If YOU Ask ME

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

People, places, things

People being kind to other people: Dr. and Mrs. George Pendelton (Vivian), opened their elegant Dorchester Rd. home on Saturday to honor her longtime friend, Mrs. Wilbert Jones (Harriet).

The tea was to say congrats to Harriet who is in a new post with the Md. Tuberculosis Association.

In the receiving line: TB chief, Frank Jones and Mrs. Jones.

P.S. — Any list of nice matrons who spend their time being kind, throughtful and helpful to others would have to include the names of Vivian Pendelton and Harriet Jones.

Liveliest table at the Womanpower Luncheon at Emerald Gardens on Sunday afternoon was a right front one occupied by City Council President Thomas D'Alesandro, Municipal Judge Robert Watts (who was fuming about no special invitation); David T. Mason, head of the 4th District Democratic Club, et al.

If you were there and heard that loud guffaw, this is to report what it was all about.

HENRY PARKS DAVID T. MASON

State Comptroller Louis Goldstein stopped at the table, patted Dave Mason on the shoulder and said: 'More, Parks Sausages, Mom!'

Then he asked Mr. Mason how his new plant was coming along.

Table guests listened in amazement. How could he mistake Dave Mason for Henry Parks, particularly when he had just left a head table seat a few chairs away from Parks?

But, he did. The loud laughter came when someone quipped, 'See, we all do look alike!'

Pretty, the models and the clothes shown by the Pauline Brooks Salon, with hats by Nell Sheridan.

And lovely - to - look - at too, were the 400-plus ladies who turned our for this annual affair.

This year the luncheon benefits Provident Hospital. Victorine Adams has a knack for giving credit to ALL who help her put on a successful luncheon like this.

She deserves plenty of orchids and so do her co-workers.

Baltimore will have an opportunity to see a real live woman assistant superintendent of schools.

This is of special interest here since our town has no women in this top school category, although there are several who qualify.

St. James Episcopal Church women will present Dr. Muriel Crosby, assistant superintendent of Wilmington, Del. schools this Sunday.

Occasion is the church's annual corporate communion for women and girls with breakfast following at 9:30 a.m. at the Alcazar.

AME Zion Bishop W. J. Walls and Mrs. Walls were visitors here over the weekend.

They narrowly escaped death in an auto crash when their car ran over an embankment near their home in S.C.

They came here to get their minor injuries checked by their nephew, Dr. Henry C Welcome. "T was a miracle,' Bishop Walls says of the near-fatal accident.

Back in Hopkins Hospital as of Monday evening, the Rev. F. F. King, retired Methodist minister.

J. Percy Bond, the Morgan State official, School Board member and Poverty Commissioner, is up and about.

He can have visitors at his McCulloh St. home.

Eclipse Pinochle

The Eclipse Pinochle Club met at the Carlisle Ave. home of Mrs. Marjorie Short last week. The business session preceded the games. First, second and third prizes winners were Mesdames Myrtle Dennis, Dorothy Diggs and Estella McKenney. French Williams was guest. Mrs. Esther Thomas is president.

NOV. 13

The Friends of Charity Club will give a pre-Thanksgiving Cabaret Dance at the Retail Union Hall, 305 W. Monument St. from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Music will be provided by the Velyents combo.

More about people, things . . .

Mary Our Queen Council No. 5200, Knights of Columbus held its Halloween costume party on Friday at Eudowood Gardens.

Guests included Messrs. and Mesdames Edward Williams, Benjamin Foreman and Vernon Prout.

Costumes were unique. First prize went to a Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie St. Clair Ormrod 3rd. He was dressed as a mailman. His wife, used a pasteboard box made like a package. They copped $5.00 in J. F. Kennedy half dollars.

Second prize winners, Mr. and Mrs. Detehnendy, wore unusual pumpkin outfits — made of paper mache. Clever! Third prize winners: — the Jim Bosleys, dressed as frogs.

Bennie Zelubowski is grand knight of the Council. He spent his time making sure all guests had a good time.

We purchased a raffle ticket and won a flower - decorated Halloween lantern and a Kennedy half dollar.

Quipped one of our friends: 'I'm glad you won something. This proves we don't practice discrimination.' Ho hum!

Milford Jefferson was the caterer who served the very delicious lunch (lamb et al), Monday morning at the Metropolitan YWCA's annual World Fellowship meeting.

Speaker was Mrs. Rex Clements of Philadelphia, a member of the YW's national board and a noted world traveler and lecturer.

She spoke of the 'new day' in Africa and of the need to teach empathy to well - doing missionaries who must understand they must put themselves in the place of those they would help or their good deeds will fall on empty ears.

Recently returned from a three - month tour of Africa, Mrs. Clements said she found the continent a 'magnificent' land with people doing marvelous things. (She cited a church and YW training class for young wives as an example).

But, she said there are 'too few' leaders . . . too few of the middle class which is the base of real democracy. She noted 'tremendous' struggle to become leaders.

And, she was appalled by the 'terrible ugliness' in some areas, particularly in South Africa where man's cruelty to others is almost unbelievable.

Spied at the door of the Lord Baltimore Hotel Friday a.m. — the Rev. A. J. Payne, minister of Enon Baptist Church. He was en route to the Carl Murphy Scholarship luncheon for deserving African students at Morgan.

When advised that the Friday AFRO just published quoted Mayor McKeldin as saying he was one of the colored leaders he relied on, the Rev. Dr. Payne said, 'who, me?'

And, then, he added, 'I haven't been able to see the mayor. In fact, I wrote him a letter two weeks ago about Harlem Park and haven't had an answer yet!'

The aforementioned dinner, sponsored by a committee headed by Warren Shaw, Judge Robert Watts, William C. Rogers, Solomon Rogers and Harry Kaufman, attracted 500 guests, was the largest in the group's four - year history.

Already over 30 foreign students have received scholarship aid.

Promised sell - out: — the testimonial on Nov. 12, for energetic Troy Brailey, the noted union leader.

It has been moved from One West to Emerson Hotel to accommodate the expected overflow crowd.

Don't forget Nov. 11, the Community - Relations Unsung Heroes dinner at Emerald Gardens.

You can't miss — the NAACP Life Membership banquet, dubbed 'Thanksgiving Festival.' It's Nov. 19, at the Sheraton Belvedere.

Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director, is speaker for this $50 per couple affair.

And, get this, your dinner ticket price can be applied to a $500 life membership.

Mrs. Geneva Thomas will celebrate her birthday on Nov. 16.

Last year the mother of Josephine Manns asked AFRO readers to wish her daughter a happy 16th birthday. This year Mrs. Frances M. Jones, the mother, said, "we are just asking for prayers for her 17th birthday.

Josephine is ill at the Rosewood State Training School. "Josephine was not given to us, but only lent to us. We are thankful that she could stay for her 17th birthday," the mother added.

She has one brother, Ernest, and three sisters, Francine, Loretta and Paulette, all living with the mother at 1838 McCulloh St.
