Two hurt during restaurant brawl on Pennsylvania

Two persons were hospitalized Tuesday night as a result of stabbings in the city's Western District.

Occurring only an hour apart, the first incident took place in a restaurant in the 2000 block Pennsylvania Ave. at 11:30 p.m.

The restaurant owner, Irvin Hawkins, told police Miss Elise Davis, 29, 2000 block Pennsylvania Ave., was sitting at a table when a man came in and said to the young woman, "I told you I would get you..." and attacked her.

Police said Miss Davis was stabbed several times in the chest and stomach. There were also cuts on her wrist, right hand, and knee.

She was taken by friends to Provident Hospital and admitted in serious condition. Her condition is now reported as fair.

A 23-year-old suspect is being held by police. He reportedly surrendered himself to Northwestern district police several hours after the attack.

IN THE SECOND stabbing, the victim, Arthur Felder, 29, 1000 block N. Carey St., was found by police lying on his back and bleeding from a chest wound alongside a house in that neighborhood.

He was rushed to Provident Hospital where he was admitted and held for surgery. His condition was critical, with a penetrating chest wound. According to police, a 30-year-old woman is being held for questioning in connection with the stabbing.

The woman reportedly told officers at the scene that she stabbed Mr. Felder when he allegedly beat her.

O'Donnell denies charges by NAACP

State's attorney William J. O'Donnell has denied that his office will make a "one-sided presentation" to the grand jury investigating complaints of police brutality in two separate cases.

The point was raised in a telegram from the NAACP to Mr. O'Donnell dealing with the cases of James L. Parker and James Slaughter.

Mr. Parker has been charged with assaulting three police officers but a number of witnesses have complained that the man was beaten by officers.

Mr. Slaughter was arrested after he broke up a fight between two young boys. He has charged that police beat him and doused him with water. He was acquitted on a disorderly conduct charge.

Two young women, who protested the arrest, were also arrested. They were eventually given probation before the verdict.

• • •

IN THE case of Parker, the NAACP said that it had not been asked to provide the names and addresses of persons who witnessed the incident and called the organization to complain.

It was also charged that a colored ambulance attendant, on the vehicle that took Parker to the hospital had not been called before the grand jury, while his white partner had.

To these points Mr. O'Donnell answered that he already had five names and addresses supplied by Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the NAACP, and that he had no knowledge of the race of the ambulance attendant called.

"If there is another firefighter who was attacked to Municipal Ambulance No. 4 and who possesses additional information, he shall certainly be summoned before the 'ace prosecutor' to the Mr. O'Donnell said.

In response to the NAACP's request that the grand jury investigate the sending of its "ace prosecutor" to the Court to prosecute the case against the two young women in the Slaughter incident Mr. O'Donnell said:

"Concerning the cases of Florence Wilkenson and Joanna Brooks, I need to point out that they were respectively convicted of disorderly conduct in their trial in the court on June 3, and so far as I know appeals have not been entered from these verdicts to the Criminal Court".

Reddick on TV series discusses race problem

Dr. L. D. Reddick of Coppin State Teachers College is participating in a series of experimental programs of NBC.

The sequence is entitled "Inside Black America" and is designed to acquaint the public with the "true views" of colored historians, sociologists, literary figures and civil rights leaders.

Last Sunday, at 10 a.m., Dr. Reddick, Dr. James E. Allen of the New York City Department of Education, William Branch, playwright and Dr. Thomas Kilgore, national officer of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, engaged in a panel discussion of "The Colored View of American History."

This program was aired live over WNBC-TV, New York, and video tapes were made for viewing elsewhere upon request. It was doubtful that many Southern stations would use the "hot" material, although the Protestant Council of New York is sponsoring the series.

Other topics of the series are: "Who Speaks for the Negro?"; "Negro Writers and the Rising Tide of Anger."; "The Power and Potential of the Negro Revolution."

Outdoor Tips

Here's a hot tip for cold refrigerators ... trailer and boat nuts take note.

They know the problem. You've got a refrigerator full of milk, soft drinks, butter and vegetables, assorted jars, and bottles.

Yet the open road or water-way is singing its comehither song.

How do you keep rolling and pitching from breaking up the refrigerator's contents?

Solution: Blow up a balloon (or several) and stuff 'em in by slamming the refrigerator door shut.

They'll expand out into all the empty spaces, act as a perfect cushion for the breakables and generally keep things in place.

At top end of the trip they're inexpensive enough to throw away.

UP A TREE

One group of coon hunters advise that a hammer and a bunch of big nails will put them up any tree a coon can climb.

Drive them in alternate sides like telephone pole climbing irons.

Incidentally, the weight of those items would be considerable if carried in your pocket, you'll never notice them if carried in a small back pack.

TANDEM MINNOWS

An old trick of young pan-fishermen is to rig two lively minnows side - by - side on the same hook.

Apparently the jazzy action and banquet aspects of the two minnows excites loggy perch, calicos and bluegills to bite.

CANNY BIRD FEEDER

Tuck this one away until next winter ... collect the oans now.

Take good size deep cans and fill with a solution of bacon drippings and all kinds of fats to which gravel and sand has been added.

When the can is full cut out the bottom.

Use a coat hanger for the hanging wire and while fat is semi - solid stick a sharpened branch through the can to serve as a perch.

Hung on a tree near your window, it's for the birds ... and they'll love you for it.

CAMOUFLAGE BOW

Got a knit necktie? If so, cut it in half.

Slip one end over top part of bow, the other over lower.

Pick a color that goes with your problem: Brown in dry area, green in leafy area, white in snow.

Ties are kitted in a sleeve and cling to slick low surfaces.

(Try for a $50 prize. Send your tip to A. A. Contest, Sports Afield, 959 8th Ave., New York 19, N.Y.)

ARTHUR ASHE

BULLETIN

Arthur Ashe was defeated in the third round of the Wimbledon tournament by Chuck McKinley, the number one American player. Ashe had said earlier that he would have to be in his best form in order to defeat the veteran McKinley.

WIMBLEDON, England — McKINLEY defeated South Africa's Cliff Drysdale in the first round of play, then eliminated Australia's Alan Lane the following day.

Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Cal., crowned collegiate champion in the tourney at Princeton last weekend, bowed out in the second round.

ALSO OUSTED from play were Cliff Buchholz of St. Louis, Gene Scott of St. James, N.Y.; Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., and Charley Pasarell, Ashe's teammate.

McKinley and Ralston are the established stars of the United States Davis Cup team that will meet Mexico at Los Angeles next month.

Buchholz, Scott, Dell and Pasarell, along with Ashe, are candidates for the two remaining berths on the Davis Cup varsity.
