3. Problems in filling vacancies, in relation to cooperation with the city's Civil Service Commission which processed such jobs.

ON THE matter of prolonged illness, it is generally known that Morton Macht, CAA Commission chairman, has been in ill health for some time.

However, Mr. Mitchell had this clarifying statement in respect to Mr. Macht:

"The concern of the commission representatives about prolonged illnes was not directed at any particular commissioner, but rather a matter of establishing policy in an area of need."

This was Mr. Mitchell's first official meeting with the mayor since assuming the CAA directorship.

Commission members in attendance with him were Mrs. Madeline Murphy, the Rev. Robert T. Newbold, CAA vice chairman, and Dr. Oakley H. Saunders.

All commissioners were invited, but business engagements prevented the others from attending.

housing, are currently under $104 bail each, pending jury trails.

NEXT SATURDAY'S rally and march on segregated housing here gives promise of being one of the most impressive ever staged in these parts.

The Federation of Civil Rights Organizations and CORE are rallying forces from a number of other organizations to join in the march to be led by Mr. Farmer.

Interested persons and groups not yet contacted may call the CORE office, 2316 W. North Ave, at 669-6034.

The rally and march comes just as Baltimore's City Council is getting under way with its winter sessions.

Consistently in past sessions, the Council has refused to even give serious consideration to a fair housing law for the city.

Another open housing ordinance, reintroduced by Councilman Walter T. Dixon (4th D.), is still pending in the Council, though that body killed two earlier ones during the past winter.

—Wealthy doctor

Johnson Homicide."

Included in the cargo of the cruising patrol were the accused triggerman, his accomplice, and a key state's witness.

The former two have been charged with murdering Dr. Johnson and assault and shooting thereby causing the physician's death.

Municipal Court Judge A. Jerome Diener ordered them held without bail for action of the grand jury.

They are John W. Canning, Jr., 23, a chauffeur, 100 block N. Asquith St., and Herbert Mays, 21, 2200 block McKildoery St.

William L. Smith, 31, 400 block E. Lafayette Ave., was released on his own recognizance and will testify for the state.

Barely 30 minutes before the trap slammed shut on the last suspect — Harry Bornes, 23, address unknown — he slipped out of one of his known haunts.

Mid - day Thursday, however, his attorney notified police that Bornes would surrender.

Police learned the physician was killed when someone, believed to be searching for funds to buy narcotics, panicked after Dr. Johnson yelled.

They had planned to rob him only, investigators were told, but fled after the shooting leaving $398 on the doctor's person and his medical bag undisturbed.

A KEY piece to the puzzling and tragic slaying, police reported, came when they learned that two men visited Dr. Johnson's office earlier that afternoon claiming to be looking for "work slips," certifying their physical fitness for work.

Since neither had been treated by Dr. Johnson before and did not see him when they visited his office, investigators, armed with information obtained earlier, established the identity of the visitors.

The sweeping dragnet was thrown across East Baltimore shortly after Dr. Johnson, who has practiced medicine from 301 E. 22nd St. for a half century, was shot dead in his car.

The physician, his receptionists, Mrs. Margaret Pittman, 28, 300 block St. Anns Ave., told police, had just closed his office and was about to drive off to take her home before going to his home at 2323 Montebello Ter. in Morgan Park.

A GUNMAN yanked open the door on the driver's side of the new Imperial Chrysler, Mrs. Pittman told investigators.

When Dr. Johnson asked him what he wanted, the gunman reportedly answered: "Come on." Without another word, the receptionist said, the triggerman fired almost point blank and fled up a dark alley.

Dr. Johnson, mortally wounded, tumbled partially from his car and was dead on arrival at Union Memorial Hospital, where he was taken by ambulance.

His murder sent a shock wave through the city and left all those who knew him as "an humble and kind doctor who did numerous favors for numerous people," were stunned with bewilderment.

Chief among these were Northern District policemen, including Sgt. Watkins, who was transferred there two years following 12 years as a Headquarters detective.

"We don't have a clue — thing that even faintly looks like a motive," said Sgt. Watkins midnight Monday as the murder hunt swung into full steam.

LT. JAMES DIPINO of Northern asked the AFRO to urge anyone having information on the killing to come forward.

Early Tuesday morning while the search for shreds of evidence continued and investigators were interviewing residents of the area, Lt. Glover, Dets. Cousins, and Pyatt, of the Homicide Squad joined Sgt. Watkins.

"We had nothing to go on but hunches," Lt. Glover recalled, "and a lot of shaky possibilities."

Among possibilities checked out by the investigators were a bunch that the slayer had a grudge against the doctor;

That he might have been an acquaintance of the receptionist, bent on robbery, or was desperate for narcotics.

Early Wednesday, Lt. Glover, who was conducting the interrogations, decided that polygraph (lie detector) tests would be given to Mrs. Pittman and two other witnesses.

Before this could be arranged at 2 p.m. Wednesday however, Sgt. Watkins, who had donned plainclothes and gone to the murder scene to do more digging, rushed back to Northern.

He had made contact.

ALONG WITH Lt. Glover, Dts. Cousins, Vidler, and others, Sgt. Watkins went to the 400 block E. Lafayette Ave. They spotted the chief suspect who was riding with another man and an unidentified woman.

A few minutes later, they pounced. After forcing the car to the curb at Barclay and 22nd Sts., they nailed Cunningham.

The woman was also taken in for questioning.

THE POLICE officers said Cunningham became exceptionally co - operative verbally, and in writing, to which he affixed his signature.

The dragnet began to close.

Following the productive interview with Cunningham, the party returned to the 400 block of E. Lafayette Ave., where they picked up Smith, along with the murder weapon, a .32 caliber automatic pistol.

More interrogations followed.

At 12:45 a.m. Thursday morning Lt. Glover and Sgt. Watkins led the team to a bar in the 500 block of Patterson Park, where Holt, known to his colleagues as "Monk" was gathered in the dragnet and brought back to Northern.

It was 4:10 a.m.

"ARE YOU ready to go home, fellas?" Lt. Glover asked facetiously.

"Yeah, man, we're ready," said several bass voices.

"Ok, let's go — to the 300 block Montford Ave." said the big man with a twisted smile.

"Yep, fellows, we've got to make one more grab and that will close the trap," Sgt. Watkins said quietly as he and others arched through to the door to the four - car police van.

Armed with a warrant signed by Judge Howard A. Aaron, the investigators surrounded the house of Barnes' girlfriend and Det. Cousins rapped on the door.

Following persistent knocking, a woman's head appeared in the window.

"What ya'll want?" asked a sleepy voice.

"Come on down and open the door," said Lt. Glover in a matter - of - fact way.

The sleepy woman opened the door and announced apologetically, "the lights won't be on until tomorrow."

"Where is Harry" asked Sgt. Watkins.

"He ain't here. I ain't seen him."

"We have a warrant for his arrest we'll have to search the house," Lt. Glover told her.

"Go 'head, he ain't here," the woman said.

He wasn't.

OFFICERS LEARNED from residents, however, that the wanted man had been standing near the house less than 30 minutes earlier

The searchers again returned to Northern with the intention of calling a halt to the search after broadcasting an alert for "Harry Bornes, 23, colored man, 5 feet, 9 inches, 155 pounds, with missing teeth, wearing eye glasses and a black jacket."

AT 5 A.M. another tip led the search party to the 400 block N. Montford Ave., where a safe, stolen in an earlier robbery, was located and two men, William Clawney, 23, 1500 block Montford, and Larry Hunt, 21, were arrested for an earlier burglary. A possible connection to the slaying.

Back at Northern with the sun peering over the horizon, the faint - hearted felt it was time to seek the comforts of home. But these were cops and though they would have welcomed a shave, shower, food, and sleep, there was still more work to be done.

After hustling their captives into the cell at headquarters, they completed necessary paper work and were present in 3 p.m. Homicide Court when Judge A. Jerome Diener disposed of the case in a matter of minutes.

BLEARY - EYED from the lack of sleep, Sgt. Watkins captualed the feeling of the band of tired men, who since Monday night have lost all concept of time:

"I think we all are going home and die for a while."

KKK dragon sees hearing helping rather than hurting his operation

BY BAY ABRAMS

WASHINGTON — The House Un-American Activities Committee recessed its Thursday session until Monday "so that some members could leave town early."

During the day it had before it in its continuing probe into Klan activities the grand dragons from South Carolina and Georgia.

The KKK officials gave the same standard reply, invoking the protection of the Constitution.

At the noon recess the AFRO cornered chairman Willis and asked him if he was becoming irritated at the refusals to answer.

"I am not disturbed about that," Rep. Willis declared. "It will not deter us from putting all the questions and all the documents into our records."

He is pleased with the way the hearings are going, saying "they are progressing substantially as planned."

Asked about the ultimate effect of the hearings he replied, "They will significantly curtail Klan activity in the country."

Willis reminded the hearings he is seeking to get more per diem and mileage pay for witnesses.

When the South Carolina dragon, 43-year-old Robert E. Scoggin of Spartansburg left the stand after being released from the questioning the present he was asked by the AFRO what he thought the result of the hearings were on the Klan movement.

He smiled and answered, "All I can say is that it's been a long time coming."

Donald P. Appell, chief investigator for HUAC, was asked the same question and he said, "I have been much too busy to assess the effects, if any."

The South Carolina dragon, who took up all of the morning session and part of the brief afternoon inquiry may be in some serious trouble with the Internal Revenue Service over some unlisted income.

Scoggin, who served in the Navy during World War II, has been drawing extensive VA benefits. Listed as having a 100 percent disability, he has collected from the Federal Government some $47,370.27 during the last 16 years.

In order to collect such benefits he has to the yearly forms which included severe warnings as to any fraudulent entries.

The committee investigators read into the record various returns which Scoggin had filed in 1964, for example, he listed a total yearly income of $674 which he claimed he had earned from selling second - hand plumbing equipment, hand-tied fishing bugs, potholders and "whatnots."

An examination of his bank records for the same year showed that the grand dragon, who had an electrical and plumbing business on the side, deposited a total of $15,690 into two banks.

The money from those accounts included checks which were given to him in his capacity as a Klan chief. All the checks he did sign and all the money he did withdraw was shown by the committee to have been used for his own personal and business purposes.

Scoggin was further warned that his refusal to hand over requested documents might very well lead to a citation for contempt of Congress.

As in the investigations which had involved other Klan leaders the scrutinization of Scoggin intimated numerous financial improprieties on his part.

Calvin F. Craig, who followed Scoggin onto the witness stand, gave his full name but refused to answer even the question which asked for the date of his birth.

Grand dragon of Georgia since 1961, Craig was recently reelected.

He was linked to a series of military-type schools at which Klansmen were taught the use of explosives, bobby traps, fire, judo and karate to accomplish KKK ends.

Under constant questioning from members of the committee Craig refused to, elaborate on the "military" operations of the KKK.

He was also asked by Representative Weltner of Georgia, the man who suggested the KKK probe, to tell him who the Klan leader is in his congressional district.

The voice filled with laughter, Craig "respectfully" refused to answer.

AT ONE point during the morning session, a Klan manual was discussed and parts of it read into the record. The items recorded dealt with the KKK committee responsible for security.

According to what was quoted the various security members don't even know of each other, but all serve the purpose of keeping the Klan invisible empire.

Macedonia Baptist Church where Dr. Johnson was baptised in 1927.

Dr. Willard, L. Clayton Macedonia pastor, presided, read the obituary and gave the eulogy.

In the eulogy he also referred to Dr. Johnson as an humble man and said, "Well done, thou good and faithful physician."

As to Dr. Johnson's life, the minister stated," He was a man who gave his life to the community and especially to the poor.

"He never stood aloft when he could be of service as a physician, a friend, a servant."

Bishop Edgar A Love, retired Area Bishop of the Methodist Church, read the Scriptures. The Rev. W. H. Leighton, close friend of the physician, joined the Rev. Mr Edwards and Dr. John T. Camper, in expressions of sympathy at the services. Dr. Camper spoke for members of the medical societies.

Mrs. Mable Watts of the Eastside Community Choir and Wallace Baden deacon were soloists.

ALL FOUR ministers presided at graveside rites at Baltimore National Cemetery. Active pallbearers were members of the Maryland National Guard.

Dr. Johnson, who served in World War I in France, was inducted at the beginning of the war as a lieutenant of the Maryland National Guard. At his death he was a retired captain of the Maryland State Guard, member of the Officers Association and served as Contract Surgeon for the Maryland National Guard.

He received the Maryland National Guard's Distinguished Service Award for service from 1941 to 1963.

He was also a member of the Federal Post American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars whose members served as honorary pallbearers.

DR. JOHNSON was born Dec. 1, 1887, the oldest of the four children of the late Robert and Mrs. Susan Johnson of Towson. He spent his childhood in Towson and attended public schools there.

He finished Hampton Institute, old Morgan College and Howard University Medical School and was graduated with a degree in general medicine from Meharry Medical College Nashville, Tenn., in 1913.

A few months before World War I began, he established his practice in Lewisburg, Tenn.

When he returned from the war, he opened his Baltimore office at 301 E. 22nd St., where he practiced until his death, a period of 47 years.

Dr. Johnson joined Macedonia during the pastorate of the late Dr. D. G. Mack and was made a member of the deacon's board Jan. 5, 1959. He organized the Johnson-Watts Nurses Unit and in January, 1964, received its outstanding Service Award.

In January, 1965, he also received the Distinguished Service Award from the Provident Hospital Staff for "50 years dedicated service to the hospital and the community."

Among other awards were the Meharry Medical College President's Award for 50 years Service, 1941-1963.

ALSO AMONG honorary pallbearers were members of the following organizations to which the physician belonged: Monumental City Medical Society; National Medical Association, Menhur-ry Alumni Association; Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity; Falcon Rod and Gun Club; Me-De-So Club of which he was a charter member and treasurer from the beginning of the group until his death.

Also honorary pallbearers were members of the Watts-Johnson Nurses Unit, deacons and trustees of Macedonia, VFW and the American Legion.

In addition to his wife, Dr. Johnson is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Birdie J. Sides and Mrs. Mary Ellen Cooper; a niece, Miss Anna Davis; four brothers-in-law; a sister-in-law, two God-daughters and one God-son and other relatives.
