that is for real! I could care less.

Looking good: — Fashion experts advise that the seersucker formal dinner jacket is just the thing for summer wear.

Joel Newton, the housing exec, was thus quite in style on Friday evening. He wore the latest to the No Name Club's elegant supper dance at Blue Crest. He was looking good!

Theatre note: Regent Theatre's Henry Hornstein will close doors all day Wednesday, July 3 in order to present an 8:30 p.m. premiere for the benefit of CORE.

The movie entitled 'I Hate Your Guts' is a moving story about Clinton, Tenn., and its racial uprising eight years ago.

Don't go see it unless you are a mature adult. The movie is just that gripping.

In addition to giving CORE all the proceeds from the premiere, Mr. Hornstein will permit solicitation of funds in the theatre as his contribution to CORE's sitdown efforts. A rising vote of thanks to Henry Hornstein.

Cuff note: Remember a month or so ago, the Advertising Club of Baltimore scrapped its white - only policy?

Well, this is to report that at its meeting a Wednesday ago, its first two colored members attended along with a guest.

The new members are AFRO President John H. Murphy 3rd, and our national advertising exec. Elson Higginbotham.

And guess what? Mr. Murphy won the club's door prize — dinner tickets for two at a downtown restaurant.

Teenagers in the house? Then, you've likely had a teen party this week for your youngsters have attended same, since this is the graduation season.

Orchids to those parents of four Lemmel Junior High graduates who sponsored a lovely affair on Wednesday evening at Wilson's.

The fathers were on the door to make sure no crashers' entered, and they didn't.

Teen parties these days need the services of both parents or else a party which started out to be five couples is likely to end up with 20.

There were decorated cakes for each grad, and punch and potato chips and candy to nibble on. (You see, don't eat much, so you can have a party economically).

CHANGES IN the making Clifford Alexander, son of New York City's Riverton Apts. manager, will soon become special assistant to White House Special Assistant McGeorge Bundy. Cliff was at Harvard when Bundy was dean there. Bundy finally caught the integration fever and hired himself a "brother" . . . . .
