MUSICAL MOMENTS

Afro-American songs part of Hayes Goucher concert

By ADAH K. JENKINS

At the hands of Roland Hayes, a concert of Afro-American songs at Goucher College was an experience of deep-lying spiritual significance and of are artistry.

Preceeding his recital the eminent singer spoke of the relationship between the African heritage and experience in America, which were combined in the creation of these folk songs. He stated that they illustrate 'the basic emotions that are common to all peoples".

The Afro-American songs (known to most of us as "spirituals") have been one of the most potent influences, inspiring not only our native composers, but musicians of many other nationalities.

The songs were based upon Old Testament scriptures, with "The Life of Christ" taken from sermons founded on St. Paul's Epistle to the Philippians.

• • •

MR. HAYES lends to these songs a projection that is highly dramatic, yet marvellously controlled within the bounds of good taste and the highest of artistic standards.

In "Lit'l Boy" there was sheer drama in the rising tension of the questioning doctors at the temple and ethereal, mystic calm in the repeated answer of the child.

Again, there was the heart-rending pathos of "The Crucifixion (sung a capella) and the fervous and exultation of the final "He Arose".

A capacity audience, including many well-known musicians and music educators, gave the artist a standing ovation at the conclusion of the concert.

This was the third event in which Mr. Hayes participated during his three-week tenure as artist-in-residence at Goucher College.

HONORAY CITIZEN—Roland Hayes, distinguished singer and world-famous musician and scholar, was presented the key to the city by Theodore McKeldin during a ceremony in the mayor's office Thursday. Mr. Hayes, who completed a month's term as artist-in-residence at Goucher College, is now officially a citizen of Baltimore.

OPENING WITH the class processional, the annual recital by pupils of Mrs. Alma T. Caswell was held at Payne Memorial AME Church.

Since the beginners had been presented in a previous concert, a Tots Recital" earlier in the season, there was opportunity for most of the older students to play two or more numbers.

In addition to the piano solos there were duets by Carol B. Mitchell and Virginia Moore with their instructor, Rita Bass and Vanessa Westcott.

Performing were: Edith Adams, Janice Scurry, William Black, Sharon Hynson, Denise Smith, Ceclia Hawkins, Bernadette Kelly, Tarjia Johnson, Teresa Hawkins, Alfreda English, Cornelia Spencer, Debra Fuller, Louise Person, Dolly Askew, Warrington Coates, Ethel B. Boone, Carol Mitchell, James Green, Rita Bass, Virginia Moore, Vanessa Westcott, Shirley Banks, and Diane Conner.

Mrs. Caswell will reopen her studio Monday, Sept. 14.

• • •

A PROGRAM especially appropriate for the season was given at Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church by Eugene Belt, concert organist and choir master of the church choir.

The Biggs arrangement of the spectacular "Royal Fireworks Music" was programmed. The work was written by Handel at the command of the King of England for an outdoor tic significance was "Varia- Another work of patrio- Aix-la-Chapelle celebration of the Peace of tions on America" by the modern New England composer, Charles Ives.

The evening concluded with "Hymn Preludes" by the contemporary local composer, Scott Watson.

• • •

ON SUNDAY from 7 to 9 p.m. in the band shell at Clifton Park the Park Concert Band, conducted by Weldon J. Irvine, will give a Family Day Concert.

There will be a trombone solo by George Stevenson and William Tyson will play a tuba solo. Also programmed is a trumpet quartet, with Harry Ford, George Quinan, Earl Peterson and Dominic Valente. The clarinet and saxophone ensemble is presenting "Lady of Spain". There will be selections from popular musical shows and well known marches. Charles Bagley will direct the "Sing Along" session. The event is free and open to the public.

Divorce results from wife's trips to Dixie

Charging that Mrs. Essie Mae Anderson often made trips to the South with her mother, and refused to explain why, Harry Anderson of 812 Brooks La., divorced her, last week.

The husband said that Mrs. Anderson just said that she had to go. They talked it over and agreed to separate, the husband said.

The husband won the divorce on a cross bill after Mrs. Anderson had filed for the divorce. She, too, said that the separation was voluntary.

The marriage, which took place in 1953, ended in 1956.

JOSEPH R. WARFIELD of 1719 Baker St. won a divorce from Mrs. Mary S. Warfield and custody of their four children, including two-year-old twins.

He charged Mrs. Warfield, who he married in 1957, with deserting him in 1961. Mrs. Warfield, also mother of two other children, said that one of the latter was her husband's child. But he denied that he was the child's father and demanded blood test.

A DIRVORCE on grounds of voluntary separation went to Mrs. Tena Butler of 1211 W. Lanvale St. from Howard Butler of 1306 N. Carey St.

Mrs. Butler said that she and her husband lived together only a year; that she has not seen him since 1938.

MRS. ANNIE LEWIS of 1429 Decker Avenue, divorced James Lewis of 1316 Central Ave. The wife charged that he beat and otherwise mistreated her.

They were married in 1937 and separated in 1949.

• • •

ALSO WINNING custody of her children was Mrs. Helen Madison of 832 Franklintown Rd., who divorced Leon Madison.

Mr. Madison must provide $15 per week for the support of their two sons, and pay appears due under precious order of the court.

• • •

MRS. WALZETTER FISHER was divorced from Thomas J. Fisher after she testified that he failed to support her and deserted her.

The wife, who lives at 804 Chauncey Ave., was given custody of their three-year-old daughter.

John W. Phillips

John W. Phillips, for over 40 years a waiter at the famed Rennert Hotel, died Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. from natural causes.

Mr. Phillips, 90, who lived at 441 Cummings Ct., worked at the hotel from 1910 until it was torn down 15 years ago.

As a waiter, Mr. Phillips gained a reputation for his knowledge of the Bible. His wife, Lillian, reports that H. L. Mencken liked to test her husband's knowledge; he would start to recite a chapter and ask Phillips to finish it.

The waiter usually said, "I'm too busy now, gentlemen," then would go to his locker, read the chapter, and come back and recite it verbatim.

After the demise of the Rennert Hotel, Mr. Phillips served at the Southern Hotel. He was a member of the Metropolitan Methodist Church.

FUNERAL SERVICES will be held at Law's Funeral Home Saturday at 1 p.m., with a viewing for friends in the morning. He will be buried at Mt. Olivet Cemetery. Along with his wife, Lillian, Mr. Phillips is survived by a sister, Laura; daughters, Mrs. Mattie Young, and Mrs. Georgiana Shorter; son, John and 11 grandchildren.

Hair style show at YWCA Sunday

A Fashion and Hair Style Show for the benefit of the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind will be held Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the YWCA 1912 Madison Ave.

The latest fashions and hair styles will be shown and several local artists will perform. In addition there will be door prizes and refreshments.

The affair is sponsored by Miss Mary Oaks and William Moore.

Sorority meets

The Zeta Chapter of the Theta Mi Sigma Sorority met at the home of Mrs. Grace Terry recently to make preparations for their National Convention to be held in New York next month.

The group also during the meeting hailed the passage of the Civil Rights Bill recently signed by President Johnson.

Members of the sorority present were: Madames Hattie Powell, Rosetta Tilghman, Ivory Powell, Florence Kox, Catherine Kirk, Ruth Lucas, Florence White, Everett Hodge, and Blanche White, basileus of the sorority.

Social Security

There are a lot of things that you depend on your neighbor for, but facts about Social Security ought not to be one of them. You really ought to get your information right straight from your Social Security District Office when it comes to what the Social Security Law can mean to you.

This is especially true when it comes to the Disability Benefits part of the program.

Some people think their condition isn't very serious, others think they will get well soon. This is hopefully true, but if you are so disabled you can't work, you ought to look into it anyway.

SOME PEOPLE can't get out of the house and so they think they can't file their claim for Social Security Disability. If you will call your local Social Security Office on the telephone, or write them a letter, they will send somebody out to see you and help you do what you should do.

Then again, some people when they are sick just plain feel too tired or discouraged to make the effort to file their claim. Again, you shouldn't let this stop you.

It is very true that a person has to be severly disabled to qualify for monthly payment. The definition of what a disability is seems much stricter than the definition in many other programs.

Also, a person has to have worked very regularly under Social Security to qualify. But even with all of this, 1 1/2 million people are getting disability payments every month that rolls around, and, you owe it to yourself to find out if you are one who ought to get it too.

Why not write a letter to your Social Security Office and let them help you find out how you stand in this matter.

SCIENTIFIC MAGIC AMAZES VISITORS AT DU PONT PAVILION

By ANDRE LE BLANC

Everybody enjoys a good magic show. And when the amazement of magic is combined with the excitement of science, the viewer's enjoyment is doubled.

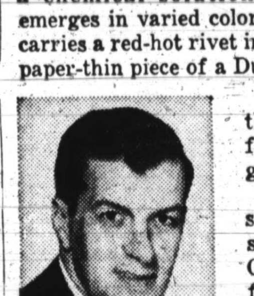
Thousands of World's Fair visitors have been thrilled by "The Wonderful World of Chemistry" at the Du Pont Pavilion.

Among the surprises in this fast-paced show is one where a plain piece of cloth is dipped into a chemical solution . . . and emerges in varied colors. In another the demonstrator carries a red-hot rivet in his hand . . . shielded only by a paper-thin piece of a Du Pont product.



Dr. Jonathan Karas produced the scientific demonstrations.

You'll also see fresh flowers that shatter like glass and giant flasks of colorless liquid that glow in the dark like fireflies.

These are just a few of the startling demonstrations you'll see in "The Wonderful World of Chemistry". They were staged for Du Pont by Dr. Jonathan Karas, a well-known scientist and star of his own award-winning TV series.

Chemical magic is only part of the show at the Du Pont Pavilion. You'll also see an original musical revue and a preview of fashions of the future by some of America's leading designers.

Demonstrators Palmer Whitted and Andrew Jackowsky show how to make "instant" nylon in "The Wonderful World of Chemistry".

Du Pont invites you, your family and friends to visit "The Wonderful World of Chemistry" at the Fair.
